PROPAGANDA AND ART.

To the Editor of The Herald:

John Cowper Powys delivered a brilliant lecture at the First Methodist church last night. It was an intellectual feast. But there is one criticism I wish to make against it. Dr. Powys declared that the literature of propaganda is not art and cannot endure.

Is not the Bible (at least the New Testament) simply propaganda for the Christian religion? Has not the Bible endured? Is not the Bible a work of art?

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written as propaganda against slavery. Slavery was abolished half a century ago, but "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is still read, and no doubt will continue to be read as long as people read.

What is the Koran? Mere Mohammedan propaganda. The Koran, although written 1,200 years ago, continues to be one of the six best sellers in Turkey. "The literature of propaganda cannot endure, it is necessarily ephemeral," the Oxford don asserted. For longevity, the Koran can compete with a sackful of Kilkenny cats.

And "Caesar's Commentaries" Caesar wrote his commentaries as political propaganda, and for the purpose of pestering high school pupils. Caesar was booming himself for the consulship of Rome—that he was best fitted to lead the Romans back to normalcy. Caesar's commentaries is the marriage of propaganda and art.

I would advise Dr. Powys to read and ponder the thirteenth chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Hibernians.

LIKES HER MOTHER-IN-LAW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading the letters in regards to mothers-in-law. I really feel sorry for a few of you poor women who suffer so because of them. I for one have one of the best mothers-in-law there's going. Many talk of selfishness. How many of you henpecked women ever invite mother to come and go to show, or "come on, we'll go out for a lunch together," and not always complaining about mother slamming doors. There probably was a draft that day to cause doors to slam. I feel that the people talking about said mothers as different ones are doing, are hurting lots of them.

I have noticed that the men have more sense and you don't see where they are complaining about their mothers-in-law. With mine it would be hard to decide; my husband thinks his mother-in-law can't be beat, and I think mine can't. So let's hope that a few more begin to use mother-in-law a little more like we would like our own mother is to be used, and see how good they are. I'll bet when a few of us get to be mothers-in-law, let's hope we'll be like a real (mother)-in-law.

One who loves her mother-in-law.

THE COVENANT'S VICE CLAUSE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you please publish the following which is in answer to the article by "A Woman Voter for Mr. Harding's League of Nations" published in the Oct. 27 issue of The Herald.

During the time that the League of Nations Covenant was under discussion in the last session of the United States senate, we heard nothing whatever about the moral issues of the Covenant. I personally knew nothing of that feature of the Covenant until I heard Mrs. Peter Olesen speak at the Y. W. C. A., in Duluth, on May 18 last, at which time she spoke of the wonderful moral issues in the Covenant.

The first and only attack on the moral issues was made by the Republicans when Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, chairman of the New York state Republican Women's executive committee, and also one of the directors of the corporation, "The Woman Citizen," in her famous speech at Somerville, N. J., on Sept. 15 last, in which she was quoted as saying "that the League of Nations Covenant not only recognizes and ratifies, but legalizes traffic in women and children." This statement called for prompt retorts from Raymond Fosdick, former under secretary general of the League of Nations, also from the American Social Hygiene association. In this connection I quote from an article which appeared in the Oct. 9 issue of "The Woman Citizen."

"The most extraordinary objection yet made to the League of Nations is the sensational one presented by Mrs. Livermore when she interpreted Paragraph 37, Article 23, to mean legalizing of the traffic in women and children. With grand appeal she told her audience in New Jersey that this great nation is asked to attach its signature to a contract which not only recognizes and ratifies but legalizes traffic in women and children. Amazing, amusing, appalling—these are the emotions in order as the news came over the wires.

"Raymond Fosdick in an interview commenting on the Livermore speech, said: 'Quite apart from the wording of the article in question, which is too plain to admit of honest misunderstanding, the work of the league up to date is complete refutation of the assertion.

"'I know what I am talking about, because as under secretary of the league for a period of eight months I had charge, among other matters, of this particular activity. During this time our work on this point was aimed at the ultimate suppression of international traffic in women and girls, and a great deal of study was given to the international agreements existing on this matter.

"'The league has already established an international health office, a bureau to fight the international exploitation of opium and other drugs, and a division to suppress the international trade in women and girls.'

"To suppose that a group of great and honorable men, representing many nations, could have made an agreement to become sponsors for the White Slave traffic is so preposterous that it is almost unbelievable that any human being could believe such an interpretation of the Covenant of the League of Nations."

Under date of Oct. 21, Mrs. Livermore issued a statement which appeared in the New York Times of that date, stating that she was misquoted.

However, Mrs. Livermore's speech was immediately taken up by the Republican campaign committee and spread broadcast, especially in the West by Mrs. Raymond Robins.

In a speech at Oakland, Cal., on Oct. 16, Mrs. Robbins was silenced on this subject by Mrs. Belle Gray Curtis of San Francisco, who called Mrs. Robins' attention to a complete refutation of Mrs. Livermore's charges by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt and Raymond Fosdick.

Does not "A Woman Voter for Mr. Harding's League of Nations" think it a trifle absurd that forty-three of the leading nations of the world would be a party to traffic in women—is it not more reasonable to think that the nations of the world would take steps to prevent such traffic?

THE IRISH QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Having read two articles written by that great Irish-American, J. C. Riordan, I am inclined to think that his heart is still in that little "Isle of Green." If an Englishman comes over here and talks of England he is told to go back there again. But apparently Mr. Riordan and his hyphenated bunch can holler for Erin to their heart's content. This man would plunge America into war to aid Ireland. If you wish to help Ireland, Mr. Riordan, why not go over there? Anyway I doubt very much whether the law will permit you to insult the flag of another nation by calling it "an accursed rag." When you comment on America's Independence don't be afraid to admit that there were others there besides Irish, and they were not all Italians, French, Finns or Swedes, but it does seem as though some Englishmen were in line, too, to help. Were the signers of the Declaration of Independence all Irish? I should say not. Ask C. Anderson, he will tell you, if you don't care to find out for yourself.

I have met many Irishmen, and all good fellows so far, in fact I am working for an Irishman, as good as any nationality, but he doesn't talk like you do. He considers that we all came over here and our fathers before us, to better ourselves. We could see in this "great country" a brighter future, and it is up to us to make it a life of pleasure, not strife and hatred. No doubt if you had an Englishman working for you, he would be soon fired out of his job, but if an Englishman fired you he would be son-of-a-gun. Personally I am in favor of Irish freedom, but I am confident that it will never be gained by curses or hyphenated Irish-Americans. America will not butt in on any business which is not her own, not even for Mr. Riordan.

AMERICAN.

Montreal, Wis., Nov. 3.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The British government knows that it can never keep Ireland in subjection to England with the consent of the Irish people. Therefore it must continue indefinitely to hold Ireland in subjection by military force or else it must decide to recognize the independence of the Irish people. Now in case the British government decides to keep using military force indefinitely in order to hold the Irish people in subjection, it wants the sympathy of the people of the United States with Ireland to be as small as British propaganda can make it. And since British propaganda can do nothing with Americans of Irish descent, the scheme is to set up a division between American citizens of Irish descent and other American citizens and thus lessen sympathy with Ireland's struggle to be free among a very great number of Americans.

On the other hand, if the British government decides that it must eventually recognize the independence of the Irish republic, all the bad feeling which its agents can stir up against the Irish in America will tend to create resentment among the Irish people at home and so the friendship and the trade of Ireland which would naturally flow toward America can be directed toward England.

This particular scheme of British propaganda is built to work upon the same plan as the fish-trap constructed by the old darky, who made his trap open at both ends with the purpose, as he explained it, of "catchin' de fish comin' and gwine." Any ill will or dissension, either between Americans at home or between Americans and other peoples, is water on England's wheel. All is fish that comes to her gigantic net, and she doesn't care whether she troubles the fishing waters and scares the fish into darting into her net with the dynamite of secretly instigated war or the poison of propaganda inciting domestic dissension. It's all the same to her, so she gets all the fish.

No sensible American ought to let this British propaganda against Ireland's struggle for freedom and independence affect his sentiment or bias his judgment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person asking it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

C. St. M., Duluth: To settle an argument would you please state through your Question and Answer column whether Sam Langford, the negro fighter, was ever knocked out or lost on a decision to any white man previous to the years of 1919 and 1920?

Ans.: Yes, to Fred Fulton at Boston in 1917.

R. F., Duluth: Will you please tell me where I can get a permit to work before I am 16?

Ans.: Apply superintendent of schools.

G. J., Duluth: Who is the vocational director of the Y. M. C. A., and where could I see him or communicate with him?

Ans.: F. Johnson. You may reach him at the Y. M. C. A. building on Third avenue west.

C. C., Duluth: (1) Can first cousins legally marry in Minnesota? (2) Must both parties appear to get a marriage license? (3) Must a witness to a marriage know one or both parties well, or for a long time?

Ans.: (1) First cousins are prohibited by the Minnesota law from marrying. (2) No. (3) Not necessarily.

J. B. L., Biwabik, Minn.: Did President Wilson or any other president of the United States have more power than is usually allowed a president of our country?

Ans.: The president exercised no more power than was granted him by congress and the Constitution. During wars it is necessary to centralize authority and congress passed special laws conferring more power than is usually necessary while the country is at peace. President Wilson may have had more authority than his predecessors in some details, but the seriousness of the emergency justified it.

L. H. C., Two Harbors, Minn.: To settle a dispute please advise whether Mr. Tumulty, President Wilson's secretary, is a Protestant or Catholic.

Ans.: Catholic.

Shorty gets an Earfull!

Howdy from New Orleans, Pete!

Say, old clock, you've got the time — maybe you'd like to hear this one! As we were rolling into New Orleans yesterday one of the men in the club car was recounting his cigarette experiences; how he finally pulled a trick on his luck and got set right!

"Well — I've had my cigarette lesson," continued the traveller, "I went up and down the line on cigarettes until I got hold of Camels and got deep into their quality and mildness and delightful flavor! There never was a blend such as Camels combination of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos! I'll say it — Camels taught me what a cigarette should be and they'll teach any man who smokes!"

Thinks I to myself — "Sic 'em, judge, every word you spill is a sentence!"

Now, Pete, that's the kind of Camel thanks-giving stuff you get north, east, south, west and through the middle! That's all as true as that little sheep will wag their tails!

I did some tall thinking as I browsed through the quaint old French quarter this evening — how universal the appeal of Camel Cigarettes really is! Figure the travelling I've done and the people I've met — each city different from the other — AND Camels have been the ONE cigarette to be found everywhere — and the cigarette most smoked at each point! Pete, old backstop, it's wonderful the way folks are sliding home to Camels!

Dallas, Texas, for me!

Yours Shorty.

LARGER BUDGET FOR BADGER 'U'

Forty Per Cent Growth in Enrollment Means Increase in Estimates.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 8.—Estimated needs of the University of Wisconsin for the coming biennium 1921-23, which will be presented to the state board of education, the state board of public affairs and the state legislature for consideration, have been outlined by H. J Thorkelson, business manager of the university.

The principal problem to be presented to the legislature will be that of housing the enlarged university, Mr. Thorkelson said. In common with practically all universities of the country, Wisconsin now has an enrollment 40 per cent in excess of any previous year, which means an attempt to accommodate 7,000 students in an institution built for 5,000.

Increases in the existing budget of $2,779,072 for operation and maintenance of the university are explained as due to increases in the professional ranks soon to be necessary to handle the excess load which will be met during the coming biennium in the upper classes. In all considerations, it was said, the proposed appropriations will be made upon the basis of an income equivalent to five-eighths of a mill, as presented to the special session of the legislature last June.

The large enrollment which came last year was felt most seriously in the freshman class. This year the increase has reached the sophomore class and in the coming period, which the legislative period will cover, the effect of the large numbers will be felt most in the junior and senior classes, where cost of instruction per student is more expensive than in the earlier courses.

The budget does not provide for any general increase in salary for professors and instructors. Wages of the faculty were increased a year ago to a point fairly comparable with those of competing institutions, Mr. Thorkelson said, and as a result of the action of the special session of the legislature, the regents were enabled to give new salary increases which brought them approximately 50 per cent above the pre-war rate.

No large new buildings are contemplated, but additions are urged to a number of buildings as necessary to meet the situation. The need for additional dormitories for women and the initial construction of dormitories for men will also be presented.

Addition to Bascom Hall.

The largest single item is the addition to the main university building, Bascom hall. In this case, as in others, an estimate was explained to be impractical because of the change in building costs that is pending, Mr. Thorkelson said. During the war it was roughly estimated that from $300,000 to $500,000 would be required to make the necessary changes.

This building is now of "U" shape and it is planned to alter it to the form of a letter "E" and at the same time to rebuild the center portion of the building. The dome was destroyed by fire in 1917. Because of the narrow halls traffic rules are necessary to handle the students in the building.

Bascom hall is not fireproof but rather is an ordinary type of structure and the plan contemplates rebuilding the central part to give additional space in the corridors. It will be made fireproof with fire doors separating it from the rest of the structure. Additional classroom space will be provided, as well as additional space for registering students.

A new engineering shop building, which will provide additional space for shop laboratories and for a laboratory in steam and gas engineering, is contemplated.

Mr. Thorkelson says that the engineering college has grown more than any other technical college and now has an enrollment far in excess of its capacity. The shop building program has been considered for years, and this addition, he says, will enable the engineering college to provide equipment for shop instruction comparable with that of similar institutions and adapted to modern needs of shop practice and instruction.

Large Chemistry Building.

Another important addition is urged for the chemistry building where students are said to be crowded to such a point that it is necessary to store apparatus for separate students in small tool boxes. The university recognizes the hazard of a chemistry building that is overcrowded and urges a fireproof addition which will permit instruction of the large number of students interested in the science.

The school of music, which now has a number of its studies in rented rooms downtown, is to have additional practice rooms.

In the college of agriculture additions are planned to the building in plant pathology to permit an extension of the research work now being done. A practice cottage for students in home economics, a beef cattle barn, a central feed storage building for economical handling of feed and minor buildings at the branch stations are asked for.

With the hospital building now under construction, the new shop buildings and additions to university buildings, the business manager says that it will be necessary to provide additional boilers at the heating station, to provide a new electric substation to add tunnels for enlarging the heating distribution system, water mains to take care of the fire hazard and additions to the general service department of the university.

In addition to the general building program, Mr. Thorkelson said that a memorial union committee is at work raising funds for the construction of a building to provide a social center for men students and a fitting memorial to the memory of the 3,000 students who left the university to enter war service, and particularly to the 100 Wisconsin students who were killed in the war. He says that practically $300,000 has now been pledged, while the campaign is barely started by which it is hoped to raise $750,000 from private sources such as alumni and friends of the university.

COUNTRY IS SICK OF PARTISAN POLITICS, DECLARES M'ADOO

New York, Nov. 8.—William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, in a statement last night commenting on the result of the national election, declared that "what the country needs is subsidence of the passions and hatreds engendered by the war and the partisan political appeals that have followed."

"It is of no value to try to explain the causes of the Democratic defeat of Nov. 2," the statement said.

"The overwhelming Republican victory has given that party the presidency and both houses of the congress. After March 4 next it will have entire responsibility for the policies and administration of the government and cannot evade or excuse its failure to perform the promises it has made to the country. Under our political system it is always better to have one party control at Washington than to have divided authority.

"What the country imperatively needs now is subsidence of the passions and hatreds engendered by the war and the partisan political appeals that have followed. The country is sick of political standards and controversies. It wants domestic as well as international peace; it wants restoration of that fine spirit of co-operation which made America invincible in war. We face domestic and international problems of great gravity. The only way to solve them is through co-operation."

Confess to Killing Banker.

Mount Holly, N. J., Nov. 8.—Frank J. James and Raymond W. Schuck, both of Camden, confessed yesterday, according to the police, that they killed David S. Paul, Camden banker, robbed him of $40,000 in cash and buried the body in the Jersey pines near Tabernacle. The money was buried in Evergreen cemetery in Camden and most of it has been recovered, officials stated last night.

"it's more like a Smoke!"

There you have Spur's big reason in a nutshell. It's what an American Legion man said after he had puffed a Spur for a moment or two.

He knew cigarettes. Found how comforting a good one is. Had 16 months in France. And he knew what he was talking about when he said:

"More Like a Smoke"—

That's because you can taste the good tobacco in Spurs. You get the aroma of a new and delicious blend of the finest leaf grown in Turkey, fine Burley and other home-grown tobaccos.

Unmarred by starch because the seam is crimped not pasted.

Longer and sweeter in the smoking—slower in the burning. Fresh and fragrant as you open the pack, because it's triple-wrapped.

Priced to be popular and packaged to be select.

The headquarters for the field artillery, infantry and air units will be located in this state.

Represented Minnesota.

Minnesota was represented at the conference by Gen. Rhinow, Col. J. B. Woolnough of St. Paul; Col. George E. Leach of Minneapolis, Col. W. S. Fulton of Mankato and E. A. Walsh of Minneapolis. The conference was attended by the adjutant generals of Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, which states comprise the Thirty-fifth division, and the Dakotas, Iowa and Minnesota. There were thirty-six officers other than the adjutant generals.

The Federal government supplies all equipment and pays all of the men of the National Guard. The equipment for Minnesota will run into several million dollars, Gen Rhinow estimates. The state will be called upon to build about four hangars for the area, but the other expenses will be borne by the Federal government.

Minnesota is the only state in the Seventh army area that now is above the strength recommended by the war department.

Under the present plan of reorganization, Minnesota should have a total National Guard strength of 9,600 men, including 450 officers, for 1921. The present recommended strength for Minnesota is 2,400, but there are 3,800 at the present time.

A major general will be appointed by the president in 1921 to succeed Gen. J. M. Carter, as head of the military bureau. The National Guard then will be distinct from the regular army.

Eau Claire Guard Horses.

Eau Claire, Wis., Nov. 8.—Thirty-two horses for Troop L, Wisconsin National Guard, are expected to arrive here today from Montana. Horses especially intended for the mounted band, which will be mustered in tonight, will arrive next spring. Stalls have been built in the sales barn belonging to the Chippewa Valley Guernsey Breeders' association for the accommodation of the horses.

Uniforms for the troopers and equipment arrived last week.

Troop L will make its first public appearance in full equipment in the Armistice day parade.

USE FOR MOONSHINE.

Seized Liquor to Keep Wisconsin Auto Radiators From Freezing.

Madison, Wis, Nov. 8.—Moonshine whisky serves a useful and legitimate purpose after it comes into the hands of the prohibition commissioner of Wisconsin, B. C. Parkinson, deputy commissioner explained today. He says that according to present plans moonshine whisky will keep a number of state automobiles running this winter.

It all results from the fact that whisky contains alcohol. With a realization of this fact, the commissioner fell upon the idea of using it in the radiator of automobiles as a non-freezable compound.

The alcohol is denatured by a simple chemical process so that any thought of using it as a beverage will be done away with. It then is ready for use in the radiator, Mr. Parkinson said. In the past the stocks have been destroyed on the premises as a general rule, after they have been seized, he said. The new plan will result in a saving, in his view.

PARACHUTE FAILS TO OPEN; AVIATOR KILLED

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 8.—Charles Hopkins, 37, was killed Sunday when he jumped from an airplane with a parachute, which failed to open until he was nearly to the ground. The plane was at an altitude of 1,000 feet when Hopkins jumped.

Sensational Milwaukee Suicide.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 8.—Arthur Merke, 28, ended his life in a spectacular manner Sunday by hurling himself under a moving automobile truck. The heavy machine passed over his body, crushing it to a pulp.

MAIL REFERENDUM EDUCATORS' PLAN

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—The closing session of the annual meeting of the Minnesota Education association here Saturday was marked by heated debate during which delegates took definite stands on the proposal to affiliate the Minnesota teachers' organization with the National Education association on a delegate basis.

The fight was projected when J. C. Brown, Minnesota state director to the national association, presented the plan

Opponents of the proposed affiliation declared that the plan is not practicable and would be a detriment to Minnesota because "there are too many ex-officio members in the National Education association executive council," and the interests of Minnesota and the membership of the Minnesota Education association therefore would not be safeguarded.

For Mail Referendum.

After a long debate it was decided that the question of affiliation should be submitted to the members of the association on a delegate basis as a referendum conducted by mail.

Officers who were elected Friday but were held up by the counting of the ballots were:

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

Women of Middle Age

Owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change in her life without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, smothering spells, fainting spells, nervous troubles and irregularities are symptoms that should have prompt attention. These two letters prove what a successful remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is for women at this time of life.

Taunton, Mass.—"I could not eat or sleep for six months, had fainting spells and could not walk without help for three months, caused by female trouble. My cousin, who was a doctor, told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me greatly. Then during the Change of Life I used the same remedy. I am seventy years old now and am able to do my own housework and walk one mile to church every Sunday morning and evening. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends having the same troubles as I had. Your remedy is the best on earth. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for it."—Mrs. SUSAN C. STAPLES, 157 B School St., Taunton, Mass.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I had organic troubles and am going through the Change of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suffered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advise any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better. I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me."—Mrs. MARGARET DANZ, 743 N. 25th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

BADGERS WILL MEET ILLINI

Nine Conference Elevens to Get Action Next Saturday.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Saturday next finds the conference season in its next to last week and nine of the Big Ten elevens in action. In addition, Notre Dame, which so far has gone along undefeated, will test out its second conference team in two weeks, when the Catholics play Indiana at the Hoosier capital. The feature intra-conference game will be that between Wisconsin and Illinois, provided that the Illini have slipped safely past Stagg's crippled Chicago eleven.

The Badgers beat the Zuppke crew last year, and this year are one of the biggest obstacles in the path of Illinois. A team that has traveled through five weeks of football as the Indians have without meeting a defeat is carrying a heavy load and is under a dangerous strain. That will work somewhat in favor of Wisconsin, but the downstate team is celebrated for its fighting spirit and ability to weather strenuous campaigns. The responsibility of leading the conference will not be enough to cause the Illini to crack, and the Cardinals must show some great football to win.

A Well-Trained Crew.

So far Zuppke's team has been a machine of wonderful precision. It is a well-trained unit, both on offense and defense, but more than that, it has the dash and ability that makes champions. The dazzling attack that has been shown all year by the Indians is the result of work combined with ability. The open plays in particular are smoothly executed, and there is little hazard about any play that Fletcher calls for.

Wisconsin, on the other hand, has shown that it is unable to cope with the passing game that the Illini will use. The Badgers lost a game in the last period to Ohio, when two touchdowns were scored on them by use of the forward pass. On line plunges the Buckeyes were unable to do anything with the strong Wisconsin line, but it was the backfield and ends which failed on defense when Workman opened up. The Illinois line will very likely be a little better than the Badger forwards, but the margin should not be great. If the Illini win, as they probably will, the pass will be the weapon to accomplish the downfall of Wisconsin.

Ohio in Off Day.

Ohio is the only conference team that does not play next Saturday, but the Buckeyes are resting for their encounter with Illinois a week later. The Ohioans have been winning games in the last quarter of their games, but they will have to show sooner than that to throw Illinois. If the Buckeyes manage to win from Wisconsin, they very likely will tumble before the Indians. They have not the smooth attack of Illinois nor the brainy defense.

Should Chicago defeat Illinois, then the Maroons will be right up in the running. But even without that feature the game with Michigan at Ann Arbor will be one of the most important of the season to Chicago. The old rivalry between the two schools is still as keen as ever, and Stagg and Yost will always stage a great battle whenever they meet. Two games have been played between the two schools since Michigan re-entered the conference. The 1918 game went to Michigan, and the Maroons triumphed last year.

Catholics Midwest Champs.

Notre Dame has a real claim to the championship of the Middle West because of the way it has traveled through its games this year. It has beaten teams as far west as Nebraska and as far east as the Army. Gipp looks like a certain All-Western halfback or quarterback, and his wonderful work is one of the reasons why the Catholics are so dangerous. The game with Indiana is a fair test, because Steihm's eleven has defeated Minnesota and Northwestern so far this year.

If Minnesota is ever to stage a comeback this year, it would seem as if the Iowa game was the time. By that time Williams will have had a chance to whip his green linesmen into shape and get some of the backfield cripples into shape. Aubrey Devine is the main hope of Iowa on the offense, and if the Gophers can stop him they stand at least an even chance.

Northwestern and Purdue will clash at Evanston in a game that has no bearing on the conference title. But since both teams have been roughly treated this year winning of the game means a lot to both teams. The Purdue is expected to be [illegible] the Boilermakers played ragged football, and even at this stage of the game commit fundamental errors.

GEORGIA TECH IN TROUBLE AGAIN

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 8.—Georgia Tech and Centre college may not meet on the football gridiron next year, Dr. J. B. Crenshaw, athletic director at Tech, declared today in announcing that he had sent a telegram to Prof. Frank J. Rainey, faculty chairman of athletics at Centre asking whether newspaper articles criticizing the playing of the Tech team in the recent game between the two institutions "represent feelings and opinions of your college?"

Dr. Crenshaw said that many articles vilifying the Georgia Tech team had appeared in newspapers. The articles, he added, purported "to come from members of Centre's team, Centre's coach and also officials of Centre college."

The telegram assured Centre authorities that "if the articles and expressions do not really represent your attitude," Georgia Tech would be glad to hold a date open for Centre on its 1921 schedule.

MINOR LEAGUE MOGULS MEET AT KANSAS CITY

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Representatives of a score or more of minor league baseball clubs left here last night for Kansas City to attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Minor Leagues there Tuesday. Numerous conferences were held yesterday with the proposed baseball reorganization as the chief subject, and late tonight the men all took the same train for Kansas City.

Injuries Fatal.

Emporia, Kan., Nov. 8.—Jack Reeves, 23, fullback for the Kansas state normal football team and former fullback on the Great Lakes naval training station team, died here yesterday of injuries received in the Normal-Washburn game Saturday. Reeves was paralyzed when his back was broken in the play. He never regained consciousness.

MAGNATES IN CONFERENCE

Peace or War in Major League Baseball Outstanding Issue.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Owners of the major league baseball clubs were in session here today to decide for peace or war in major league baseball, with reorganization of the national commission as the deciding factor.

Magnates of the eight National league clubs have extended until 10 o'clock today their ultimatum to the other five American league clubs on adoption of the Lasker plan for a new commission, or a declaration of war.

President Johnson of the American league summoned all the American league clubs to meet at 9 o'clock. The St. Louis and Detroit representatives of the "Loyal Five" supporting Johnson did not arrive in time for a preliminary meeting yesterday, so the attitude of the majority of the American league clubs was in doubt when their meeting began. When the "ultimatum" was issued here Oct. 18, Johnson declared he would approve no plans until after the Cook county baseball grand jury had reported and a counter-proposition was issued by the "Loyal Five."

Would Retain Control.

Opposition to the plan by President Johnson and the Washington, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit and St. Louis clubs in their counter-proposition was based on their belief that professional baseball should not be taken out of the control of club owners, managers and players. The Cook county grand jury report stated that the grand jury believed that the men now controlling baseball could keep it above suspicion, and the Johnson forces apparently share this belief, although they have said they were not opposed to some form of reorganization.

The Lasker plan would choose three nationally prominent men who would have jurisdiction of the national pastime. In the long conferences held yesterday by both factions it was known that the National league and the three American league owners discussed plans to attempt to avert a war, but remained steadfast in their determination to form the twelve-team league should the other teams refuse to come in.

Attitude of Minors.

No little interest was manifested in the meeting of minor league club owners in Kansas City tomorrow. Many passed through Chicago yesterday and major league representatives conferred with them with a view to getting information as to whether or not support of the Lasker plan could be expected from the minors. It was conceded that their support or nonsupport would be a great aid for either faction should the battle be waged. David Fultz, president of the International league, and T. J. Hickey, president of the American association, recently declared that if the new plan was put into effect the minor leagues should have a hand in the selection of the men on the governing body, as well as paying a part of the salaries.

OSS IS POWERFUL ATHLETE; REAL STAR

Arnold Oss, stellar half back of Minnesota and one of the greatest gridiron stars in the West, is another athlete who has made good at football mainly because of his strength. Though weighing only 175 pounds, Oss is one of the hardest men to hold in college football because of his marvelous strength, which was developed at the blacksmith's forge of his father's shop at Lidgerwood, N. D.

Oss has worked as a blacksmith every summer since he was 12 years of age and is therefore "hard as nails." He played quarterback at high school four years, though he weighed only 96 pounds. He entered Minnesota in 1917, but was out with injuries two years. It was only last season that he gained nation-wide fame, even from Eastern football critics.

Football, however, is not Oss' only game, as he has made a name for himself both in basket ball and on the track. In 1918 he played on the basket ball team which won the conference championship by annexing ten consecutive victories in the "Big Ten" race.

On the track he captured the 440-yard run in all of Minnesota's dual meets and finished second in the conference [illegible] second at the Pennsylvania relays.

MARINES DEFEAT K. C. TEAM 14 TO 0

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 8.—Displaying their best form of the season the Marines yesterday walloped the Knights of Columbus eleven at Nicollet park by a score of 14 to 0, piling up all their points in the final quarter.

The Marines held the upper hand all through the game. Although the first half ended in a scoreless tie, it was evident that the Minneapolis team had the edge. The K. C. stubbornly contested every inch of ground but crumbled in the final quarter before the drive of the Marine backs.

After outplaying their opponents during the third quarter, the Marines started in earnest with about five minutes left to play, when they secured the ball on the K. C.'s forty-yard line on an exchange of punts.

Dashing drives by Clove Sampson and Christiansen placed the ball three yards from the K. C. goal line from where Sampson squirmed through for a touchdown and Nelson kicked goal. Three minutes after the kickoff, with the Knights hurling passes desperately, Palmer, Marine left tackle, made a shoestring interception and raced fifty yards for a touchdown, which was followed by another Nelson goal kick.

ILLINOIS AND OHIO IN FINALS

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Football history has repeated itself in the Western conference this year, for Illinois, last year's champion, and Ohio State, 1919 runner-up, are fighting out again in the final games of the season for the 1920 Big Ten honors. Each team has won four and lost none, and, just as in 1919, the battle between the two, scheduled for a week from Saturday, will decide the conference title.

Despite the tie in games won and lost, Illinois is a slight favorite for the title through a peculiar arrangement in schedules which, looked on at the start of the season as a handicap, may develop into somewhat of an advantage for the Illini.

Illinois, playing two more games—Wisconsin next Saturday and Ohio State the following week—must win only from Ohio State to take the title, while Ohio's chances depend entirely on the game with Illinois. If the Illini lose to Wisconsin and then defeat Ohio they will stand at the head of the conference with five victories and one defeat, while Ohio would have a standing of four and one. Thus the larger number of conference games played by Illinois may bring the second successive title to the Indians despite a possible defeat, or it may prove too severe and result in the loss of two games and the title.

Other games next Saturday will bring Chicago and Michigan together at Ann Arbor, the first game the two teams have played there since 1904. Purdue will tackle Northwestern at Evanston and Minnesota and Iowa meet at Iowa City. Indiana meets Notre Dame at Indianapolis and Ohio State is idle.

SUPERIOR BEATS DULUTH CENTRAL

Superior Central high school defeated Duluth Central, 20 to 0, at Athletic park last Saturday in the big annual game which carried with it the Head of the Lakes high school championship.

The visitors showed a wonderful assortment of plays which they executed with beautiful precision. Stack, a little fellow who plays quarter for Superior, was more than half the show and let it be said that he is some player. Duluth looked to Hancock, the big Superior fullback, as the man they would have to stop, but in this they were fooled. Stack is the best looking football player turned out at Superior high for several years. He is fast and tricky and above all uses his head.

Capt. Anderson of the Duluth team did everything he could to stave off defeat, but his players had nothing but their willingness to give every thing they had. They fought as well as they knew how and certainly deserve credit for their gameness.

The teams lined up as follows:

Superior—		Duluth—
Nelson (capt.)	le	Gronseth
Wicklund	lt	Grannis
J. McIntyre	lg	Gow
Kuehithan	c	Watts
Hugener	rg	Boyle
Camp	rt	Larson
S. McIntyre	re	Tennbrook
Stack	qb	Anderson (capt)
Conroy	lh	Todd
Ward	rh	Toback
Hancock	fb	Marshall

Summary—Fifteen-minute quarters; Conroy 2, and Hancock 1, for Superior; goals from touchdowns; Hancock, two out of three.

DULUTH TIES WITH BADGERS

Superior's all-star football team, assembled from the best players in four cities, failed in its drive to wrest the Head of the Lakes professional championship from Duluth yesterday afternoon at Athletic park, the contest by far the best and most spirited of the season, terminating in a 7-to-7 tie. More than 3,200 fans witnessed the long, hard struggle and found in it much keen excitement which kept them shouting and roaring from the first kickoff till the final down.

Man for man the Badgers were superior to the local eleven but as a team they showed that lack of concerted work always found when a lineup of stars is gathered from here and there to turn a trick on short notice. This lack of team work on the part of Superior was strongly apparent in the first half when the locals made the visitors look like a bunch of amateurs. Superior made first down just once in the first half, and that was when Hank Daugherty smashed through between tackle and end for a ten-yard run.

Badgers Come Back Strong.

From the showing in the first half it appeared that Duluth would pile up a nice score in the final periods; but the fans were greatly surprised when the Badgers came back and showed up the local eleven in the last half, making them look just as bad as Duluth did Superior in the first half. Using Big Bill Rooney, Chuck Darling and Hank Daugherty, but particularly Rooney, the Superior team tore great holes in the Duluth line for one substantial gain after another until near the end of the third period, with the ball on Duluth's fifteen-yard, Cole heaved a pass to Bill Rooney which the latter received just over Duluth's goal line.

With the Superior machine all oiled up and going great, things began to look dark for Duluth and the fans started to lose hope of even being able to get a tie score. But early in the fourth period Duluth ran the ball to Superior's thirty-yard line. Three downs failed to bring the required yardage and then Bratt and Method cooked up a play that gave Duluth its chance to tie things up. Method, playing in right half, started when Bratt punted. The ball went to Superior's five-yard line and then rolled over the goal line. Method fell on the pigskin back of the Badger posts and Duluth registered a touchdown. Inasmuch as a Duluth backfield man was the only one who could have completed the play, Method deserves great credit for his execution. Bratt, too, deserves much praise for his grand boot for he had to make a perfect kick if the play were to be successful. Method kicked goal, and a score was tied, 7 to 7.

Looked Bad for Duluth.

Superior was furious over being outgeneraled in this manner and, during the remainder of the period, fought like a flock of tigers. Getting the ball on their own ten-yard line after the kick-off, they rushed the oval right down to Duluth's five-yard line. First Rooney would go through for six or seven yards, then Daugherty or Darling would rip off from five to ten yards. The march was a real procession. But Duluth held when it had to and the ball went over. Instead of punting the old ball out of Duluth territory, the locals started trying to gain in the very shadow of their own goal posts. This caused several of the fans to almost keel over with heart failure. The thing to have done was to kick the ball down the lot.

Duluth gained about seven yards and was held for downs on the fourth try. With about twelve yards separating them from a touchdown and victory, the Superior eleven slammed into the Duluth line with every ounce of energy they possessed. They worked the ball to Duluth's three-yard line and then Duluth held. Duluth got the ball again, and again refused to punt. Two tries brought short gains and just when the teams were set for the third down the final whistle blew.

The game was remarkably free from rough tactics, and especially so for a Duluth-Superior contest. The officials were highly competent and none of their decisions were disputed. The crowd, while noisy and enthusiastic, did not get rough. No sideline fist fights like featured the Duluth-Superior games of years ago were pulled off yesterday.

The teams lined up as follows:

Duluth—		Superior—
Woodward	le	Underwood
Caldwell	lt	Hart
Barney	lg	Grant
Strand	c	Anderson
Jantilla	rg	Olson
Braden	rt	Cole
Ryan	re	J. Rooney
Bratt	qb	[illegible]
O'Donnell	lh	Darling
Method	rh	Daugherty
Koziak-Gibbons	fb	[illegible]

CATHEDRAL HIGH BEATS CLOQUET

Carlton County Eleven Is Vanquished by 37 to 7 Count.

Cathedral high eleven, after being idle for two weeks, resumed practice, and journeyed to Cloquet last Saturday and were returned the victors by a 37-to-7 count over the fast Cloquet high team. Despite the score, the game was hard fought, every gain being well earned.

The contest was exceedingly clean and free from the usual rough playing, only one penalty occurring and that for offside.

Cathedral's backfield starred, making many yards on straight line plunges. McGowan made the first touchdown, taking a pass from Walsh and going forty yards to the posts. He failed to kick goal. Cloquet came back strong and marched up the field for a count. From then on it was all Cathedral.

STEEL WORKERS WILL TURN OUT

Morgan Park Boxing Fans to See Allison in Action.

Morgan Park boxing fans will turn out in a body to see their favorite, Neil Allison, in his coming battle against Kid Alberts, which will headline the next show of the Duluth Athletic club to be staged next Friday evening at the new Armory arena. It is safe to predict that close to 1,000 steel workers, enthusiast backers of Allison, will be at the ringside when Allison and Alberts crawl through the ropes to start their great battle, one which promises to be the hardest fought and most bitter ever seen in this city.

Uptown fans, supporters of Alberts, who were laying off in the betting pools during the first of the wagering, have come in with their gilt and are now laying even money that Alberts will not only be in the ring when the final gong sounds, but will win the decision on points. There will be plenty of this kind of money wagered this week.

Alberts, realizing that he is about to face the most dangerous opponent of his career, is training like a Trojan. Long runs and walks on the road every morning, rope skipping, bag punching, shadow boxing and fifteen rounds of real boxing comprise his daily routine. He will be hard as nails when he enters the ring.

Allison is doing all of his work out at Morgan Park where he has several large sparring partners at whom he can shoot that vicious right paw of his. Allison has to make 138 pounds for this go, but from the way he is conditioning it looks as if he will be under 137 at 3 o'clock on the day of the battle.

Approves Girl Scout Movement.

New York, Nov. 8.—President-elect Harding, in a letter to Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, national director of the Girl Scouts, made public today, gave his indorsement to the Girl Scout movement, saying, "The triple aim of the Girl Scout movement, home-making, health-getting and citizenship is an ideal of womanhood to which I am delighted to give my entire approval and support."

Begin Right Now to Conquer Your Rheumatism

The tiny pain demons that cause your rheumatism will be back on the job with the first approach of damp, wintry weather, ready to take up their battle against your comfort with renewed fury.

And if you are going to again rely upon the liniment bottle to try to rub the disease away, you will be doomed again to nothing but disappointment. A disease that can cause so much pain and suffering as rheumatism, is not on the surface of the skin, and cannot be rubbed away.

Many forms of rheumatism are caused by a tiny disease germ in the blood, and in such cases the only logical treatment is to search out and remove these germs from the blood.

For this purpose there is no more satisfactory remedy than S. S. S., the fine old blood remedy that has been in use for more than fifty years, and has given such general satisfaction for rheumatism. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses the blood, and routes out all impurities and disease germs.

Begin taking S. S. S. today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical director will give you expert advice, without charge. Address Chief Medical Director, 823 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

CLOSE PLANT IN VIRGINIA

Rainy Lake Mill Being Repaired; General 10 Per Cent Wage Cut.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Hines of Chicago and other directors of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company following a meeting here Saturday afternoon decided to close what is known as the big mill here for repairs and when it reopens to do so on a 10 per cent wage cut basis. The same cut is announced in a circular posted by General Manager T. S. Whitten as now prevailing in the smaller mill, running today, and in all woods operations. The only explanation given is contained in the formal statement that the wage reduction is necessitated by the general decline in wholesale lumber prices.

The big mill, which employes about 800 men on day and night shifts, is idle and repairs are being made, while the smaller mill employing 400 or 500 men, is still running. Just when the big mill will resume is not officially stated. As far as known the men accept the wage reduction in the spirit in which it is deemed necessary by the management because of the continued drop in wholesale lumber prices. Efforts to obtain any statement in addition to the formal notice by Mr. Whitten of the wage reduction were not successful.

BONUS PAYMENTS NOW BEING MADE

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of the Eighth district legion board here Saturday afternoon and evening it developed in discussing the question of bonus payments that every town in the district had made plans to provide the bonuses which the state had not yet paid.

The visitors were entertained at a banquet held under the auspices of the Commercial club, addresses being made by President R. W. Hitchcock and Secretary Saxby of the Commercial club.

Delegates were present from Two Harbors, Cloquet, Hibbing, Virginia, Duluth, Chisholm, Buhl, Ely and Eveleth. The local delegates were Israel Sher and John Gannon.

BIBLE CONTEST PRIZES IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

More than $200 worth of prizes have just been distributed among the country boys and girls of St. Louis county by the American Sunday School union and the principal Sunday schools of unique Bible study contest that began here two years ago and is now being carried on by the missionaries of the American Sunday School union all over the United States.

Through the rural school teacher or some other public-spirited person in each community, the children are offered choice story books, Bibles, testaments, etc., for learning Bible verses. For several months the children compete with each other to see who can learn the largest number of verses. Then at the close of the contest they recite to the person in charge, a report is sent in and the prizes sent out. There is no charge of any kind to the children; all supplies are free and postpaid. This year nine children learned the entire gospel of John, consisting of 887 verses, and were given a few days' outing at Lake Vermilion, besides ten choice story books and a leather-bound pictorial Bible apiece. This year 765 children from about sixty rural communities were enrolled in the contest. The following schools made exceptionally fine records:

First place, school 78, Miss Edith Mickola, teacher, 3,838 verses learned; second, school 13, Anna Moran and Myrtle C. Hocking, teachers, 3,827 verses learned; third, school 117, Miss Lillian Niemorum, teacher, 3,548 verses learned; fourth, the Wilson school, Zim, Miss Sigred Wenberg, teacher, 2,466 verses learned.

The pupils who learned the largest number of verses were Miss Mary Hakkila, Angora, 937 verses; Miss Alice Hakkila, Angora, 937 verses; Pabi Nordquist, Angora, 917 verses; Jalmer Hervl, Angora, 917 verses; Miss Inez Erickson, McKinley, 900 verses; Miss Olga Kangas, Sandy, 887 verses; Miss Sylvia Kangas, Sandy, 887 verses; Miss Fannie Taittonen, Sandy, 887 verses, and Miss Sennie Taittonen, Sandy, 887 verses.

The American Sunday School union is paying three-fifths of the expenses of this contest and the Sunday schools of Virginia the remaining two-fifths.

For some time there was a big question as to what should be done about having the contest another year. Then C. H. Rogers of Virginia offered to pay for $100 worth of books and the contest was assured.

This year the contest will begin on Nov. 10 and close March 10. Anyone interested who lives in the country, outside of the school, district of any town where there are Sunday schools or churches, may obtain full information by writing to J. L. Hunter, the local Sunday school missionary. The American Sunday School union works only where there is no other religious work being done. Its work is entirely interdenominational.

In doing this work this year 167 choice story books, 10 nice Bibles, 114 New Testaments and hymns, 62 New Testaments, 675 gospels of John, 431 text buttons and 9,785 scriptural text cards were distributed among the rural children of this county.

BUHL BREEZES.

Buhl, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Erickson, locomotive fireman employed by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company here, is in a Shaw hospital recovering from bad burns about the face sustained when scalding hot water struck him as he investigated the hose injector, which was not working.

The new North Star school building is being rushed toward completion. Contractor Knutti has a large force of men at work, the walls are almost completed and the roof is already on and shingled and in case of severe weather everything is in readiness to enclose the building and continue with the work.

The La Salle quartet will be heard at the high school auditorium next Friday evening.

Other numbers to be offered in the course are Montaville Flowers on Nov. 20; Ned Woodman on Dec. 6; Forest Players, March 22, and Smith-Spring-Holmes orchestral quintet, April 14.

County Agent Neubauer of Virginia expects to organize an agricultural society in the village and adjacent territory.

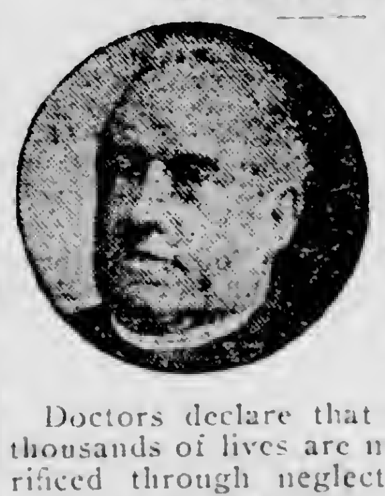
Work on the sanitary and storm sewers for the Second addition is completed. The job was a big one and occupied the full summer.

MINER BEHEADED AT WABIGON MINE

Buhl, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Father Buechler conducted services in the Catholic church for Nikola Pocrine, 35, Croatian, single, who was literally beheaded while investigating the workings of the big electric shovel at the Wabigon mine. He was alone and just how he met death is not known except that he apparently was trying to look under the turntable when his head came in contact with the machinery and was crushed.

When discovered the body of Pocrine was reclining on a ladder in an almost upright position and his head was completely severed and lying on the ground.

MANY LIVES ENDANGERED



Thousands of Deaths Due to Neglected Colds

Doctors declare that every winter thousands of lives are needlessly sacrificed through neglect of what at first is a simple cold.

There is grave danger in allowing a cold to "wear off." It is more often likely to start the development of pneumonia or other serious trouble.

At the first sign of a cold you should start taking Father John's Medicine, which is a doctor's prescription with more than sixty years of success in the treatment of colds and coughs.

The gentle laxative effect of Father John's Medicine drives out impurities and the tonic food elements build new health and strength to ward off further attacks of disease.

Another important point to remember is that Father John's Medicine is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form, so it is a safe medicine for all the family to take.—Advertisement.

VIRGINIANS LOSE TO BEMIDJI TEAM

Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bemidji won the high school championship of Northern Minnesota Saturday by defeating the fast Virginia high school team, 19 to 0. Near the end of the first quarter Higbe scored the first touchdown for Bemidji after carrying a forward pass for 60 yards. Neither team score in the second quarter. In the third, after smashing line plunges Bemidji carried the ball to the 3-yard line and Brooks went over for a touchdown. In the last quarter Bemidji again smashed to the one-yard line and Olson went over. Brooks missed two goals and kicked one. The work of the Bemidji line, which held Virginia at all times, was splendid. Fumbling lost Bemidji considerable ground during the game. Bemidji's gains were practically all through the line. Gilmore starred for Virginia. Brooks, Higbe, Powell and Steckman starred for Bemidji. Lineup:

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

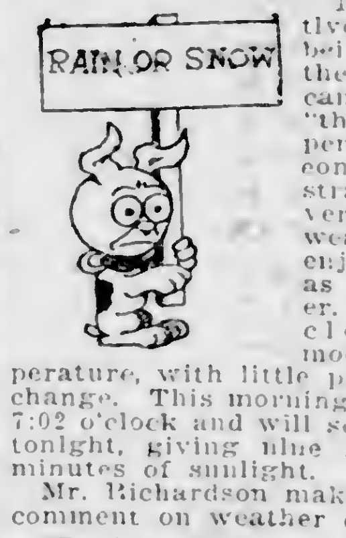
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15-30c.

RAIN OR SNOW; WARMER



The phrase relative to "the wind being tempered to the shorn lamb" can be changed to "the cold is tempered to the coal consumer" without straining the point very much, as the weather Duluth is enjoying is great as a coal conserver. Today, while cloudy, is still moderate in temperature, with little possibility of any change. This morning the sun rose at 7:02 o'clock and will set at 4:42 o'clock tonight, giving nine hours and forty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours rain fell over North Atlantic states, the greater part of the lake region, the Ohio and Upper Mississippi valleys, the lower plains states and the Southwest and California. Temperatures 15 to 30 deg. continue to rule in Western Canada, most of the Rocky mountain region and plateau states. The barometer is high from the lake region southward and over British Columbia and relatively low over Southeastern Saskatchewan."

OJIBIWA IS LATEST SAWYER COUNTY TOWN

Couderay, Wis., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Omaha railroad has opened the Ojibiwa station and placed an agent in charge. This station is located near the Chippewa river in the southern part of Sawyer county. The town is new and is backed up by the Wisconsin Colonization company, Ben Faast of Eau Claire being president of the concern, while Keith Bros. of Eau Claire and Dean Russel of the University of Wisconsin are also large stockholders in the company.

This concern has placed over 400 settlers in the southern part of this county during the last three years.

The town of Ojibiwa is an ideal place for the location of town, being in a section where the land is very good and on the river where water power can be utilized for all manufacturing purposes. A number of modern buildings have already been erected there.

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 8.—The Stearns & Culver lumber company closed down its big mill. The yards are fully stocked with lumber. All the employes of the mill and those not needed in the yard have been laid off.

E. C. Alter says that the shutdown was brought about by the general conditions of business. For three months there has been practically no demand for lumber.

ARMISTICE DAY PLANS MADE

Observance by Clubs and With American Legion Dance.

Next Thursday, Armistice day, will be celebrated in Duluth by different civic organizations and a dance given by the American Legion at the Armory Thursday night. The Kiwanis club will hold a special Armistice day program at noon Wednesday, at which Mme. Tetrazzini will appear. The Duluth Commercia club will have some well-known speaker and prominent men in war work speak at the noon day luncheon and the club will be decorated with the American colors.

The announcement that Tetrazzini will attend the Kiwanis club luncheon has attracted a great deal of interest among members and will likely bring out a full membership. The balance of the program will include an address by Chaplain A. J. Croft on "Armistice Day at La Marin," W. T. Wilke will talk of "Armistice Day at Verdun," Spencer Searls will talk on "Armistice Day at the Hospitals," and W. S. McCormick on "Armistice Day at Home." The program is in charge of Dr. C. N. Pace and J. W. Osbourne.

Day at Clubs.

The Duluth Commercial club had arranged for United States Senator Irvine Lenroot of Wisconsin to speak to the members on Armistice day, but he was unable to be present in Duluth on that day and the officers will arrange for someone to take his place.

The Rotary club will give a special program for its noonday luncheon at the Spalding hotel. Harold H. Daughters is in charge of the program and has announced that the program will be appropriate and cover different angles of the day.

The American Legion has not attempted to put on anything of a public nature outside of a dance at the Armory. The fact that the organization was unable to interest any of the civic organizations in the celebration of the anniversary when it came up about six weeks ago and as it is now handicapped by lack of funds, the legion will be unable to stage any public celebration. The organization, however, holds itself in readiness to assist any of the civic organizations of the city in any manner they may wish in arranging a fitting observance of the anniversary.

The day will be observed in Superior with a part holiday, business to stop at 11 o'clock, according to the announcement given out today. A public mass meeting and program will be given at that time at the Palace theater there, it was announced.

PEACE IN SIGHT FOR ORGANIZED BASEBALL

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Peace in organized baseball was believed in sight today when Ban B. Johnson, president of the American league, and his "loyal five" club owners went into session at the same hotel where the National league magnates and the three minority American league owners were meeting.

Clark Griffith, one of the "loyal five," accepted an invitation to attend the rival meeting and discuss plans for the reorganization of the national commission.

Col. Ruppert proposed to the Johnson faction that the sixteen club owners hold a joint session, excluding the presidents of both leagues, Ban Johnson and John A. Heydler.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

35c and 65c jars; hospital size $3.00.

SHERIFF FINDS WOMAN'S CHARGES ARE DENIED BY OTHER WOMEN PRISONERS

Sheriff Frank L. Magie's investigation of Mrs. Blanche Krawczyk's charges concerning alleged vice conditions at the county jail is still in progress.

"We are still working on the case," said Sheriff Magie. "A number of affidavits have already been procured from Mrs. Krawczyk's fellow prisoners in the women's ward which go to disprove her accusations."

The sheriff said this morning that those who were interested in having alleged vice conditions at the jail investigated should have sprung their "expose" one day sooner so that the grand jury might have sifted the truth out of the charges.

"As soon as I read about these charges in the morning paper," said Mr. Magie, "I went to the county attorney and asked him if he would bring the matter to the attention of the grand jury. Mr. Greene informed me that the grand jury had been dismissed the night before. It was my plan to invite the grand jury to make a thorough investigation of these charges. The law provides that grand juries shall inquire into such matters, but those who are pressing the charges evidently didn't care for a grand jury investigation. They chose to wait until after the grand jury had been dismissed."

PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF SUN IN DULUTH

Moon Will Pass in Front of Sun From 7:50 to 9:42 A. M. Nov. 10.

J. H. Darling, Duluth astronomer, has announced that from 7:50 to 9:42 a. m. next Wednesday the moon will pass in front of the sun so as to eclipse about a fourth of the sun's diameter. The indentation will reach its maximum at 8:55.

This eclipse will be widespread, covering almost one-half the continent of North America, the North Atlantic, Western Europe and Northern Africa.

A dark glass will be necessary to view the sight. There are at least two partial eclipses each year, and sometimes there are as many as five. A total eclipse, however, is seen only along the path of totality, which averages less than a hundred miles in width and is usually a few thousand miles in length. This path is so small compared with the world's surface that Duluth is visited by a total eclipse only once in 360 years.

IT WAS A HAPPY SURPRISE TO HER

Friends of Mrs. Hanlon All Notice the Wonderful Change.

Has Gained Fifteen Pounds Since Taking Tanlac; Suffered Nine Years.

"My friends are constantly remarking on how much better I am looking, and I know they mean it, for I have gained fifteen pounds in weight by taking Tanlac, and feel like a different person altogether," said Mrs. G. Hanlon of 328 Thirteenth Ave. N. E., Minneapolis, a few days ago.

"For nine years before taking Tanlac I had practically no appetite and my stomach was so badly disordered even the lightest foods disagreed with me. I had nervous headaches and never got any sound sleep at night. I fell off in weight and strength and became very despondent, for it seemed that there was no medicine to be found that would do me any good.

"But I heard and read so much about the splendid results others were getting from Tanlac, I began taking it, and it was a happy surprise when I saw how it was overcoming all my troubles. I feel hungry all the time now, and can eat anything I want without having any trouble afterwards. I am no longer nervous and sleep at night just like a child. In short, I am a well and happy woman and give Tanlac all the credit."

DROPS DEAD IN CHURCH.

Nels P. Peterson, Duluth Pioneer, Has Fatal Stroke.

Nels P. Peterson, aged 70, 326 North Twelfth avenue east, fell dead from heart trouble yesterday forenoon shortly after he had become comfortably seated in his pew at the First Swedish Lutheran church, Sixth avenue east and Third street. Rev. Carl O. Swan, pastor of the church, was just about to begin the services when Mr. Peterson rose slightly in his seat and then toppled over.

Mr. Peterson was one of Duluth's pioneers. He came to this city in 1869. In 1870 he was construction foreman in the building of the Lake Superior & Mississippi River railroad, the first railroad to enter Duluth. He also was foreman on the construction of the first grain elevator built in this city. Since 1884 up to a year ago, when his health began to fail, he had been a millwright for the Consolidated Elevator company.

When Mr. Peterson started for church yesterday morning, he is said to have been feeling particularly well. He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. J. H. Ward of Phoenix, Ariz., and one son, S. H. Peterson of Seattle, Wash. Funeral arrangements await the arrival of the son and daughter.

LOW LEVEL IN WHEAT PRICE

Market Slumps Under Fresh Selling; Flaxseed Again Under Pressure.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 8.—Fresh weakness was shown in the wheat market around the close. December spring closed 5¼c off at $1.77¾ asked; March 5c off at $1.91. December winter, 5¼c off at $1.76@. December durum, 5¼c off at $1.83 asked and normally March 5¼c off at $1.82 asked. Spring rye closed 3½c off at $1.57. December, 2½c off at 1.50, and May, 2½c off at $1.48 bid.

Oats closed ¼c up at 49⅛c, and barley, 3@6c off at 75@92c for spot.

Quotations in grains continued on the downgrade in today's market, and substantial price recessions were recorded. A drop in sterling exchange to the lowest level in months, shutting off all export inquiry, contributed to the day's weakness. Though a rally in the wheat market came about after a slump at the start, it was attributed to short-covering operations, and prices failed to hold under the outpouring of fresh offerings. Reports of rains where needed in several sections of New South Wales was also a bearish factor.

December wheat stood 4c off at the noon hour at $1.79 and March 3c off at $1.83. December durum broke 3¾c to $1.81½ and March 3½c at $1.83¾.

December rye broke 1c at $1.51½ and May 1c at $1.49½. Barley sold unchanged within a range of 78@98c for spot. Only a few cars of that grain were offered on the tables.

There was on track for the two days 435 cars of all grains, including: Spring wheat, 17; durum, 20; winter, 1; oats, 7; rye, 84; barley, 18; bonded spring, 82, and flax, 22. Demand for spot wheat and durum was slow and a proportion of the offerings on the tables were carried over. Millers were not in the market to any extent, as they were reported to have covered their requirements for flour sold on the recent break in quotations.

Flax Still Drops.

New low levels were set in flaxseed in the absence of any support from crushers, and with current receipts of seed in excess of linseed oil requirements. Trading was light, and the market appeared to sag of its own weight. There were no special developments.

November flax closed 3c off at $2.50½; December, 4c off at $2.51, and May, 7½c off at $2.61.

At Winnipeg, November flax closed 7c off at $2.52 bid, and December, 6½c off at $2.51.

Russell's News, New York, said: "Rains are reported in several districts, ranging from one-fourth to one-half inch, in New South Wales. An official indication cable states that rains are badly wanted in many districts. The month's drouth has caused a serious failure in Central provinces to the autumn crops."

A British official order permits the resumption of exports of flour under a special British board of trade license.

Logan & Bryan wired from Chicago: "The outstanding feature of the news over Sunday is the Federal reserve bank statement, which emphasizes a continued light credit situation. Export wheat buying has recently been the only sustaining factor in the market, and this no doubt will be materially reduced by the decline in foreign exchange. Lower prices seem imminent.

"The position of feed grains in this country is such that a temporary lull in movement from first hands is not likely to exert much influence, and we believe prices will continue to drag downward."

Demoralized foreign exchange, cheap purchases of wheat by the British government in India and liberal receipts at the Southwestern markets, are given as the reasons for the recent slumps in grain prices.

A Chicago wire said: "Japan recently experienced a collapse of its financial and industrial structure as a result of over-speculation and the hoarding of silk. Cuba is now in the same position, sugar being the root of the trouble there."

A Winnipeg wire said: "There is a movement on part of farmers in Western Canada to hold back their wheat awaiting better prices, and the formation of a co-operative selling agency has been assumed practically after a two days' conference. Plans were completed for co-operative marketing of wheat by the United Farmers of Three Provinces, the machinery being similar to the Canadian Wheat board, which goes out of business Jan. 1, but is practically out of business now."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Sharp new setbacks in the price of wheat today accompanied demoralization of foreign exchange. Besides, liberal receipts were reported at Kansas City and Omaha. Notice was also taken of forecasts that lake navigation from Canada to United States ports would be open for a month or more yet. Initial prices, which ranged from 1 to 1¼c lower, with December $1.88 to $1.89 and March $1.83 to $1.84 were followed by material further declines and then something of a reaction.

Reports from the Southwest told of heavy notices of consignment from the country, notwithstanding efforts for a holding policy on the part of producers. The close was unsettled, 4¾@6c net lower, with December $1.84¼@1.81½ and March, $1.82 to $1.82¼.

Evening up to prepare for the government report gave comparative firmness to corn. After opening ⅜c to 1c lower with December 80½c to 80¾c, the market rallied in some cases to above Saturday's finish.

The December delivery continued to reflect scantiness of receipts. Prices closed firm, ¼c to ⅝c net higher, with December 81⅜c to 81½c.

Oats were governed by the action of corn, starting unchanged to ½c lower, May 57⅛c to 57¼c, and then scoring slight gains.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions. Trade was light.

COPPER STOCKS SHOW WEAKNESS

Moderate declines were the rule in the market in mining stocks at New York today, in sympathy with the trend in the general list. Trading was light. Anaconda sold around the close 75c off at $50.37; Chino, a shade off at $24.87; Great Northern Ore, 62c off at $33; Kennecott, 25c off at $22.37, and Utah, $1.50 off at $58.

According to reports from Boston on Saturday, the American Smelting & Refining company has made a sale of about 15,000,000 pounds of copper at 15c a pound. Such a sale would decrease the surplus of the American Smelting & Refining company by a goodly margin."

* * *

Paine, Webber & Co. wired from New York: "The liquidation and short selling in industrials on Saturday resulted in new average low levels for the year, which coincides with the period of greatest strain in the money market. Stop orders were caught and some selling due to margin calls is expected today. The Federal reserve system is piloting the country through difficult ways and it is expected to complete its task this fall in a satisfactory manner. In well informed quarters it is believed that this is to prove to be the culmination of the entire situation and better things are thought to be in store before very long, both marketwise and in the general business world.

"The leading steel companies having sizeable orders ahead are in a much better position than some of the smaller concerns, which are reported to be cutting prices in order to keep the mills going with curtailing of output taking place. Independents still quote average prices much above United States Steel."

The Inspiration Copper company produced 7,000,000 pounds of copper during October, as compared with a similar amount last year, and 8,125,000 pounds in October two years ago.

Missouri Pacific railroad's net operating income during September was $158,750, falling short of meeting fixed charges by about $500,000. That showing was attributed to the fact that the higher freight charges were not reflected fully in earnings, while operating expenses did not show the effect of economies that had been put into effect. The road has paid off $5,817,000 consolidated mortgage bonds which fell due on Nov. 1 without recourse to fresh borrowing.

The Milwaukee railroad's revenue loadings of freight two weeks ago were 123,905 cars, against 140,439 cars last year. Livestock loadings were 13,022 cars, against 14,763 cars; grain, 9,848 cars, against 10,934 cars, and coal, 5,673 cars, against 8,237 cars last year.

The freight car situation on the railroads is steadily improving. For the week ended deferred car requisitions were reported by the American Railway association at 69,517 cars, as compared with 75,336 in the preceding week. On Sept. 1 the shortage amounted to 147,300 cars.

BEARS WIN IN FLAX MARKET

New Low-Price Levels Are Reached; Receipts Good; Demands Slight.

Bears held all the winning cards in the flaxseed market during the last week, and new low price levels were set. Declines extending to 21c were chalked up as a result of the five days' operations.

The market was subjected to a number of depressing influences, chief among which were good current receipts and light demand from crushers. Linseed oil men came in only on the weakest spots, and it was noted that they immediately backed away on the bulges. It was a subject of comment that the first cargo since the opening of navigation was shipped east from Duluth during the week, in distinct contrast to the history of other seasons, when Eastern crushers' inquiry has almost invariably been sufficiently active to prevent any accumulations of supplies in the elevators.

Large Argentine Imports.

One reason ascribed for the altered situation is that Argentine importations have been in sufficient volume to take care of requirements for the linseed oil trade this season, so that the Northwest crop has been almost a drug on the market. To make conditions more bearish, it was noted that crop reports from Argentina have been more favorable lately as a result of recent rains.

Receipts during the week on the Duluth market aggregated 153,030 bu and stocks in the elevators were brought up to 1,788,000 bu.

Closing prices of flaxseed on the Duluth market on Saturday, as compared with the previous Saturday and last year, were:

Washington, Nov. 8.—The corn crop this year amounts to 3,199,126,000 bushels, the department of agriculture announced today in its preliminary estimate of production. The quality is 7.7 per cent above average.

A month ago the corn crop was forecast at 3,216,192,000 bushels, while last year's production was 2,917,450,000 bushels, of which 142,211,000 bushels, or 4.9 per cent of the crop, remained on farms Nov. 1 this year, today's report announced, compared with 69,835,000 bushels a year ago, and 82,618,000 bushels the average of the preceding five years.

Preliminary estimates of this year's production of wheat, oats, barley, rye, hay, rice and peaches were announced last month.

Buckwheat, 14,321,000 bushels, compared with 15,532,000 bushels forecast last month and 16,301,000 bushels produced last year.

FLOUR PRICES STILL ON THE TOBOGGAN

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 8.—Flour prices continued their downward slide and reached what millers said were pre-war prices. At one large mill here family patent flour declined 40 cents a barrel to a new low price of $10. This quotation was for the family patent quality when sold in carload lots in ninety-eight-pound cotton sacks.

ARMOUR & CO. CLOSE OUT BUSINESS IN CANADA

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Armour & Co. announced today that it had closed out its business in Canada, including a packing plant at Hamilton, Ont., and selling agencies at St. John, Sydney, Hamilton, Montreal and Toronto.

The supply of hogs in Canada is insufficient to keep the packing houses running, it was explained, and the tariff on importation of dressed meats makes shipments to the selling agencies from Chicago prohibitive.

ARREST OF MAN ENDS TWO-YEARS' SEARCH

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A two-year search for James H. Witchell of San Francisco, wanted for the alleged abduction of Miss Helen Dasson, daughter of the head of the English colony at Saigon, China, ended today when Federal agents arrested him at a downtown hotel. He was held in $5,000 bonds for violation of the Mann act.

Witchell is said to be the son of a millionaire hotel owner in China.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

New York, Nov. 8.—The unsatisfactory returns of the clearing house and Federal resrve banks after the close of last week's business and another violent decline in foreign exchange provoked further active selling of the general list at the opening of today's stock market. Losses of 1 to almost 3 points were established in the initial dealings by oils, steels, equipments, coppers, sugars, tobaccos and motors and their specialties. Rails also weakened. Rates on London broke 2 cents under last week's minimum quotation and remittances to France, Italy and other continental European centers were at new low levels of depreciation.

Stocks were poured out in heavy volume, dealings exceeding 500,000 shares. Extreme losses of 3 to 7 points were made by various popular issues, such as Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum, Atlantic Gulf, Replogle Steel, Pierce Arrow preferred, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Delaware & Hudson. Elsewhere additional recessions of 1 to 2 points from early prices were the rule. The rally before noon was led by Transcontinental rails, notably Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific, strength also being shown by Texas and Pacific and United Fruit. Gains in these issues ran from 1 to 2 points, some of the more stable industrials also rallying. The London rate recovered part of its loss, but call money was firm at 9 per cent.

Selling was resumed at midday, greater pressure being directed against shippings, steels, oils, motors and numerous obscure specialties. The movement extended to high class rails and other shares more or less immune from the early decline, Canadian Pacific losing 2 points.

Some of the rails, particularly Pacifics, improved in the later dealings, but the general list continued to decline in the absence of even nominal support. The closing was weak.

Liberty bonds: 3½s, 94.82; first 4s, 89.30 bid; second 4s, 87.60; first 4¼s, 89.40; second 4¼s, 87.56; third 4¼s, 90.28; fourth 4¼s, 87.86; Victory 3¾s, 96.26; Victory 4¾s, 96.30.

THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Trustee.

The information regarding this issue of Notes and the property and business of the Central Sugar Corporation, as set forth in the accompanying letter from Mr. Charles J. Welch, President of the Corporation, is summarized by him as follows:

PROPERTY—The area of land owned, leased and controlled by the Corporation and its subsidiaries aggregates 34,867 acres, of which 16,667 acres are owned, 10,400 acres are leased and 7,800 acres are controlled by long-term cane contracts (equal to leases). The factory is of modern fireproof construction and upon installation of additional equipment now contracted for will have a capacity of 300,000 bags of sugar per season, the Corporation's acreage being ample to insure sufficient cane supply for a yearly production of this amount. The plantation has an extensive private railroad, fully equipped, complement of administration buildings, houses for employes, etc.

VALUATION—The reproduction value of a 300,000 bag estate, based upon the present costs of machinery, materials, freights and labor, is conservatively estimated at four times the total par value of the $3,000,000 8% Ten-Year Convertible Gold Notes.

EARNINGS—Net income of $1,423,532.78 for the year ended June 30, 1920, is equal to over five times the annual interest requirements ($240,000) of the $3,000,000 8% Ten-Year Convertible Gold Notes. This result was obtained from a production of 185,699 bags of sugar, which it is believed will be increased to between 225,000 to 250,000 bags in the 1920-1921 season and to 300,000 bags in the 1921-1922 season.

SECURITY—The 8% Ten-Year Convertible Gold Notes are the direct obligations of the Central Sugar Corporation and upon retirement of the Notes maturing March 1, 1921 (funds for the payment of which are provided for from the proceeds of this issue) will constitute the only funded obligations of the Corporation and its subsidiary companies outstanding in the hands of the public. Neither the Corporation nor its subsidiary, Central Fe, S. A., will execute any mortgage (other than purchase money mortgages) upon the real estate or manufacturing plants, nor will the corporation dispose of any of the shares of stock of Central Fe, S. A., without the consent of the holders of two-thirds in amount of the Notes outstanding.

SINKING FUND—Annual sinking fund of 20% of net earnings, (after deductions for maintenance, depreciation, interest, etc.) will be applied to retirement of the 8% Ten-Year Convertible Gold Notes. Payments into this fund begin October 1, 1921.

CONVERSION PRIVILEGE—These Notes are convertible into Common Stock at the rate of $40 per share for the stock (two and one-half shares of stock for each $100 par value of Notes) until and including October 1, 1925. Notes called for redemption or drawn for the sinking fund shall retain the conversion privilege until the close of business on the date specified for payment.

BOATS BUILT HERE OFF FOR SPAIN

The last two boats to leave the McDougall-Duluth ways will steam out of the Duluth harbor for the port of San Sebastian, Spain, the home port of the navigation company which purchased them from the McDougall-Duluth company some time today. These boats were not built under contract, but solely as a commercial venture, according to the officials of the company.

The two steamers, which have been christened the Antonia and the Josepha will be captained by Eduardo Vilar and Silvestre Morris, who with President Seco of Compania Cantabrico de Navegacion came here to take on the vessels. These ships are 261 feet long, with forty-three feet beam, and have a hole depth of twenty-three feet. When loaded these boats draw twenty-one feet of water. They were built at an approximate cost of $1,500,000.

Mr. de Seco said that he could see vast possibilities in better trade relations between the United States and Spain. He declared that Spain was desirous of establishing relations with us similar to those she had with France and Italy before the war.

CLOQUET MILL TO SOON BE SAWING

Cloquet, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is announced that the Johnson-Wentworth mill will start sawing for the winter season about the 15th of the month. J. F. Wilson, manager of the company, says that the extensive repairs and alterations at the mill, which have been under way for three or four months, are now practically completed and the mill is in first-class shape in every way.

Incidental to the work of overhauling was the rebuilding on an enlarged scale of the power plant at the mill, and this will now be able to handle any requirements put upon it.

When the mill starts it will be for a continuous run night and day for the winter, and if market conditions are satisfactory it is also probable that the run will continue throughout the summer without interruption.

One Hundred Investment Bargains in Railroad Bonds

In a circular prepared by one of the greatest bond authorities in this country, which we have just had printed, the bond situation is not only thoroughly covered, but there is a list of one hundred bargains in high grade railroad bonds yielding as high as

Ten Per Cent

Among this list are many unusual investment opportunities, and inasmuch as underlying factors are now favorable to rising bond prices, a selection of these bonds would unquestionably result in excellent market profits, in addition to an attractive income return.

The circular will be sent without obligation, together with a booklet describing a convenient method of purchasing the bonds.

Bond Prices for Fifty Years

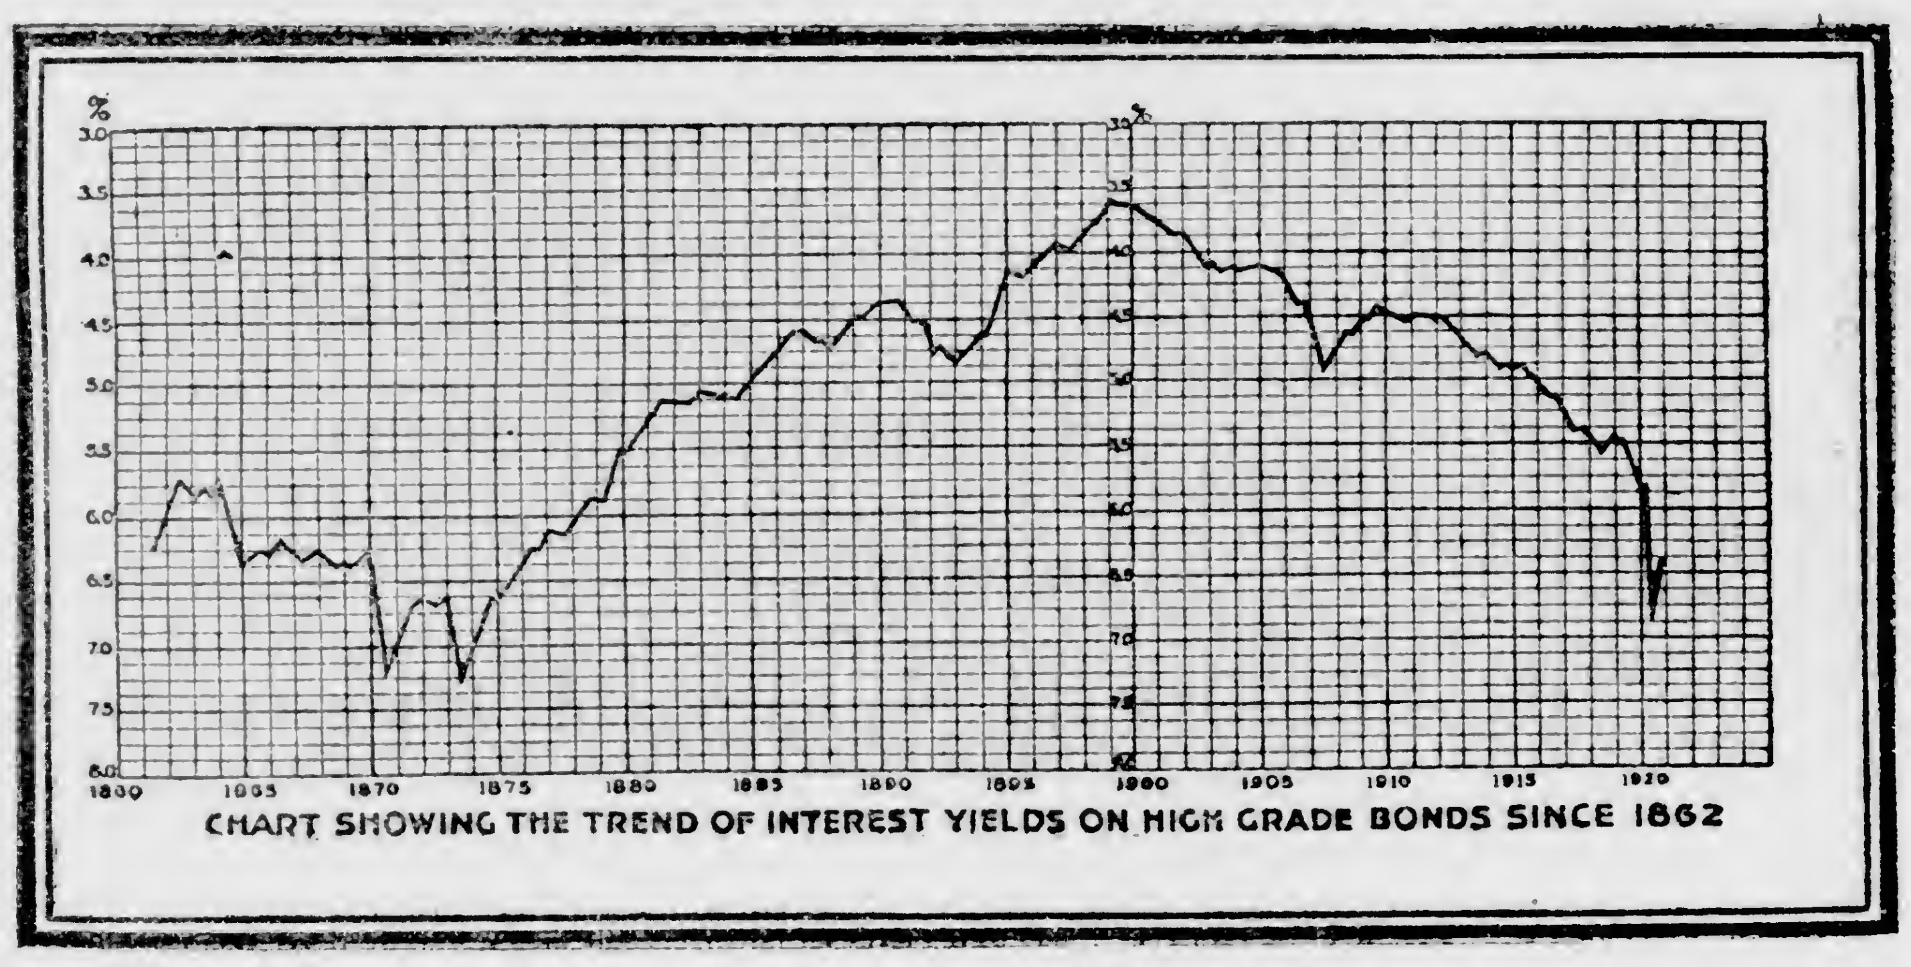

CHART SHOWING THE TREND OF INTEREST YIELDS ON HIGH GRADE BONDS SINCE 1862

The trend line shows the average yield on selected types of high-grade bonds, including Rails, Municipals, Public Utilities and Industrials. Keep in mind that as prices advance yields grow less, and vice versa.

Will you invest your money for a long period now? Study this chart. Then decide for yourself.

During six months past we have been urging investors to buy bonds.

On May 6th, we advertised as follows:

"Not since the days after the Civil War has such an opportunity been presented for profitable saving and investment. Bonds are cheaper today than they have been for fifty years. Every dollar you invest today will do double duty. It will return an extraordinary rate of interest to you now and will purchase much more in the future than it does today."

On May 21st, we said:

"Commodity prices are higher today than they have been for a generation. Investments are cheaper than at any time since the post bellum days of the Civil War. There was never a poorer time to spend or a better time to save and invest."

Study the past and use your judgment for the future.

FOUR AUTO ACCIDENTS INJURE FOUR PEOPLE

A number of minor automobile accidents were reported to the police during the week end. Sig Gromander was arrested on a charge of driving his Nash car without lights, as a result of an accident which occurred on West Third street, near Thirtieth avenue west, last night. He is alleged to have collided with a Ford car driven by Charles Gustafson, the latter being slightly injured by flying glass when the windshield of his car was smashed. Gromander pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court this morning and his trial was set for Nov. 12 at 10 a. m. His bail was fixed at $40.

Elizabeth Doucette, 2802 West Superior street, sustained slight injuries when struck by a car driven by L. J. Bruce, 306 East Oxford street, yesterday.

Gilbert Hagen, 714 Seventh avenue east, suffered slight injuries when his automobile collided with a street car at Eleventh avenue east and Ninth street, last night. He was taken home.

Carl Haller, 320 Mesaba avenue, reported to the police that he had struck a girl while driving on West Fourth street. The girl gave the name of McDonald and her address as 218 West Fourth street. Her injuries were slight and she was later taken to her home.

STONE SUCCEEDS BOYLE AS ASSISTANT ATTORNEY

Philip M. Stone of Hibbing, who has been special assistant county attorney for the last year, has been appointed by County Attorney Warren E. Greene as second assistant county attorney to succeed Edward L. Boyle, resigned.

Mr. Stone is an ex-service man and a member of the American Legion. He has been engaged in the practice of law at Hibbing since he was discharged from the army in 1919. His brother, Ralph A. Stone, is now county attorney of Itasca county.

Mr. Stone will maintain his offices at Hibbing and the range work of the county attorney's office will be conducted from Hibbing now rather than from Virginia.

The resignation of Mr. Boyle became effective Nov. 1, the day before election. It was not announced, however, by County Attorney Greene until the day after election.

How to Revitalize Wornout Exhausted Nerves

Your nerve power depends on plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that organic iron—Nuxated Iron—helps make. Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on iron filings. Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach; it is an entirely different thing from ordinary metallic iron. It quickly helps make rich, red blood, revitalize wornout, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using it. Beware of substitutes. Always insist upon having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

WOULD MAKE MAGNEY HEAD OF PROPOSED DOMESTIC RELATIONS TRIBUNAL; ITS FUNCTIONS

Duluth will have a domestic relations court and Clarence R. Magney, recently elected to the district bench to succeed Judge J. D. Ensign, retired, will be its judge if plans of local members of the Minnesota committee on social legislation do not miscarry. Enabling legislation will be sought from the 1921 legislature for the purpose of creating domestic relations courts in Duluth and the Twin Cities and the backers of the bill will, in the event of its passage, seek the assignment of District Judge Magney as the judge of the new court.

Fred Ward, superintendent of the St. Louis county work farm and the St. Louis county poor farm, and Clyde G. Durgin, executive secretary of the Associated Charities, are the only two Duluth members of the committee and both are working hard to obtain the necessary legislation and to procure the appointment of the newly elected district judge as the presiding officer of the court.

Functions of Court.

The plan proposed is to have the domestic relations court handle all divorce cases, adoption proceedings, juvenile court hearings, guardianship matters and other litigation not involving property rights. Some of these matters are now handled by the municipal court, some by the district court and others by the probate court but if the domestic relations court bill goes through one district judge in each of St. Louis, Ramsey and Hennepin counties will be selected to handle this work.

One feature proposed is the employment of one or more special investigators to represent the court in family troubles which are brought to the court for airing. If a man and wife are engaged in a family dispute, the investigator interviews both husband and wife separately and after hearing their stories attempts to straighten out their difficulties. These interviews would be strictly confidential.

Family Trouble Feature.

In the event that the family troubles lead to a divorce, the domestic relations court judge would order an investigation made, if a record of the case was not already available from previous interviews by the court's representative. The court would have these facts before it when the case came on for trial and would be in a position to make the best disposition possible of the matters before it.

The Minnesota committee on social legislation, which represents practically all of the social welfare organizations throughout the state, expects to have a draft of the bill within a few weeks.

STATE SHOWS ITS TUBERS

Many Fine Exhibits From All Parts of State at Armory.

The annual meeting of the State Potato Growers' association and the state potato show opened at the Armory at 2 o'clock this afternoon with more than 300 individual exhibits, a large number of county exhibits and about 100 exhibits of potatoes grown by boys and girls throughout the state. The judging of exhibits will begin with the opening of the session with C. E. Brown of the Minnesota state agricultural school; J. G. Milward of Wisconsin, and C. L. Fitch of Iowa university as judges. The business meeting was to begin at 2 o'clock with A. B. Hostetter presiding.

Many of the exhibits from the various counties entered in the contests include large number of displays made by individuals. Cash prizes amounting to $840 will be awarded, of which $100 will go to the boys' and girls' department.

Exhibits from Ranges.

One of the big features of the show are exhibits of potatoes grown in the mining districts. Fifty are entered. These are under the charge of O. H. Higbee of Chisholm and Roy E. Michelson of Hibbing, representing the Hibbing mining district, and J. O. Brandt of Virginia, representing the Virginia mining district.

George C. Pauley, superintendent of schools for the Hibbing district, who is in charge of the agricultural farm at Little Swan, has charge of a total of thirty-two individual exhibits of growers. In addition to these he has selected sixteen exhibits from boys and girls.

T. A. Erickson of the state agricultural school at St. Paul is in general charge of the boys' and girls' exhibits. There were 1,500 contestants enrolled in the potato growing contest, said Mr. Erickson, and the best of these, he said, are on exhibit at the local show.

From Other Counties.

M. M. Abbott of International Falls, county agent for Koochiching county, is at the show with a large entry from the county and individuals as well as a number of boys' and girls' exhibits. D. B. Jewell, county agent of Itasca county, assisted by A. H. French, director of agriculture for district No. 1 of that county, are here with a large exhibit.

One of the big features is an agricultural exhibit made by the Duluth experimental farm. The exhibit is arranged by M. J. Thompson, assisted by Mr. Hostetter. It includes a large variety of grains, corn and other products.

George Collier, principal of unorganized schools in St. Louis county, assisted by Miss Hilborg Anderson, is in charge of the boys and girls' exhibit of this county. There are fourteen exhibits representing the best of fifty-five exhibits shown at various places throughout the county.

T. M. McCall of Crookston, who is in charge of horticultural work in Polk county, has charge of a large exhibit from the Red River valley district. T. S. Idtse of Pine county has brought a number of exhibits from individuals as well as the regular county exhibit.

Many Other Exhibits.

Among the other exhibits are those of Lake county in charge of R. L. Sisler, county agent; Carlton county, in charge of C. J. Skrivseth; local growers' exhibit, which is being arranged by Conrad Johnson; the Chisholm school exhibit, presented by Tony Johoyski. There are twenty exhibits of seed lots of 100 pounds, eight exhibits of certified seed samples in ten-bushel lots, as well as numerous other special features.

Miss Frances Quilliard and Miss Florence Fallgather are in charge of a home cooking exhibit, which is held under the auspices of the state department of agriculture. R. C. Rose of the state farm at St. Paul has charge of a scientific exhibit, which is being shown under the auspices of the state university extension bureau.

The local show is attracting a number of outsiders. Among the guests today are H. H. Bakkus of Walcut, N. D., and J. J. Barrett of Colefax, N. D., president and secretary respectively of the North Dakota Potato Growers' association.

The business of the convention will begin this afternoon. At the evening session Ben Finch, president of the Duluth Commercial club, will preside. William C. Sargent, chairman of the agricultural committee, which has been active in planning the show, will give an address of welcome. The response will be given by A. B. NOTED RED CROSS MAN COMING HERE THIS WEEK

Dr. Walter Brown, associate director of health service for the National Red Cross, who will be in Duluth Wednesday and Thursday to confer with Duluth organizations and Red Cross officials regarding health work plans, is one of the leading authorities of the United States in public health work.

On Wednesday evening Dr. Brown will speak at a dinner before a group of social service and health workers at the Y. W. C. A. He will be guest of honor and speak at a luncheon given at the Rotary club on Thursday. Later he will address members of the Commercial club. In the evening he will outline Red Cross health work and their plans for the coming year before the St. Louis Medical association.

Prior to entering the Red Cross health service, Dr. Brown had achieved a reputation as one of the best health commissioners of the East. He was particularly well known for his work at Bridgeport, Conn., where, as city health commissioner for several years, he had succeeded in bringing the health activities of the community up to a high standard of effectiveness.

Dr. Brown was engaged by the National Red Cross as associate health service director in the early part of this year. He is particularly interested in the establishment of health centers, especially those of the type which it is suggested be established in Duluth.

In Memoriam

ANDERSON—In loving memory of Ellen and Bertha Anderson, who were called one year ago today, Nov. 8, 1920.

In the graveyard softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lie the ones we love so dearly,
In the lonely silent grave.
Their cheery smiles and kindly ways
Are sweet and pleasant to recall
Through all the sad and lonesome day.
Days we had never known before.
They are gone but not forgotten,
Nor will they ever be,
For as long as life and memory last,
A love for them in our hearts will always be.

Sadly missed by
MR. and MRS. J. ANDERSON and DAUGHTERS.

TORY—In sad but loving memory of our mother, who passed away three years ago today, Nov. 8, 1917.

Our hearts are sad indeed today,
Our tears we cannot stay,
For its just three years ago today
Since dear mother passed away.
The moon and stars are shining,
Upon a lonely grave,
Where sleeps our darling mother
We loved but could not save.

Sadly missed and kindly remembered by her children.
SANDY AND ARTHUR McCLAZE,
LOUIS WOOD,
MRS. ARTHUR BAKER.

BORSETH—In sad and loving memory of our dear wife, daughter and sister, Loleta, who died two years ago Nov. 8, 1918.

The call was sudden and hard to hear,
And we are so lonesome when she is not here.
But what God does is always the best.
So rest, dear Loleta, rest.

Sadly missed by her husband, Adolph Borseth and children, also by her mother, Mrs. Agnes Geroux and her sisters and brothers, Bergland, Mich.

SWANSON—In sad and loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Mable, who died one year ago, Nov. 8, 1919.

The call was sudden and hard to hear
And we are so lonesome when she is not here,
But what God does is always the best,
So rest, dear Mable, rest.

Sadly missed by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Swanson, sister and brothers.

TWO MEN WANTED FOR MURDER OF JOHNNY JONES CAUGHT; ONE CONFESSES TAXI DRIVER KILLED WITHOUT WARNING

ROOT ADVISES HARDING THAT LEAGUE OF NATIONS NOT DEAD

TREATY CAN'T BE ABANDONED

Says an Entirely New Deal Would Bring Chaos and Disaster.

Cable From Root to Harding in August Is Just Revealed.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)
(All Rights Reserved.)

Washington, Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elihu Root has advised Senator Harding that "a new deal from the beginning by abandoning the peace treaty of Versailles is impossible and that to attempt it would bring chaos and an entire loss of the results of the war and general disaster involving the United States."

This advice, it now can be disclosed, was given by cablegram from London by Mr. Root during the latter part of August and was an effort to keep Senator Harding from adopting the extreme position on the treaty and league which Senator Johnson was advocating.

The cablegram was sent partly as a result of an inquiry by Will Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, as to whether the Hague court could not be so defined as to include the work supposed to be the object of the League of Nations. Also there is an interesting story of what happened at Marion when the cable from Mr. Root arrived. First of all, this correspondent presents exclusively today in The Herald the ideas of Mr. Root as cabled to a man who was stopping in Marion during the latter part of August and who showed the cablegram to Senator Harding. Here is what Mr. Root cabled:

League Not Dead.

"Declaration on which Hays asks an opinion cannot be defined. The Hague court cannot be made to cover anything but justiciable questions. Matters of state policy must be dealt with by conference of powers. See explanation in my letter to Hays of March, 1919. It is very unwise to declare the league dead—it would not be true. The league has hardly begun to function because the terms of peace have not yet been enforced by the victorious nations. Polish questions, for example, are properly being handled by the foreign offices without any reference to the league. They are not the league's business.

"In my opinion a new deal here from the beginning by abandoning Versailles treaty is impossible. To attempt it would bring chaos and an entire loss

ENJOYING VACATION

Harding Fishes in Morning, Plays Golf in the Afternoon.

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Outwardly as carefree as the happiest member of the little community of fishermen who are his neighbors here, President-elect Harding began today a vacation that he hopes will make up in full measure for his loss of rest and recreation during the campaign.

The forenoon he set for a test of skill with the rod and reel; for the afternoon he had a golf game at the Brownsville Country club, twenty miles away. The same combination is expected to occupy him during most of his stay here.

The appearance of the president-elect as he began his vacation was anything but that of a man worn out by the cares of a national campaign.

Looks Vigorous.

In spite of his long hours and unaccustomed exertion in travel and public speaking, he looked robust and vigorous, and told the villagers he had come here more because he liked the seclusion and the outdoor life, than because he needed a rest.

For his cruises along the coast, Mr. Harding used a launch placed at his disposal by Governor Hobby of Texas. He planned to take several extended pleasure trips in the craft during his stay here, and may also take an automobile trip late this week up the Rio Grande valley.

Nov. 18 has been selected as the date of departure of the president-elect and his party from New Orleans for a voyage to Panama.

In Small Cottage.

The townsfolk, largely Mexicans, gave him a warm welcome, pouring out of their little boxlike houses and crying out their greetings in mixed English and Spanish. A score of pupils lined the entrance of the village and showered semi-tropical flowers on the party.

Several guests, including Mr. Harding's pre-convention manager, Harry M. Daugherty, were housed in a small winter resort hotel nearby. The party of thirty-two, including newspaper men and secret service men, overcrowded the hostelry and the towns' one restaurant at supper time. From Brownsville, twenty miles away, the party made the trip by motor.

OKLAHOMAN IS ONLY WOMAN MEMBER OF NEXT CONGRESS

MISS ALICE ROBERTSON.

The only woman in congress next session will be Miss Alice Robertson of Oklahoma. She is a Republican and defeated Representative William W. Hastings, who sought re-election. Miss Robertson served as postmistress of Muskogee under President Roosevelt.

CLOTHING IS SOLD CHEAPER

Big Discounts Offered at Buying Convention of Clothiers.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Men's clothing for immediate delivery was offered today at prices 10 to 50 per cent below present wholesale prices. Goods for spring and summer delivery were shown at prices 10 to 33 1-3 per cent under those of a year ago.

"The public is not buying; manufacturers and dealers are overstocked," said W. L. Mohr, treasurer and general manager of the association, today. "The price must come down. We have passed the peak in high prices of wearing apparel. Men's clothing will be considerably cheaper from now on; the retailer can afford to sell at less, for his costs are becoming less.

"Here are some men's shirts," he said, indicating an exhibition, "which wholesaled at $45 a dozen a few months ago. Now they are offered at $16.50 a dozen. Here are 2,000 suits offered at $16.50—suits that ordinarily wholesaled at $45.70. The age of extravagance has passed, and rather than let the goods rot on the shelves, the manufacturers are getting what they can out of them."

Wholesalers Reduce.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 9.—A reduction of 33 1-3 per cent in the wholesale price of clothing is announced by one of Rochester's largest clothing manufacturing concerns. The reduction is effective from Nov. 1 and applies to suits and overcoats. It is said the reduction, which is in addition to the usual cash discount of 7 per cent, represents a cut from $33, the opening fall wholesale price, to approximately $20.

BANKING POOL TO AID LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Bankers of Chicago and other cities met here today to complete arrangements for the formation of a $30,000,000 banking pool for the purpose of assisting in the financing of the livestock industry. New York, Boston and St. Louis banks will be invited to take part in the arrangement, it was announced.

The conference is the outgrowth of the plea for aid carried to the Federal reserve board at Washington recently by livestock producers, packers and bankers. Washington was unable to furnish material aid. Hence the bankers said they have decided to proceed independently.

It is proposed to form a corporation with a nominal capital, which will be subscribed on a pro-rata basis by the participating banks. These banks will agree to furnish a definite maximum sum to the corporation for loaning purposes. These quotas also will be on a pro-rata basis, based upon the participating banks' capital and surplus.

The corporation, it was said, will not undertake to make any new loan. It will confine its operations to the extension of credit to livestock producers whose loans have been called by the banks, and who, as a consequence, are threatened with the alternative of marketing immature stock.

EARTH SHOCK IS FELT AT PORTLAND

Portland, Or., Nov. 9.—What is believed to have been a slight earth shock was felt in Portland at 12:15 o'clock this morning. The tremors lasted for about 15 seconds, but, it is said, no damage has so far been reported.

CLARK TELLS OF DEALINGS WITH TAXIMAN

Transactions Toward Buying Interest in Hotel Lease Explains It.

Seven of Eleven Liquor Defendants Have Been on Stand.

Transactions incident to forming a partnership with William Cahill, proprietor of the Park hotel at Eveleth, combined with the engagement of Fred Longfield as driver of a taxi line to be run in conjunction with the hotel business, explain all evidence introduced by the government in apparent corroboration of Longfield's testimony, it was testified in United States court today by John B. Clark, a defendant and assistant claim agent of the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Clark denied having made any arrangements with Longfield, Cahill, or any of the other defendants to transport liquor smuggled from Canada. He made a belligerent witness when Neely E. Pardee, assistant United States attorney, began the cross-examination shortly before the noon recess.

Seven Defendants Testify.

Seven of the eleven defendants in the alleged conspiracy have now testified. The defense will probably complete its introduction of evidence tomorrow. The case is not likely to go to the jury before Thursday.

To refute Longfield's claim that Clark had given him $400 in January to purchase liquor, the defense pointed out that the government's own exhibit, a bank statement, proved that Clark had written but one $400 check in January. They then brought into court a check for $400 which Clark wrote on Jan. 24 to the Sandler Fur shop in payment of a fur coat for Mrs. Clark.

Clark testified today that he had known Longfield for more than a year. The latter was a taxi driver and later aided Clark in keeping the latter's auto in condition.

Asked for Liquor.

On a January day, Clark admitted, he had asked Longfield for a bottle of liquor. He explained that he was attending a dinner at the Spalding hotel and, at the request of some of the men, had gone downstairs to see if he could get whisky. Longfield, at the time, was in the White taxicab stand near the entrance. Clark obtained the bottle of liquor. The witness denied having approached Longfield at the time with a proposition to advance money to carry on a regular business in smuggled whisky.

Clark declared that he had purchased his interest in the Park hotel about April 1. He had known Cahill previously, he said, having lived in Eveleth before. He had also helped Cahill

THREE BREAK FROM HURLEY, WIS., JAIL

Hurley, Wis., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three prisoners held in the Iron county jail here escaped last night by sawing away the bars on the window of their cells.

The men who escaped are John Cahill, held for forgery and pandering; John Wright, held for threatening the life of Municipal Judge Griff Thomas, and Steve Kinney, charged with the larceny of goods valued at $100.

It was the third jail delivery during the administration of Sheriff Mike White and the second this year.

HOTEL MEN TO EAT 25-CENT DINNER

New York, Nov. 9.—Hotel proprietors attending the fifth National Hotel Men's exposition here will partake of a 25-cent meal on Ellis Island this week, on the invitation of Frederick A. Wallis, immigration commissioner. Skepticism on the part of the hotel men that the island's chef, T. T. McGowan, could concoct a repast for that sum and still claim a profit is said to have prompted the invitation and also the acceptance.

Edward M. Tierney, chairman of the exposition committee, today recommended that hostelries cut the price of bridal suites, "both in order to encourage matrimony and as a part of the general price-cutting program."

CALLS SKUNK THE BEST WILD ANIMAL FRIEND OF FARMER

Washington, Nov. 9.—Breeding of skunks as a means of stabilizing the "depressed fur market" is the latest suggestion of the department of agriculture.

Despite all the harsh things that have been said about this lowly animal, the department describes him as "the best wild animal friend the farmer has." The skunk, the announcement says, can be used for destroying mice, grasshoppers, crickets and white grubs, at the same time furnishing the farmer from $50 to $100 worth of fur a year.

All that is required of the farmer, the circular says, is that he "respect the animal's dens, keep his poultry in skunkproof yards, kill an old horse for them every fall and be tactful when he meets them in the evening."

NEARLY 9,000 BODIES BACK

That Number of Americans Who Died in Europe Sent to Relatives.

Paris, Nov. 9.—Nearly 9,000 bodies of American soldiers who died or were killed in France during the war have been shipped to the United States and turned over to their nearest relatives and 1,800 more await shipment at French ports, it is announced by the United States grave registration service. The work of removing the bodies of fallen Americans is expected to be completed by next summer.

Nearly 60 per cent of the bodies of American officers and enlisted men buried in French soil will be returned to the United States, according to recent estimates. At frequent intervals parents and wives of dead soldiers have come to France to remove the remains of their relatives, but upon seeing the cemeteries and learning of the extreme care taken of them, have decided upon France as the final resting place for the fallen.

Complete in Seventeen Cemeteries.

The exhumation of bodies within the war zone began on Sept. 15, and since then work has been completed in seventeen cemeteries. Operations at Bony, the first of the big American cemeteries, will begin next Saturday and 55 per cent of the men buried there will be sent to the United States. Nearly 2,000 men will work all winter in order to complete the removals by next summer.

The task of exhuming the bodies of soldiers buried in Great Britain was finished three weeks ago, 80 per cent of them being shipped to the United States.

From Occupied Areas.

Removal of bodies from occupied areas in Germany and Luxembourg has just been completed, and all of them were sent to America. Working forces will begin operations in Belgium next month, and from cemeteries in that country 1,031 bodies will be removed. The work of exhuming bodies in the Brest, Bordeaux and St. Lazare areas has been completed, and now the efforts of the Americans will be concentrated on the war zone. It is not probable that the first of the uniform headstones recently decided upon by the war memorials council will be set in the four permanent cemeteries until next autumn.

American Cruiser Aground.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The protected cruiser Cleveland, attached to the newly-organized squadron on duty in Latin-American waters, is aground in the harbor at Cartagena, Colombia, the navy department was advised today.

CHESTER WILL BE EXTRADITED

To Be Brought Back to Kansas City to Face Murder Charge.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 9.—Plans to secure the extradition of Dennis Chester, arrested yesterday at Great Falls, Mont., and return him to Kansas City to face a charge of first degree murder for the killing of Miss Florence Barton, Kansas City society girl, who was shot to death on the night of Oct. 2 on a lonely suburban road here were made by officials today. According to dispatches from Great Falls Chester denied the charge and officials here prepared to combat any legal fight Chester might make to resist extradition.

A warrant charging Chester with the murder was issued by the county prosecutor late yesterday on receipt of advices that he had been taken in custody at Great Falls. The arrest ended a widespread search by operatives of a private detective agency, who trailed Chester over Western states.

Shot to Death.

Miss Barton, the daughter of a wealthy shoe manufacturer, was shot to death when three men in a motor car drew up beside the automobile in which she and her fiance, Howard Winter, were riding. Winter was wounded in the arm. Robbery was believed to have been the motive of the attack.

Winter, according to the police, recognized the photo of Chester at the bureau of identification as that of one of the assailants. Winter declared that Chester fired the shots.

Police announced they had in custody two of the three bandits implicated in the murder of Miss Barton and expected to arrest the other man soon. One of the men is being held at St. Joseph, Mo., on a charge of holding up an interurban car there.

BOLSHEVIKI TRY TO CRUSH GEN. WRANGEL

Making Desperate Efforts to Break Lines on Perekop Isthmus.

Fear Winter May Overtake Armies Before They Are Successful.

Constantinople, Nov. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Russian Bolshevik forces are making determined efforts to crash through Gen. Baron Wrangel's lines in the Perekop isthmus leading northward from Crimea to the mainland of Russia, and are massing forces further to the eastward with a view to taking the long tongue of land known as the Isthmus of Tchongar.

Five infantry divisions are attacking Perekop and fresh storm troops supported by artillery are being rushed southward from Salkovo and Genitschesk to force their way into Crimea from the northeast.

Fear Winter.

It is said the Bolsheviki fear their armies will be caught by winter before they are successful in crushing Wrangel, and that they will become demoralized.

Gen. Wrangel's principal position behind Perekop centers about the village of Ioshoon. Should the Sivash, or putrid sea, freeze, as it rarely does, the defense of Crimea would be more difficult. The Bolsheviki so far have not landed troops on the long sand bank on the western side of the sea of Azov, which is known as the "tongue of Arabat." Such an operation would not be feasible, nor could positions be held on this narrow neck of land, as Gen. Wrangel's martime units control the sea of Azov.

PRICE OF GASOLINE DROPS IN BRITAIN

Washington, Nov. 9.—"Overproduction" in the United States is the reason assigned by British oil companies for an unexpected reduction of 6 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline in Great Britain after a sudden increase of 14 cents a gallon in August, according to advices from the American chamber of commerce in London today to the department of commerce.

British consumers, however, the chamber reported, attributed the slump to the investigation of the central profiteering committee into the increase in price.

Oil production in America in 1918 was about 3,500,000,000 gallons, the chamber pointed out, while in 1919 it was still under 4,000,000,000 gallons.

TO PROBE ALLEGED ELECTION FRAUDS

New York, Nov. 9.—District Attorney Edward Swann ordered laid before the grand jury today all alleged election frauds reported since the election a week ago.

Among these were the finding of twenty-six ballots, marked for Democratic candidates, in a sewer near one polling place, and the report by Mrs. Nora Stanton Barney, an election official, that Republican ballots cast in the Thirteenth election district of the first assembly district were declared "void" by other officials over her protests.

TWO DEALT IN STOLEN BONDS

Secret Service Agents Unearth Clearing House in Minneapolis.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—Posing as purchasers of stolen bonds United States secret service agents today unearthed what they term is a clearing house for stolen bonds and through which they charge more than $400,000 worth of bonds have passed.

Clyde A. Smith and Mrs. Cin Bearse, both of Minneapolis, are in the county jail here. When Smith was arrested at Rochester, Minn., late yesterday $15,000 worth of stolen bonds were in his possession, secret service agents say. Mrs. Bearse was arrested at the same time in her Minneapolis home.

Frank W. Sommer, chief of the Minnesota section of the secret service with headquarters here, directed the investigation and made the arrests with the assistance of several operatives called in from Chicago and Spokane.

Posed as Thief.

A secret agent, posing as a thief, went to Rochester with Smith, at the agent's suggestion, to make a loan, giving the $15,000 in bonds as security. Smith was arrested as he was putting through the deal at a Rochester bank, which had been "let in" on the scheme.

In the Bearse home in Minneapolis secret agents found hidden $30,000 in bonds which they said a check showed were stolen from the Nassau (Minn.) State bank, the Sully (Iowa) State bank, the Rockham (S. D.) Farmers' State bank and other banks in North Dakota and Wisconsin.

Smith and Mrs. Bearse had an office in a Minneapolis office building, operating ostensibly as a detective agency. A registered Liberty bond, which had been stolen, came to Sommers' attention six weeks ago and started the investigation. The secret agents say Smith confessed.

JAPANESE TRADE STILL DECLINING

Washington, Nov. 9.—Japan's commercial barometer is still low despite the reduction which has taken place in overproduction and overstocking, factors contributing to present conditions, according to Yokohoma press reviews of the economic situation in Japan transmitted today to the department of commerce.

Decline in the Japanese import trade has been rapid and extensive, the reviews declared, imports in August amounting to approximately $61,093,000 compared with $78,329,000 in July. This retrenchment in imports was accompanied in August and September by a decline in imports, notably in the case of silk, the mainstay of Japan's export trade.

Organization of manufacturers and merchants unions with a view to creating an artificial shortage by buying up the floating cargo in the markets has been resorted to, the reviews stated, in addition to government assistance, the curtailment of production and the cancellation of further contracts. So far, however, these readjustment measures have been comparatively of little practical value, the reviews added.

FIFTY AIRPLANES ENTER SPEED RACE

New York, Nov. 9.—Fifty planes already have been entered for the Pulitzer trophy airplane speed race at Mitchell field on Thanksgiving day, it was learned today. Officials of the Aero Club of America expect that Sadi Lecointe, winner of the Gordon Bennett cup at Etampes, France, in October, will enter within the next few days.

ZERO WEATHER DUE; STORM WARNINGS UP; SIX INCHES OF SNOW FALLS; MILDER WEDNESDAY

A severe cold wave is on its way here. While the temperature will fall steadily throughout the day, it will reach as low as zero by tonight in Duluth and slightly lower inland and on the iron ranges, according to H. W. Richardson, local weather observer. The storm and cold wave developed very rapidly, with the storm center over Minnesota at 7 o'clock last night. Today it has moved eastward and at 10 o'clock this morning was centered over Lake Huron.

Storm warnings were ordered up over the lake region last night, and by 7 o'clock the storm was well developed. During the night six inches of snow fell. The moderate temperature resulted in slush which later froze. Rain fell over the lower lakes during the night. The temperature has fallen steadily since last night, and at 10 o'clock this morning had reached 18 deg. The wind also reached a velocity of thirty-six miles an hour at that time.

Relief from the cold is looked for by tomorrow, however, as the temperature is expected to moderate during the day to about 15 deg., according to Mr. Richardson.

LUIKKONEN AND KUJALA ARE IN JAIL

Swan Luikkonen, Youngest of the Three, Makes Full Confession.

Tells Complete Story of Gruesome Happening When Duluthian Was Killed.

John Kujala, aged 32, alias John Koski, and Swan J. Luikkonen, aged 18, two of the three men wanted for the brutal murder of Johnny Jones, Duluth taxi driver at a lonely spot on the Thomson road in Carlton county on the afternoon of June 5 last have been apprehended and are now in the county jail.

The latter has confessed.

Kujala was arrested yesterday noon at the West Duluth plant of the Duluth Stone Crushing company, where he has been employed. Luikkonen was arrested early last week in a lumber camp at Nairn Center, Can., about seventy-five miles north of Sudbury, Ont., and was brought back to Duluth Saturday by Sheriff I. E. Bockenoogen of Aitkin county and on the same day confessed as to the part he played in the killing of Jones. His confession implicates the other two men, Kujala, whom he calls Koski, and one Mike Inkinen. Two garage men from Tamarack where the Jones car was abandoned today positively identified Kujala as being one of the three.

Brutal Murder.

The killing of Jones was one of the most gruesome that has occurred here. He was asked by three men to drive them out in the country. The next day his body was found by the roadside. The car, all blood-stained, was found several weeks later at a Tamarack garage.

Inkinen, alias Mike Nelson, alias Mike Koski, aged 28, the third of the trio wanted for the Jones murder and who is also believed to be under indictment in Aitkin county for the slaying of Axel Nygaard, is still at large, and the authorities are conducting a country-wide search for him. A reward of $500 were offered by the governor for the apprehension of each of the Jones' murderers.

Confessions made in Aitkin early in October by Mrs. Axel Nygaard implicated Inkinen as the murderer of her husband. She had shielded Inkinen ever since May 10, when the crime occurred, by reassuring neighbors that Nygaard had gone to Canada. Later she had added that she heard Nygaard was drowned there.

But confronted by the grand jury she broke down. She admitted having lived with Inkinen as man and wife for five weeks after her husband had been murdered and his body hidden near the barn on the Nygaard farm. Detectives unearthed the corpse following her confession.

Inkinen and Mrs. Nygaard even lived in Duluth for five weeks, she said. On a visit to her father, who is a farmer near Lawler, she told of riding in the car in which Jones was murdered. She described the efforts of the men to eradicate the bloodstains with which the automobile was covered.

Liukkonen was born at Ely on Aug. 29, 1902. He attended the public schools there and at Winton and was graduated from the eighth grade at Winton. Soon after leaving school he went to work in a sawmill at Winton and since then has been working at various places throughout Northern Minnesota for short periods, mostly at common labor. He enlisted in the navy in 1918 and served for nine months.

In July of 1919 Liukkonen's parents moved to Duluth, where they have resided continuously since. They are now living at 266½ South First avenue east. During the latter part of May and the first of June, Liukkonen was employed at the stone quarry at Fifty-seventh avenue west in this city. At about that time there was a strike among the stone crushers and Liukkonen went out with the strikers. He was idle on June 5 last, the day he admits that he was a member of the party that killed Jones.

Makes Signed Confession.

In a signed confession taken in the presence of Sheriff I. E. Boekenoogen of Aitkin county and Deptuy Sheriffs G. A. Hoel and John C. Brown of St. Louis county, Liukkonen on Saturday told the authorities his version of the Jones killing in the following language:

"On or about 2 p. m. on June 5, 1920, Mike Inkinen and John Koski, alias John Kujala, alias John Maki, came to my home at 266½ South First avenue east. I was at home when they came and was either reading the paper or playing the phonograph, I cannot say which. They said something to me about going with them to Cloquet to look for a job in the sawmill there. I said 'All right' and put on my coat and left the house with them.

"We walked north on First avenue east to Superior street, then directly west on Superior street to a taxicab in front of the Lyceum theater—just east of Fifth avenue west. Johnny Jones was standing there with his car and all three of us walked up to him and stood there together, while Koski and Inkinen arranged with him to drive to Cloquet. Jones was to make the drive for $15, that is, $5 for each passenger. None of us paid him at the time.

"The car that Jones drove was a left-hand drive and I sat in the front seat with him. The other two, Koski and Inkinen, got in the back seat. They entered the car from the right side and Mike Inkinen was the last one to enter the car, but I do not know which side of the car he sat on as we drove along the road towards Cloquet.

Tells of Killing.

"After we drove out of town a few miles, perhaps half way or more towards Cloquet, a shot was fired over my left shoulder—just one shot—and the bullet struck Jones just behind the right ear and Jones immediately

ROOT ADVISES HARDING THAT LEAGUE OF NATIONS NOT DEAD

TREATY CAN'T BE ABANDONED

Says an Entirely New Deal Would Bring Chaos and Disaster.

Cable From Root to Harding in August Is Just Revealed.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)
(All Rights Reserved.)

Washington, Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elihu Root has advised Senator Harding that "a new deal from the beginning by abandoning the peace treaty of Versailles is impossible and that to attempt it would bring chaos and an entire loss of the results of the war and general disaster involving the United States."

This advice, it now can be disclosed, [illegible] cablegram from London [illegible] during the latter part of [illegible] was an effort to keep Senator Harding from adopting the extreme position on the treaty and [illegible] which Senator Johnson was advocating.

The cablegram was sent partly as a result of an inquiry by Will Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, as to whether the Hague court could not be so defined as to permit the work supposed to be the [illegible] of the League of Nations. Also there is an interesting story of what happened at Marion when the cable from Mr. Root arrived. First of all, this correspondent presents exclusively today in The Herald the ideas of Mr. Root as cabled to a man who was stopping in Marion during the latter part of August and who showed the cablegram to Senator Harding. Here is what Mr. Root cabled:

League Not Dead.

"Declaration on which Hays asks an opinion cannot be defined. The Hague court cannot be made to cover anything but justiciable questions. Matters of state policy must be dealt with by conference of powers. See explanation in my letter to Hays of March, 1920. It is very unwise to declare the league dead—it would not be true. The league has hardly begun to function because the terms of peace have not yet been enforced by the victorious nations. Polish questions, for example, are properly being handled by the foreign offices without any reference to the league. They are not the league's business.

"In my opinion a new deal here from the beginning by abandoning Versailles treaty is impossible. To attempt it would bring chaos and an entire loss

ENJOYING VACATION

Harding Fishes in Morning, Plays Golf in the Afternoon.

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Outwardly as carefree as the happiest member of the little community of fishermen who are his neighbors here, President-elect Harding began today a vacation that he hopes will make up in full measure for his loss of rest and recreation during the campaign.

The forenoon he set for a test of skill with the rod and reel, for the afternoon he had a golf game at the Brownsville Country club, twenty miles away. The same combination is expected to occupy him during most of his stay here.

The appearance of the president-elect as he began his vacation was anything but that of a man worn out by the stress of a national campaign.

Looks Vigorous.

In spite of his long hours and unusual exertion in travel and public speaking, he looked robust and vigorous, and told the villagers he had come here more because he liked the fishing and the outdoor life, than because he needed a rest.

For his cruises along the coast, Mr. Harding used a launch placed at his disposal by Governor Hobby of Texas. He planned to take several extended pleasure trips in the craft during his stay here, and may also take an automobile trip late this week up the Rio Grande valley.

Nov. 18 has been selected as the date of departure of the president-elect and his party from New Orleans for a voyage to Panama.

In Small Cottage.

The president-elect and Mrs. Harding arrived late yesterday and took up their residence in a small frame cottage overlooking a bay where fishing boats lay at anchor.

The townsfolk, largely Mexicans, gave him a warm welcome, pouring out of their little boxlike houses and crying out their greetings in mixed English and Spanish. A score of pupils lined the entrance of the village and showered semi-tropical flowers on the party.

Several guests, including Mr. Harding's pre-convention manager, Harry M. Daugherty, were housed in a small winter resort hotel nearby. The party of thirty-two, including newspaper men and secret service men, overcrowded the hostelry and the towns' one restaurant at supper time. From Brownsville, twenty miles away, the party made the trip by motor.

CLOTHING IS SOLD CHEAPER

Big Discounts Offered at Buying Convention of Clothiers.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Men's clothing for immediate delivery was offered today at prices 10 to 50 per cent below present wholesale prices. Goods for spring and summer delivery were shown at prices 10 to 33 1-3 per cent under those of a year ago.

The occasion was the opening of the thirteenth semi-annual buying convention of the United National Clothiers in Chicago.

"The public is not buying; manufacturers and dealers are overstocked," said W. L. Mohr, treasurer and general manager of the association, today. "The price must come down. We have passed the peak in high prices of wearing apparel. Men's clothing will be considerably cheaper from now on; the retailer can afford to sell at less, for his costs are becoming less.

"Here are some men's shirts," he said, indicating an exhibition, "which wholesaled at $15 a dozen a few months ago. Now they are offered at $16.50 a dozen. Here are 2,000 suits offered at $16.50—suits that ordinarily wholesaled at $45.70. The age of extravagance has passed, and rather than let the goods rot on the shelves, the manufacturers are getting what they can out of them."

Wholesalers Reduce.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 9.—A reduction of 33 1-3 per cent in the wholesale price of clothing is announced by one of Rochester's largest clothing manufacturing concerns. The reduction is effective from Nov. 1 and applies to suits and overcoats. It is said the reduction, which is in addition to the usual cash discount of 7 per cent, represents a cut from $33, the opening fall wholesale price, to approximately $20.

BANKING POOL TO AID LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Bankers of Chicago and other cities met here today to complete arrangements for the formation of a $30,000,000 banking pool for the purpose of assisting in the financing of the livestock industry. New York, Boston and St. Louis banks will be invited to take part in the arrangement, it was announced.

The conference is the outgrowth of the plea for aid carried to the Federal reserve board at Washington recently by livestock producers, packers and bankers. Washington was unable to furnish material aid. Hence the bankers said they have decided to proceed independently.

It is proposed to form a corporation with a nominal capital, which will be subscribed on a pro-rata basis by the participating banks. These banks will agree to furnish a definite maximum sum to the corporation for loaning purposes. These quotas also will be on a pro-rata basis, based upon the participating banks' capital and surplus.

The corporation, it was said, will not undertake to make any new loan. It will confine its operations to the extension of credit to livestock producers whose loans have been called by the banks, and who, as a consequence, are threatened with the alternative of marketing immature stock.

EARTH SHOCK IS FELT AT PORTLAND

Portland, Or., Nov. 9.—What is believed to have been a slight earth shock was felt in Portland at 12:15 o'clock this morning. The tremors lasted for about 15 seconds, but, it is said, no damage has so far been reported.

CLARK TELLS OF DEALINGS WITH TAXIMAN

Transactions Toward Buying Interest in Hotel Lease Explains It.

Seven of Eleven Liquor Defendants Have Been on Stand.

Transactions incident to forming a partnership with William Cahill, proprietor of the Park hotel at Eveleth, combined with the engagement of Fred Longfield as driver of a taxi line to be run in conjunction with the hotel business, explain all evidence introduced by the government in apparent corroboration of Longfield's testimony, it was testified in United States court today by John B. Clark, a defendant and assistant claim agent of the Oliver Iron Mining company.

Clark denied having made any arrangements with Longfield, Cahill, or any of the other defendants to transport liquor smuggled from Canada. He made a belligerent witness when Neely E. Pardee, assistant United States attorney, began the cross-examination shortly before the noon recess.

Seven Defendants Testify.

Seven of the eleven defendants in the alleged conspiracy have now testified. The defense will probably complete its introduction of evidence tomorrow. The case is not likely to go to the jury before Thursday.

To refute Longfield's claim that Clark had given him $400 in January to purchase liquor, the defense pointed out that the government's own exhibit, a bank statement, proved that Clark had written but one $400 check in January. They then brought into court a check for $400 which Clark wrote on Jan. 24 to the Sandler Fur shop in payment of a fur coat for Mrs. Clark.

Clark testified today that he had known Longfield for more than a year. The latter was a taxi driver and later aided Clark in keeping the latter's auto in condition.

Asked for Liquor.

On a January day, Clark admitted, he had asked Longfield for a bottle of liquor. He explained that he was attending a dinner at the Spalding hotel and, at the request of some of the men, had gone downstairs to see if he could get whisky. Longfield, at the time, was in the White taxicab stand near the entrance. Clark obtained the bottle of liquor. The witness denied having approached Longfield at the time with a proposition to advance money to carry on a regular business in smuggled whisky.

Clark declared that he had purchased his interest in the Park hotel about April 1. He had known Cahill previously, he said, having lived in Eveleth before. He had also helped Cahill

THREE BREAK FROM HURLEY, WIS., JAIL

Hurley, Wis., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three prisoners held in the Iron county jail here escaped last night by sawing away the bars on the window of their cells.

The men who escaped are John Cahill, held for forgery and pandering; John Wright, held for threatening the life of Municipal Judge Griff Thomas, and Steve Kinney, charged with the larceny of goods valued at $100.

It was the third jail delivery during the administration of Sheriff Mike White and the second this year.

HOTEL MEN TO EAT 25-CENT DINNER

New York, Nov. 9.—Hotel proprietors attending the fifth National Hotel Men's exposition here will partake of a 25-cent meal on Ellis island this week, on the invitation of Frederick A. Wallis, immigration commissioner. Skepticism on the part of the hotel men that the island's chef, T. T. McGowan, could concoct a repast for that sum and still claim a profit is said to have prompted the invitation and also the acceptance.

Edward M. Tierney, chairman of the exposition committee, today recommended that hostelries cut the price of bridal suites, "both in order to encourage matrimony and as a part of the general price-cutting program."

CALLS SKUNK THE BEST WILD ANIMAL FRIEND OF FARMER

Washington, Nov. 9.—Breeding of skunks as a means of stabilizing the "depressed fur market" is the latest suggestion of the department of agriculture.

Despite all the harsh things that have been said about this lowly animal, the department describes him as "the best wild animal friend the farmer has." The skunk, the announcement says, can be used for destroying mice, grasshoppers, crickets and white grubs, at the same time furnishing the farmer from $50 to $100 worth of fur a year.

All that is required of the farmer, the circular says, is that he "respect the animal's dens, keep his poultry in skunkproof yards, kill an old horse for them every fall and be tactful when he meets them in the evening."

NEARLY 9,000 BODIES BACK

That Number of Americans Who Died in Europe Sent to Relatives.

Paris, Nov. 9.—Nearly 9,000 bodies of American soldiers who died or were killed in France during the war have been shipped to the United States and turned over to their nearest relatives and 1,800 more await shipment at French ports, it is announced by the United States grave registration service. The work of removing the bodies of fallen Americans is expected to be completed by next summer.

Nearly 60 per cent of the bodies of American officers and enlisted men buried in French soil will be returned to the United States, according to recent estimates. At frequent intervals parents and wives of dead soldiers have come to France to remove the remains of their relatives, but upon seeing the cemeteries and learning of the extreme care taken of them, have decided upon France as the final resting place for the fallen.

Complete in Seventeen Cemeteries.

The exhumation of bodies within the war zone began on Sept. 15, and since then work has been completed in seventeen cemeteries. Operations at Bony, the first of the big American cemeteries, will begin next Saturday and 55 per cent of the men buried there will be sent to the United States. Nearly 2,000 men will work all winter in order to complete the removals by next summer.

The task of exhuming the bodies of soldiers buried in Great Britain was finished three weeks ago, 80 per cent of them being shipped to the United States.

From Occupied Areas.

Removal of bodies from occupied areas in Germany and Luxembourg has just been completed, and all of them were sent to America. Working forces will begin operations in Belgium next month, and from cemeteries in that country 1,031 bodies will be removed. The work of exhuming bodies in the Brest, Bordeaux and St. Lazare areas has been completed, and now the efforts of the Americans will be concentrated on the war zone. It is not probable that the first of the uniform headstones recently decided upon by the war memorials council will be set in the four permanent cemeteries until next autumn.

American Cruiser Aground.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The protected cruiser Cleveland, attached to the newly-organized squadron on duty in Latin-American waters, is aground in the harbor at Cartagena, Colombia, the navy department was advised today.

CHESTER WILL BE EXTRADITED

To Be Brought Back to Kansas City to Face Murder Charge.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 9.—Plans to secure the extradition of Dennis Chester, arrested yesterday at Great Falls, Mont., and return him to Kansas City to face a charge of first degree murder for the killing of Miss Florence Barton, Kansas City society girl, who was shot to death on the night of Oct. 2 on a lonely suburban road here were made by officials today. According to dispatches from Great Falls Chester denied the charge and officials here prepared to combat any legal fight Chester might make to resist extradition.

A warrant charging Chester with the murder was issued by the county prosecutor late yesterday on receipt of advices that he had been taken in custody at Great Falls. The arrest ended a widespread search by operatives of a private detective agency, who trailed Chester over Western states.

Shot to Death.

Miss Barton, the daughter of a wealthy shoe manufacturer, was shot to death when three men in a motor car drew up beside the automobile in which she and her fiance, Howard Winter, were riding. Winter was wounded in the arm. Robbery was believed to have been the motive of the attack.

Winter, according to the police, recognized the photo of Chester at the bureau of identification as that of one of the assailants. Winter declared that Chester fired the shots.

Police announced they had in custody two of the three bandits implicated in the murder of Miss Barton and expected to arrest the other man soon. One of the men is being held at St. Joseph, Mo., on a charge of holding up an interurban car there.

BOLSHEVIKI TRY TO CRUSH GEN. WRANGEL

Making Desperate Efforts to Break Lines on Perekop Isthmus.

Fear Winter May Overtake Armies Before They Are Successful.

Constantinople, Nov. 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Russian Bolshevik forces are making determined efforts to crash through Gen. Baron Wrangel's lines in the Perekop isthmus leading northward from Crimea to the mainland of Russia, and are massing forces further to the eastward with a view to taking the long tongue of land known as the Isthmus of Tchongar.

Five infantry divisions are attacking Perekop and fresh storm troops supported by artillery are being rushed southward from Salkovo and Genitschesk to force their way into Crimea from the northeast.

Fear Winter.

It is said the Bolsheviki fear their armies will be caught by winter before they are successful in crushing Wrangel, and that they will become demoralized.

Gen. Wrangel's principal position behind Perekop centers about the village of Ioshoon. Should the Sivash, or putrid sea, freeze, as it rarely does, the defense of Crimea would be more difficult. The Bolsheviki so far have not landed troops on the long sand bank on the western side of the sea of Azov, which is known as the "tongue of Arabat." Such an operation would not be feasible, nor could positions be held on this narrow neck of land, as Gen. Wrangel's martime units control the sea of Azov.

PRICE OF GASOLINE DROPS IN BRITAIN

Washington, Nov. 9.—"Overproduction" in the United States is the reason assigned by British oil companies for an unexpected reduction of 6 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline in Great Britain after a sudden increase of 14 cents a gallon in August, according to advices from the American chamber of commerce in London today to the department of commerce.

British consumers, however, the chamber reported, attributed the slump to the investigation of the central profiteering committee into the increase in price.

Oil production in America in 1918 was about 3,500,000,000 gallons, the chamber pointed out, while in 1919 it was still under 4,000,000,000 gallons.

TO PROBE ALLEGED ELECTION FRAUDS

New York, Nov. 9.—District Attorney Edward Swann ordered laid before the grand jury today all alleged election frauds reported since the election a week ago.

Among these were the finding of twenty-six ballots, marked for Democratic candidates, in a sewer near one polling place, and the report by Mrs. Nora Stanton Barney, an election official, that Republican ballots cast in the Thirteenth election district of the first assembly district were declared "void" by other officials over her protests.

TWO DEALT IN STOLEN BONDS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—Posing as purchasers of stolen bonds United States secret service agents today unearthed what they term is a clearing house for stolen bonds and through which they charge more than $400,000 worth of bonds have passed.

Clyde A. Smith and Mrs. Cin Bearse both of Minneapolis, are in the county jail here. When Smith was arrested at Rochester, Minn., late yesterday $15,000 worth of stolen bonds were in his possession, secret service agents say. Mrs. Bearse was arrested at the same time in her Minneapolis home.

Frank W. Sommer, chief of the Minnesota section of the secret service with headquarters here, directed the investigation and made the arrests with the assistance of several operatives called in from Chicago and Spokane.

Posed as Thief.

A secret agent, posing as a thief, went to Rochester with Smith, at the agent's suggestion, to make a loan, giving the $15,000 in bonds as security. Smith was arrested as he was putting through the deal at a Rochester bank, which had been "let in" on the scheme.

In the Bearse home in Minneapolis secret agents found hidden $30,000 in bonds which they said a check showed were stolen from the Nassau (Minn.) State bank, the Sully (Iowa) State bank, the Rockham (S. D.) Farmers' State bank and other banks in North Dakota and Wisconsin.

Smith and Mrs. Bearse had an office in a Minneapolis office building, operating ostensibly as a detective agency. A registered Liberty bond, which had been stolen, came to Sommers' attention six weeks ago and started the investigation. The secret agents say Smith confessed.

JAPANESE TRADE STILL DECLINING

Washington, Nov. 9.—Japan's commercial barometer is still low despite the reduction which has taken place in overproduction and overstocking, factors contributing to present conditions, according to Yokohama press reviews of the economic situation in Japan transmitted today to the department of commerce.

Decline in the Japanese import trade has been rapid and extensive, the reviews declared, imports in August amounting to approximately $61,093,000 compared with $78,329,000 in July. This retrenchment in imports was accompanied in August and September by a decline in imports, notably in the case of silk, the mainstay of Japan's export trade.

Organization of manufacturers and merchants unions with a view to creating an artificial shortage by buying up the floating cargo in the markets has been resorted to, the reviews stated, in addition to government assistance, the curtailment of production and the cancellation of further contracts. So far, however, these readjustment measures have been comparatively of little practical value, the reviews added.

FIFTY AIRPLANES ENTER SPEED RACE

New York, Nov. 9.—Fifty planes already have been entered for the Pulitzer trophy airplane speed race at Mitchell field on Thanksgiving day, it was learned today. Officials of the Aero Club of America expect that Sadi Lecointe, winner of the Gordon Bennett cup at Etampes, France, in October, will enter within the next few days.

ZERO WEATHER DUE; STORM WARNINGS UP; SIX INCHES OF SNOW FALLS; MILDER WEDNESDAY

A severe cold wave is on its way here. While the temperature will fall steadily throughout the day, it will reach as low as zero by tonight in Duluth and slightly lower inland and on the iron ranges, according to H. W. Richardson, local weather observer. The storm and cold wave developed very rapidly, with the storm center over Minnesota at 7 o'clock last night. Today it has moved eastward and at 10 o'clock this morning was centered over Lake Huron.

Storm warnings were ordered up over the lake region last night, and by 7 o'clock the storm was well developed. During the night six inches of snow fell. The moderate temperature resulted in slush which later froze. Rain fell over the lower lakes during the night. The temperature has fallen steadily since last night, and at 10 o'clock this morning had reached 18 deg. The wind also reached a velocity of thirty-six miles an hour at that time.

Relief from the cold is looked for by tomorrow, however, as the temperature is expected to moderate during the day to about 15 deg., according to Mr. Richardson.

LUIKKONEN AND KUJALA ARE IN JAIL

Swan Luikkonen, Youngest of the Three, Makes Full Confession.

Tells Complete Story of Gruesome Happening When Duluthian Was Killed.

John Kujala, aged 32, alias John Koski, and Swan J. Liukkonen, aged 18, two of the three men wanted for the brutal murder of Johnny Jones, Duluth taxi driver at a lonely spot on the Thomson road in Carlton county on the afternoon of June 5 last have been apprehended and are now in the county jail.

The latter has confessed.

Kujala was arrested yesterday noon at the West Duluth plant of the Duluth Stone Crushing company, where he has been employed. Liukkonen was arrested early last week in a lumber camp at Nairn Center, Can., about seventy-five miles north of Sudbury, Ont., and was brought back to Duluth Saturday by Sheriff I. E. Bockenoogen of Aitkin county and on the same day confessed as to the part he played in the killing of Jones. His confession implicates the other two men, Kujala, whom he calls Koski, and one Mike Inkinen. Two garage men from Tamarack where the Jones car was abandoned today positively identified Kujala as being one of the three.

Brutal Murder.

The killing of Jones was one of the most gruesome that has occurred here. He was asked by three men to drive them out in the country. The next day his body was found by the roadside. The car, all blood-stained, was found several weeks later at a Tamarack garage.

Inkinen, alias Mike Nelson, alias Mike Koski, aged 28, the third of the trio wanted for the Jones murder and who is also believed to be under indictment in Aitkin county for the slaying of Axel Nygaard is still at large, and the authorities are continuing a country-wide search for him. A reward of $500 were offered by the governor for the apprehension of each of the Jones' murderers.

Confessions made in Aitkin early in October by Mrs. Axel Nygaard implicated Inkinen as the murderer of her husband. She had shielded Inkinen ever since May 10, when the crime occurred, by reassuring neighbors that Nygaard had gone to Canada. Later she had added that she heard Nygaard was drowned there.

But confronted by the grand jury she broke down. She admitted having lived with Inkinen as man and wife for five weeks after her husband had been murdered and his body hidden near the barn on the Nygaard farm. Detectives unearthed the corpse following her confession.

Inkinen and Mrs. Nygaard even lived in Duluth for five weeks, she said. On a visit to her father, who is a farmer near Lawler, she told of riding in the car in which Jones was murdered. She described the efforts of the men to eradicate the bloodstains with which the automobile was covered.

Liukkonen was born at Ely on Aug. 29, 1902. He attended the public schools there and at Winton and was graduated from the eighth grade at Winton. Soon after leaving school he went to work in a sawmill at Winton and since then has been working at various places throughout Northern Minnesota for short periods, mostly at common labor. He enlisted in the navy in 1918 and served for nine months.

In July of 1919 Liukkonen's parents moved to Duluth, where they have resided continuously since. They are now living at 266½ South First avenue east. During the latter part of May and the first of June, Liukkonen was employed at the stone quarry at Fifty-seventh avenue west in this city. At about that time there was a strike among the stone crushers and Liukkonen went out with the strikers. He was idle on June 5 last, the day he admits that he was a member of the party that killed Jones.

Makes Signed Confession.

In a signed confession taken in the presence of Sheriff I. E. Bockenoogen of Aitkin county and Deputy Sheriffs G. A. Hoel and John C. Brown of St. Louis county, Liukkonen on Saturday told the authorities his version of the Jones killing in the following language:

"On or about 2 p. m. on June 5, 1920, Mike Inkinen and John Koski, alias John Kujala, alias John Maki, came to my home at 266½ South First avenue east. I was at home when they came and was either reading the paper or playing the phonograph, I cannot say which. They said something to me about going with them to Cloquet to look for a job in the sawmill there. I said 'All right' and put on my coat and left the house with them.

"We walked north on First avenue east to Superior street, then directly west on Superior street to a taxicab in front of the Lyceum theater just east of Fifth avenue west. Johnny Jones was standing there with his car and all three of us walked up to him and stood there together, while Koski and Inkinen arranged with him to drive to Cloquet. Jones was to make the drive for $15, that is $5 for each passenger. None of us paid him at the time.

"The car that Jones drove was a left-hand drive and I sat in the front seat with him. The other two, Koski and Inkinen, got in the back seat. They entered the car from the right side and Mike Inkinen was the last one to enter the car, but I do not know which side of the car he sat on as we drove along the road towards Cloquet.

Tells of Killing.

"After we drove out of town a few miles, perhaps half way or more towards Cloquet, a shot was fired over my left shoulder—just one shot—and the bullet struck Jones just behind the right ear and Jones immediately

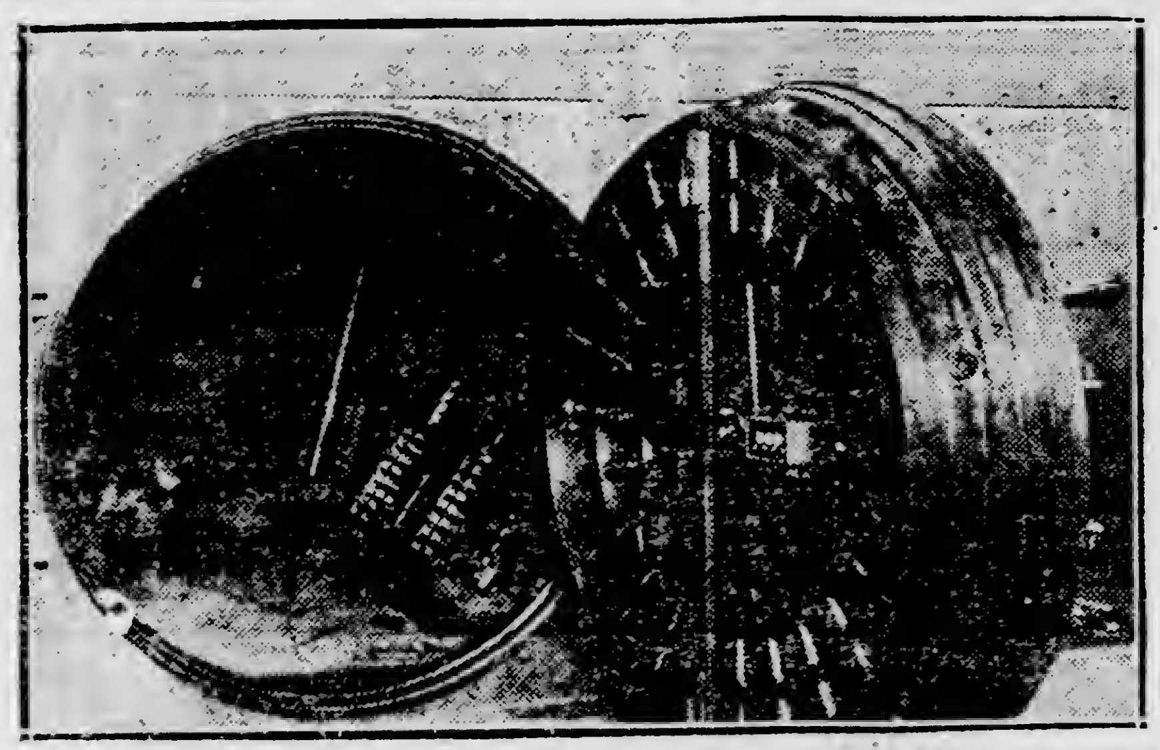
GETTING THROUGH THIS VAULT DOOR WOULD BE REAL CHORE FOR AMBITIOUS YEGGMEN



A seventeen-ton door, six feet four inches in diameter and eighteen inches thick, guards the vault to the newest financial institution in the city, the Minnesota National bank, at 224 West Superior street.

Alteration on the building is being rushed so that the bank may be ready to open its doors about Dec. 1. The institution will be most modern in every respect. The entrance will be of carved Bedford limestone. The counters are of mahogany with marble base. An especially effective ventilation system is being installed.

Officers of the bank, however, are particularly proud of the vault. It is of the latest construction and nothing similar to it has been built here. Ten inches of the eighteen-inch thickness is solid steel. The construction of the vault will entitle the bank to the lowest insurance rate in Minnesota.

B. M. Peyton and J. N. Peyton, president and cashier, respectively, left for New York Saturday to arrange for financial connections and obtain further information on the most modern banking construction and methods of finanical management.

ARMISTICE TO THANKSGIVING

Red Cross Roll Call; Only Needs Heart and Dollar.

Armistice day to Thanksgiving!

The American Red Cross is making a definite connection between these two significant days by starting its annual roll call on the first named and ending it on the last. The Duluth chapter of the Red Cross, to which both dates are of such outstanding significance through its past experiences, has completed organization for the roll call which starts Thursday and will continue two weeks. Chairman William A. McGonagle of the roll call committee announced today that practically all the details of the campaign had been worked out and that the Red Cross workers were ready to start.

This is in no sense a money drive or campaign. It is a membership campaign. It is giving the members of the Red Cross their annual opportunity of renewing their memberships. There are five classes of members of the organization, but the Duluth chapter workers will confine themselves to just one of these—the annual memberships, which cost one dollar.

A Heart and a Dollar.

"All you need is a heart and a dollar"—a slogan that was first used in Duluth in the early days of the World war and has since become synonymous with Red Cross memberships—is to be the big cry of the next two weeks. The Duluth chapter is one of the largest in the Northern division—one of the largest in the country—and it is the expectation of the roll call committee that it will continue in the lead of Minnesota organizations.

Red Cross memberships constitute not only the nucleus of workers for the organization, but also provide the funds with which the work is accomplished. Each chapter receives a percentage of the money received from membership fees, this money to be used in carrying on the work of the chapter during the year.

Peace Work Now.

In the days of the war when the Red Cross workers were in evidence everywhere there was little need to call attention to the organization, but of the magnitude of its peace work—the peace work that is carried on right here in this section of the country—few people know or appreciate except those who have been connected with it. For years the Red Cross Christmas seal sale has been well known. But few, except those directly touched by it, know that the Christmas seal sale is but a fraction of the activity of the Red Cross health service that is carried on, and that the Christmas seal sale proceeds are devoted to but one branch — an especially important branch—of that service.

In the last two years, since the war, the Northern division of the American Red Cross, of which the Duluth chapter is a part, spent more than $500,000 in disaster relief alone, a very large part of this being spent in this section of the state or under the direction of the Duluth chapter officers. Fire, flood, tornado—many grave catastrophes—called the Red Cross into service and called for the expenditure of funds. The memberships supplied the nucleus of these funds.

To be equipped to carry on this kind of work is what these membership drives are for. Therefore—

"All you need is a heart and a dollar."

ADDITIONAL GUARDS PATROLLING NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 9.—Twenty-five additional patrolmen especially selected today were distributed throughout the financial district. It was understood this action was taken because of alleged threats made at recent radical meetings. The detective force in the Wall Street district was greatly increased.

The additional force has been made a permanent detail. Not only will its members stand guard over the subtreasury, stock exchange and banks and brokerage houses, but it will keep a protecting eye on prominent Wall street figures and also watch messengers as they carry millions in securities through the streets.

Commissioner of Immigration Wallis at Ellis Island announced today he had received information from agents of The Netherlands government that 'Bolshevist agitators are heading for America" attempting to bribe members of crews to gain their admittance either as seamen or stowaways.

"It was upon such advices that I issued a new rule for inspection of incoming ships, requiring the crews to be inspected before the passengers," said Mr. Wallis, who added he had learned radicals were making Rotterdam their port of embarkation.

GOOD EVENING! We expect fair and colder weather tomorrow.

RUSSIAN IMPORTS CAUSED DROP IN GAS IN BRITISH MARKET

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The drop in the price of gasoline in Great Britain was attributed today to a weakened market caused by the entry of Russian products into the English market by officials of the Standard Oil company here. According to these officials there has been no "over production" in the United States, the reason assigned by British companies for the recent unexpected decline of 6 cents a gallon in England.

Stored supplies of gasoline in this country were said to have been below normal for the last six months, much of the stock drawn from storage having been shipped abroad because of the high prices there. The entry of Russian oils, which have had no new outlet for months, into the European market, was characterized as "just the beginning" of price decreases and probably the forerunner of a curtailment in the shipment of American oil abroad.

QUEEN OF SONG ARRIVES IN DULUTH

Tetrazzini Will Remain in Private Car; Talks of Concert Work.

Tetrazzini, the queen of song, is in Duluth, and will remain here the remainder of the week awaiting her appearance at the New Armory next Saturday.

"I have been in a crowd ever since I arrived in the United States," she says. "It seems very difficult to obtain accommodations and so I find it very convenient and homey to have my private car. How lovely it is to be once again in this country. It makes me very happy to revisit all the places which I learned to love, and to meet again all the charming people who have always been so sympathetic.

"For the last four years and a half, I have been engaged in touring continental Europe in aid of charity, and I had very successful concerts, especially in Italy and in Paris. Last year, the takings in, in aid of the French Red Cross, were 500,000 francs. Fancy that! I have had some very interesting audiences, including M. and Mme. Raymond Poincare, the queen of Roumania, Marshal Foch; and the queen mother of Italy sent me during my tour of her country, a large signed portrait of herself. This, of course, is one of my most treasured possession. After my Paris concert, I managed to snatch a brief holiday, and stayed at Lugano until time to leave for England. I was quite overcome by the reception I received at my first appearance in five years in London. The Royal Albert hall, where I sang, was filled with a most enthusiastic audience, which seemed almost as glad to see me again as I was to see them. For my concerts in this country, I am singing the mad scene from "Lucia" and the beautiful aria from "Traviata." I sing groups of songs also. I am so busy now on this splendid American tour, I do not expect to be back in the East for a long time. I hope I am leaving a pleasant memory in every city, where I have appeared.

ALLEGED SLAYER IS CAUGHT IN MONTANA

Great Falls, Mont., Nov. 9.—Interception of a letter written to Dennis Chester by a Great Falls woman resulted in the arrest here yesterday of a man who gave his name as Alba McPowell, but whom the police, from his description and tattoo marks, believe to be Dennis Chester, alias Ross and McPower, wanted in Kansas City on the charge of having murdered Miss Florence Barton, about two months ago.

McPowell, who denied any connection with the murder of Miss Barton, came to this city from Los Angeles, the police said, supposedly to see the Great Falls woman whose identity the local police refuse to divulge. The letter from the Great Falls woman was intercepted by Kansas City police, shortly after the murder, the police here were informed.

McPowell, or Chester, was arrested by Chief of Police Marcus Anderson of Great Falls and a Kansas City private detective. The man's identity as Chester, according to R. S. Gaunt, head of the Great Falls bureau of criminal identification, is established beyond doubt by finger prints, tattoo marks and photographs.

At the police station last night the prisoner reiterated his denial of the killing and declared he would resist extradition.

Kansas City Warrant Issued.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 9.—A warrant charging Dennis Chester, arrested yesterday in Great Falls, Mont., with the murder of Miss Florence Barton, young society woman, was issued late yesterday on complaint of an official of a private detective agency. Miss Barton was shot and killed the night of Oct. 1, while motoring with her fiancee.

PROFITEERING IN BONUS CLAIMS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. H. Vernon, department commander of the American Legion, has issued the following special bulletin:

"1. Some investment companies and bankers are, in the opinion of the department officers, attempting to hold up the ex-service men upon their bonus claims and making an unreasonable profit. Circulars have come to the department commander's attention which solicit bonus claims upon a discount of 10 per cent, which is exorbitant and wholly unreasonable.

"2. At the present prices of the state bonus bonds, a charge of approximately $3.75 per $100 is a fair discount, and any larger discount is, in the opinion of the department officers, unreasonable and exorbitant and an attempt to profiteer at the expense of ex-service men who have not yet received their state bonus. Next session of the Minnesota legislature in January will undoubtedly provide for the payment of all bonus claims in full.

"3. Every legion post is urged to see that the facts contained in this bulletin are published and to warn all ex-service men against paying a greater discount than approximately $3.75 per hundred for the cashing of their bonus claims. Ask all service men to submit to their local legion posts and legion department headquarters the name of any agency that is offering, by circular or otherwise, the cash bonus claims at a higher rate of discount than $3.75 per hundred. If the banks in your vicinity will not handle bonus claims at about this discount, notify department headquarters."

Former St. Cloudite Dies.

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 9.—Henry C. Ahlers, formerly general agent here for the International Harvester company, died yesterday at Red Wing, his former home, aged 57, according to word received here, and is survived by his wife, one son and one daughter.

Negaunee Soldier Buried.

Negaunee, Mich., Nov. 9.—The first body of a local soldier who died in France to be received and buried here was that of Joseph Ballargeon 31, who was buried in the military cemetery at Gievres Loir et Cher during the war. The body arrived Saturday and the American Legion conducted the rites Sunday. He was the only son of Mr and Mrs. Albert Ballargeon, who with two daughters, Louise and Florence, survive him.

You'll Do Better at Kelly's

Thanksgiving Sale!

A Feast of Fine Values in Furniture That Will Mean a Real Thanksgiving in Many a Home

THE WORD VALUE—We are old-fashioned about one or two things, and our conception of "value" is one of them. In the days when a bushel was heaped and a baker's dozen included more than you actually paid for, the word "value" meant something! Today most stores talk values very freely but you actually get only what you pay for.

But at this store we still believe in giving you not only a dollar's worth of furniture value for every dollar you spend but also a "little more" for heaping measure. It is just that extra little that makes this store so different from the ordinary furniture store, and that has gained for us a reputation for value-giving that is known throughout the entire community. The values in this Thanksgiving Sale are just another example of the way this principle works at this store.

You Don't Need Cash! Use Our Easy Payment Plan

MINISTER ACTED IN SELF DEFENSE, VERDICT

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 9.—Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, prohibition enforcement agent, who shot and killed Beverly Trumble, an inn proprietor, in a raid near here several days ago, was absolved of blame by a coroner's jury at an inquest last night. The jury found the clergyman acted in self-defense.

Rev. Mr. Spracklin was released at once. He had been in the custody of an officer since the shooting Saturday, but had been allowed comparative freedom.

The room where the inquest was held was jammed but the crowd dispersed without disturbance after the verdict.

STOLEN CARS SENT ABROAD

Thieves Doing Big Business; Three Cadillacs Disappear From Duluth.

Cadillac automobiles stolen in Duluth recently and others stolen earlier last month in the Twin Cities may be on their way to foreign countries to supply demands for the cars which an organized band of automobile thieves have worked up, according to Fred Johnson, secretary of the Duluth police department, who returned from Milwaukee yesterday. Mr. Johnson accompanied R. W. Grassi of Eveleth to Milwaukee, where the latter's Hupmobile was recovered. The auto was stolen from in front of the courthouse here on Oct. 31.

"An organized band of thieves working throughout the country is stealing large cars and shipping them to foreign countries," said Mr. Johnson. "A shipload of them was sent from an Eastern port recently for Sweden, according to information given me by a dettective from Detroit, Mich., who has been working on these cases. It was found that at the Connecticut port from which they were sent, some members of the police department of that city were working hand in hand with the thieves."

All of the cars shipped were high class cars, according to information given Mr. Johnson. The three stolen in Duluth between Oct. 23 and Nov. 3 were Cadillacs and as yet no trace of them has been obtained. The first one stolen belonged to S. L. Yonce, taken on Oct. 23. The second car, taken on Oct. 28, belonged to W. A. Newcomb of the Spalding hotel, and the third Cadillac, taken on Nov. 3, belonged to J. W. Miller, proprietor of Miller's cafeteria.

Experts in on Deal.

According to information given by the Eastern detective, expert machinists and automobile men are implicated in the deal. The cars are changed as to license numbers and run by various routes and relayed through to the East for shipments.

One scheme which the organized band of automobile thieves are said to have worked successfully in the larger cities is the relay scheme. A member of the band watches for a certain make of auto and when its owner leaves the car and disappears for a few moments into an office building or restaurant, the thief gets into the car and drives off. He returns in a short time with another machine of the same make, belonging to himself.

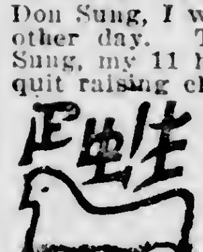
When the owner of the stolen auto appears looking for his machine and finds it gone his first step is to inquire from those standing near as to who took the car. If the thief was discovered taking the car and is recognized he is there ready with the answer:

"You must be mistaken. I just drove up with my car."

Second Man and Car Go.

In the meantime an accomplice is safely away with the stolen machine. After getting well out into the country license plates are changed and unless there is some special mark of identification the machine is entirely lost to the owner.

Locks do not appear to deter the thieves from getting away with the cars. There was a double lock on Mr. Miller's car when it was stolen from in front of the Torrey building. Local Cadillac agents say that they have not a man in their employ who, under an hour's work, could be able to unlock the car without the aid of a chart. These locks are said to be difficult but the expert thieves find them no hindrance.



11 Hens Idle; Now Lay 221 Eggs A Month

Almost Gave Up Raising Chickens. Then She Tried This Plan.

"When I accepted your offer and tried Don Sung, I was getting 1 or 2 eggs every other day. The next month, using Don Sung, my 11 hens laid 221 eggs. I almost quit raising chickens, but now I will raise as many as I can."—Mrs. F. C. Young, Bellefonte, Pa.

You also can easily start your hens laying and keep them laying, even in coldest winter. To prove it, accept our offer, as Mrs. Young did.

BIG GUN REGIMENT IS FORMED HERE

Duluth is to be the headquarters of the recently authorized Minnesota regiment of field artillery. The decision was reached at the Armory last night by about 100 men who were interested in forming the Greysolon battalion of infantry, but when the offer of the state was put up to them it was unanimously decided to make the transfer. Some objection to the forming of an artillery unit in preference to the infantry as a local defense unit, was eliminated when it was explained that the artillerymen would be better equipped for this class of duty than would be the infantrymen.

As soon as the required number of enlistments have been received, 250, they will be mustered in and furnished their equipment consisting of horses, artillery and side arms. The field pieces will include a number of 75s and the side arms will consist of rifles, belts and Colt 45s.

There will be a headquarters company, a supply company and three batteries. The regimental headquarters will be stationed in Duluth and the commanding officer will be chosen from among the former service artillery officers of Duluth. The fact that the regiment will be supplied with horses will make the organization a great deal more efficient for riot duty than would be the case with infantry, according to Maj. Fred W. Beecher.

Maj. J. M. McDowell, inspector general of Minnesota, and Capt. A. A. Burns, adjutant of the field artillery, were present and assisted Maj. Beecher in outlining what the transfer would mean to the men and to the city of Duluth. The report of the decision of the men will be transmitted to Adjt.-Gen. W. F. Rhinow at St. Paul at once. The enlistment of men was begun last night and according to Maj. Beecher, about 100 have already enrolled.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

UPPER PENINSULA SHIPPING HEAVILY

Ishpeming, Mich., Nov. 9.—With large shipments of iron ore going forward to the docks daily the present shipping season will be one of the longest that has been experienced in Upper Peninsula mining circles in some years.

Long trains of ore taken from Ishpeming mines wind their way daily to the docks at Escanaba via the Chicago & Northwestern railway. Besides the shipments being made to the docks at Escanaba, the Upper Peninsula's only Lake Michigan port, cargoes are being sent down the lakes daily from Marquette. These shipments are made from the mines via the Lake Superior & Ishpeming and Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railways.

At Escanaba it is predicted that ore shipments are likely to continue at their present brisk rates until freezing makes handling of the product impractical. The ore trade this year has been large and with several weeks remaining in which it may continue, it is not improbable that a new record will be established in the volume of shipping.

Mining men claim that thawing ore, once it has started to freeze, would be very expensive because of high fuel prices but there is hope that the present mild weather will continue for some time.

THE ALFABET.

ONE of the most famous parts of the Ingllsh langwidge is the alfabet. The alfabet consists intirely of letters allways in the same place, so in case you wunt to find eny partickuler letter you know it will allways be ixackly ware it was the last time you looked.

The way to lern the alfabet in skool is to repeet it so meny times you can say it so fast you cant even understand it yourself. Wen the hole class says it out loud together it sounds mutch harder than it reely is on account of diffrent parts of the class being at diffrent parts of the alfabet at diffrent times.

As soon as a letter gets twice as big as its ordnerry size it becomes a capitol letter and you can start a werd with it if you wunt to. No sentence should ever be started with a little letter, but in case it is it meens the same thing enyway. This proves its allways a good thing to be perfeck but nuthing speshil will happin even if youre not.

It is more important to cross your t's than what it is to dot your i's, on account of a t that nobody has ever crossed looking so naked that peeple are libel to notice it, wile a i without its dot dont hardly seem to know the diffrents.

Sometimes you can save a lot of werk by crossing 2 t's with one cross, but its not hardly ever possible to dot 2 i's, with one dot because 2 i's dont hardly ever get next to each other on account of looking too mutch like a perrade.

TWO MEN WANTED FOR MURDER OF JOHNNY JONES CAUGHT

fell over the left-hand door of the car, and Koski ordered me to stop the car and I stopped the car with the emergency break. I afterwards saw a place on Jones' head just in front of the left ear where the blood was running out—this was the place where the bullet came out.

"The car continued along the road for a distance of perhaps fifty feet after the shooting and before stopping. After the car stopped, Koski and Inkinen got out of the car and then Inkinen opened the left front door of the car and pulled Jones' body out while Koski had hold of the wheel. After they got the body out of the car Koski pulled it into the brush and Inkinen stood in front of the car with a 'gat' in his hand.

"Just after the shot was fired I looked around and I saw that both Koski and Inkinen had a gun—each of them—in their hands and afterwards Mike Inkinen told me that he had another gun in his clothes, but I did not see it. I did not have any gun with me. Koski was the only one who went into the bushes with the body. He was out of my view where he left the body and he was out of my sight in the brush for two or three minutes—I think long enough to go through Jones' pockets—then Koski came out of the brush and both he and Inkinen came to the car and both he and Inkinen got into the rear seat and told me to drive on.

After the Murder.

"I started the car and drove to a point about two miles this side of Cloquet. Then Koski got into the driver's seat and drove the car and I moved over to the same seat where I had been sitting when Jones was driving the car, the right-hand front seat. As Koski came out of the brush after dragging Jones' body into the brush, Inkinen was standing in front of the car. The motor was still. I heard Inkinen ask Koski how much money he got and Koski said, 'I don't know.' This conversation was in the Finnish language.

"After they got back in the car there was nothing said by anyone until we got down within two miles of Cloquet, then Koski asked to drive the car. As near as I can remember that was the first word spoken after the two got in the car immediately after leaving Jones' body in the brush. After Koski took the wheel and was driving the car we drove straight to Minneapolis and we arrived there about 9 a. m. and put the car in a garage. I do not remember what street the garage was on or the name of the garage. After putting the car in a garage we all went and had something to eat and then we went to a hotel and went to bed, all three in one room. I do not know what hotel it was nor the street it was on.

Stay in Minneapolis.

"The next morning we all got up at the same time, went out and had breakfast, then we went up town and bought some clothes at a place on Hennepin avenue. I do not know what store it was. I did not buy any clothes, but Koski and Inkinen both bought clean collars and only one of them bought a shirt. I do not know what money they were using, whether it was money they took from Jones or not.

"We stayed in Minneapolis all that day and part of the next day. Then we started back, took the Jones car and drove directly to Sandstone. There we left the car. While we were in Minneapolis we went around to some of the shows—each of us had some money—I had some and spent some money for shows, but I did not have any of the Jones money at any time. I did not get any money from either Koski or Inkinen at any time but I afterwards loaned Koski $40 and he still owes it to me.

"The car broke down out of Sandstone but we drove it as far as Sandstone and left it there. We arrived there about 5 p. m. on June 7 and about 6 p. m. that same day we all got on the train and came to Duluth, arriving about 8 or 9 o'clock. When we got to the station at Duluth I left the others while at the station and went home at 266½ South First avenue east.

Threatens Mrs. Luikkonen.

"When I arrived home that night I saw my mother and she asked me where I had been and I told her I had been to Cloquet. The next day in the afternoon Inkinen came to my home at 266½ South First avenue east and while there I left for a short time to go out to a store and when I came back Inkinen and my mother had been talking about what had happened on June 5 and then he threatened my mother. He said 'If Swan says anything about it, I'll fix you,' speaking to my mother.

"I stayed at home after that for about a week and during that time Mike Inkinen called at my home three or four times, but there was nothing said at any of these calls about the Jones affair. At the end of a week or about that time Inkinen and Koski came to my home and said we were all going back to Sandstone for the car. This was the only call that Koski made at my home during that week.

"We all left Duluth in the morning for Sandstone, and when we got there, we found that the car had been repaired and Mike Inkinen paid the garage bill, and it was then when I first learned that we were to go from Sandstone to Lawler, Minn. The trip to Lawler was at Inkinen's direction. I did not know what we were going to Lawler for. We left Sandstone that same night about 9 p. m. with the car and drove to Lawler, arriving the next morning some time.

Pick Up Mrs. Nygaard.

"We slept in the car that night before picking up Mrs. Nygaard at Moose Lake. We left Mrs. Nygaard at her father's place and then drove on to Lawler, at which point Koski left us and took the train for Duluth. I do not know what he went to Duluth for. Before leaving he said he would meet us at Automba in a few days and would write us when he was coming.

"The next day after arriving at Lawler we drove the car from Lawler to John Makkonen's place about sixteen miles north of Palo's place, where we, Inkinen and myself had stayed over night. Mrs. Nygaard also stayed there at Palos' that night. Inkinen and I stayed at the Makkonen place three or four days and Mrs. Nygaard was there the last night and stayed at Makkonen's that one night. While at Makkonen's place, Mrs. Nygaard got a letter from Koski and he said he was coming to Automba, six or seven miles from the Makkonen place, and the letter directed her to tell Inkinen and myself that he (Koski) would meet us at Automba and stated what day he would be there. At the appointed time Inkinen and I walked to Automba and met Koski and then walked back to Nygaard's home about two or three miles from Makkonen's place, and when we got there, we found Mrs. Nygaard there alone.

"That night we walked over to Makkonen's and got the car and started for Duluth. We got as far as Tamarack and the car broke down, so we left it in a garage there.

Dispute About Ownership.

"While at Nygaard's there was some talk between Inkinen and Koski as to who owned the car, both claiming it. While we were driving around Lawler and vicinity, Inkinen told different ones that the car belonged to my father and when Koski came on the train people were told that Koski was my father. This I did not deny. I did not say anything.

"After we arrived at Tamarack with the broken down car we stayed at the hotel until the next morning. Then we took the train and came to Duluth and Koski paid the fares. All three of us came to Duluth on the same train. When we got to Duluth we went to a pool room at 104½ East Superior street and there I left Koski and Inkinen and then I went home.

"The next day I saw Inkinen and he told me that he was going to Nygaard's and he left town that day. I worked three of four days and was home at that time, about a week all told. Then I shipped to Billings, Mont., for railroad work. I went to Billings, and was there one day. I did not do any work. Then I beat my way back to Fargo, N. D. Inkinen also shipped from Duluth to Billings, and went out with me and he also beat his way back to Fargo with me. Then I laid around for about a week. Then I went to Fairbanks, Minn., and worked in a sawmill.

Told to "Beat It."

"Then my brother came up and showed me the paper and told me to 'beat it.' Then I left and went to Virginia, stayed there one day and then went to Fort Francis and then to Winnipeg. I was at Winnipeg three or four days working on farms, then went to Port Arthur. Was there two days and then shipped to Horn Payne on a steam shovel job. I worked there for two weeks or so. Then the job was finished and they gave me a pass to Toronto and from there I shipped to King Inlet and there worked in a sawmill for ten days and then went back to Toronto. Then I went to Nairn Center and worked about thirty days and that is where I was arrested and brought back to Duluth, arriving Nov. 6, 1920, in company with I. E. Bockenoogen, sheriff of Aitkin county.

Meeting Inkinen.

"Some time during the early part of May—I think it may have been two or three weeks before the day that Johnny Jones was killed—I had been looking around at the various employment agencies and walked around by the Soo depot and as I approached the building I saw Mike Inkinen and I knew from looking at him at the time he was a Finn, so I walked up to him and asked him where he was going. He said that he was not going any place, that he had just come in from Lawler and that his brother-in-law had a pool room some place in Duluth and that he was looking around to find it.

"From there I took him to my home on First avenue east and we stayed there for half an hour, then we went up town and went into a pool hall on Superior street between First avenue east and Lake avenue and Inkinen asked a man in there about his brother-in-law and this man showed Inkinen where to go. Then I went home and suppose he went up to 104½ East Superior street to David Harttika's pool hall—that is Inkinen's brother-in-law.

Continuing Acquaintance.

"That night I went to Harttika's pool hall and Inkinen was there and from there he and I went to the Gold Eagle cafe and had some lunch and we were waited on by Mrs. Nygaard and while we were there she and Inkinen were talking together. She did not talk to me. I left him there and he told me he was going to take Mrs. Nygaard with him. I did not see him again until two or three days later. I met him in a tailor shop on First avenue east—just saw him as I went by. I was on my way to the station. I was going to Crosby. I stayed at Crosby four or five days, then came back to Duluth and met Inkinen at a pool hall and we played pool together and then he went with me to my house and we stayed two or three hours. Then we took in a couple of shows together. Then I went home and I don't know where he went. The next day I met Koski and a girl from Nashwauk, Minn. The girl's name was Mary. She works in a drygoods store in Nashwauk.

"I had a pool room acquaintance with Koski. I had played cards in the same game with him but I did not know his name. The next time I saw Inkinen he came to my home on First avenue east with Koski. That was the time they asked me to go to Cloquet and the day that Johnny Jones was killed in his car between Duluth and Cloquet.

Pawned Two Watches.

"Going back to the time when Koski, Inkinen and myself left the Jones' car at Sandstone (about June 8, 1920), we all three came to Duluth on the train that same night. The next day, or possibly two days after, Inkinen came to my home and when we left my home we came up town and went to a pawn shop on Michigan street, right on the corner near the Soo depot, and while there we pawned two watches. He was going to pawn three, one belonging to a man named Nygaard, but the man in charge of the pawnshop told him he could not take more than one watch from one person. So Inkinen kept the Nygaard watch and he pawned one and I pawned the other, but Inkinen took the money and he brought all three watches there with him. I never had any of the watches in my possession. I never had anything to do with them except to sign a name to the pawnsheet for a police record.

"Referring to the time when we had left the body of Jones in the bushes and were driving towards Cloquet—just before Koski took the wheel from me—he took a robe that was in the car and wiped the blood off the running board and also wiped up some blood that had run down where the storage batteries were. Then he threw the robe in the bushes and drove away and left it there. The car was not washed until some time afterward—after we had arrived at Palo's place. Mrs. Nygaard and Mike Inkinen washed the car and I polished it. At the time the car was being washed at Palo's there were some blood stains under the front seat where the storage batteries were, but I do not know whether the stains were removed at that time or not. I do not know whether there were blood stains on the running board at the time this car was washed at Palo's or not. I did not notice at the time."

Where Officers Got Tip.

Liukkonen's arrest was brought about through persons in Aitkin county who had knowledge of the reward which the governor was offering for his arrest. Informers wrote to the sheriff here for a descriptive circular, and when they received it they took it to the sheriff of Aitkin county and gave that official the tip where to go to look for their man.

As soon as Liukkonen was examined by the authorities as to what he knew about the Jones' killing he revealed the identity of the third man, Kujala, who was known to be mixed up with the Jones' killing. Deputy sheriffs also learned that Kujala or Koski was employed at the stone quarry at West Duluth and went there yesterday to arrest him.

A description of Inkinen, the third man of the trio wanted, is as follows: "Mike Inkinen, alias Mike Nelson, alias Mike Koski. A Finlander, speaks broken English, aged about 28 years, weight about 150 pounds, height about 5 feet 8 inches, hair brown, combs hair pompadour, eyes blue, smooth face, walks erect, wore gold ring with three square tables, no monogram, wore when last seen a blue coat and pants, no vest, belt, light blue cotton shirt, brown shoes, English last, brown hat, narrow rim, narrow band, new bib overalls, generally turned up at bottom, common laborer, and gambler."

Where Killing Happened.

The Jones murder is understood to have been committed on the Thomson road about one and one-half miles from the St. Louis county line in Carlton county. This, if true, would make the murder cases against the men triable in Carlton instead of St. Louis county, according to County Attorney Warren E. Greene. If it should develop that the crime was committed within one-quarter of a mile from the county line both counties would have concurrent jurisdiction in the matter.

Kujala stolidly maintains his innocence. He refuses to make any statement and refuses to talk about the matter. He has been positively identified, however, as being the companion of Inkinen and Luikkonen in the Jones affair.

TWO WOMEN KILLED IN FIGHT IN ROOM

Fulton, Mo., Nov. 9.—An open verdict was returned by a coroner's jury which investigated the shooting of Miss Carolyn Weant, 31, and Mrs. Mason McCown, 34, found dead in the McCown home early yesterday. It was testified that the women had been heard quarreling over domestic affairs.

Miss Weant, a stenographer, boarded at the McCown home. She was shot through the heart. Two bullet wounds were in Mrs. McCown's body. The shooting occurred in Miss Weant's room, behind a locked door. A revolver was found on the floor of the room.

TAKES EXCEPTIONS TO BARNES STATEMENT

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—W. H. McGeevy, secretary-treasurer of the National Wheat Growers' association, last night replied to the recent statements of Julius H. Barnes, former head of the grain corporation. He took exceptions to what he said was the statement of Mr. Barnes that were it not for the "cushion" afforded in futures trading, the price of wheat would be much lower.

"The only 'cushion' that will protect and stabilize the price of wheat and other farm products," said Mr. McGeevy, "is to keep cost sheets and do business according to business methods."

He said the wheat growers' association does not propose to secure a monopoly on wheat prices, but merely to proceed along lines giving the grower a voice in fixing prices. It proposes to market grain as the legitimate demands of the trade require it, the price to be determined by a price-fixing committee on which the public is represented. The selling price so fixed, he said, would be based on the cost of production, plus a fair profit, and would be subject to change and correction by a national commission.

Mr. McGeevy arrived from Minnesota and the Dakotas, where machinery for organization of those states was started.

obtain porters, dining room girls and other help in Duluth. Such transactions, he claimed, explained the telephone calls between Cahill and himself.

Bought Longfield's Car.

The witness admitted that he had later taken Longfield up to Eveleth with him to meet Cahill. He also admitted the purchase of an automobile which Longfield drove. This was the automobile, he said, which was to be used in the taxi business.

At one time, Clark said, Longfield borrowed two trunks from him. He denied that liquor was put in the trunks and taht they were later stored in Clark's home, as Longfield had testified. On the contrary, Clark claimed that Longfield had failed to return the trunks. It was for this reason, he said, that he was forced to call Longfield several times by long distance.

On one occasion, Longfield, without permission, took the car to Ashland, Clark said. From there, Joseph Teddy, another defendant, telephoned that Longfield proposed to use it for hauling whisky to Des Moines. In order to stop him Clark took the train to Ashland. Longfield then gave him $4,000 as security for the car. Of this amount, Clark said, he later sent $3,000 to Cahill and later sent the other $1,000 also with instructions to Cahill that the money be turned back to Longfield.

Admits Wrong Registration.

Clark admitted that he had registered at hotels, both in Eveleth and in Ashland, as "Francis Brown." He explained that his trips in regard to the hotel business and to keep Longfield from getting away with the car were necessarily made without the consent of his superiors in the Oliver company office.

Henry Hill, Eveleth brakeman, also testified in his own defense this morning. He denied having any dealings with liquor, but admitted having met Longfield several times. On a few occasions he took trips out into the country with Longfield in the latter's car. At no time, he testified, did the car contain any whisky.

Bradley on Stand.

Frank L. Bradley, former deputy marshal, repeated the testimony given in his previous trial. He denied having made any trips on the range with Longfield. The latter claimed that on two occasions both Bradley and Murphy had gone up with him in vain efforts to seize liquor from the "railroad boys."

John Murphy, former Duluth chief of police, testified to the same effect. He added that he could not possibly have taken a drink, as Longfield claimed, because he had undergone an operation only a month before for an ulcer of the stomach.

John McKay, St. Paul rooming house proprietor, denied that he had carried liquor from Virginia to Eveleth as Longfield had testified. On cross-examination he admitted that he had served time in prison for violation of the Mann act. Later he was released on parole when the woman made out an affidavit that she had given false testimony against him.

Joseph Trudell, and not H. L. Mitchell, as reported incorrectly, was the witness who admitted having seen liquor taken from a train at Ranier.

EIGHT ENTER PLEAS IN DISTRICT COURT; ONE WOMAN

Eight defendants, one a woman, indicted by the November grand jury, were arraigned for pleas in Judge Fesler's division of the district court yesterday afternoon.

Lewis E. Ferris pleaded not guilty to selling mortgaged property and Solomon Shekter pleaded not guilty to a grand larceny indictment.

Cecil Francis Gerald Sloan, charged with issuing a worthless check, waived the reading of the indictment against him and his case was continued for a plea. Cases of forgery and attempted forgery against John Morgan were also continued for pleas.

Magnus Olai Anderson, alias Tollofson, pleaded not guilty to a charge of child abandonment. Henry Hayes and Olga Arnstead pleaded not guilty to adultery, and the case of John Brink, charged with indecent assault, was continued for a plea.

Now Brush Teeth

In the new way—Remove the film

Try this new way of teeth cleaning. The test is free. It has brought to millions whiter, safer teeth. Leading dentists everywhere advise it.

See the results, then learn what they mean to you.

What ruins teeth

Teeth are ruined by a film. You can feel it—that viscous coat. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. And most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

It is this film-coat that discolors—not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Now we combat it

Dental science has in late years found a way to fight film, day by day. High authorities have proved it by many careful tests.

Millions of people have adopted it, largely by dental advice. To careful people it is bringing a new era in teeth cleaning.

These new methods are all embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And you are urged to prove it by a pleasant ten-day test.

Five important effects

Pepsodent has five effects, all of them essential to cleaner, safer teeth. One ingredient is pepsin. One multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to combat starch deposits that cling. One multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva to neutralize mouth acids.

In two ways it attacks the films directly. Then it keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily cling.

It differs vastly from the old-time tooth pastes, which dentists now know were wrong.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

Within a week you will know that your teeth are protected as they never were before. And you will always want your teeth to look and feel like that. Cut out the coupon now.

Pepsodent REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

The New-Day Dentifrice

A scientific film combatant combined with two other modern requisites. Now advised by leading dentists everywhere and supplied by all druggists in large tubes.

INDEPENDENCE FOR FIUME IS OPPOSED

Rapalo, Italy, Nov. 9.—The question of Fiume was brought up for discussion today before the council of Italian and Jugo-Slav delegates being held for a settlement of the Adriatic problem, although no agreement has been reached on the proposal of the Italian delegates that the Austrian frontier be that established by the pact of London. The Italian delegates proposed that the independence of the new state of Fiume be recognized by both countries, but the Serbian delegates, especially Anton Trumbitch, the Jugo-Slav foreign minister, strongly opposed independence for Fiume. They maintained that the port was indispensable to Serbia for economic and commercial reasons, declaring it to be their only safe and fit outlet to the sea. It is asserted that Count Sforza, the Italian foreign minister, made the Serbian delegation understand clearly that if an accord is not reached within a few days Italy intends to avail herself of the rights conferred upon her by the pact of London, recognized by France and Great Britain, and apply the clauses contained in the pact in their entirety, without, however, giving to this solution any character of hostility against the Jugo-Slavs.

Cold at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 9.—The region about Fargo experienced its coldest weather of the season with a temperature of 14 above zero at 7 o'clock this morning. The cold snap followed a 24-mile wind which drove a snow and sleet storm across the eastern end of North Dakota last night. The coldest temperature reported in North Dakota was that of 2 below zero at Williston last night.

To Prosecute Minister.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 9.—Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, prohibition enforcement officer, who, during a raid early last Saturday, shot and killed Beverly Trumble, an innkeeper, will be prosecuted in the provincial courts, according to Crown Attorney John H. Rodd.

TRACTIONS HARD HIT

Coal and Credit Situation Reduce Earnings of Badger Lines.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—Traction systems of Wisconsin are facing special difficulties at this time chiefly as a result of the coal shortage which hampers them in regaining a position of financial stability despite increases in rates, according to the statistical department of the railroad commission. While labor conditions have improved materially, with expenses cut through the growing use of the one-man car, the commission says that high-priced coal, hard to obtain, together with the credit situation, is keeping the systems in the same precarious position they have held since 1918. Profits of Wisconsin systems have fallen from 6½ per cent in 1910 to 1 9-10 per cent, according to the last compilation of the department.

Hard to Obtain Credit.

Because of unsatisfactory earnings the companies have been unable to obtain credit except at prohibitive rates of interest, which has resulted, according to the commission, in a curtailment of any great activity toward expansion. The fact that in many cities the traction companies are unable to pave their tracks as provided by city ordinance, the commission points out, is an indication of the close margin on which they are running.

Only a return to normal conditions of labor and of material can solve the present problem, the commission feels. The increased use of the automobile in Wisconsin towns has cut down the numbers of the riding public appreciably, so that there are a number of factors that enter to complicate a situation that has occupied the attention of the railroad body for several months.

While Janesville was granted an increase in fares to 10 cents last week, the commission feels, according to officials, that no further general increase will be granted until it is seen how conditions in industry are to turn.

"SCHOOL WEEK" IS SET FOR DEC. 5 TO 11

Washington, Nov. 8.—"School week" will be observed over the country Dec 5 to 11. Commissioner of Education Claxton has requested the governors and chief school officers of the states to take such action as may be necessary to cause the people to use this week in such a way as it will most effectively disseminate information in regard to the conditions and needs of the schools.

Chambers of commerce, boards of trade, women's clubs, rotary clubs, labor unions, farmers' organizations and patriotic and civic societies are requested to devote one meeting to a discussion of the needs of education in their states. The ministers also are asked to devote one of their church services on Sunday, Dec. 5, for emphasizing the importance of education.

Friday afternoon and evening of school week has been designated as the date on which community meetings in the interests of education should be held in all school houses, both in the city and country, for the purpose of discussing the needs of the schools, the means of meeting these needs and remedying conditions.

SEMINOLES WILL QUIT OLD HAUNTS

Palm Beach, Fla., Nov. 8.—Led by their chief, Tony Tommy, the remaining largest single group of Seminole Indians soon will move from their old haunts in this part of the state to a new reservation on the Florida west coast, about forty miles from Fort Myers.

The new home of the Seminoles will consist of a reservation of approximately 21,000 acres, completely fenced in and including a portion of the Everglades. Although part of the reservation is under water, the arable portion is sufficient to support the Indians with land to spare.

The Seminoles in their new home will be provided with schools and they have agreed to submit to compulsory education laws.

THOUSANDS WASTED ON FAKE "CURES"

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 9.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars were wasted by victims of consumption in Minnesota on fake "cures" during the last twelve months, according to a statement from the Minnesota Public Health association received here yesterday by heads of the 1920 Christmas seal sale committee.

From $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 is thus wasted every year by tuberculosis victims in the United States, according to an estimate made by the National Tuberculosis association after a careful investigation.

More than 1,000 of the fake "cures" have been exploited for gain throughout the nation in the last ten years, official records show.

Health experts state emphatically that there is only one known method of curing tuberculosis and that is by the application of fresh air, good food, rest and proper medical supervision. The best place to get this is in a sanatorium, although good results also are secured through proper medical care at home.

Funds obtained through the sale of Christmas seals are used to search out tuberculosis victims and see that they get proper care. The 1920 Christmas seal sale will start Dec. 1. Minnesota's allotment of the national fund is $250,000. County and local quotas are on the basis of 10 cents per capita.

LENINE WOULD SEND AGITATORS TO U. S.

Rotterdam, Nov. 9.—Determined efforts are being made by agents of the Russian Bolshevik government to send "missionaries" and agitators to the United States, according to evidence collected by American diplomatic officials. Moscow's spy and courier system is said to surpass in efficiency and extent that of the former German general staff.

Against this campaign the United States has arrayed its agents and officials at foreign ports. Associated with them in Holland are the Dutch police, who have in their possession documents showing that Lenine, soviet leader, looks to Rotterdam as a "world clearing house" for soviet finance and propaganda. Huge index files have been filed, with the names and records of upwards of 25,000 Bolshevik "missionaries."

New passport regulations have been adopted. Despite regulations and constant vigilance of American officials, it is believed some Bolshevik agents have succeeded in crossing the ocean. Clever alterations and forgeries of passports have been detected.

Attempts are made to secure places in ships' crews for Bolshevik agents and often bribery is tried. An attache of an American consulate recently was offered the equivalent of $250 a day if he would assist in getting through six soviet agitators daily.

Failing to get passage to the United States, the Bolsheviki try to reach Canada, whence they can easily get across the border.

Men of virtually every nationality and of every profession are engaged in the work of spreading Bolshevik propaganda, it is asserted. There also are many women. Officials who have examined the lists say few soviet workers are native-born Americans.

SAYS LEAGUE LOST MUCH.

Independent Voters' Association's Secretary Denies Morris' Claims.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 9.—Secretary Theodore Nelson of the Independent Voters' association of Fargo took sharp exception to the statement of Oliver S. Morris, regarding the election results as they affected the Nonpartisan league.

"The league does not control North Dakota," he said. "We have the lower house of the legislature, five state officers, and passed our five initiated laws, and may yet win the senate. The league has suffered a decisive defeat even in North Dakota.

"The league has one representative instead of two in North Dakota, their first congressman, Baer, being defeated. The league failed to elect a single state officer in seven of the nine states in which it had a full state ticket. Wisconsin and North Dakota alone elected any Nonpartisans at all to state offices, and in North Dakota at least the league is very much closer to being wiped out entirely from the state government than it has been at any time in its history. Instead of making wonderful progress, the league has suffered a crushing defeat."

FEDERATION OBJECTS TO FIGHTS IN SCHOOLS

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Fights staged in a Chicago school under the direction of the principal, to settle grudges between pupils, who represent twenty-two nationalities, were condemned yesterday in a resolution adopted by the Chicago Church Federation.

The principal recently announced she had found boxing matches refereed by her were the best means of settling quarrels.

KNITTED suits are among the newest importations for the fall sports wear. Last season found Deauville and other French resorts emphasizing knitted dresses, and England favored them too. It was as though the pull-over sweater could not be discarded and was elongated into a dress to afford variety. There were not only the fine brushed silk tones, but fringeless woolen ones as well, both striped and plain, and all seemed to register.

The smart knitted dresses have a distinct hip not exaggerated, but nevertheless giving that curious silhouette. The girl who goes in for skating would find such a dress a continual joy and it is particularly lovely in white wool. One attractive model has a skirt that is striped in white and yellow below the hips, the blouse section being white with a yellow band around the neck and short sleeves.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Bessie Blowski and Max Handlowski, made in Monday's Herald, is erroneous. No engagement exists between the young people. The announcement was mailed in by somebody evidently possessed of a crude or malicious sense of humor.

Senator Clark Presents Camp to Girl Scouts

New York, Nov. 9.—Former Senator and Mrs. William A. Clark will present a large wooded camp to the Girl Scouts tomorrow in the name of their 17-year-old daughter, Andree, who was an ardent Girl Scout. The Andree Clark camp, dedicated to the service of happy, busy Girl Scouts, will express the wish of Former Senator and Mrs. Clark to establish a memorial to their daughter that shall be a living, growing community asset.

The ceremony will take place tomorrow at 2:30 at Girl Scout headquarters, 189 Lexington avenue, as one of the features of Girl Scout week. Senator Clark will present the deed to the land to Mrs. Arthur Osgood Choate, president of the Girl Scouts. The grounds, which are at Braircliff, will be turned over to Girl Scouts for hikes, camping, games and other out-of-door activities. The camp covers 135 acres of woods, hills and lake, and will be left practically as it is, because Andree Clark's especial delight as a scout was camping and out-of-door life. One of the many springs on the place is to be developed into a fountain, which will represent Andree as a Girl Scout giving water.

The Andree Clark camp is the beginning of a permanent fund which the Girl Scouts have opened.

"Senator Clark's gift marks the beginning of a new idea in memorials," said Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, national director of the Girl Scouts. "Such gifts mean greater opportunities for the living children, and the memory of the giver will continue to live long after a monument would have been forgotten. We are establishing the Andree Clark fund as a means for others to honor the memory of their loved ones. Contributions of any amount will be accepted for this fund by the Girl Scouts, if the givers so specify."

Pushing Ticket Sale For Grainger Concert

Among those who have saved neither time nor energy in working for the further success of the Matinee Musicale, Mrs. A. Miller McDougall is generally conceded to be one of the most earnest workers, and, supported by a group of very efficient associate workers, as chairman of the membership committee she has been responsible in a marked degree for the increased membership in that society.

Furthering this work, Mrs. McDougall, assisted by Mrs. W. D. McGill, will conduct a sale of tickets for the Grainger concert of Friday evening, and for membership tickets to the Matinee Musicale, to be held at the Glass Block tomorrow morning. In the afternoon Mrs. O. W. Rowe and Mrs. McGill will be in charge of ticket sales.

Training Girls for Home-Making

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—The art of making Philadelphia scrapple, chow-chow, chili sauce and of preserving fruit is now taught here in the public schools.

Instructors in the domestic science department have asked pupils to bring part of their mothers' canning and preserving utensils to school. The youngsters are being taught the best methods of preserving.

Other innovations introduced in local schools in an effort to train girls for homemaking are:

Little mothers' classes, under supervision of the Child federation.

Grocery stores in some schools to teach arithmetic and economy in buying.

School cafeterias with domestic science classes.

In the little mothers' classes the pupils when they cannot borrow a real baby from one of the mothers in the neighborhood, practice on dolls as large as an average infant. They are taught how to wash and dress the baby and instructed in health rules for its care. Many of the small pupils in the congested districts of the city bring their own wards for the class to "mother."

South America Discussed at A. C. A

A graphic and illuminating survey of social and economic conditions in South America was given by Mrs. Forbes B. Cronk when she addressed members of the A. C. A. at the home of Mrs. R. M. Sellwood, East Second street, yesterday afternoon. The state of revolution between Chile, Argentina, Bolivia and Peru was discussed at length and characteristics of the South Americans with character sketches and peculiarities distinctively belonging to the natives of the Southern continent were discussed interestingly and comprehensively.

The home of Mrs A. T. Banning at 55 Kent road will be the scene of an attractive affair planned by the A. C. A. for Dec. 13, which will be in the nature of a Colonial afternoon. Members will wear costumes reminiscent of Colonial days and the story of the Colonial house will be given by Mrs. Guy H. Diehl.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETY FORMED IN EAST

Duties to Inculcate American Principles in All Foreigners.

New York women have formed a new society, which is to be known as the Patriotic New Yorkers.

Mme. Tetrazzini, who comes to the Armory Saturday evening, has been made a charter member of the organization.

It is the duty of all members of the new organization to inculcate American principles in all foreigners who settle in New York and it is hoped that before spring there will be chapters in every state in the Union.

The society was formed at the home of Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, the famous social leader, at a reception she gave last week in honor of the celebrated prima donna, Mme. Tetrazzini.

So enthusiastic was Mme. Tetrazzini about the new society that she has promised, upon her return to Italy, to take steps to co-operate with the American society. It is her plan to establish a school at her home in Rome, where Italians who contemplate migrating to the United States may come and familiarize themselves with the political, economic and social questions that are necessary for good citizenship in this country.

AT THE THEATERS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Frank Dobson and His Thirteen Sirens; other acts.
NEW GRAND—Mlle. Olga Celeste and her Wonderful Leopards; other acts.

NEW GRAND—Few who see the act of Mlle. Olga Celeste and her wonderful performing leopards, one of the featured attractions at the New Grand, will fully realize the real danger to which this nervy young woman exposes herself at each performance. They will have an inkling that she stands some chance of being hurt from the way in which the leopards snarl at her and swing their cruel paws at each other, but that only tells a part of the story. Leopards, which are found in the densest jungles only, are noted for their craftiness and for a savageness which no other wild beast can equal. It is also claimed that they are among the most difficult of all wild animals to train, for that very reason. She takes all sorts of chances with them, but seemingly has them in perfect control, with the result that they give a splendid exhibition of the type. The entire show is making a hit with patrons and Manager Chester Sutton anticipates record business for today and tomorrow, the remaining days of the engagement. There will be an entire change of program Thursday with Donalds' Serenaders and four other acts, with a big motion picture program in addition.

ORPHEUM—"The Love Game" is an exceedingly pleasing game and is played universally. It is an international, national game and has more thrills than any known pursuit and the winner usually finds much more satisfaction than the winner of any other game enjoys. All this argues that the little comedy "The Love Game" will be exceptionally pleasing. With an excellent cast headed by Harry Hayden this little reproduction of the game as it is played in life will prove just as fascinating. There are smiles, laughs and thrills and at the end perfect harmony. Harry Hayden is a juvenile best known to the legitimate stage. His most recent engagement was with David Belasco's "The Boomerang."

PHOTOPLAYS

NEW GARRICK—Charley Ray in "Peaceful Valley."
NEW ASTOR—"The Son of Tarzan" and Olive Thomas.
ZELDA—Alice Joyce in "The Vice of Fools."
STRAND—"Humoresque" with Alma Rubens.
NEW LYRIC—Tom Mix in "Three Gold Coins."

NEW GARRICK—"Peaceful Valley," the well-known Sol Smith Russell stage success, a picturization in which Charles Ray is starred, is now the featured attraction at the New Garrick and has a record of 5,207 stage performances. For years it was one of the most popular attractions in America. As a vehicle for Charles Ray, who is seen in the role which Sol Smith Russell made famous, it is declared especially suitable. Those who have seen the picture say that without doubt Ray has done the best work of his career as Hosiah Howe, the country boy who saves his widowed mother's farm, and successfully defends the happiness and honor of his sister. Ann May, who has been his leading woman in many other pictures, has the chief feminine role in this. Others in the cast are: Harry Myers, Lincoln Stedman, William Courtright, Vincent Hamilton, Jesse Herring, Lydia Knott, Charlotte Pierce, Melba Lorraine and Ida Lewis. The added attractions include one of the entertaining Screen Snapshots and other short subjects.

NEW LYRIC—All the ingredients that make for real Western thrills are contained in "3 Gold Coins," the stirring stunt-drama in which Tom Mix will be seen for the last time tonight at the New Lyric. In the story, which was written especially for Mix by H. H. Van Loan, thrill follows thrill, and there is a splendid romance interwoven. The new show, which opens tomorrow, is a double bill that promises to be a master-entertainment. The drama is "The Daughter Pays," Elaine Hammerstein's newest starring vehicle, and the comedy special feature is Bobby Vernon and a selected cast in "Going Through the Rye," said without doubt to be the funniest comedy in which this always amusing funmaker has yet appeared. In addition there will be a number of short subjects of interest and a special musical program, featured by a violin solo by Director Gustave Jackson entitled "Gypsy Love Song."

NEW ASTOR—Patrons of the New Astor have three days of splendid entertainment ahead of them with a double bill featuring Olive Thomas in "The Glorious Lady" and the second story of "The Son of Tarzan" series entitled "Out of the Lion's Jaws" to run for the period, starting today. "The Son of Tarzan" story tells what happens when Jack is rescued from Paulvitch by Akut the ape, and the two leave for Africa for fear that they may be accused of murdering Paulvitch who they incorrectly believe drowned when they threw him through the trapdoor. Their arrival at the scene of Tarzan's adventures and what befalls them makes up the episode. "The Glorious Lady" is said to be an especially charming picture so far as the ill-starred little actress is concerned, and a production of much dramatic interest. There will be some short subjects.

STRAND—Fannie Hurst, author of "Humoresque," which is playing a two-week engagement at the Strand theater, learned much of the intensely human side from acting as "sob sister" on a newspaper. Just out of college Miss Hurst secured a job on the paper at a time when women reporters were

Side Talks

ON TAKING IN TUCKS.

WHAT an easy thing it is to let out tucks and what a terrifically hard thing it is to take them in again!

A friend of mine who has been living on about $8,000 a year had to cut down her expenses to about $5,000 a year and she is having a very hard time to do it.

Another friend who has the same size family and only $3,000 a year, thinks it is absurd for me to sympathize with the first friend.

"How would she like to get along with what I have?" she said. "If she had to do that then you might have some reason to sympathize."

Would She Say "Bosh" Then?

"She did get along with what you have for some years," I answered truthfully, "and I don't think she found it as hard as she now finds it to go backwards, because then she wasn't giving up anything she had gotten used to—she had her mind set to a certain scale of living and she didn't expect anything different."

"Bosh!" said my critic. But I don't think she will say "bosh" if she ever has to do it. I don't think anyone who has ever had to take in tucks in his scale of living will say "bosh."

Don't you really think it would be easier to live on $3,000 a year, when that is what you have been used to, than to live on $5,000 a year if you have been used to $8,000?

Harder When They Seem Necessities.

It is hard enough to go without little luxuries when you have never had them, but it is even harder to give up little luxuries when you have had them so long that you have come to think of them as necessities.

At the beginning of the war I saw in one of the magazines, that goes mostly into the homes of wealthy people, an article on "How to Live on $20,000 a Year." I thought at first it must be a humorous article, parodying the "How to Live on $1,000 a Year" type of article in the women's magazine. But it was not. It was a serious article, suggesting to the man who had been used to $40,000 a year where to cut down so that he could run an establishment keyed to that pitch on half as much.

To ninety-nine out of 100 of us, living on $20,000 a year seems the height of luxury. To that man it meant giving up—and it would mean just the same to us if we had been in his place.

Don't Let Out the Tucks Too Fast.

Everyone who lets his expenses increase as fast as his income does, is in danger of having to do this painful putting back of tucks. The best way to safeguard oneself is not to let out the tucks too fast. If you are living on a rising income, try this—for every tuck you let out, leave one in and invest the proceeds.

That is, if you get a $10 raise, why not spend $5 and save the other $5? You were living on the original income, so you can easily do this without feeling any pinch. Then when the hard time comes you will not be living so close to your income, you will have fewer tucks to take in, and more background of invested money to add to your income.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

City-bred—"We are moving from the city to the country and our little country home has a cellar floor which is half dirt and half cement. We want to lay in our vegetables by the bulk, and I am writing you to ask how we shall store them—in crates on the dirt floor? We shall store onions, carrots, beets, potatoes and have a barrel of apples."

Answer—If onions are put on a dirt floor they will sprout—even if put in a crate on a dirt floor. So put those in a crate on the cement floor—or, better yet, if you have one window which opens out under a porch, put them in a box facing the window, on its side, so that they will get plenty of air, and you can get them by opening the cellar window (that is how I keep my own winter supply of onions). Beets and carrots should be partly buried to keep them from shriveling up; put them in a crate on the dirt floor in a corner and sprinkle gravel or coarse, pebbly dirt over each layer of the vegetable. Potatoes keep well anywhere; I would put these in crates next to the box containing the carrots and beets. You should stand the barrel of apples at the foot of the cellar steps, right under the sloping outside cellar door, as they need all the cold air they can get to keep them from decaying.

Bride-elect—"A cousin has given me the choice of an electric percolator or a porcelain-topped table as a wedding present. (Either gift, she says, will cost her about $18.) Which do you think will give me the greater service? I know it is weak not to be able to decide this for myself, but I know almost nothing about housekeeping. I rather want the percolator, but I think it would be such a comfort to have a table near the stove on which I could put hot dishes, for I love to have cloth-covered tables."

Answer—Take my advice and choose the percolator, by all means. Remember, an ordinary coffee pot has to be watched so that it won't boil over, while a percolator can't boil over. It is my opinion that more perfectly good, sweet tempers are ruined by the boiling over of a coffee pot than by anything else. For coffee tastes so weak and insipid when half of the grounds are on the outside of the pot, and it is not a pleasant task to clean up the range after this accident has occurred. If you wish to guard the peace of your breakfast table you will not think twice about that porcelain-topped table. Anyway, you could buy a sheet of zinc from a plumber and get your husband to tack it over the top of an ordinary wooden kitchen table.

A Beginner—"Please give me a recipe for wedding cake and also tell me how to stuff peppers."

Answer—Tomorrow's article, entitled "The Winter Wedding Breakfast," will contain a recipe for wedding cake. Here is one for peppers:

Nut-Stuffed Peppers—Six green peppers, two cups soft bread crumbs, one cup chopped walnut meats, one-half cup well-seasoned sauce or gravy (any kind of sauce—tomato, brown or white sauce—also any kind of gravy). Cut the tops from the peppers and scoop out the seeds. Fill the peppers two-thirds full of the above-mentioned ingredients mixed together, sprinkle the tops with buttered crumbs and put the peppers in a baking pan with a little water in the bottom of it. Bake for one-half hour, or until tender, in a moderate oven, basting occasionally with hot water which contains a little butter.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES

By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

THE FOREST TERROR.

TINKER BOB, King of the Forest, found himself alone on the river bank with Lady Duck. Every creature had gone to find a hiding place. Bobby Hoot Owl and Mrs. Night Hawk were so anxious to see what was the reason for this howling that they flew away, too. Tinker Bob knew who it was, but he didn't know what the reason was for the howling being so loud and so long. Said he to Lady Duck, 'We will go to see, for it might be that some one of the forest creatures is in trouble."

It seemed to the king that his life in the great woodland was a constant looking after the creatures who were in trouble.

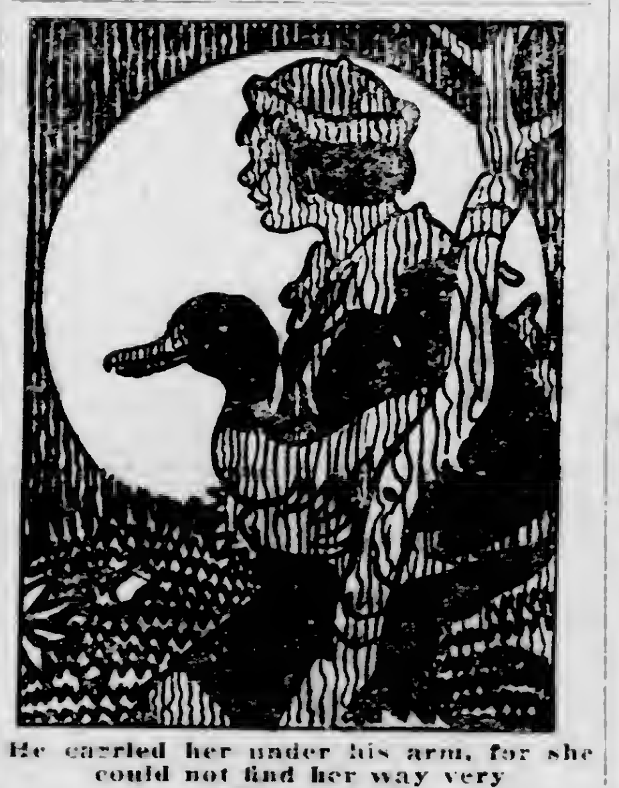
'Quack, quack, I'm afraid to go where that noice comes from," said Lady Duck, "for if that terrible fellow gets his eye on me he will tear my bones apart.' Lady Duck had heard this creature before.

"Never mind that," said Tinker Bob, "I'll see to it that he does not harm you." But even with the king's word for her protection, Lady Duck was afraid.

"Has not the king of the forest power over every creature in the forest? You were the first creature I saw in this wonderful place and I saved your life from the hands of Old Red Fox. Why should you feel afraid because of this fellow's call?"

"But it's dark, and he might pounce upon me, for I cannot see in the dark," said Lady Duck. Then she happened to think that the king had more power than any one else in the forest, and if she didn't do as he said he could do her more harm than all of the creatures. "I will do as you say, oh king, for you have saved my life."

The howling sound kept up, and it was answered by another howl from another part of the great forest. Tinker Bob stood still for a moment to see which way the breeze was blowing, for he knew he would never get close to this forest dweller if the breeze was in his favor. But it was in the king's favor this time, and he and Lady Duck started off. He carried her under his arm, for she could not find her way very well at night. Tinker Bob knew the forest so well that he could walk anywhere in the night or in the daylight. And it was only a short journey to where the howling creature stood. It was in an opening in the forest.



He carried her under his arm, for she could not find her way very well at night.

The closer they came the louder the howling sounded, till they came to the edge of the opening where Tinker Bob could see. And there in its very midst stood the fellow, with his head turned toward the sky, howling to the top of his voice. It was Mr. Wolf, the forest terror.

"Now," said Tinker, "it will be necessary for you, Lady Duck, to go to this fellow and speak to him while I shall wait in the edge of the opening."

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Bessie Blowski and Max Handlowski, made in Monday's Herald, is erroneous. No engagement exists between the young people. The announcement was mailed in by somebody evidently possessed of a crude or malicious sense of humor.

Senator Clark Presents Camp to Girl Scouts

New York, Nov. 9.—Former Senator and Mrs. William A. Clark will present a large wooded camp to the Girl Scouts tomorrow in the name of their 17-year-old daughter, Andree, who was an ardent Girl Scout. The Andree Clark camp, dedicated to the service of happy, busy Girl Scouts, will express the wish of Former Senator and Mrs. Clark to establish a memorial to their daughter that shall be a living, growing community asset.

The ceremony will take place tomorrow at 2:30 at Girl Scout headquarters, 189 Lexington avenue, as one of the features of Girl Scout week. Senator Clark will present the deed to the land to Mrs. Arthur Osgood Choate, president of the Girl Scouts. The grounds, which are at Briarcliff, will be turned over to Girl Scouts for hikes, camping, games and other out-of-door activities. The camp covers 135 acres of woods, hills and lake, and will be left practically as it is, because Andree Clark's especial delight as a scout was camping and out-of-door life. One of the many springs on the place is to be developed into a fountain, which will represent Andree as a Girl Scout giving water.

The Andree Clark camp is the beginning of a permanent fund which the Girl Scouts have opened.

"Senator Clark's gift marks the beginning of a new idea in memorials," said Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, national director of the Girl Scouts. "Such gifts mean greater opportunities for the living children, and the memory of the giver will continue to live long after a monument would have been forgotten. We are establishing the Andree Clark fund as a means for others to honor the memory of their loved ones. Contributions of any amount will be accepted for this fund by the Girl Scouts, if the givers so specify."

Pushing Ticket Sale For Grainger Concert

Among those who have saved neither time nor energy in working for the further success of the Matinee Musicale, Mrs. A. Miller McDougall is generally conceded to be one of the most earnest workers, and, supported by a group of very efficient associate workers, as chairman of the membership committee she has been responsible in a marked degree for the increased membership in that society.

Furthering this work, Mrs. McDougall, assisted by Mrs. W. D. McGill, will conduct a sale of tickets for the Grainger concert of Friday evening, and for membership tickets to the Matinee Musicale, to be held at the Glass Block tomorrow morning. In the afternoon Mrs. O. W. Rowe and Mrs. McGill will be in charge of ticket sales.

Training Girls for Home-Making

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—The art of making Philadelphia scrapple, chow-chow, chili sauce and of preserving fruit is now taught here in the public schools.

Instructors in the domestic science department have asked pupils to bring part of their mothers' canning and preserving utensils to school. The youngsters are being taught the best methods of preserving.

Other innovations introduced in local schools in an effort to train girls for homemaking are:

Little mothers' classes, under supervision of the Child federation.

Grocery stores in some schools to teach arithmetic and economy in buying.

School cafeterias with domestic science classes.

In the little mothers' classes the pupils when they cannot borrow a real baby from one of the mothers in the neighborhood, practice on dolls as large as an average infant. They are taught how to wash and dress the baby and instructed in health rules for its care. Many of the small pupils in the congested districts of the city bring their own wards for the class to "mother."

South America Discussed at A. C. A

A graphic and illuminating survey of social and economic conditions in South America was given by Mrs. Forbes B. Cronk when she addressed members of the A. C. A. at the home of Mrs. B. M. Sellwood, East Second street, yesterday afternoon. The state of revolution between Chile, Argentina, Bolivia and Peru was discussed at length and characteristics of the South Americans with character sketches and peculiarities distinctively belonging to the natives of the Southern continent were discussed interestingly and comprehensively.

The home of Mrs. A. T. Banning at 55 Kent road will be the scene of an attractive affair planned by the A. C. A. for Dec. 13, which will be in the nature of a Colonial afternoon. Members will wear costumes reminiscent of Colonial days and the story of the Colonial house will be given by Mrs. Guy H. Diehl.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETY FORMED IN EAST

Duties to Inculcate American Principles in All Foreigners.

New York women have formed a new society, which is to be known as the Patriotic New Yorkers.

Mme. Tetrazzini, who comes to the Armory Saturday evening, has been made a charter member of the organization.

It is the duty of all members of the new organization to inculcate American principles in all foreigners who settle in New York and it is hoped that before spring there will be chapters in every state in the Union.

The society was formed at the home of Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, the famous social leader, at a reception she gave last week in honor of the celebrated prima donna, Mme. Tetrazzini.

So enthusiastic was Mme. Tetrazzini about the new society that she has promised, upon her return to Italy, to take steps to co-operate with the American society. It is her plan to establish a school at her home in Rome, where Italians who contemplate migrating to the United States may come and familiarize themselves with the political, economic and social questions that are necessary for good citizenship in this country.

AT THE THEATERS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Frank Dobson and His Thirteen Sirens; other acts.
NEW GRAND—Mlle. Olga Celeste and her Wonderful Leopards, other acts.

NEW GRAND—Few who see the act of Mlle. Olga Celeste and her wonderful performing leopards, one of the featured attractions at the New Grand, will fully realize the real danger to which this nervy young woman exposes herself at each performance. They will have an inkling that she stands some chance of being hurt from the way in which the leopards snarl at her and swing their cruel paws at each other, but that only tells a part of the story. Leopards, which are found in the densest jungles only, are noted for their craftiness and for a savageness which no other wild beast can equal. It is also claimed that they are among the most difficult of all wild animals to train, for that very reason. She takes all sorts of chances with them, but seemingly has them in perfect control, with the result that they give a splendid exhibition of the type. The entire show is making a hit with patrons and Manager Chester Sutton anticipates record business for today and tomorrow, the remaining days of the engagement. There will be an entire change of program Thursday with Donalds' Serenaders and four other acts, with a big motion picture program in addition.

ORPHEUM—"The Love Game" is an exceedingly pleasing game and is played universally. It is an international, national game and has more thrills than any known pursuit and the winner usually finds much more satisfaction than the winner of any other game enjoys. All this argues that the little comedy "The Love Game" will be exceptionally pleasing. With an excellent cast headed by Harry Hayden this little reproduction of the game as it is played in life will prove just as fascinating. There are smiles, laughs and thrills and at the end perfect harmony. Harry Hayden is a juvenile best known to the legitimate stage. His most recent engagement was with David Belasco's "The Boomerang."

NEW GARRICK—"Peaceful Valley," the well-known Sol Smith Russell stage success, a picturization in which Charles Ray is starred, is now the featured attraction at the New Garrick and has a record of 5,207 stage performances. For years it was one of the most popular attractions in America. As a vehicle for Charles Ray, who is seen in the role which Sol Smith Russell made famous, it is declared especially suitable. Those who have seen the picture say that without doubt Ray has done the best work of his career as Hosiah Howe, the country boy who saves his widowed mother's farm, and successfully defends the happiness and honor of his sister. Ann Mae, who has been his leading woman in many other pictures, has the chief feminine role in this. Others in the cast are: Harry Myers, Lincoln Stedman, William Courtright, Vincent Hamilton, Jesse Herring, Lydia Knott, Charlotte Pierce, Mellie Lorraine and Ida Lewis. The added attractions include one of the entertaining Screen Snapshots and other short subjects.

ON TAKING IN TUCKS.

WHAT an easy thing it is to let out tucks and what a terrifically hard thing it is to take them in again!

A friend of mine who has been living on about $8,000 a year had to cut down her expenses to about $5,000 a year and she is having a very hard time to do it.

Another friend who has the same size family and only $3,000 a year, thinks it is absurd for me to sympathize with the first friend.

"How would she like to get along with what I have?" she said. "If she had to do that then you might have some reason to sympathize."

Would She Say "Bosh" Then?

"She did get along with what you have for some years," I answered truthfully, "and I don't think she found it as hard as she now finds it to go backwards, because then she wasn't giving up anything she had gotten used to—she had her mind set to a certain scale of living and she didn't expect anything different."

"Bosh!" said my critic. But I don't think she will say "bosh" if she ever has to do it. I don't think anyone who has ever had to take in tucks in his scale of living will say "bosh."

Don't you really think it would be easier to live on $3,000 a year, when that is what you have been used to, than to live on $5,000 a year if you have been used to $8,000?

Harder When They Seem Necessities.

It is hard enough to go without little luxuries when you have never had them, but it is even harder to give up little luxuries when you have had them so long that you have come to think of them as necessities.

At the beginning of the war I saw in one of the magazines, that goes mostly into the homes of wealthy people, an article on "How to Live on $20,000 a Year." I thought at first it must be a humorous article, parodying the "How to Live on $1,000 a Year" type of article in the women's magazine. But it was not. It was a serious article, suggesting to the man who had been used to $40,000 a year where to cut down so that he could run an establishment keyed to that pitch on half as much.

To ninety-nine out of 100 of us, living on $20,000 a year seems the height of luxury. To that man it meant giving up—and it would mean just the same to us if we had been in his place.

Don't Let Out the Tucks Too Fast.

Everyone who lets his expenses increase as fast as his income does, is in danger of having to do this painful putting back of tucks. The best way to safeguard oneself is not to let out the tucks too fast. If you are living on a rising income, try this—for every tuck you let out, leave one in and invest the proceeds.

That is, if you get a $10 raise, why not spend $5 and save the other $5? You were living on the original income, so you can easily do this without feeling any pinch. Then when the hard time comes you will not be living so close to your income, you will have fewer tucks to take in, and more background of invested money to add to your income.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

City-bred—"We are moving from the city to the country and our little country home has a cellar floor which is half dirt and half cement. We want to lay in our vegetables by the bulk, and I am writing you to ask how we shall store them—in crates on the dirt floor? We shall store onions, carrots, beets, potatoes and have a barrel of apples."

Answer—If onions are put on a dirt floor they will sprout—even if put in a crate on a dirt floor. So put those in a crate on the cement floor—or, better yet, if you have one window which opens out under a porch, put them in a box facing the window, on its side, so that they will get plenty of air, and you can get them by opening the cellar window (that is how I keep my own winter supply of onions). Beets and carrots should be partly buried to keep them from shriveling up; put them in a crate on the dirt floor in a corner and sprinkle gravel or coarse, pebbly dirt over each layer of the vegetable. Potatoes keep well anywhere; I would put these in crates next to the box containing the carrots and beets. You should stand the barrel of apples at the foot of the cellar steps, right under the sloping outside cellar door, as they need all the cold air they can get to keep them from decaying.

Bride-elect—"A cousin has given me the choice of an electric percolator or a porcelain-topped table as a wedding present. (Either gift, she says, will cost her about $18.) Which do you think will give me the greater service? I know it is weak not to be able to decide this for myself, but I know almost nothing about housekeeping. I rather want the percolator, but I think it would be such a comfort to have a table near the stove on which I could stand hot dishes, for I do hate oil-cloth-covered tables."

Answer—Take my advice and choose the percolator, by all means. Remember, an ordinary coffee pot has to be watched so that it won't boil over, while a percolator can't boil over. It is my opinion that more perfectly good, sweet tempers are ruined by the boiling over of a coffee pot than by anything else. For coffee tastes so weak and insipid when half of the grounds are on the outside of the pot and it is not a pleasant task to clean up the range after this accident has occurred. If you wish to guard the peace of your breakfast table you will not think twice about that porcelain-topped table. Anyway, you could buy a sheet of zinc from a plumber and get your husband to tack it over the top of an ordinary wooden kitchen table.

A Beginner—"Please give me a recipe for wedding cake and also tell me how to stuff peppers."

Answer—Tomorrow's article, entitled "The Winter Wedding Breakfast," will contain a recipe for wedding cake. Here is one for peppers:

Nut-Stuffed Peppers—Six green peppers, two cups soft bread crumbs, one cup chopped walnut meats, one-half cup well-seasoned sauce or gravy (any kind of sauce—tomato, brown or white sauce—also any kind of gravy). Cut the tops from the peppers and scoop out the seeds. Fill the peppers two-thirds full of the above-mentioned ingredients mixed together, sprinkle the tops with buttered crumbs and put the peppers in a baking pan with a little water in the bottom of it. Bake for one-half hour, or until tender, in a moderate oven, basting occasionally with hot water which contains a little butter.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES

By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

THE FOREST TERROR.

TINKER BOB, King of the Forest, found himself alone on the river bank with Lady Duck. Every creature had gone to find a hiding place. Bobby Hoot Owl and Mrs. Night Hawk were so anxious to see what was the reason for this howling that they flew away, too. Tinker Bob knew who it was, but he didn't know what the reason was for the howling being so loud and so long. Said he to Lady Duck, 'We will go to see, for it might be that some one of the forest creatures is in trouble."

It seemed to the king that his life in the great woodland was a constant looking after the creatures who were in trouble.

'Quack, quack, I'm afraid to go where that noise comes from," said Lady Duck, "for if that terrible fellow gets his eye on me he will tear my bones apart.' Lady Duck had heard this creature before.

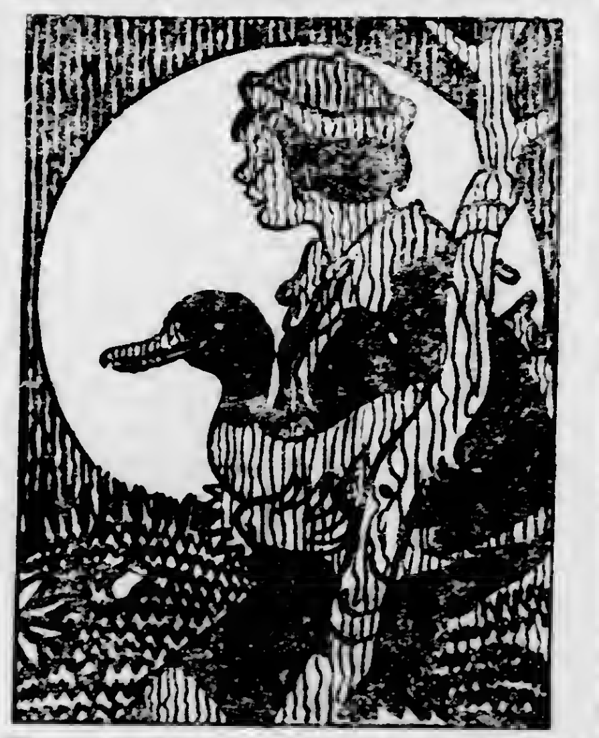
"Never mind that," said Tinker Bob, "I'll see to it that he does not harm you." But even with the king's word for her protection, Lady Duck was afraid.

"Has not the king of the forest power over every creature in the forest? You were the first creature I saw in this wonderful place and I saved your life from the hands of Old Red Fox. Why should you feel afraid because of this fellow's call?"

"But it's dark, and he might pounce upon me, for I cannot see in the dark," said Lady Duck. Then she happened to think that the king had more power than any one else in the forest, and if she didn't do as he said he could do her more harm than all of the creatures. "I will do as you say, oh king, for you have saved my life."

The howling sound kept up, and it was answered by another howl from another part of the great forest. Tinker was very much interested. He stood still a moment to see which way the breeze was blowing, for he knew he would never get close to this forest dweller if the breeze was in his favor.

But it was in the king's favor this time, and he and Lady Duck started off. He carried her under his arm, for she could not find her way very well at night. Tinker Bob knew the forest so well that he could walk anywhere in the night or in the daylight. And it was only a short journey to where the howling creature stood. It was in an opening in the forest.



He carried her under his arm, for she could not find her way very well at night.

The closer they came the louder the howling sounded, till they came to the edge of the opening where Tinker Bob could see. And there in its very midst stood the fellow, with his head turned toward the sky, howling to the top of his voice. It was Mr. Wolf, the forest terror, calling his mate.

"Now," said Tinker, "it will be necessary for you, Lady Duck, to go to this fellow and speak to him while I shall wait in the edge of the opening."

"Humoresque" ran serially in a popular magazine and was later published as a novel. The spirit of the book was transferred to the screen with remarkable fidelity under the direction of Frank Borzage. The work of Alma Rubens, Vera Gordon and Gaston Glass and Dore Davidson in the chief roles is said to be particularly pleasing.

ZELDA—A four-cornered love affair, in which two of the persons involved are in love with each other, provides the material for "The Vice of Fools," by Francis James, visualized by Vitagraph, with Alice Joyce in the stellar role. It will be shown at the Zelda theater the last time tonight. At every change in the surprising affairs of the four, disaster seems to threaten. Only Marian Rogers retains any degree of judgment and unselfish consideration of others.

Alice Joyce, as Marian, has unusual opportunities for emotional acting.

Coming tomorrow will be William Russell in "The Man Who Dared," a drama of love and revenge amid the California Redwoods.

Cosmetics Not Needed—Peel the Skin Instead

One reason mercolized wax is so strongly recommended is that it really takes the place of several different cosmetics, saving time, patience and expense. It is better than any cleansing cream and better than any rouge, for accomplishing the results for which such articles are used. As the wax actually absorbs an old, faded or discolored cuticle, a little each day, the underlying skin which gradually appears is clearer, softer, healthier-hued and more youthful than any cosmetic-made complexion. Spreading on a thin coat of this wax at night, washing it off mornings, in a week or so produces a marvelous transformation. Just one ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, will do the work. There's nothing better to remove freckles, moth patches, liver spots, sallowness, blotches, pimples or blackheads.

For wrinkles and loose, saggy skin, a face bath made by dissolving one ounce of pure powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel is the best thing that can be recommended. This has remarkable astringent and tonic properties.—Advertisement.

Good Judgment After Eating

Giving the Stomach the Alkaline Effect by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Is Worth Remembering.

You cannot, as a rule, say in advance that this, that or the other food will cause indigestion. Experience has taught most people that even mince pie fits snugly at times while at others a glass of milk raises hobs with the stomach.

One good rule to follow is the preventative measure of taking one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals. You thus avoid gassiness, sour stomach, heartburn and such distresses due to indigestion or dyspepsia. These tablets also help to digest the food by giving the stomach the alkaline effect to offset acidity; they relieve the distress when the mince pie or milk should be more than a match for your digestive powers. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and note how nicely they seem to calm the stomach when it feels all upset.

TO PUT THE FINISHING TOUCH TO TOWNLEYISM.

"Townleyism" didn't do well in the elections, in which it had sown much seed of the money of farmers and workers. It lost all the states it attempted to win outside its original birthplace in North Dakota, and it retained its hold there by a margin so narrow that its fall from power clearly is only a question of another election at the farthest.

It seems plain that Townleyism has reached and passed its high tide, and its ebb is likely to be much more rapid than its flood.

That is a reason for thanksgiving, of course; yet it would be a tragic folly if we remained content to let it go at that.

For though Townleyism used wrong methods and proposed very doubtful remedies, it would be unfair to forget this: that unless there was something radically wrong with the process of getting commodities from the producer to the consumer, there would and could be no such strength to Townleyism as it has developed in half a dozen states. Indeed, before Townleyism came along we were all of us freely admitting that there WAS something wrong, and that in the interests of producer and consumer we ought to see what could be done about it.

The first step in the real and final and completely victorious fight against Townleyism is to find out what is really wrong. The next step is to correct that wrong. If we do not do that, even if Townleyism passes for the moment the spirit of discontent that created it will flower anew in some other and perhaps more dangerous form.

If we admit that it costs too much to get commodities from the producer to the consumer, it does not at all follow that we must embrace Townley's remedies. Townleyism would have us lean on the state and put the state into business in the place of the middlemen. As to that it is no convincing answer to say that it is "socialism," and that all who favor it are "socialists" if not Bolsheviki and something less than hundred per cent Americans. A far better answer is to point out that unfortunately experience has not shown the state to be a good enough business man to be likely to afford much relief either to producer or consumer.

It isn't Bolshevism, or even a very advanced sort of socialism, to be for state elevators, state mills, state this, that and the other thing; but in view of the fact that we haven't got our governments either in state or nation down to a businesslike basis yet—very far from it—it isn't very good sense, either.

Mr. Preus, in opposing the Townley candidate for governor, came the nearest anybody has come yet to admitting that there is some validity to the farmer's complaints and to proposing better remedies than Townley offers. He talked co-operation; and that was wise talk and had a good deal to do, we have no doubt, with his election. The citrus growers, the raisin growers and the fruit growers of the Pacific Northwest have shown the way by their successful co-operative marketing organizations; and there is no reason why the wheat growers shouldn't be as successful if they will drop the will-o'-the-wisp of Townleyism and go at it, and if the shortsighted Minneapolis chamber of commerce men who have prevented farmers' co-operative organizations from acquiring a farmers' member of their body will stand out of the way.

The kind of fight that has been made against Townleyism hasn't stopped it in four years. Isn't it about time that a more intelligent kind of fight were being made against it? For it IS a menace—the discontent on which it roots is STILL a menace—not to the home and the family, but to the farmer himself and to sensible conceptions of the proper spheres of business and government.

A "PURE FOOD" LAW FOR FABRICS.

There is a campaign in progress to have congress pass a law requiring fabrics to be labeled honestly for what they are. Then anybody who sold shoddy or mixed goods as "all wool" could be punished.

This idea comes from the wool growers, apparently, and with the principle and aim of it nearly everybody not directly interested will enthusiastically agree. Nor need this principle and aim be confined to wool, either. Why not punish the man who labels Connecticut cabbage as "pure Havana," too?

Whether it is necessary to go so far as to require every piece of goods to be labeled exactly what it is—"shoddy" if it IS shoddy and not "all wool" unless it IS all wool—is not so clear.

The pure food law revolutionized business in many lines, and has driven out a great deal of cheating and adulteration. But all the pure food law is, in a word, is a statute forbidding and punishing misbranding.

All the public wants to know is whether what it buys is what it thinks it is buying. It is not specially interested in protecting the wool grower, though it wants him to have a fair deal; neither is it specially interested in protecting industries based on making fabrics from other materials than pure new wool. And its interest in honest business dealing is not limited to woolen goods, by a good deal.

Why wouldn't a general law forbidding the making of misstatements about any article offered for sale, and providing redress for the victims of such statements, meet the whole situation simply, effectively and fully?

WHO LOSES?

Which element will Mr. Harding rebuff by his final and official decision on the League of Nations?

Taft, Hoover, Root and the friends of the League?

Or Johnson, Borah and the enemies of the League and of any league?

One sanguine Republican makes this quaint suggestion: "He will rebuff neither. He will favor a new association entirely."

But that, of course, would be rebuffing BOTH. Mr. Harding can hardly do that, any more than he can attempt to continue playing both sides as he did in his campaign. His temptation will be to try the experiment of keeping the support of both elements, since that succeeded so well in the campaign. It will be fatal to him and his administration if he does try it.

Of course Hoover, Root, Taft, Hughes and those who followed them are for "the" League with reservations. Of course Johnson, Borah and their followers are against "the" League, "a" league or any league or association. Mr. Harding must choose.

Getting up a new association entirely is absurd and impossible. Forty-odd nations now belong to the going League of Nations, and even if they would consent to scrap it and build anew, there could be little virtue in a new association formed this long after the fighting ceased, and after time has dulled the poignancy of the memories of war's horrors. Man is forgetful and not imaginative.

Unless Mr. Harding is prepared to offend both elements, he will choose the latter.

CHANGE THOSE POLL LIST BLANKS.

Though in Minnesota the authorities have held that women needn't tell the election officials how old—or how young—they are, but need only assure them that they are twenty-one or more, it is not so in all the states. In at least two, the courts have held that both men and women must give their ages.

Now we frankly don't know whether it is true, as some people say, that many women are reluctant to vote because to register they must tell their ages; and if there are such women we are convinced that almost as many men of the same mind could be found.

But the whole controversy is totally unnecessary because it is totally unnecessary for election officials to take the ages of any voter, and it should be disposed of by changing the poll books so as to eliminate the column in which the clerks are supposed to write the ages of the voters.

The law simply asks that the voter be twenty-one or more. It is enough to know, and all the election board needs to know. The ages of the voters, written in the column for that purpose, serve no useful end. No vital statistics are drawn from the poll books. No use ever is made of the information they contain, at least so far as ages is concerned.

In fact there is no need whatever for any column on ages in the poll books. Every voter is required to be at least twenty-one, and the fact that he is permitted to vote is evidence enough that he is at least that old.

The controversy is rather silly, it seems to us, and certainly needless. The legislatures of the states in their next sessions should provide for abolishing the age column in the poll books, and thus end the whole discussion once for all.

Dispossessed

Columbia, S. C., State: At a ball game between a South Carolina negro team and a visiting team of similar color a negro preacher was acting as umpire. The pitcher had gone rather wild, and had permitted all the bases to fill. Another man came to the bat, and the nervous pitcher shot one over.

"Ball one," yelled the ump.

The pitcher was tried again.

"Ball two," was the decision.

Another effort by the hurler.

"Ball three," said the umpire.

The pitcher saw his predicament, and made one master effort to save the day.

"Ball four," yelled the ump, "and the man's out."

"How come, I'se out?" inquired the enraged batter.

"I'se repelled to put you out, nigger. Don't you see dar's nowhere else to put you?" reasoned the umpire.

The Result

By Savoyard.

Washington, Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—For ages it has been the wonder of men of action and of men of thought how Hannibal maintained the perfect discipline of his army which for seventeen years was victorious against Rome, though that army was made up of so many varied and discordant elements of the human family. Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon all led armies formed of material superior to the armies they beat, but Hannibal's army, even at Cannae, was inferior in valor and in prowess to the Roman legions he overcame.

The African tribes and European nationalities that composed Hannibal's army were perfectly homogeneous compared with the antagonistic and incongruous hosts of Adullam young Mr. Hayes led in our glorious Union in the political campaign of 1920. There is but one thing upon which they are agreed and that is hatred of Woodrow Wilson. The standpad reactionary of Pennsylvania and the Bull Mooser progressive of Kansas marched shoulder to shoulder. Lodge of New England, who hates Wilson because he did not force the war against Germany two years earlier, and Viereck of the German press, who hates Wilson because he agreed to the war in 1917, were in perfect accord in their support of Harding. Elihu Root and the New York Tribune, who love England fondly and devotedly and passionately, kept with the professional Irishman who hates England more bitterly than Hannibal hated Rome. Alf Taylor of Tennessee, who would put the Cotton South under the dominion of the negro, and Cole Blease of South Carolina, whose gospel is "be damned to the nigger," scroughed together in the same trundle bed whining curses against the great Democratic president. Marion Butler of North Carolina, who would be a Pretorian Guard if he were a little bit, just the least tiny bit, formidable, and Joe Bailey of Texas, rapt in the ceaseless contemplation of his own colossal vanity, join in the hideous chorus of anathema to Wilson. Tom Watson, the lunatic Cracker of Georgia, and Jim Watson, the Hoosier chef in the kitchen of the fat fryer, fall into the arms of each other and fondly embrace in brotherly love as they read in the election returns what they interpret as a rebuke to Wilson. And there are others including that unsuccessful Burchard, "Col." Harvey, designer and fashioner of Republican nominees for president of the United States.

How long will these Dalgettys hold together? Until Wilson retires from the White House—not a day, not an hour, longer. Even the genius of Hannibal would fail to maintain discipline in such a conglomerate mob after responsibility descended upon them.

For example. What does Senator Cummins think of Harding's last public utterance before the election, which was a plea for tariff protection for the Steel trust, that muling and puking and beggar infant industry that has only a measly billion or two to save it from the poor house? Cummins, it will be recalled, voted against the infamous Payne-Aldrich tariff of 1909. Will Hiram Johnson and William E. Borah agree that Boise Penrose be chairman of finances in the Sixty-seventh congress? I doubt it, for they only agreed that he should head that committee in the present congress because hatred and envy of Wilson was the Republican paramount.

* * *

Again, millions of Republicans, male and female, voted for Harding because Elihu Root and the "Thirty-one" pledged them a League of Nations, or an association of nations to preserve the peace of the world. No such league would be worth shucks unless it provided for disarmament of the nations, and disarmament is impossible without "Article 10." To redeem Root's pledge, which was given in contempt for Harding's Des Moines speech, Harding would be called on to return the treaty to the senate, or negotiate another treaty at another world diplomatic congress. Suppose he did one or the other of these things? What would follow? Hell would break loose in the United States senate, and Hi Johnson, Borah and company would heap on the brimstone and chunk the fire.

And it will be a merry old hell and don't you forget it.

Brains in the Kitchen

Thrift Magazine: A wise man said, "Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are." More and more in our modern civilization, the people are realizing the importance of wholesome food properly cooked. The science of cooking has a prominent place in our public schools and colleges, and we have pure food laws, our women young and old are proud to say, "I can cook a good meal, one you will really enjoy." That is as it should be. To the kitchen may be traced many of the successes or failures of life. Many a child has failed to make his grades at school from lack of strength of mind and body because so little intelligence was practiced in the kitchen.

Many a man and boy has failed to hold their job because of poor food badly cooked. A great deal is said about economy in the kitchen. What is true kitchen economy? It is to provide not necessarily the expensive food or the cheapest food, but the purest and best material and then to properly cook them.

Prohibition Conditions

Cincinnati Enquirer: "I thought you told me that this play was written to suit prohibition conditions," said the producer. "I have read it and I do not find a single reference to prohibition conditions."

"But haven't you noticed that it is all in one act?" explained the author. "It runs right through without an intermission."

Progress

Pittsburgh Press: They used to burn witches, now they burn ouija boards. What better evidence of the progress of enlightenment?

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON.

The Iron Dollar

In olden days, with one round dollar how much good fodder I could buy! And then I'd stand around and holler because the prices were so high! I used to seek the corner grocer, and fill my basket with his junk, and he would say, "I'd have you know, sir, that all this costs you but a plunk." And to the butcher I would toddle, and buy a soupbone for a dime, and merrily my wife would yodel as she brewed consomme sublime. And at the urbane haberdasher's a dollar bought a gaudy shirt; and I could buy potato mashers and other hardware cheap as dirt. Oh, happy days, when one round dollar would buy a wagonload of truck! And now I know of nothing smaller, when I go shopping, than a buck. And in those days that I'm regretting, when dollars cut all kinds of ice, I knew the depths of grief and fretting when I bought things and paid the price. I often wring my hands and wonder what made me rear and paw and roar, when I would buy a ton of plunder for ninety cents, or two cents more. Such times, I fear, are gone forever, but if by luck they should come nigh, I'll surely make a brave endeavor to bless the merchant when I buy.

Republican Victory and Responsibility

The Nation's Press on the Election.

Republican victory so overwhelming as to break all records has sobered both sides in the great contest. Editorial opinion places the emphasis not so much on the triumph or defeat of issues as upon the responsibility, which, as the St. Louis Post Dispatch (Ind.) expresses it, now rests "with the men and with the party to whom the people have given their mandate with such a show of confidence." As illustrated below, the discharge of this responsibility is regarded as assured by papers which have supported the Republican ticket, while it is looked for at least hopefully by those which have opposed the successful candidates:

> Washington Star (Rep.): The demand is that everything be adjusted to a peace basis, so that the country may go forward on the path of progress and prosperity. Large as the order is, it can and will be filled. The American people are both courageous and resourceful; and moving forward in the earnest and united fashion assured in these election returns they will overcome all obstacles and reach a great goal.
>
> New York Tribune (Rep.): Now the call is to look forward. Senator Harding has a great opportunity. We believe he will make the most of it. We believe he will be able to harmonize our domestic affairs. His duty is double—is abroad and at home. May he prove himself a genuine and practical lover of peace and a true progressive in all that relates to enhancing the individual lives of our people!
>
> New York Times (Ind. Dem.): Now Senator Harding must turn his thoughts to the future and it is a future with grave responsibilities and serious embarrassments. It will not be small matter either to grant or to refuse the demands certain to be made upon him by the millions who gave him their votes for reasons alien to Republican or American principles. They will point to the enormous majorities they contributed and demand their recompense. Strictly within his own party, moreover, there will be strife and conflict. Eminent Republicans, like Mr. Root, Mr. Taft, Mr. Hughes and President Lowell, will be invited into his counsels; it is to be hoped that they will be his chief and most trusted counsellors. Their campaign utterances and their known strong convictions must incline them to urge upon him some form of coming together with the nations now united to preserve the peace of the world. That must be, will be the great work of his administration, its chief triumph, for without success in that endeavor the record of his four years will be one of failure.
>
> Washington Post (Ind.): The people of the United States have rendered their verdict. May the confidence of the American people remain with the new president and support him in all the trying hours to come. The people have given him their support in abundant measure, full and flowing over, and they will stand by him in his arduous labors in the months to come.

While partisan feeling seems, for the time, to be overshadowed by the very decisiveness of the verdict, analysis of the reasons for the "landslide" show some of the rancor of the campaign. "Doubtless there are as many reasons for the result as there are people who voted," says the Bridgeport Post (Ind.), but this paper, as do most of those so far available, ascribes as the outstanding reason the universal desire to change the political complexion of the government. Whether this desire is because of dissatisfaction with "autocratic government," "Wilsonism" and the league, or is merely an outgrowth of the restlessness and disturbed conditions after the war, depends on the political bias of the paper, as the following quotations show:

> New York World (Dem.): The American people wanted a change and they have voted for a change. They did not know what kind of a change they wanted, and they do not know today what kind of a change they have voted for. All of the restlessness and discontent bred of the war has finally found expression in the ballot-box, and the result is Warren G. Harding.
>
> Cleveland News (Rep.): By the greatest popular majority in the history of the United States and a three-to-one majority in the electoral vote of the states, the American people have declared for the party and the candidate that put America, American interests and American ideas unmistakably first, always and in everything. By unprecedented figures, the nation has registered its decision against the Wilson League of Nations, the Wilson record, the Wilson party and the Wilson methods of government.
>
> Philadelphia Bulletin (Rep.): In its broadest significance the verdict means the government at Washington shall be restored to the constitutional processes by which it was managed before the war, that the excessive centralization of power in it shall be reduced and simplified, that the abuses which this centralization has engendered shall be corrected, that the terrific burden of Federal taxation shall be readjusted, equalized and made lighter, and that wherever radicalism and foolish experimentalism have had the upper hand, they shall be replaced by sanity and stability.
>
> New York Evening World (Dem.): It means that the American electorate thought little about the League of Nations and much about its craving for a change of administration. It means that a majority of the nation's voters chose to dodge the question of its honor and standing among nations in order to visit upon the Democratic party stored-up resentment for anything and everything they have found to complain of in the last eight years.
>
> Detroit News (Ind.): The verdict of our day upon Woodrow Wilson and all his works has been returned. He and they are repudiated. But it is not fair, probably, to accept this verdict as a wholesale rejection of the principle of the League of Nations. It is impossible to believe that the American people refuse to join with the enlightened nations of the earth in a combined effort to banish war from the world. It is more probable that they reject the Wilson kind of a league.
>
> New York Evening Post: History, and history not far distant, will do Woodrow Wilson the justice that he was true to this ideal of trusteeship for the future, even if history will admit that Woodrow Wilson injured the speedy realization of that ideal by defects of tactics and of temper. It was one of Wilson's great mistakes that he overrated the capacity of the people for sustained vision and purpose. The capacity is there in the long run, but it is subject to the laws of ebb and flow; and we are now in an ebb tide. The future will vindicate the vision of a great public servant.
>
> And not the last among those who will learn to understand Mr. Wilson and sympathize with the difficulties he had to face will be President-elect Harding. The enormous popular majorities for Harding are exactly comparable with the enormous popular support behind Wilson when he landed in Europe to make peace. That popularity subsided as the president, in passing from vision to hard fact, found himself under the necessity of making a peace that could not completely satisfy any one. So Mr. Harding will soon find how difficult it is to please all the clashing interests which yesterday joined in a temporary alliance.

His Reputation

London Post: A certain minister of state, rather well known throughout this world for shiftiness, has pledged himself definitely to a certain course of action, and some honorable members were discussing the probability of his keeping his word. One with a pretty wit said: "I think he will, although he said he would."

Graft

Cincinnati Enquirer: Those labor leaders of the New York building trades also seem to have found something under their pillows.

Blackheads and Pimples

In my twelve years' experience in teaching newspaper readers how to keep well or even better I have made some momentous discoveries. My latest discovery is that when the average young woman asks what is good for her complexion she means blackheads and pimples, the very familiar skin trouble known to doctors as acne. It took me several years to find that out, which probably shows how inapt a plain doctor can be when he attempts to pose as an all-around medical authority.

Any number of well known nostrums are good for blackheads and pimples, that is, they will raise a crop in a short time, thanks to the iodide of potash or the bromides they contain. Iodides and bromides are notorious producers of acne. The ancient quacks used to turn this to their own advantage by intimating that the skin eruption showed that the dope was "driving out impurities," and there are still a few people who solemnly accept this flapdoodle and keep right on buying the "blood purifier" or "nerve tonic."

Persons whose occupation exposes them to tar or oils are likely to have acne pimples or boils, from occlusion of the mouths of the oil ducts of the skin.

Boys and girls from the age of 13 to 19 years are particularly subject to acne probably because of the natural physiological development or rapid growth of the sebaceous or oil glands at that age.

Diet has practically nothing to do with the question of blackheads or pimples. Nor has acne any relation with imaginary "poor blood," nor is anyone entitled to intimate that this skin condition is in any manner influenced by the victim's morality or immorality.

For ordinary blackheads, and for the condition sometimes termed "enlarged pores," and for an excessive oiliness of the skin of the face, this lotion may be applied each night, following a prolonged hot bathing and expression of blackheads by gentle pressure with the fingers covered with a clean cloth:

Sublimed sulphur.
Alcohol.
Compound tincture of lavender.
Glycerin.
Camphor water.

Equal parts of each of the five ingredients.

When there is redness of the nose or a tendency toward acne rosacea ("rum blossom") a more astringent lotion is advisable:

Zinc sulphate ....1 dram
Sulphurated potassium ....1 dram
Rose water ....4 ozs.

This is to be applied over night, after a prolonged hot bathing.

The pimples and boils about the hands, arms and face of machinists and others exposed to oil are caused by infection conveyed in the oil or cutting mixture from one man to another and by uncleanliness.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Sclp Eczema.

Please suggest something for the relief of scalp eczema. My 8-year-old boy has it, a spot half the size of my hand on the back and top of the scalp. (Mrs. E. J. S.)

Answer: Soften the crusts by applying liquid petrolatum (Russian oil, mineral Albolene, Nujol. Paraffin oil are various names for liquid petrolatum). The boy may wear a rubber bathing cap while the oil is on his scalp. Shampoo the next morning. If there is oozing or weeping, apply a solution of

Aluminum acetate ....2 drams
Water ....6 ozs.

When weeping or oozing has stopped, apply to the patch once daily some of this thin ointment:

Oil of tar ....½ dram
Precipitated sulphur ......1 dram
Benzoated lard ....1 oz.
Perolatum ....1 oz.

Bicycles.

I am a girl aged 13 years and want to ride a bicycle. Daddy approves of this form of exercise for boys, but thinks it is not healthful for girls. I would like to have your opinion for my daddy's benefit. ("Dorothy").

Answer: Bicycle riding is as healthful for girls as for boys. All my boys are girls and they ride bicycles. Tell daddy I said he shouldn't be so old.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man, Dayton, Ohio.

Come Holy Ghost, our souls inspire,
And lighten with celestial fire;
Thou the anointing Spirit art,
Who dost Thy sevenfold gifts impart:
Thy blessed unction from above
Is comfort, life, and fire of love.

Enable with perpetual light
The dullness of our blinded sight;
Anoint and cheer our soiled face
With the abundance of Thy Grace;
Keep far our foes, give peace at home;
Where Thou art Guide no ill can come.

Teach us to know the Father, Son,
And Thee, of Both, to be but One;
That through the ages all along
This may be our endless song,
Praise to Thy eternal merit,
Praise, San, and Holy Spirit.

—Amen.

Open the St. Lawrence

Dearborn Independent: The more one hears of the objections which Eastern cities are making to the proposed deepening of the St. Lawrence river and the creation of a deep waterway from the lakes to the ocean, the harder it is to understand the opposition.

Certain New York interests say quite frankly that they are opposed to the deepening of the river because they fear the loss of the traffic with the great Middle West.

That is selfishness.

Other interests believe, or profess to believe, that the opening of a deep waterway to the heart of the United States would open the country to a naval station by an unfriendly foreign power.

That is stupidity.

But how shall one characterize the minds which keep putting forward these futile objections when they know they cannot possibly prevent the deepening of the river, that Canada will build it alone if the United States refuses to co-operate?

The only possible result of this campaign to keep the United States from being a party to the development of this mighty waterway to the sea, will be to make us an outsider when the canal is built; to compel us to pay tolls to an enterprise in which we might have been equal partners.

It scarcely seems probable, however, that this can occur. A nation which built the Panama canal will scarcely fail to see the advantages of a water route connecting its great industrial centers direct with the ports of other nations.

A Warning

Washington Post: It's perfectly safe in these times to stage an election on ironing day, but we warn the male politicians never to hold one on a bargain day.

The Graceless Days

Kansas City Star: For some unknown reason in the old days, people were always polite to a drunk man. But now the drunk man has disappeared, and people aren't polite to anybody.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Patriotism Still an Issue

Detroit Record: Just recently a friend said to the Record editor: "Why this howl about patriotism, don't you know the war is over?" With 3,000,000 votes being cast for Eugene V. Debs, convicted seditionist, the Record editor is of the opinion that the "war" for a loyal citizenship is raging just at present with an intensity never before witnessed in America! "Patriotism" was never such an important issue as it is just at this time! Are you for America or are you against her? That is the question you must answer, either to your own conscience or the legal authorities!

A Job That Needs Attention

Little Falls Herald: The Nonpartisans have been licked four times in Minnesota in the last two primary and election campaigns. A movement of this size, however, does not easily succumb, unless more or less of the things they complain of are corrected. It's up to those in power.

The Farmer's Grievance

Hutchinson Leader: When the farmer's products are the first to drop in price you can't blame him for suspecting there is something wrong somewhere. He may be mistaken in his conclusions as to where and what the trouble is, but that he is the "goat" is certain. If farm implements, clothing and all other articles of commerce he has to buy, had shown the same proportionate decline he could not complain, but they have not. The manufacturers have a better organization to protect themselves against losses from falling prices than have the farmers.

It May Do It Good

Luverne Herald: Paraphasing a well known statement of woman's influence, it is now proper to say that "the hand that rules the cradle rocks the world."

Appreciates Democratic Help

Bemidji Pioneer: Well, when all is said and done the Democrats of the state deserve a lot of credit for falling into line in supporting the state ticket. As a rule Minnesota Democrats are a loyal bunch of fellows and may be relied upon in emergencies. It is not the first time in the history of the state and it may not be the last. Here's to the loyal American Democrats.

The Irish Irritant

Olivia Times: Lloyd George of England says that the misrule and abuses in Ireland in the past are due to the bad temper of the Irish people. Perhaps, but who is to blame for the bad temper of the Irish people? After the Lloyd Georges spend a few centuries in hell—the kind of hell they created and perpetuated in Ireland—their temper will be bad, too.

Anything Else Spells Revolutions

Winnebago City Enterprise: The American people are what is termed good "sports." They march to the polls, cast their ballots for their choice, and then when the votes have been counted abide by the decision of the majority. Upon such good sportsmanship is the very safety of our republic founded, and as long as that spirit is maintained, our country will continue to exist.

Nothing New, Anyway

Birmingham Age-Herald: "How was the movie?"

"Rather dull," said the jaded patron.

"No thrills, eh?"

"Well, the heroine jumped from a train traveling sixty miles an hour to an airplane, was carried over a precipice in a motor car and was left standing on the deck of a submarine when it submerged, but there wasn't anything you could really call exciting."

I am not going to take other men's positions from them."

IRISH CONDITIONS BAD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Kindly publish the following letter just received by John L. Linnane from his mother, who lives in Lisdonvarna Ballyvanoe, county Clare, Ireland. She predicts that half of the people in Ireland will starve this winter. Following is the letter, in part:

"Dear John: We have hard times here. There was no war worse than what is around in Ireland in every place. We don't know the minute we will be killed or shot. The Sinn Fein and police and soldiers had a great battle outside Ennistymon last week. There were seven or eight police and some soldiers killed. The military came in to Ennistymon in the night and burned seven houses to the ground and shot two boys and put one of them into the blaze and burned him. The Black and Tan soldiers are here. They are shooting the people and horses and cows that they meet everywhere. They burned six houses in Lahinch and killed two sons of Dan Leah and he was also wounded. You knew him. They are raiding every house looking for Sinn Feiners to kill them and they are robbing all before them. We got a lot of papers from Mrs. Welch. I will write to her soon and will send her a paper. We got a letter from Jane a few weeks ago; she is fine. Your father, Tom, Mick and Maria are well, but they are very uneasy about conditions. We don't know how much longer we have to live, but we live in hopes that God will give us all comfort. Half of the people will be starved. They have harmed no one. Dear John, I hope you won't forget to send us something this time, for the times are awfully hard. You can get nothing without paying cash.

"It is hard for me to write this because of the terror in my heart for fear the soldiers may come along at any minute. The town hall is full of soldiers and Black and Tan. All of the young men are afraid to go out. It is awful that the Americans don't try to make some settlement between England and Ireland before they are all killed. I hope you will write soon. Pray for us. I hope we will live to meet some day."

APPROVES REVISION OF INHERITANCE TAXES

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been waiting thirty years for your editorial on inheritance taxes.

I was called an anarchist that long ago for talking what you write.

The state tax commission, when I mentioned that taxes on small estates are far tor too high and on large estates far too low, said there was nothing to it.

The estate of J. J. Hill would have paid the running expenses of the state two years and still left his children millionaires. He had seen to that before he died as most rich men do and perhaps ought to do to some extent.

The methods by which such fortunes are obtained are often injurious to society. When men are protected in acquiring wealth and in the possession of it, while they live they should be content that the larger part of it, when they die, goes to the state to support its governmental, educational, charitable and health institutions for the benefit of all the people, including their own descendants. Very respectfully yours,

LEON E. LUM.

TOO MUCH DUST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Would you kindly allow me a space in your Open Court columns? On Nov. 5, a "Central Avenue Reader" had an article in the News Tribune about the Klearflax plant and its whistle. I am a resident in the vicinity of the Klearflax plant and right here I want to say that it isn't the whistle that bothers us now, although it did about a year ago when they had the habit of blowing the whistle at midnight and 4 a. m. What bothers us most now is the terrible odor that comes from there and the fine flax that is flying all the time, seven days a week and 365 days a year.

Now, "Central Avenue Reader," take a walk out to Sixty-third avenue some day when the wind is blowing from over the hill, then you will see why we are kicking and hollering. You are on Central avenue all the time, so you don't know the dirt we have to inhale every day. But if you lived across the road from the Klearflax as I do, you, too, would put up a holler and mighty quick, too. Unfortunately I own my home, so I can't move. Neither can I sell it, on account of the Klearflax plant.

I could not resist the temptation of answering you when I knew that you did not know what you were talking about. We people out here are not in the habit of kicking and hollering. But when we must keep our doors and windows shut every day of the year on account of that dirt and flax straw, it is time to put up a holler. The health board says to take lots of fresh air. But it is impossible out here.

THE CASE OF RUSSIA.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Now, as our election is past, I wish you would turn your searchlight on Russia, and find out why she turned Bolsheviki. There must be some reason for it. Perhaps it was because the common people had very little to say in the work and plan of the government, and would often see their fellow men dragged to jail as innocent. Or perhaps it was because the majority of the people, who paid their taxes, became so burdened, by the extravagance of the selfish men above them, that they became frantic, and used their passion to revolt and revenge. Then it may have been there was no one "who was" in favor to find out how the people were fed, or how the farmers lived, or how they were getting along. Perhaps those who were toiling in their sweat saw some class of people spending money for that which was not bread, and made life selfish living for their own pleasure, the love of God forgotten.

So these climbers never noticed how rotten the ladder was at the bottom, neither did they care, but suddenly when it became too rotten down came the ladder with them all. Now, beware lest they make a patch on the same ladder, and their second fall, will be worse than the first. So will it be when wicked, selfish men, they who little care what becomes of their fellowman, are the head of things.

Bayfielder Accidentally Shot.

Bayfield, Wis., Nov. 9.—As Thomas Laroc, living twelve miles west of here, near the Indian settlement, was examining an automatic revolver at his home, it accidentally went off, the bullet passing through one of his fingers and striking Frank Hall, who was with him, in the side, lodging in the muscles near the back. Although doctors have been unable to reach the bullet they do not consider the injury necessarily serious.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

HE'S MY FRIEND.

He may be six kinds of a liar,
He may be all kinds of a fool,
He may be a wicked high flyer—
Beyond any reason or rule.
There may be a shadow above him
Of perils and woes that impend,
And I may not respect, but I love him,
Because — well, because he's my friend!

I know he has faults by the million,
But his faults are a portion of him;
I know that his record's vermilion,
And he's far from a sweet seraphim;
But he's always been square with yours truly,
Always ready to give or to lend,
And though he's wild and unruly,
I love him—because he's my friend!

I knock him, I know, but I do it
The same to his face as away;
But if other folks knock him, they rue it
And wish they'd had nothing to say.
I never make diagrams of him.
No map of his soul have I penned,
For I don't analyze him—I just love him,
Because — well, because he's my friend!

WILL PLACE DEAD IN ARC DE TRIOMPHE

Paris, Nov. 9.—The Arc de Triomphe will be the last resting place of "an unknown French soldier," the chamber of deputies so decided yesterday unanimously.

The vote came after an acrimonious discussion of the government bill providing for the transfer of the body of an unknown soldier from Verdun to a last resting place, either in the Pantheon or the Arc de Triomphe. So violent was the debate that the sitting was suspended for a time. Socialists advocated the Pantheon, while the remainder of the chamber advocated the Arc de Triomphe.

Nov. 11, combining the second anniversary of Armistice day with the fiftieth anniversary of the third French republic, will be celebrated as was Victory day, July 4, 1919.

The heart of "Gambetti" will represent the anniversary of the third French republic, while the body of an unknown soldier will personify the victory of Armistice day. Three marshals of France, Joffre, Foch and Petain, will walk behind the gun carriage bearing the body to the Pantheon, where the heart of Gambetti will be deposited. The procession will then continue on to the Arc de Triomphe, where the body will be laid to rest.

NEW BOOZE RULING MAKES TASK HARDER

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 9.—Monday's decision of the United States supreme court will simply give would-be violators of liquor laws one more loophole for evading the law, Paul D. Keller, Northwest divisional prohibition chief, said last night.

"The chief bearing of the law here, is that it imposes more work upon our office," said Mr. Keller.

"There will be much clerical work connected with storage operations. There must be permits issued for transportation and documents relating to ownership of liquor stored, but I do not believe there are many legally owned large stocks in the Northwest."

Taken Fatally Ill at Game.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Nov. 9.—A. E. Walrath, 56, native of Sparta, Wis., and secretary and treasurer of the Chippewa Farm Land company, who was taken suddenly ill with acute indigestion, while attending the Chippewa Falls-Tomah football game Oct. 30, died a few days later and his sudden taking off caused much regret here.

WOULD MAKE ARMISTICE DAY LEGAL HOLIDAY

A bill to make Armistice day, Nov. 11, a legal holiday in Minnesota will be introduced at the next meeting of the legislature.

Its sponsors will be Senators Emil M. Erickson of Duluth and W. J. Kuntz of Waconia and Representatives William L. Bernard and Frank G. Scribner of Duluth, who met here last night.

If the bill is passed, the first Armistice day to be observed a legal holiday will be Nov. 11, 1921. In case Nov. 11 should ever fall on Sunday, the bill will make the holiday come on the following Monday.

Senator Kuntz arrived here last night in company with several friends. He is leaving today for a two or three weeks' hunting trip around Brimson.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Luster With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost, you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, and look years younger.—Advertisement.

EARLY HEARING OF BERGER CASE ASKED

Washington, Nov. 9.—The government yesterday requested the supreme court to advance for early hearing the case of Victor L. Berger, convicted on charges of having violated the espionage act.

Twice elected to congress, Berger was denied a seat, one before and once since his conviction. Solicitor General Frierson, who filed the motion to advance, said it was of great importance that the government have an early ruling for the guidance of district judges in similar cases.

BETTER BABIES

The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast, and taken firm hold of American mothers. Few women realize how much the ill health of the mother influences the unborn child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from mysterious pains, backache, nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for these ailments.—Advertisement.

Republicans Expected to Alter Estimates Prepared by Democrats.

Washington, Nov. 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Estimates upon which congress will make appropriations for the first fiscal year of the new Republican administration are being prepared under the direction of Democratic cabinet officers and in accord with the policies of the Wilson administration.

The estimates will be submitted to congress at the next session on Dec. 6. [illegible] the Republicans have a majority in both the senate and house sharp [illegible] are expected to be made in most of the estimates under revision plans which Republican congressional leaders are expected to work out in co-operation with other leaders of the Harding administration, which takes office on March 4.

The present political situation with regard to the annual appropriations is similar to that which obtained eight years ago after the first election of Woodrow Wilson but the economic situation was vastly different. At that time the Republicans controlled the executive branches under President Taft but the Democrats had a majority in the senate and house.

Conditions Normal.

At that time conditions in the nation and the world generally were normal and government expenditures were only a fourth of what they are now.

The forthcoming estimates for the war department will be based upon requirements of an army, the size of which already has been fixed by the Republican congress, but naval estimates to be submitted will be based on the Democratic program. Secretary Daniels had repeatedly said that unless the United States became a member of the League of Nations it must maintain the most powerful navy in the world.

Constructing Big Ships.

Under the program authorized in 1916 the government is constructing five great battle cruisers and more than that number of superdreadnaughts, and the forthcoming naval estimate is expected not only to include appropriations for carrying on this work, but also recommendations for additional war craft.

Estimates for all government departments are expected to exceed $4,000,000,000, this total including amounts for refunding portions of the public debt falling due during the next fiscal year. The estimates for the present fiscal year exceeded $6,000,000,000, but these subsequently were reduced by something like $2,000,000,000.

Whether all of the annual supply measures will be completed at the next and final session of the Sixty-sixth congress remains to be determined. President-elect Harding is expected to call a special session of the new congress soon after he takes office on March 4 and it may be that some of the appropriation bills will go over to the special session.

TO RESUME FAST TRAIN SERVICE TO CALIFORNIA

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Fast train service between Chicago and California points will be restored Sunday, Nov. 14, when three hours and forty minutes will be cut from the running time of the Overland Limited, making the new time between Chicago and San Francisco sixty-eight hours and twenty minutes. The train will reach the coast city at 1:30 p. m. instead of 5:10 as at present.

Other changes announced by the Chicago & Northwestern, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific lines today includes:

Restoration of the Los Angeles limited, leaving Chicago at 7 p. m. and reaching Los Angeles at 1:30 p. m. on the third day.

A new morning train, the continental limited, leaving Chicago at 10:30 a. m. and arriving at Los Angeles at 9:30 a. m. on the third day.

Restoration of the Oregon-Washington limited to Portland, Or., and Puget Sound points with seventy-two-hour service to Portland, and addition of a new continental limited to Portland.

Y. M. C. A. GRANTS TO EX-SERVICE MEN

New York, Nov. 8.—More than $6,000,000 has been appropriated by the war risk council of the Young Men's Christian association for free scholarships and educational service for former service men. The latest appropriation of $1,960,000 just announced, brings the total to $6,100,000.

Free scholarship awards have been given to 38,582 former service men, the educational service committee has reported to the council, representing an outlay of $2,367,895. The men aided represent every state and more than two-thirds of the cities and counties of the Union, the committee states.

The grand total, a considerable portion of which is now available for scholarships, has been apportioned as follows: Scholarships, $5,050,000; Americanization work, $500,000; vocational service, $125,000; educational lecture service, chiefly in rural communities, $100,000; publicity, supervision and administration, $325,000.

Seven thousand volunteers, serving on 1,582 committees, supervised the granting of the scholarships already awarded, examining 50,000 applicants. The large number of applications remaining on file will be considered in apportioning the latest appropriation.

The council expects that before the end of the educational year on June 30, at least 60,000 former service men will have received assistance from the Y. M. C. A. in educating themselves.

MISSING HOSPITAL TRUSTY'S BODY FOUND

Fergus Falls, Minn., Nov. 9.—Search of almost two months' duration for Arvid Anderson, a patient at the state hospital for the insane here, ended yesterday with the finding of his body in Hoot lake. Several boys made the discovery.

Anderson had been a trusty at the hospital and was given some liberty. On Sept. 18, he went fishing and was not seen alive again. His rod was found beside a tree in the woods and the supposition is that the body had been in the lake since Sept. 18.

Be Young In Body, Mind and Looks Despite Your Years

How often you have wished that you could indulge in the strenuous exercise of out door sports with the vigor and enthusiasm of youth! But the end of the week finds you all in—you are tired, listless and lack the energy to go out for a vigorous walk or a round of the links—or any other exercise that requires much physical exertion. Many a man, even in his middle forties, has a vague feeling that he is "getting old"—and right at a time when he should be at his very best physically.

And he is growing old, not in the sense that the years are pressing heavily upon him—but in the sense that his vital forces are wasting away faster than Nature replaces the worn out tissues.

Thousands—yes millions—of people find themselves in this condition early in life. And there is no excuse for it. You can check that tendency to grow old. You can carry your youth with its joys and enthusiasm into your 70's and 80's. But you must give Nature all the help you can. The best assistance you can find—assistance of a sound, constructive character is in the use of Kensington, Minn., July 6, 1920. Dear Uncle Joe: The pony arrived here in good shape and we are very proud of her. We have been riding her to school already. I have named her "Pet" as I think she will be a real pet to us. My little sister rides her too. I did not expect to get any pony as people kept saying I would get only a pony on a piece of paper, but I made up my mind to try just the same and sure was well paid for it. We can say Uncle Joe is an honest and straight man, and any boy or girl can depend on what he says. Yours truly, Luella Strom, Route 1, Box 66, Kensington, Minn.

We have given 80 ponies to boys and girls.

RHEUMATISM

Physician Believes a Real Remedy for the Disease Has Been Found.

Rheuma, the wonderful rheumatism remedy sold by druggists everywhere, gives quicker and more lasting relief than other remedies costing many times as much.

Rheuma helps pass the deadly poisonous secretions into the bowels and kidneys, from which they are quickly thrown off in a natural, healthy way.

Read what a reputable physician says about Rheuma: "I have made a most careful investigation of the formula employed in the manufacture of Rheuma, and I heartily recommend it as a remedy for all forms of rheumatism. I find Rheuma far in advance of the methods generally employed in the treatment of rheumatism, and altogether different in composition from the remedies usually prescribed."—Dr. M. C. Lyons.

This should give any sufferer from rheumatism confidence to try Rheuma. Lyceum Pharmacy will supply you and guarantee money refunded if Rheuma does not give complete and lasting relief.—Advertisement.

of results of the war and general disaster involving the United States. The only possible course is to keep the treaty, modifying it to meet the requirements of the senate reservations and the Chicago platform and probably in some other respects.

"The precise way in which some modifications can be best made must be determined at the time in conference with the other parties. It is impossible to forecast the methods because conditions next March are necessarily uncertain. Now the central idea is that the deadlock resulted from President Wilson's perverse refusal to negotiate for the consent of other powers to Americanization of the treaty, but that our new administration will secure that consent.

"A separate declaration of peace was justified only by President Wilson's refusal to act. After March 4 that will no longer be justifiable unless other powers refuse to consent to modification which I do not anticipate. Don't allow Cox to drive you off the ground of Harding's senate vote and our platform. Keep to the simple issue, Americanization."

Root Supported Harding.

By examining the dates of the speeches in which Senator Harding discussed the treaty and League of Nations during the month of September and October it will be noticed that nothing was said publicly by Mr. Harding which Elihu Root, at any rate, interpreted as a contradiction of the advice given, for Mr. Root himself continued to support Harding and made a speech at Carnegie hall, New York, in October, reiterating his own views on Article 10 and urging the election of Harding.

In Marion, however, during the last week, the writer learned that Elihu Root was not held in the same high favor on questions of foreign policy as he appeared to be in Washington and New York and other parts of the country, where it had been confidently believed that Mr. Root would be the backbone of the Harding administration on foreign policy. Indeed it will be noted that in almost all the dispatches sent out from Marion giving gossip about the future cabinet, Mr. Root was not named for secretary of state. It is also declared that when the Root cablegram came from Europe Senator Harding showed his displeasure. Whether he communicated his criticism to Mr. Root is not known to the writer, but from the fact that the former secretary of state at a later date made a public speech urging the election of Harding on the league issue, the inference may be drawn that Mr. Root was not acquainted with any such disapproval. Indeed, the only evidence presented publicly that Senator Harding is disposed to disagree with Mr. Root came after the election and during the last week when, in an address to the crowds who came to cheer at Marion, Senator Harding spoke of the election verdict and then referred to the treaty of Versailles as "deceased." Mr. Root had cabled that it was "very unwise to declare the league "dead."

Treaty's Friends Hopeful.

Friends of the treaty, however, have not lost hope and the few who know about Mr. Root's cablegram believe that Senator Harding must inevitably accept the Root view. As for the explanation made in March, 1919, in the letter sent by Mr. Root to Will Hays, the reference to The Hague court in that communication is as follows:

"There was a weakness in the system devised by The Hague conference. It was that arbitration of justiciable questions was not made obligatory so that no nation could bring another before the court unless the defendant was willing to come, and there was no way to enforce a judgment."

After declaring that in his judgment strictly "justiciable or judicial questions" should be obligatory, Mr. Root wrote that the United States ought to be willing so far as questions were concerned to stand "precisely on the same footing as other nations" but that "with regard to questions of policy, some difficult considerations are apparent." He added, however:

"The great and essential thing about the plan contained in the Covenant of the League of Nations is that it makes international conferences on political questions compulsory in times of danger; that it brings together such conferences upon the call of officers who represent all the powers and makes it practically impossible for any nation to keep out of them."

Important Point.

Mr. Root praised the scheme for international conference but pointed out some of its serious defects. The important thing, however, is that Mr. Root cabled Senator Harding from London after a personal observation of European affairs that the structure of the present treaty and the league was worth preserving and was by no means dead. Some people will profess to see a clear break between Senator Harding and Mr. Root. Others are confident that Senator Harding will do the right thing when he calls a conference of the statesmen of America and that the value of Mr. Root's judgment will then be fully tested. The Root cablegram, which it is only fair to say he did not give out for publication, is the deliberate judgment of a man who was secretary of state under President Roosevelt and the American representative at the second Hague conference.

In Marion, however, there is a disposition to look upon Mr. Root as having advanced to such an old age as to be out of tune with the spirit of the last election result and as having such affiliations with the international banking groups as to make his advice of doubtful value. Those are the two views, and when President-elect Harding returns to his home it will become apparent exactly how much Elihu Root's advice will be taken on matters of foreign policy.

AIRSHIP RACE FOR PULITZER TROPHY

New York, Nov. 9.—An aerial armada greater than any ever before assembled for a race will compete for the Pulitzer trophy Thanksgiving day, starting and ending at Mitchel field, Mineola, N. Y. Forty or more airships with speeds exceeding 100 miles an hour are to participate in the 160-mile flight over a closed triangular course.

Eighteen army airplanes and eight representing the navy already have been entered, according to the Aero Club of America, which will conduct the race. Sadi Lecointe, winner of the recent Gordon-Bennett trophy contest at Paris, may be a contestant, and each of the American airplanes entered in that international speed race is expected to be in the starting line-up at Mineola.

Aviation organizations of foreign countries have expressed interest in the coming contest and an inquiry from the French Aero club indicated its desire to enter one or more "ships."

The Pulitzer trophy, donated by Ralph Pulitzer to the Aero Club of America, is to be competed for annually, the coming race being the first. Gold, silver and bronze plaques have been hung up for winners of first, second and third places, and in addition nearly $4,000 in Liberty bonds is to be awarded pilots of craft which perform best in machines of various classes.

Free-for-all is the type of race it will be, but each plane must have an air speed greater than 100 miles an hour as loaded for the start of the race, and the factors of safety, visibility and maneuverability are to be considered by the judges before entrants can start.

The race will consist of four laps around a forty-mile triangular course, starting and ending at Mitchel field, with turns at Wantagh and Babylon.

HISTORIC PROCESSION FOR LONDON'S MAYOR

London, Nov. 9.—The historic procession of the newly elected lord mayor of London, participated in by the dignitaries of the municipal corporation, wended its way through the streets of the metropolis today following the formal introduction of Alderman James Rollin to the office yesterday.

Today's ceremony lacked much of the customary pageantry. Nevertheless, thousands of people crowded the streets. The lord mayor occupied the antiquated, gilded coach of state, attended by gorgeously liveried servants and preceded by uniformed trumpeters.

Tonight will be held the customary banquet at the guild hall. Premier Lloyd George will deliver an address and may follow precedent by making important ministerial statements.

TO BRING DIVISION TO FULL STRENGTH

Washington, Nov. 9.—Telegraphic orders were sent today to the army recruiting stations to recruit the Second division to its full strength immediately. It was explained at the war department that under the provisions of the national defense act one division of the army must be kept at full strength and that the Second division had been selected by the general staff as the unit to be maintained at full strength.

The division, stationed at Camp Travis, Texas, is 6,000 short of its full strength. The war department said the recruiting service never before in peace time had been given a similar task. Heretofore recruits for the Second division have been drawn from the states of Texas and Oklahoma, but under the new order they will be taken from any place in the country.

Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord commands the division.

DANGEROUSLY NEAR FELONY

Judge Anderson Comments on Action of Attorney General Palmer.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—Attorney General Palmer's orders limiting the government's evidence to be used in the soft coal conspiracy cases against 126 operators and miners in Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania were criticized by Federal Judge Anderson yesterday as being "strangly close to the compounding of a felony," and also "dangerously near contempt of court."

Trial was to begin yesterday but government counsel said it was not ready. Before granting the continuance asked, Judge Anderson undertook an investigation of the attorney general's orders regarding the cases, ending with his criticism of Mr. Palmer's conduct.

The court set Jan. 10 to call the trials again, announcing that the meantime "will give us time to get our bearings and find out whether we are to govern by law or by person."

The attorney general was represented by C. B. Ames, former assistant to Mr. Palmer, who explained that Mr. Palmer's orders had been misunderstood by government counsel, who testified at the investigation that orders possibly nullified the prosecution.

Judge Anderson's statement regarding Mr. Palmer's conduct came after hearing most of the testimony, the court leading up to it with questions as to whether the attorney general had authority to agree not to use certain evidence.

"It is strangely near to the compounding of a felony," he said, in this connection.

Discusses Contempt of Court.

Similarly the judge discussed elements constituting contempt of court, his purpose being, he said, to "see how dangerously near this gentleman has got himself to a contempt."

"The arm of this court is long," the judge continued, "and has been known to reach farther than Washington. I am not suggesting what may or may not be done. Mr. Palmer is the attorney general, and there is a certain amount of consideration I am bound to pay to his official position if I do not pay it to him himself."

Judge Anderson then called on District Attorney Van Nuys to produce messages exchanged with the department of justice about reopening the cases with the view of reporting further grand jury indictments, increasing the defendants. One message, bearing the name of Assistant Attorney General Mitchell, said the "attorney general has instructed me to request that before seeking indictments, you should consult with and lay the facts before this department."

Interpreting this message, Judge Anderson said its effect was "that this court cannot proceed unless the attorney general sees fit to advise."

"I am going to have it done," the judge added.

Simms Resigned.

In opening the investigation, Dan W. Simms said he resigned as special prosecutor because he said the attorney general's orders would prevent use of evidence that was the basis of the government's injunction case last year against the coal strike, and the later contempt proceedings for alleged violation of the court's order, directing cancellation of the strike order. Similar testimony was given by L. Ert Slack, another special prosecutor, and by District Attorney Van Nuys.

Mr. Ames, however, said Mr. Palmer interpreted his orders to mean only elimination of evidence that was the basis of the contempt proceedings and pointed out that these proceedings were begun at a date later than that covered by the alleged conspiracy. Mr. Ames also said that the attorney general has the right to elect whether the government would prosecute its cases as civil or criminal matters and that, having chosen a civil course in the strike, Mr Ames did not believe it fair to proceed with criminal action. He also said Mr. Palmer "had not interfered with the action of the government's special counsel in the present cases."

Testimony given during the hearing shows that no agreement to limit the government's evidence had been made in Judge Anderson's presence.

Attorney General Silent.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Attorney General Palmer declined last night to comment on statements of Federal Judge Anderson with respect to the court's inquiry into the attorney general's connection with the soft coal conspiracy cases. Department of justice officials said, however, it had been expected that C. B. Ames would "read into the court record all of the instructions in question."

FRANKLIN PENNY, FIRST COPPER COIN OF NATION, OWNED BY DULUTH WOMAN

A Franklin penny, the first copper coin to be authorized by congress, is owned in Duluth. Discovery of a similar one near Dover, Mass., last week was deemed so unusual that the fact was wired over the United States.

The possessor of a similar coin in Duluth is Mrs. Joseph Wiles, 417 Twenty-sixth avenue west. The penny was struck in 1787 and is one of the few that were coined. A further description of the coin follows:

The penny took its name from Benjamin Franklin because of the inclusion in its design of the homely admonition, "Mind Your business," after a suggestion by him that coins should serve purposes other than those of legal tender.

On one side thirteen circles appear linked together, a small circle in the middle with the words "United States" around it, and in the center "We are one." On the other side is a dial with the hours indicated, a meridian sun above it, on one side of which is the word "Fugio" and on the other the date "1787." Below the dial appears the Franklin phrase, "Mind your business."

BOILER EXPLODES; TWO BADLY HURT

Both men were taken to the Mercy hospital, and are in serious condition.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 9.—Plunging head foremost from a ninth-story window of the Radisson hotel, Charles Vogtel of New Ulm, president of the Century Milling company of Minneapolis, was killed as he fell into the alley, twenty-five feet from the crowded Seventh street sidewalk Monday.

Fingerprints on the outer edge of the window ledge of the room he had occupied indicated that he had hung by his hands before he dropped, the police said. On the table in the room was a letter, sealed and stamped and addressed to his wife in New Ulm.

He was 53 years old and for years had been a frequent visitor here. Besides being president of the Century Milling company here, he was manager of a milling firm in New Ulm and was interested in another in Marshall, Minn. His wife and two sons survive.

WILL NOT WITNESSED.

Technicality May Cost St. Paul Man Winona Estate.

Winona, Minn., Nov. 9.—A technically in the execution of a will may deprive Lew G. Gates of St. Paul of an estate of approximately $50,000, left him by his brother, Dr. G. L. Gates of Winona.

The will, which makes the St. Paul man practically the sole beneficiary, was disallowed in probate court here on the ground that Dr. Gates had not expressly declared the document to be his last will and testament in the presence of two witnesses, as required by law.

Gates appealed to the district court, claiming that it was understood by the witnesses of the document, one of whom is dead, that the document was Dr. Gates' last will. The case was taken under advisement by Judge C. E. Callaghan.

TWELVE CLUBS IN NEW LEAGUE; BASEBALL ORDERED REORGANIZED

Judge Landis Offered Position as Chairman of Civilian Tribunal.

Five Dissenting Clubs Propose to Retain Old American League.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—John A. Heydler, president, secretary and treasurer of the new National league, and Hank O'Day, well known to the public as an umpire and manager, this morning conferred over the subject of umpires for the new baseball league organized yesterday after five clubs of the American league refused to attend a joint conference.

Word was awaited today from Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, judge of the district court of the United States for Chicago, as to whether he would accept the position of chairman of the board of control for a term of seven years at an annual salary of $50,000. The judge had the matter under advisement and said he would make known his decision within a few days.

To Consult With Minors.

Chicago today was no longer the rendezvous of leading minor and major league baseball officials. President Ban Johnson and several of his friends left last night for Kansas City, where the meeting of the National Association of Minor Leagues was scheduled for today. The city was bereft of other baseball men, who began leaving for Kansas City as soon as the announcement of the new league was made yesterday. With the appointment of Judge Landis of Chicago as chairman of the tribunal which will govern the game, pending his acceptance, the organization of the new league included reaffirmation of acceptance of the Lasker plan of baseball reorganization with slight modifications, chief of which was that the minor leagues should be requested and permitted to choose an associate member of the board of control of their own selection. In deciding all baseball matters the votes in the "new National league" will be cast by clubs and not by leagues, under the new plan, it was announced.

The league comprises at present the Boston Braves, the Boston Red Sox, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati, Chicago White Sox, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, New York Giants and New York Yankees. These are the clubs of the now defunct National league and the Chicago, New York and Boston clubs of the American league whose representatives signed the resolutions in Chicago Oct. 18 favoring a reorganization of baseball, basing their resolutions upon the plan proposed by A. D. Lasker of the Chicago National league club calling for a civilian tribunal.

The five dissenting clubs left today as components of the American league were Detroit, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Washington and St. Louis. President Ban Johnson of the league, leader of the fight against formation of the new league, fostering its civilian tribunal, announced before he left Chicago the determination of the "solid five" to proceed with the organization of a new American league.

Invite One Dissenter.

The new National league gives New York, Chicago and Boston two clubs in the same league. Brooklyn also was included, giving New York three representatives. Besides the other members, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, St. Louis (National) and Philadelphia (National), the twelfth member, it was announced, is to be the first of the five dissenting American league clubs applying for membership. The proviso was further made that "failing to receive such application within a reasonable time, a twelfth club is to be established by the new National league and it is not the intention that minor league territory be invaded."

Contributory causes of the formation of the new league which has its inception in the baseball scandal, were the lack of a chairman for the national commission for many months, and the enmity of the three American league clubs for Ban Johnson. These three, Chicago, New York and Boston American league clubs, joining in the plan, have opposed Johnson in league affairs for years and nearly disrupted the league last year. They charged Johnson with being the "czar of baseball," while clubs friendly to him counter-charged that the proposed reorganization was merely a plan to depose Johnson.

MINORS OPPOSE LASKER PLAN

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 9.—War clouds loomed dark and forbidding for the proponents of the Lasker plan for baseball reorganization when the presidents and club owners of the twenty-one minor leagues of the nation met in convention here today to vote on the proposed civilian tribunal as the supreme governing body of organized baseball.

When the committee of three appointed by the twelve club new National league, organized yesterday in Chicago, arrived here to present the Lasker plan for the consideration of the minor leaguers, indications were that it would be overwhelming defeated. The minor league leaders declared themselves capable of settling their own disputes and conducting their own affairs.

The committee, which brought to the minor leaguers the announcement of the action of the eight National league club owners and the three club owners of the American league in disrupting the structure of the major leagues in favor of a twelve-club league governed by a civilian tribunal, consisted of Garry Herrmann, chairman; Barney Dreyfuss and Charles H. Ebbets. These representatives were prepared to offer the minors the opportunity of selecting an associate member of the national board of control under the Lasker plan.

Express Disapproval.

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the American association; David L. Fultz, head of the International league, and A. R. Tearney, president of the Western and Three-I leagues, all recognized leaders in minor league affairs, were unanimous in expressing their disapproval of the Lasker plan.

"To have the major leagues select the officials to govern us would be merely to go back to the old system from which the minors withdrew last winter," President Hickey said.

"The major leagues do not have to select the members of the new commission for us; we are capable of taking care of our own affairs. Twenty-one minor leagues finished the 1920 season and thirty-seven are ready to start next season.

"We employ more players than do the major leagues combined; we have at least as much money invested and never will consent to a scheme by which we would have no voice in the selection of the men to handle our affairs.

"We went along without the majors and enjoyed prosperity and I am confident we can continue to handle our own business."

With a revolutionary movement sweeping through the major leagues, the minor leaguers themselves started a campaign involving a shake up within their own organization.

Change Own Organization.

The campaign involved the removal of John H. Farrell of Auburn, N. Y., who has been secretary and treasurer of the association since its formation twenty years ago, and the election of M. S. Sexton of Rock Island, Ill., as his successor.

Sexton for a score of years has been a dominant factor in minor league affairs. He formerly was president of the Three I league and for several years has been president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, an honorary office carrying no salary. His supporters claim to have enough votes to insure his re-election. It is planned to vote him a salary of $7,500 and move minor league headquarters from Auburn to Chicago.

Exposure of crookedness in the world series of 1919 has been a greater benefit to the minors than the major leagues in the opinion of President Fultz of the International league. "The banishment of the guilty players, the exposure of the whole vicious plot will impress on our young players the seriousness of their duty to the game more than any talk by the managers and older players could convince them," said Fultz.

OLD BASEBALL WARS RECALLED

Federal League Fight Is Costly; First Organization Had Twelve Clubs.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The ensuing baseball war which began last fall around President Ban Johnson of the American league and has taken three of its clubs to the personnel of the new National league, formed yesterday, today brought forth reminiscences from old timers of the last baseball war which broke out in the spring of 1914, and lasted two years.

It was early in 1914 that the Federal league was organized and was fought not only by two major leagues—the National and American—but by all the minor leagues.

The total cost of that war, which finally was settled early in 1916, never has been stated by those involved, but it is believed that somewhere between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 was dropped by club owners on both sides.

The league was organized here with James Gilmore as president. Charles Weeghman and William Walker, both stockholders, today in the Cubs, were principal owners in the Chicago club. Phil Ball, now owner of the St. Louis Browns, was the principal "backer" for the St. Louis Federals.

Harvest for Players.

President Gilmore then interested Robert Ward of New York, together with men in Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Indianapolis, Kansas City and Buffalo. Thus the league was launched.

It was a harvest for the ball players. Many who had been receiving salaries of about $4,000 a season procured contracts, either with the new organization or with their own clubs, for twice that amount. Injunction suits were common and attorneys fees were tremendous. Construction of new ball parks cost fortunes. Seven of them have been idle since the war was settled after the 1915 season.

In the '90s the national league was a twelve-club organization, and after a few unsatisfactory years decided to return to an eight-club organization. This made the opening for the expansion of the American league, then a minor body. It went into the abandoned cities of the National—Cleveland, Baltimore and Washington, and invaded Chicago, later going into New York, Philadelphia, Boston and St. Louis.

BELMONT STAKES TO BE ENRICHED

New York, Nov. 9.—The Belmont stakes, one of the classics of the American turf, a race for 3-year-olds at one mile and three furlongs, will have a value of $50,000 in 1922.

This announcement was made by the Westchester Racing association yesterday and unless the Maryland Jockey club sees fit to boost the value of The Preakness or the Kentucky Jockey club that of the derby at Churchill Downs, to match it, it will have the distinction of being the richest race for 3-year-olds in the country.

In keeping with the progressive step of remodeling the course at Belmont park, the directors of the association have decided to make one race on the tracks under the aegis of The Jockey club stand for something that might well be the American Derby. They could not have chosen better.

One of the oldest of turf classics in this country—it was named in honor of August Belmont, father of the chairman of The Jockey club, and first run at Jerome park in 1867. It always has been a conclusive trial for 3-year-olds of quality. Originally it was at one mile and five furlongs, but in 1874 it was reduced to one mile and a half. During the years it was run at Morris park its distance varied from one mile and a quarter to one mile and an eighth, but in Hasting's year, 1896, it was fixed at its present distance.

The Westchester Racing association will not disturb the conditions of the Belmont stakes of 1921, which is closed, but to encourage a larger field and give some interest to the nominators will independently, after dividing the stakes in accordance with the conditions, present $500 to the second, $250 to the third and $150 to the fourth horses and $1,000 to the nominator of the winner and $500 to the nominator of the second horse.

In 1922 the guaranteed gross value will be $60,000, of which $5,000 will go to the second, $2,000 to the third and $1,000 to the fourth horses, while the nominators of the winner and the second horse will receive $2,000 and $1,000, respectively, even though they are not the owners at the time of the race.

The Futurity of 1923, too, will take its place as one of the richest fixtures for 2-year-olds in the country. This race will have an added value of $10,000, which will bring it a long way back to money mark of other years. Last year the race had a guaranteed value of $30,000 and exceeded this so much that Step Lightly's share was more than $35,000.

The Autumn Gold Cup was such a success last fall that it was decided to renew it and combine it with the Jockey club stakes, a fixture for 3-year-olds at one mile and a half which was a failure. The event for next year will be known as the Jockey Club's Gold Cup and will be a weight for age race for 3-year-olds and upward at two miles. It will have an added value of $10,000 in addition to a gold cup valued at $2,500.

The Lawrence Realization stakes, another autumn classic, has been materially increased in value, the 1923 event having an added value of $7,500.

Maj. Belmont, the president of the Westchester Racing association, has announced that in all stakes the fourth horse shall save his stake.

BIG DULUTH MEN ARE GOING BACK

Clothiers Have Lost Their Stride; Grand Team Is Strong.

The Big Duluth quint of the Major Bowling league certainly needs tuning up. This precious five includes Fritz Stiegler, Murphy, Talerico, Michalek and Sturm, among the best bowlers in the Northwest. For several years the Big Duluth team has either won the flag in the Major league or been the runner-up. But this season the clothiers have failed to hit their stride and are not piling up the wood of which they are capable.

Last evening Big Duluth defeated the Proctor Commercial club team in three straight games, but the contest revealed that the latter was especially weak, while the former was only commonly strong.

The Grand and Clyde teams showed to excellent advantage in last evening's games, both bowling consistently high in all three games, two of which the Grand copped after losing the opener. In beating the Clydes, the Grands had to hang up all the high team scores of the evening. In their second game they registered 985 and their three-game total was 2,811, both of which carried off the embroidered ice pick. Wold of this team shot for a three-game total of 615, while Barney, his teammate, cracked the timber for 608.

The Good Fellowship club team took the off game from the Strands and the Wold Lunch won two out of three from the Patricks.

BOARD OF TRADE PIT INVADED

Busy Grain Buyers Pause to Hear D. C. C. Solicitor Talk.

Board of trade members, busy selling and buying wheat in the pit at 10:30 this morning, paused for three minutes and listened to a rapid-fire talk by J. H. Ingwersen, vice president of the First National bank, on why they should all become members of the Duluth Curling club. The short speech, delivered under these unusual circumstances brought grand results and it's safe to predict that every live member of the local board of trade will enter the D. C. C. fold.

Only on two other occasions has business in the B. of T. pit here ever been stopped. Once was when the United States declared that a state of war existed and the other when the armistice was signed.

Membership solicitors of the D. C. C. went to work yesterday and before evening brought in sixty-two applications. This day's work, it is expected, will more than double that of yesterday's and the club officers believe that the roster will be built up to the full quota of 800 by the end of the week.

The unusual curling, skating, carnival and dancing features which the club will have this winter, together with the big reduction in the cost of the initiation fee make it easy for the solicitors to sign up new members.

MATHEWSON MAY REGAIN HEALTH

New York, Nov. 9.—A dispatch from Saranac Lake declares that Christy Mathewson, former star major leaguer, is recovering from his illness. After more than a year's fight against tuberculosis, which set in while the diamond favorite was with the army in France, he is making progress toward health, and physicians declare there is a good chance for his full recovery.

Although he still spends his days reclining in a darkened room, Mathewson is said by his medical adviser, Dr Packard, to have the balance of chance in his favor. His strength will not yet permit of taking up the fresh air cure, but treatments of gas have improved the condition of the affected right lung, his fever has vanished and he is gaining in weight and strength.

CAN ALLISON K. O. ALBERTS?

Morgan Park Boxing Fans Move in With Ton of Lucre.

Can Kid Alberts, Duluth lightweight, who has never been knocked off his feet, who has never experienced the sensation of a bleeding nose and who has never even been "barked" by the blows of forty rugged opponents in the roped arena, go ten rounds with Neil Allison, the Morgan Park slugger?

That is the one big and interesting question in the minds of the uptown followers of the mitten pastime. A majority of the fans residing on the east side of the Point of Rocks lean to the belief that Alberts will not only go the full distance, but will win the battle on a decision.

Morgan Park experts in the game of hit and miss are nicely assured that Allison will knock Alberts for a goal before the arrival of the tenth session. They not only fervently believe this, but they are today moving a dray load of real money to the uptown districts to be placed at 1 to 2 that Allison will stop Alberts and at even money that Allison will get the decision if the bout goes the full distance.

Stiff Wagers Offered.

A wager of $500 to $1,000 was placed last evening that Allison stops Alberts and another bet of $1,000 was offered that Allison will get the decision if the mill lasts ten rounds. The latter wager was only partly covered, but it is probable that all of it will be taken care of before the curfew sounds tonight.

For more than a year Morgan Park fans have been clamoring for Allison to get a chance at Alberts. This was the one fight they had set their hearts on and now that they have it they intend to play it to the very limit.

Feeling Is Intense.

Feeling on both sides of the fence is so keen and well defined that it is well for an outsider to keep his nose out of the argument. For this reason al of the fans are exercising unusual care in every opinion they express with the exception of here and there where conversational battles break out.

Superior fans are coming over in a body to see their pride and joy, Kid Billings, in his return to the ring pastime after laying off since the row over in Europe. In meeting Battling Hugo, the Billings Park welter will be tackling a real fighter, one who can both box and punch. Hugo has met some of the best welters in the Northwest and has always given a grand account of himself. This should be a whale of a mix.

Heavy Battle Should Be Good.

Bob Johnson, Duluth's own heavyweight, will get a severe test when he stacks up against Kid Clancy of Butte, the St. Louis county road builder. Clancy can sock right merrily with either paw and fairly eats up punishment. Johnson defeated Jack Gordon at the last club show without even having to warm up and his many friends, while they know that he will have a harder tussle with Clancy, look to him to win by a knockout. This should be a fast mill for both boys are aggressive and love to punch.

Duluth fans will see a fast, hard-hitting boy in Ed Frantl of Bovey who is booked to step six rounds with Harry Boyle of Philadelphia. Al Freske and Kid Proctor, middleweights, will open the show with a scheduled six-round bout.

The 3,500 seats which have been provided for the entertainment are going at a rapid rate and it looks now as if everything will be sold out before the day of the show.

SHE HAD STEADY PAIN ACROSS BACK

Los Angeles Woman Tells Others How to Save Themselves Much Misery.

When women of middle age lose their strength and color, are filled with aches and pains and find it difficult to attend to their ordinary household work without extreme fatigue, they need a tonic. It is a time in their lives when the blood needs attention. To neglect it may mean years of subsequent misery.

In Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. S. T. Hawley of 3114 Lasalle avenue, is telling her friends how she found relief when many suggested remedies had failed.

"When I was about forty," she says, there was a general decline in my health. I was not confined to bed for any length of time but my strength seemed to give out entirely. I lost color and was nervous. My sleep was not good, my appetite was fickle and I had severe pains in my stomach as if there was a lump in it. I had a steady pain across my back. Nothing that I tried seemed to do me any good for a long time.

"One day I heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through a friend who had been benefited by them. After I had used one box I could see a decided improvement. I used four boxes in all at that time and my strength came back, my nervousness disappeared and the stomach trouble and pains in the back went away. I have used the pills since as a tonic and received immediate benefit. I am only too glad to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they are reliable and always do what is claimed for them."

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic for the blood and nerves. They are for men and women but they are especially useful for growing girls and for women who suffer as Mrs. Hawley did because they build up the blood to meet the special demands made upon it.

A valuable booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free upon request. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

KICK ON COAL SERVICE MADE

Commissioner Phillips Says There Is Discrimination; No Solution by Council.

Commissioner P. G. Phillips at the city council meeting yesterday asked if it were not possible for the city council to pass an ordinance compelling the Duluth coal companies to supply West Duluth and the district beyond Fortieth avenue west with coal on the same terms of delivery that is being given the rest of the city. City Attorney John E. Samuelson gave it as his opinion that in case such an ordinance could be passed, it was doubtful if it could be enforced.

Commissioner Phillips charged discrimination against that section of the city in favor of the downtown, Lakeside and Woodland districts. He informed the council that West Duluth was on a par with Hibbing, Chisholm, Bemidji and any other city this side of the Canadian boundary line and like these other cities would not be supplied with coal until after Duluth had been supplied and it then would have to wait its turn.

Excessive Delivery Charges.

He cited a number of cases of lack of fuel and declared that unless relief was given that portion of the city at once there would be considerable suffering. At the present time, he said, Fortieth avenue west was the dividing line and an extra charge was made for delivery. The figures he gave were that at the docks on Garfield avenue coal could be purchased for $14.90, delivery charges to Fortieth avenue was 50 cents extra, from Fortieth to Fiftieth avenues west 65 cents, and beyond Fiftieth avenue west, 90 cents a ton was charged. He also asserted that coal was not being shipped to West Duluth in cars this winter, but all delivering was made by teams and trucks, where if made to the distributing points in West Duluth by freight it would mean a cost of only 40 cents a ton. Now it costs West Duluth residents 90 cents a ton to have it delivered.

Other commissioners called Mr. Phillips' attention to the prices charged for delivery to other parts of the city and suggested that West Duluth was not the only part of the city that had to pay similar delivery charges. Mr. Phillips declared that at the present time there is a shortage of hard coal in West Duluth amounting to 3,085 tons, not counting an estimated shortage by a dealer who claims an additional shortage of 1,000 tons.

Question of Legality.

His inquiry as to the possibility of the city entering the fuel business brought an opinion from Mr. Samuelson that the city could not legally do so. He told of a bill that was submitted to the state legislature three years ago, but which was defeated by the Minneapolis coal companies and some of the senators on the ground that it was unconstitutional. He cited a similar condition in Maine, the state constitution of which is similar to that of Minnesota, and said the constitutionality had been tried out in the supreme court, which has held in favor of the cities conducting municipal fuel markets. The case of Two Harbors, which has a municipal coal dock, was brought up. Mr. Samuelson said it was not a legal yard, but, as there is no competition there, no one has complained. The only way Duluth can enter the fuel business is to have a bill passed through the legislature, he said.

The proposed plumbing ordinance was given its second reading yesterday and at the request of a large delegation of real estate and building managers present, it was laid over until Dec. 6, when it would be open for discussion. Whitney Wall notified the council that the real estate men and building managers were opposed to the ordinance and wished an opportunity to protest its passage.

Woman's Council Protest.

The resolutions adopted by the Woman's Council and other women's leagues condemning the vice conditions of the city were read to the council and an acknowledgment of them ordered. The resolutions were then referred to the city council as a whole for consideration.

Commissioner J. A. Farrell asked members of the council to visit with him the new work on Railroad street and the crossing of the Great Northern railroad trestle, which he character'zed as the most dangerous spot in the city. He explained that there are three bents supporting the trestle that are placed directly in the street and something would have to be done to eliminate these, as the railroad company has refused to remove them. The subject was referred to the city attorney.

Insists on Work Beginning.

Gust Frederickson appeared before the council again in relation to the gas and water extension to property owners near Second avenue west and Eighth street. This work has been held up for different reasons, the principal one being the excessive cost of laying the mains, due to the large amount of rock. Mr. Frederickson insisted on behalf of the other property owners that the work be done at once regardless of the cost. The council, however, advised that Commissioner Phillips confer with the other property owners before the work is started.

A sanitary sewer was ordered in Peabody street from Forty-second avenue east to Forty-third avenue east with outlet in Forty-third avenue, the estimated cost of which was given as $2,233.44. The contract for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Fifty-seventh avenue west, in Main street was awarded to Eklund, Forsberg & Olson on their bid of $7,849.35.

DULUTHIANS HEAD STATE HUMANE SOCIETY; SECOND YEAR FOR DR. RYAN

REV. A. W. RYAN.

JOHN G. ROSS.

Rev. A. W. Ryan and John G. Ross, both of Duluth, were elected president and secretary, respectively, at a meeting of the Minnesota State Humane society at St. Paul yesterday.

An outstanding feature of the meeting was the passage of a resolution urging that the next legislature make the marriage laws more stringent and that a provision be made that five days elapse between the application for and the granting of a marriage license. The resolution also urged a law compelling both parties of the marriage to appear in person before the proper authorities before being granted a license.

Dr. Ryan was also the president of the state society during the last year. Both men are actively identified with humane work in Duluth. Dr. Ryan has been president of the St. Louis County Humane society for a quarter of a century. Mr. Ross is the agent of the county society.

SERVICE-AT-COST FRANCHISE CARRIED

New York, Nov. 9.—Henry L. Doherty & Co. have received word from Frank R. Coates, president of the Toledo Railways & Light company, that the service-at-cost franchise for the Toledo Railways & Light company was carried at the election last week on a vote of 45,574 for the franchise and 17,975 against the franchise. Both municipal ownership propositions were badly defeated. On one municipal ownership proposition, there were 44,996 votes against and 16,369 votes for, and on the other municipal ownership proposition there were 42,764 votes against and 17,695 votes for. This result probably settles the Toledo Railways & Light company franchise fight which has been waged for more than fifteen years.

RUSH TO ENLIST FOR SERVICE IN GERMANY

New York, Nov. 9.—So great was the rush of recruits for service in Germany when enlistments were thrown open on Nov. 1 that before telegrams discontinuing acceptances could go out from Maj.-Gen. P. C. Harris, the adjutant general of the army, to army recruiting officers throughout the country, twice the number of men desired had enrolled. There were 200 infantry vacancies, and in six hours 250 had enlisted, but before they could be stopped, 338 had joined. For the fifty-six vacancies in other branches, ninety men got in under the wire before they could be held up from Washington, a total of 428.

Following the exhibition dances, there will be a general dance in which the audience is to participate. The best of music has been promised.

ENDOWMENT FUND IS MAKING PROGRESS

Announcement that the New York university endowment fund had gone over the top for the first $1,000,000 was made by John C. Neimeyer, community chairman, Duluth district, New York university endowment fund committee.

In addition to the Schiff bequest recently announced, New York university has just received $50,000 under the will of James Stokes, of the class of '63. A like sum was bequeathed by the late Jacob H. Schiff, the noted banker and philanthropist.

Alumni and nongraduates alike, from all over the country are giving generous support to the university's campaign fund for $6,450,000 for the increase of instructors' salaries and classroom facilities.

NEED "BALLAST" RATION

Cause of Leg Weakness Among Young Wisconsin Chickens.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 9.—Lack of suitable roughage in feed rations has been found to be the cause of leg weakness, a scourge of baby chicks, by the university experiment station, it is announced.

Results of experiments conducted by J. G. Halpin of the department of poultry husbandry and E. B. Hart and H. Steenbeck, agricultural chemists, point to decreased losses among Wisconsin poultry raisers if proper precautions are taken.

Leg weakness, according to the investigators, is not due to lack of food constituents, such as protein, salts and vitamines, but to a lack of "ballast" in the ration. They say that unless the chick will eat sufficient roughage on its own accord, it should be included in the regular feed ration.

MAY SEND BIGGER SHIP FOR DULUTH RESERVES

The navy department is inclined to give Duluth a much larger and more modern cruiser for training purposes and this will be done if the consent of Canada can be obtained, and little difficulty is expected from that source, according to Capt. Guy A. Eaton, who has just returned from a conference at Great Lakes, Ill. A number of ships have been suggested, among them the Tacoma, a cruiser about 350 feet long, the Nashville and the Paducah. The Tacoma would have to be cut in two to get it through the Welland locks, he said, but this was about the only difficulty.

Duluth is being recognized as one of the coming naval training bases by the navy department and the need of having a modern and efficient training ship has been realized, said Capt. Eaton. In case the new cruiser is sent to Duluth, the Essex, while a good vessel, will be used solely as a training vessel and will remain at the base, said the captain.

Capt. Eaton has been authorized to enroll 400 men for the state naval militia which is now being organized. He has already enlisted about 150. Discharge papers of all reservists who served during the war can be obtained at Capt. Eaton's office in the Armory and an effort will be made to have these men re-enlist.

SIMPLE PLAN RESTORES HEALTH AND YOUTH

Hundreds of Thousands of Families Finding Health and Happiness by Following Plan.

H. H. Von Schlick is known to millions of men and women as a human benefactor.

Marokeff, at 96 years, was a physical giant, with mind clear, eye keen and complexion ruddy.

Marokeff explained that in his country the natives never depart from nature in forming health plans. The rugged children are kept in condition by 14 herbs which free the system of poisons, purify the blood and kidneys, keep the stomach in condition and regulate the liver.

"I'll make it for you," he told Mr. Von Schlick. "It is composed of leaves, bark, flowers, roots, plants, seed, berries and herbs. You will note a new feeling."

Mr. Von Schlick tried this nature tea; Marokeff's formula was a great discovery. He took on a new lease of life. Today at near 60 he is younger than when he began using the tea at 40.

Von Schlick secured the herbs from Europe, Asia and Africa. Von Schlick's sickly wife became strong. She gave it to women friends. Mr. Von Schlick consulted physicians, who tested its merits and who are today giving it to their patients.

During the terrible 1918-19-20 influenza epidemics Bulgarian Blood Tea was used by countless thousands of sufferers. They met with marvelous success. Millions of people took it steaming hot to kill colds and guard against the 'flu."

The fame of Bulgarian Tea spread. Today it is used by millions of sufferers in every state in the Union fighting off old age weaknesses. They include happy girls budding into womanhood or women crossing precarious thresholds of life. All praise and recommend it. Men recover their strength and vitality, the blood becomes rich and pure and the fire and spring of youth returns to those who were in despair. To fortify the system against Colds, Influenza, Pneumonia and winter ills nothing equals this wonderful medicine.

All druggists now keep Bulgarian Blood Tea in stock, but owing to the enormous demand immediate application to your druggist is urged on account of the limited supply. Distributors are authorized to return the full purchase price if it does not prove to be highly beneficial to the health. This evidence of faith in the power of Bulgarian Blood Tea is the guarantee of the Marvel Products Company, sole manufacturers, Marvel Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., who authorize this public announcement.

ON THE IRON RANGES

RANGERS WILL OBSERVE DAY

Naval Militia From Duluth to Figure in Virginia Doings Thursday.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Armistice day celebration committee declared today that the snow will not interfere with the celebration plans. Preparations are being made for 2,000 ex-service men, as delegations are coming from all parts of Northern Minnesota.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—While apparently the big celebration of Armistice day on the Mesaba will be held here reports are that various other places will pay tribute to the World war fighters on that occasion in different manners. Mayor William Empie set the ball rolling yesterday by issuing a proclamation urging that Thursday afternoon be set aside as a half holiday "so that the ex-soldiers and their friends be given permission to enjoy this program which has been assembled, that the buildings of the business and residential districts be properly decorated, that the school children be given an opportunity to witness the parade and share in the joys which a day of this character means to the American people and that all business, as near as possible, cease at 12 o'clock until 6 and that where it is possible to have returned soldiers released from their obligations and duties that this be done."

One of the big features of the day here will be the coming here of the naval militia from Duluth, who will figure in the day's doings.

Will Send Delegations.

Range towns are expected to send large delegations to Virginia and some of them have announced that they are making special efforts to interest the members. The Hibbing and Eveleth posts expect to send delegations. Hibbing men will be attracted largely by the football game between Hibbing and Virginia.

The parade will start promptly at 1:30 in front of the county building. Each range town has pledged a delegation in uniform.

The football game will be at 3 o'clock at Oliver park and the barbecue will be held from 5:30 to 7:30. Rev. C. W. Ramshaw, former chaplain of the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth field artillery, will deliver an address at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. A dance will be held in both gymnasiums of the high school building beginning at 9 and until 12 p. m. Tw ocomplete orchestras will furnish music.

According to announcement by Commander Kelly of the Duluth naval militia, the delegation from that organization will consist of between forty and fifty men. The Duluth men will be met in Virginia by Lieut. Commander Joseph Carhart, formerly of Duluth. Lieut. Roy Mills and probably Commander Kelly will accompany the men on the trip. Besides these men a large delegation of other Duluth ex-service men will attend the celebration here.

Expect Hibbing Holiday.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A special appeal to all Hibbing merchants to decorate their places of business, their show windows and to display flags on Armistice day will be issued by Mayor Victor L. Power.

The mayor, who is in Duluth on law business, is expected to issue a proclamation calling upon Hibbing people to generally observe the day and pay attention to its importance.

Service men are going ahead with their plans for the day and are asking all of the service men of the city to turn out for the parade Thursday evening. After the parade the soldiers will attend one of the biggest dances of the year at the Armory.

Floral tributes to the relatives of local soldiers who died in the service will be presented Thursday.

Part of the Armistice day program will consist of sending these tributes to the relatives of soldiers living in Hibbing and immediate vicinity. A committee of service men will call upon the relatives and present the floral tribute.

The service men will place the proposition before the park board and there is no doubt that the members will gladly provide the flowers.

Banks, business houses and schools will be closed all day Thursday if a recommendation made by the directors of the Hibbing Commercial club yesterday afternoon is complied with. Armistice day not yet having been proclaimed a legal holiday by the governor, the local civic club took the initiative in making the recommendation for a holiday.

Nashwauk to Observe Day.

Nashwauk, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Thursday, Armistice day, this village will give an official reception and dance for all ex-service men of this village, when the medals which have been obtained for all of the local ex-service men will be presented by Mayor A. B. Dahl at the high school auditorium and every one is invited. After a few speeches the presentation of the medals will take place and is to be followed by a dance and luncheon. Di Marco's orchestra will furnish the music.

The next regular meeting of the American Legion will take place at the legion clubrooms at the village hall Monday night.

CUTS HIBBING JAIL WALL AND ESCAPES

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cutting his way through a two-foot wall between the men's and the women's part of the jail, Edward Carlson, 16 years old, held at the local county jail for the alleged robbery of the Park hotel at Eveleth, made his escape some time early this morning.

Carlson is said to have used an iron pipe to batter the two-foot wall of plaster, brick and steel. The door of the women's jail was open, giving the prisoner access to the sheriff's office where he opened a window and jumped to the ground. He made his way across the country. The police have no track of him.

GIRLS' ADVISOR OF HIBBING HONORED

It is said that Miss Dalton is the only woman connected with high school work receiving such appointment. The work of the committee is the investigation of health among girls. The committee will report at the next meeting of the conference to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 27 to March 3. Miss Dalton will attend this meeting.

As girls' advisor, with headquarters in the Hibbing high school building, Miss Dalton advises girls of the local schools as to their school work, school activities and conduct both inside and outside of school.

NEED $45,000 FOR HIBBING SOLDIERS

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Approximately $45,000 in soldiers' bonus bonds must be subscribed to by local banks in order to pay up claims of local ex-service men who have not yet received their bonuses, it was reported to the Commercial club board directors yesterday. The Commercial club has made arrangements with local banks to take up the bonds and assurance to ex-service men that they will receive their claims soon was given.

A resolution urging the Minnesota state fair board to appoint D. D. McEachin of Hibbing to succeed the late John Dwan of Two Harbors as member of the board was passed by the directors.

Members of the board present at the meeting were: S. V. Saxby, R. W. Hitchcock, Arthur Egge, Louis Newcombe, John Curran, Edward Eckstrom, C. C. Alexander, S. C. Scott and F. A. Wildes.

VIRGINIA-HIBBING GAME IS NOW OFF

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hope of Virginia football fans that the Virginia and Hibbing high school football elevens would clash this season was shattered yesterday when Hibbing positively refused to consider giving Virginia her turn at a home game. As the last game between the two schools was played at Hibbing, the locals declined to go to that village next Saturday.

Following the conference between the authorities of the two schools several weeks ago, the basketball games were actually arranged between the two schools, as well as one football game, which was dependent on the weather. It was agreed that final arrangements were to be made yesterday.

Virginia yesterday took the matter up with Hibbing, both schools having kept the date open. Hibbing, however, declared her determination to demand that the game be played in Hibbing.

PLUMBERS' STRIKE NOW HURTING SOUTH HIBBING

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interior work on buildings in South Hibbing is being held in check because of the strike of plumbers which has not yet been settled. Men imported here to work have left and although there have been a few men at work on the different buildings, no marked progress is being made and the delay is worrying contractors.

The hospital building requires considerable plumbing and will have to delay opening, it is feared. The plumbers walked out when they demanded an increase in their hourly wages to comply with the same scale that other plumbing concerns in Hibbing were paying. When a satisfactory agreement had not been reached after the men returned to work to await an anouncement from the employing contractor, the men again walked out for good and the majority of them left town.

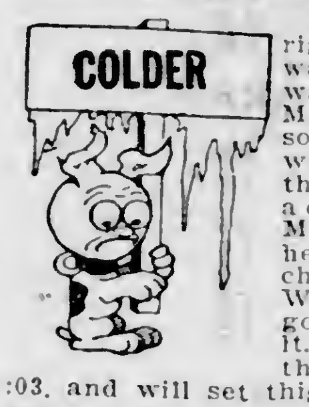
FAIR; AT OR NEAR ZERO; MODERATING ON WEDNESDAY



Winter jumped right in without warning. Sunday was delightful, but Monday started something and the weather man says that Old Man Wind, accompanied by Mons. Zero, will help rub in the change tonight. Well, autumn was good while we had it. The sun rose this morning at 7:03, and will set this evening at 4:41, giving nine hours and thirty-eight minutes of sunlight. Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours a disturbance of considerable intensity developed in the Northwest. Its center last night was over Minnesota and this morning over Upper Lake Huron. In the meantime snow or rain fell over most of Canada, the Lake region and Northwestern states, and rain over the Central valleys. Westerly gales have resulted in the Lake region, and storm warnings are displayed at all lake ports. An area of high barometer centered over Montana is attended by a marked fall in temperature over all of the Northwest and Central and Western Canada. The thermometer has dropped 20 deg. to about 40 deg. since 7 a. m. Monday in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the Dakotas and Western Minnesota, reaching zero or somewhat below in Southern Saskatchewan and Northwestern North Dakota."

LOSING INTEREST IN ONLY RANGE MILITIA

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Court-martials have been resorted to in order to compel members of Company M to attend drills at the Armory and those who cannot give a good reason must appear before the court and face sentence.

Although Company M is up to strength, the attendance at drills the past few weeks has been discouraging to Capt. George Healy who insists that they report for drill.

That Company M faces a battle for existence and that the range may lose its only militia company is the problem that confronts military officers here. By next October the enlistments of the majority of the men will have expired and as the men are in business they cannot devote their time to militia affairs so the majority of them will not re-enlist.

The American Legion, Soldiers & Sailors club, Commercial club, Kiwanis club and other local organizations will be asked to arouse interest in new enlistments and if that is not forthcoming, the local company will have to disband.

SOUTH HIBBING WANTS MORE NIGHT POLICE

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—One attempt at robbery and one successful one, early Saturday morning in South Hibbing prompted residents in that locality to ask for increased police protection, after dark.

Two burglars were foiled in their efforts to enter the Stein drug store when heavy bars placed against a rear window prevented admittance. The burglars, evidently amateurs, broke the glass in the window and the noise attracted people over the drug store who turned on the electric lights. The men ran down an alley and made their escape.

The Roche meat market in South Hibbing was entered later and a small sum of money taken from a cash register. Entrance was made through a rear window.

PRESIDENT ASKED FOR COAL RELIEF

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Wilson was appealed to by the city council last night to investigate the charge that the Two Harbors municipal coal dock was being discriminated against by dealers and to cause sufficient coal to be moved here to supply the community for the winter.

In 1912 a similar appeal was made and enough hard coal to supply the city was immediately shipped following action by the president. Every effort has been made to purchase hard coal through the Duluth and Superior dealers and no coal has been received and there does not seem to be any possibility of receiving any from those sources.

Independent dealers have received a very small amount and when it is considered that 90 per cent af the residents of the city are dependent upon hard coal for heating their homes the situation is very serious.

The city council placed orders last summer for a sufficient tonnage of hard coal but their orders have apparently been disregarded. Much difficulty has been experienced for several years in securing enough hard coal and in the season of 1918-1919 it was necessary to threaten Federal action in order to get orders filled through the fuel administration.

It is expected, however, that the president will cause the needed amount of hard coal to be moved here as it is stated that the Duluth docks have a fair stock of hard coal.

Message to President.

After discussing the proposition from various angles the aldermen and mayor last night decided upon the following telegram which was sent to President Woodrow Wilson at the White House, Washington, D. C.:

"The undersigned, acting for the citizens of the city of Two Harbors, wish to call your immediate attention to the hard coal situation in Two Harbors. The city of Two Harbors is operating a municipal coal yard and this season has been unable to get any hard coal whatsoever, although we have personally interviewed several coal companies in Duluth and Superior and also communicated with several outside of these cities.

"We sincerely think and believe that we are unjustly discriminated against. We therefore wish that some immediate action would be taken by you to relieve this serious condition and do everything in your power to see that the people of the city of Two Harbors are supplied with hard coal. Resolution passed by the city council is following by mail.—August Omtvedt, mayor; Edward Kronman, president city council; P. A. Cullen, city clerk."

FACTS ABOUT TANLAC ARE GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Special Representative Tells Why It Has Become Most Talked of Medicine in the World Today.

NO GREAT MYSTERY ABOUT IT, HE SAYS

Merit Alone Has Confirmed It in the Minds of the People All Over the American Continent.

A. J. Kolling, special representative in the State of Minnesota for Tanlac, the medicine that has created such a sensation all over the United States and Canada, gives some highly interesting facts about Tanlac and the remarkable results achieved by it.

"Contrary to popular opinion," he stated, "there is no great mystery about Tanlac, except in so far as the chemistry of the human body itself and what it does with substances taken into it, is a mystery. Some of the ingredients of Tanlac have been known and used as medicines for centuries. Others are of more recent discovery, but every one of them is of recognized therapeutic value and used by the medical profession everywhere. Tanlac is simply a commingling of these medicinal elements in a way hitherto unknown and which brings out their curative and reconstructive powers to a most remarkable degree. Briefly, it allays irritation of the stomach, strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, builds up and revitalizes the whole system, and gives the body new powers of resistance and strength. Gratifying gains in weight are not uncommon, especially where a person has suffered from under-nourishment brought on by dyspepsia, indigestion, illness, operation or other causes.

"It is a demonstrated fact in medical science that the stomach is the starting point of most of the ills that afflict the human body, and many of the so-called diseases are not diseases at all, but reflex symptoms of the stomach derangements of the weakened condition of the body that naturally follows. Some kinds of rheumatism, gastritis, palpitation, nervousness, kidney disorders and liver complaints are among the more common troubles developed through the stomach. Scores of other diseases have been traced to the same source.

"Tanlac was made especially to overcome these stomach complaints and the various so-called diseases and symptoms that follow them, but the astonishing reconstructive powers revealed by it have not only astonished the general public, but have somewhat surprised even the originators of the medicine themselves. Thousands of letters reach the Tanlac offices from all parts of North America telling of remarkable results derived by people who have suffered for years without being able heretofore to find relief.

"Naturally these remarkable achievements have spread the fame of Tanlac to all quarters of the continent, and the demand for it has necessitated working the laboratories night and day.

"The tremendous popularity of Tanlac grows steadily instead of diminishing and can be explained in only one way—merit. Its remarkable restorative effects seem to be more permanent than hitherto believed possible. Thousands of persons who took it when it was first introduced five years ago report that they are still enjoying excellent health, and millions of American homes are now using Tanlac as the family medicine after having first tried it out thoroughly."

Tanlac is sold in Duluth at the W. A. Abbett drug stores under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. Also the leading druggist in every town throughout the Northwest. Wm. RAINY LAKE GIVES BONUS TO FAITHFUL

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—All of the employes of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company who remained on the job and those who presented themselves for work and worked during the labor troubles last summer are to receive a bonus of $50 each, according to announcement today by General Manager T. S. Whitten. The large mill, which closed Saturday night for repairs, is still down and men are busy making repairs. When it will reopen at the reduced wage scale is not known. The smaller mill is still running. While some of the men are said to have been displeased with the wage reduction it is stated today that the payment of the bonus brought better satisfaction.

As far as known the men in the woods continued to work after the announcement of the 10 per cent cut.

Mr. Whitten is not disposed to amplify his printed statement posted about the works giving the reasons for the wage reduction.

MARKET HAS SHARP BREAK

Wheat Slumps to New Low Levels; Flaxseed Still Goes Down.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov 9.—New lows were set in wheat prices in the late trading and the market was weak up to the close. December spring closed 8c off at $1.69¾ asked, March 7¼c off at $1.73¼ asked, December winter 8c off at $1.68¾. December durum 6c off at $1.77 and March 7c off at $1.75 asked. Spot rye closed 3½c off at $1.53½. December 3½c off at $1.46½ and May 3½c off at $1.44½. Oats closed 2⅜c off at 46¾c for spot and barley unchanged at 75-92c for spot.

Wheat prices were under renewed pressure again today as a result of urgent selling, and the catching of stop-loss orders. The market was strong at the opening on reported export buying and the working of a substantial tonnage of wheat and rye for prompt shipment. Buyers later backed away and quotations weakened persistently through the session. Liberal selling of grain for export on the part of the Canadian trade and heavy receipts at Winnipeg were bearish factors.

December spring wheat broke 5¼c to $1.72½ up till the noon-hour, and March broke 5c to $1.76. December durum broke 4c to $1.79, and March, 4c to $1.78.

New low price levels were set in rye with December 2¼c off at $1.48½, and May, 1¼c off at $1.46¾.

Barley was in limited demand and sales of it were put through within a range of 75@92c, mainly to feeders.

There was on track here for the day, 261 cars of all grains, including: Spring wheat, 8; durum, 135; winter, 2; corn, 3 oats, 4 rye, 55; barley, 25; flax, 14, and bonded spring, 15. Duluth commission houses have received advices of better shipments of wheat and other grains to the markets during the last two days, and a more liberal movement is expected up till the close of the navigation season in spite of the reported movement among farmers to hold for higher prices.

Flax.

Precipitate breaks came in flax with selling developing at the end on the execution of selling orders that had accumulated overnight, the November future opened 10½c off at $2.40, and the other futures were off 11c. Bearish influences came in the lack of crushers' support and the continued accumulating of stocks in the elevators that have been burdensome for some time. The Buenos Aires market was also off. December flax opening there at $1.90.

November flax closed 16½c off at $2.34; December, 17c off at $2.34, and May 16c off at $2.45.

At Winnipeg, November flax closed 17c off at $2.35, and May, 17c off at $2.31.

A fee of $2,525 for the filing of articles of incorporation—the largest to be paid for many months—was received in the office of the secretary of state at St. Paul Monday afternoon from the Northwestern Consolidated Milling company of Minneapolis.

The company was organized thirty years ago and the term of the corporation had expired. The articles filed yesterday renew the corporate existence of the company for thirty years and the capital stock was increased from $2,225,000 to $5,000,000 and the par value of the shares increased from $50 to $100. New shares will be issued for the balance.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Rallies in foreign exchange led to higher prices today for wheat. Buying on the part of houses with Eastern connections found offerings light. The absence of selling pressure was ascribed largely to the drastic nature of recent declines. Opening quotations, which varied from ¼c off to 1½c advance, with December $1.84 to $1.85½ and March $1.82½ to $1.83½, were followed by gains all around, although interrupted by a transient severe setback.

Subsequently all deliveries fell to new low figures, the lowest in four years. Buying has been mainly for shorts and when this support gave out the market was greatly weakened. Reports were circulated that Kansas bankers were discussing curtailment of credits. The close was heavy, 6¼ to 7½c net lower, with December $1.77 to $1.78 and March $1.75 to $1.75¼.

Corn showed firmness with wheat. After opening unchanged to ⅜c lower, including December at 81¼c to 81½c the market scored slight gains on most deliveries.

Later corn along with wheat and oats dropped to the lowest prices yet this season. The close was nervous, 2⅞ to 3½c net lower, with December 78 to 78½c.

Oats reflected the upturns of other grain, starting unchanged to ⅜c lower, May 57⅜c to 57½c, and then gradually hardening.

Provisions were depressed by weakness in the hog market.

The United States Coal company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, has bought coal lands in Barbour county, W. Va., and is preparing to develop them on a large scale.

• • •

The copper market is reported to be rather more active than before the election. Domestic inquiry is said to be fairly good for the first quarter of next year delivery. The price to domestic consumers is between 14¾@15 cents a pound delivered, with the price depending upon the customer, size of the order and the time of delivery. Sales to British buyers are small owing to the coal strike and on account of its being cheaper for them to buy in Australia or Spain through the low rate of sterling exchange, and the high rates of freights being asked on copper by the ocean shipping companies.

• • •

Claus A. Spreckles, president of the Federal Sugar Refining company, has expressed the opinion that sugar prices must come down still further. He claims that there never was a real sugar shortage and that planters and others believing in higher prices have been living in a fool's paradise. He pointed out that there is on hand 1,250,000 tons of sugar, and that half of Europe cannot buy anything. In his opinion sugar prices should get back to about their pre-war basis.

FLOUR LESS THAN $10 BARREL AT WHOLESALE

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 9.—For the first time in almost four years flour sold under the $10 a barrel mark at the mills here today. Quotations on family patents broke 35 to 75 cents today, making today's range of prices $9.65@10.00 a barrel. Yesterday's sharp decline in wheat was given as the cause.

FRENCH PRESIDENT FULLY INAUGURATED

Paris, Nov. 9.—President Millerand today paid his first official presidential visit to the Paris city hall. This ceremony is considered the official inauguration of the president, similar to the fourth of March ceremonies in Washington following presidential elections, so far as the formal solemnities are concerned.

The city hall was profusely decorated with tri-color flags and the square was likewise brightly draped. President Millerand at the ceremonial renewed the obligation he had undertaken at Versailles when he was invested with the powers of the republic's executive.

MORE GRAIN NOW MOVING

In spite of the holding back on the part of growers, a better movement was shown in receipts of grain at Duluth elevators during October. Receipts of all grains for the month aggregated 11,774,316 bu as compared with only 6,656,529 bu during the same period last year.

The movement of wheat for the month was more than double last year's total, receipts amounting to 9,430,243 bu, compared with 3,803,902 bu. Under the impetus of export inquiry, receipts of rye were 2,403,684 bu, against 1,994,738 bu last year. Barley receipts increased 664,832 bu over last year, and receipts of flaxseed showed a gain of 683,000 bu.

Shipments from the elevators fell off, the aggregate for the month amounting to 12,036,359 bu, against 21,230,332 bu last year. That was due to the slow export and Eastern millers' demand for wheat, of which shipments to the East fell off 9,365,000 bu.

Comparative receipts and shipments of grain from Duluth elevators during October as compiled by Charles F. Macdonald, secretary of the Duluth board of trade, were:

DISENFRANCHISEMENT OF NEGROES CHARGED

New York, Nov. 9.—Charging "open and flagrant disenfranchisement of colored voters in the presidential election," directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today telegraphed to Representative Isaac Seigel, chairman of the house committee on the census, urging enforcement of the Fourteenth amendment and "consequent reduction of representation in Southern states in which colored voters are disenfranchised."

U. S. STEEL IS VERY HEAVY

Declines to Its Lowest Quotation in Several Years.

New York, Nov. 9.—There was little change at the opening of today's stock market from recent unsettled conditions. Pressure against oils, motors and steels was resumed, Mexican Petroleum, Bosch Magneto, Vanadium Steel and Hide and Leather preferred soon extending yesterday's declines by 1 to 3½ points, Atlantic Gulf, International Paper and United States Rubber also becoming heavy. Rails were mixed, losses ranging from fractions to 2 points in "Nickel Plate," Baltimore & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Missouri Pacific and Pittsburgh & West Virginia, while Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, St. Paul and Reading were firm to strong. Foreign exchange conditions were more reassuring, the London rate recovering 2 cents.

Buying of better-class rails and oils and recovery of British exchange infused a measure of stability to the market, but not before new low records for the year had been made by various speculative issues. Prominent among these were General Motors, Pierce-Arrow, Vanadium, International Paper and several of the tobaccos and sugars. Shippings, steels and equipments rallied 1 to 2 points and Chemical and Fertilizer issues resisted pressure. Shares of the cotton-carrying roads, notably Louisville & Nashville and Atlantic Coast Line, were reactionary, but grangers made moderate response to yesterday's excellent crop report. Call money was firm at 9 per cent.

The market became more irregular at midday, investment rails reacting after extending their gains of the morning. Steel, copper and food shares also became heavier, especially the sugars, on reports affecting their dividend status.

Heaviness of United States Steel, which registered its lowest price in several years, was the disquieting feature of the later dealings when rails and oils also declined. The closing was weak.

WHY STREET CARS ARE NOT HEATED

The deferred heating of street cars this fall has not been due solely to the high price of coal and the necessity of economy with a 5-cent fare, as some of our patrons have assumed and seem to think quite proper, but it has been made absolutely necessary by inability to procure a sufficient quantity of coal at any price.

If we should begin now to use the inadequate supply of coal we have so far been able to secure, it would be exhausted before the end of February.

Unless we are able to secure more coal immediately, it is the present plan to begin the heating of cars about December 1st and with the coal now on hand and promised it could be continued until about March 18th.

BOYS' CLUB MEETS AND MAKES DEVELOPMENT PLANS

The Denfeld High School Boys' club held its regular meeting at the school building last night with an attendance of fifty-two. President Chris Larson presided. Supper was served by three women of the Westminster Presbyterian church ladies' aid.

After supper Earl Sherman, an alumnus of the Boys' club and of Denfeld high school, gave a short talk, urging all the members to stay with the club and stand for its motto. Edward Harris was appointed chairman of an entertainment committee.

Following the short business meeting, the club divided into three study and discussion groups led by Judge H. W. Lanners, Ralph Nichols and Irving Auld.

New members are constantly coming into the boys' department as a result of the publicity of the membership campaign and a total of 159 members is now being mailed tickets for the boys' division. Plans are being made for the opening early in December. Boys desiring memberships, should make application at the Central department of the Y. M. C. A.

CHOOSING TATTLER STAFF FROM BEST IN SCHOOL

In choosing the staff of the Tattler, the paper of the Morgan Park school, the faculty will pass on the merits of the compositions submitted. Those receiving the best marks will comprise the Tattler's staff. There will be one student from each of the grades from the 7B to 11 inclusive on it.

The penmanship, spelling, choice of words, organization of material and ability to make the subject interesting are the points which will determine the prize winning composition. Each pupil will get forty minutes of his English period on Nov. 11 in which to write his essay. The faculty committee on choosing the staff are: Misses Mildred George, chairman; Margaret McDonald, Indianola Willcuts, Lena Jenson and Clara Anderson.

CURLERS TO PLAN DRIVE.

Club Will Outline Campaign; No Skating This Year.

The semi-annual meeting of the Western Curling club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the clubrooms, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Bristol street. Plans for an active membership campaign and for preparing the club building for use this winter will be made.

According to present plans the club will feature only its curling activities. In former years skating was one of the attractions. This feature will probably not be included because of the number of free skating rinks that are provided by the city recreational department.

At least four rinks will be provided for curling. It is expected if the weather remains cold, to have curling by Dec. 10. Officers of the club expect to have about 100 active members playing this year.

WESTMINSTER CHURCH TAKES PROPERTY FOR PARSONAGE

The Westminster Presbyterian church, 301 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, took possession yesterday of the residence at 902 North Central avenue and will remodel it for the use of the Westminister pastor. The property was formerly owned by W. H. Keeler. The Westminster church contracted for the purchase of this property last spring but did not take possession of it until yesterday. The consideration was $6,000.

GONYEAU IN TROUBLE; STEALING IS CHARGE

Edward Gonyeau, aged 17, and Joseph Baudin, aged 17, who were arrested yesterday and held for investigation in connection with the burglary of the shine parlor, 313 North Central avenue, late Saturday night have signed written confessions of their crime. The West Duluth police arrested Peter Rice and Mell Anderson this morning. Rice and Anderson are also said to have been implicated in the burglary by the confessions which stated that the three of them entered the building and Anderson remained outside in his car.

Rice walked into the station and gave himself up. Anderson started for Proctor in his automobile this morning and Chief of Police Bruce Palmer of Proctor arrested Anderson on information furnished him by the Duluth police. Judge Fesler ordered that the cases be brought up in district court with the exception of that of Baudin who was out on parole and will be returned to the Red Wing reformatory. Gonyeau is under heavy bonds to answer to the charge of inciting riot in connection with the lynching.

CHRISTMAS WILL SOON BE HERE

IF SOMEONE GAVE YOU A FIRST-CLASS INVESTMENT PROPOSITION WITH A GOOD PAYMENT ALREADY MADE FOR A STARTER, WOULDN'T YOU CONSIDER IT A DANDY PRESENT; ESPECIALLY IF YOU WERE AMBITIOUS AND ANXIOUS TO DO SOMETHING WORTH WHILE?

YOU WOULD.

Most of us would. Then why not make the first payment on a proposition like that and give it to your wife or children so they will have or learn the saving habit?

If you haven't a wife or children, do it for yourself; you will never be sorry.

This first payment is a small amount, about $5 or $10, and is no more than you would spend for a present, but it will bring big results. It gives them a lasting interest in a national project which is ever growing and increasing.

Beginning with the first payment they own an interest in the "Good Old U. S. A." and are real Americans with real interests in the land.

We give them desirable Garden Tracts with beautiful green timber, or partly cleared, with excellent soil, lying well, close to the car line, at prices remarkably low, at terms so easy to pay they don't miss it, while they are saving and earning through an absolutely safe investment an unusual percentage of profit.

OWN A PIECE OF U. S. A.

HAVE YOU WIFE AND CHILDREN OWN SOME, TOO!

Select it yourself from our large tracts. We will help you.

KNOX OF PENNSYLVANIA AS SECRETARY OF STATE

Irreconcilable Senator Is President-Elect Harding's First Choice.

Likely Gen. Pershing Will Be Asked to Take War Portfolio.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Philander C. Knox, United States senator from Pennsylvania, will be secretary of state in the Harding administration if his health permits him to accept the office. Senator Knox is President-elect Harding's first choice.

This and other names under consideration for the Harding cabinet have come to the writer from men who discussed the entire cabinet situation with Senator Harding before the latter went South.

In a general way President-elect Harding feels that he must follow certain geographical rules in picking his cabinet. Certain states are demanding recognition, and it is probable that certain excellent men may have to be eliminated simply because of the embarrassment of selecting two men from the same state.

Senator Knox is wanted for the portfolio of secretary of state, however, not because Pennsylvania gave Harding such an overwhelming majority, but because Mr. Knox, more than any other man in the world, reflects the wishes and desires of Senator Harding on foreign policy. An irreconcilable, or "bitter ender," at heart, Senator Knox voted against the treaty and reservations of any kind, but differed from his colleagues in the irreconcilable group by offering constructive suggestions for a concert of nations to enable America to play her part in world peace movements.

Would Please Penrose.

Mr. Knox was attorney general under the Taft administration and also secretary of state. He knows how to deal with foreign diplomats and is thoroughly acquainted with the traditions of American foreign policy. Senator Penrose would be especially pleased over the appointment of Knox. It is a fact that Mr. Penrose helped to hold the Pennsylvania delegation at the Chicago convention in line by using the name of Knox as a dark horse. Friends of Harding say he has been persuaded to believe that Penrose helped nominate Harding with the influence of Knox. Whatever there may be to the political side of the matter, however, the fact is Senator Harding thinks Philander Knox not only knows what he, the president-elect, would like to see done in foreign policy, but he is looked upon as the one man capable of untangling the treaty situation so that action will be taken to square with the Harding campaign speeches.

If Mr. Knox's health doesn't permit him to take the job, David Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany, or Charles Evans Hughes, former justice of the supreme court, may be asked to take the portfolio. Mr. Hill is well liked for his views on foreign policy, and the only hesitancy about asking Mr. Hughes is that Senator Harding

FARMERS DETERMINED TO OBTAIN RIGHTS

Boston, Mass., Nov. 10.—The establishment of "nationwide selling organizations which shall fix the price of farm products," if the farmer does not receive "the same pay for the same hours of work that others receive," was predicted today by Sherman J. Lowell of Fredonia, N. Y., master of the national grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, in opening the annual convention of the grange.

"We are willing to have a fair understanding of values, the farmers receiving the same pay for the same hours' work that others receive, no more, no less, but we feel that this is the last call," he said, "if no attention is paid to this now by bankers, manufacturers, railroads and labor organizations, and if the government continues to use its great power to import raw material free of duty to reduce costs, then the grange will be the first to help organize nationwide selling organizations which shall fix the price of farm products.

"There is no threat in this; we will have been driven to it in self-defense to preserve our agriculture."

PRIEST'S HOUSE IN OHIO IS BLOWN UP

Struthers, Ohio, Nov. 10.—The parish house of Holy Trinity, Czecho-Slav Catholic church, was dynamited early today, the porch being blown off. No one was injured. The house is occupied by Rev. John Frena, recently installed priest, against whose appointment a protest was made by members of the church, who for a time maintained an armed guard to prevent his taking possession.

Protesting church members declared the former incumbent, Rev. Joseph Zalibera, was removed because he urged autonomy for the Slovaks and that Rev. Frena was installed because he favored the Czecho-Slovakian union. Officials of the church organization denied any political motive in the removal and appointment.

COLBY PARTY WILL TRAVEL ON "FLORIDA"

Washington, Nov. 10.—Definite announcement having been made that Secretary Colby shortly will visit Brazil and Uruguay to officially return visits to this country of Presidents Brum of Uruguay and Pessoa of Brazil, it was expected today that the secretary and his party would sail within two weeks. No date of departure has been announced.

After President Wilson had issued a statement that he had directed Secretary Colby to make the trip "on my behalf and in my stead," Secretary Daniels announced last night that the dreadnought Florida of the Atlantic fleet would be placed at the disposal of the state department party.

President Wilson in his statement said he would be gratified if Mr. Colby accepted the invitation extended by Argentina to visit that country.

REPRESENTATIVE GARRETT.

Washington, Nov. 10.—After a night at a police station, Representative Garrett of Tennessee was in police court today to answer charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. His machine, police charge, knocked down Miss Olive M. Schofold, severely injuring her. The case was continued until Nov. 24. He was released under $500 bond.

PENETRATE PENINSULA

Soviet Official Statement Reports Advance by Bolshevik Army.

London, Nov. 10.—Penetration of Crimean peninsula is contained in the soviet official statement of Tuesday received here today by wireless.

May Maintain Position.

Paris, Nov. 10.—Military observers at Sebastopol say the recent retreat of Gen. Wrangel's army into the Crimea was notably successful, according to the French foreign office. The morale of the troops remained high and Gen. Wrangel is confident that with proper material he can reorganize the forces and maintain his position without great difficulty.

Conditions Desperate.

London, Nov. 10.—Conditions in Armenia as a result of the pressure of Turkish troops are reported to be desperate, says a Constantinople dispatch to the London Times. Tens of thousands of refugees from Kars and other districts are fleeing in a pitiable state for want of food, clothing and transport.

Three Brutally Killed.

London, Nov. 10.—Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick, representative of the American Red Cross in South Russia, and two nurses were brutally killed during a Bolshevik cavalry raid on Salkovo station, says a Sebastopol dispatch to Reuters last night.

No Mention of Death.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Reports reached the state department yesterday that Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick of the American Red Cross and C. Atechny of the Mennonite relief society had been captured, but no mention was made of the death of either. It was believed that the recent assertion of the soviet government that an "American mission" headed by "Gen. Morel" had been captured by their troops, was founded on the capture of Kilpatrick.

Kilpatrick, formerly publisher of a country newspaper, served with the American army in France. He obtained his discharge from the army in Paris in September, 1919, and became connected as a civilian with the peace commission. When the commission was dissolved, Kilpatrick joined the Lithuanian army.

When the fighting ended, he asked for his discharge and returned to Paris to join the American Red Cross in 1920 and was ordered first to Constantinople and then to Southwest Russia.

"Kilpatrick was last seen at Novo-Alexeievsk on Oct. 30, stripped to his underwear in bitter zero weather, and being led away by Red cavalry raiders," said the statement given out before the London report of the captain's death was received.

FORTY-EIGHT ON SHIP ARE BELIEVED LOST

Manila, P. I., Nov. 9.—Forty-eight persons are believed to have perished when the coastwise steamer San Basilio was struck by a typhoon last Wednesday, en route to Puerto Bello, Leyte Island, South Philippines, according to a survivor reaching here today. Fifteen survivors reached Cebu. There were sixty-four people aboard the vessel.

News of the disaster was brought here today by Concordia Eardo, as survivor picked up by the steamer Samal after drifting four days in an open boat.

Puerto Bello is located on the south coast of Leyte, more than 300 miles south of Manila and in the center of a typhoon belt.

TICKET SPECULATORS TO BE INVESTIGATED

New York, Nov. 10.—Initation of an investigation of reports that theater ticket speculators have not reported all their sales and prices charged, as required by Federal law, was announced today by William H. Edwards, collector of internal revenue.

Mr. Edwards explained that speculators are required to pay over to the government as luxury tax 50 per cent of their profits when tickets are sold for a profit of more than 50 cents, said he received reliable reports that "scalpers" had charged as high as $10 to $20 a seat and had made no reports of their sales.

ULTIMATUM TO JUGO-SLAVS BY ITALIANS

Demand Fiume Be Made an Entirely Independent State.

Rapallo, Italy, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—In what may be considered an ultimatum to the Jugo-Slav delegation here regarding the negotiations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia over the Adriatic question, Count Sforza, Italian foreign minister, as head of the Italian delegation, laid down Italy's minimum claims. These, the document stated, were:

The Istrian frontier, including the Julian Alps, Nevazo mountain and the railway from Fiume to St. Peter Junction.

Territorial contiguity between Fiume and Italy.

Fiume to be a state entirely independent without any control by the League of Nations.

Annexation of the Islands of Lussin-Piccolo and Cherso to Italy.

Annexation of Seara to Italy.

Annexation of several of the Jugo-Slav Islands to Italy for strategical reasons.

Demilitarization of some of the Dalmatian positions which will be alloted to Serbia.

NONPARTISANS CLAIM THIRTY IN MINN. HOUSE PLEDGED TO PROGRAM

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—Complete results from last Tuesday's election for the Minnesota house of representatives shows that thirty members are claimed by the Nonpartisan league as definitely pledged to its program.

In the house two years ago, the contest for speaker showed a poll of twenty-seven Nonpartisan league votes, with one league supporter absent.

The results of last week's election, based on pre-election claims of affiliation of candidate made by the Nonpartisan Leader, the league's official publication, show that twenty-two socalled rural members are definitely aligned with the league.

Two members from Hennepin are claimed as avowed league supporters, three from Ramsey are similarly claimed and three from Lake, Cook and St. Louis districts.

WIDOW OF FOOTBALL STAR ENDS HER LIFE

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Clarence W. Russell, widow of the former University of Chicago football star who disappeared from her home in Evanston yesterday, realized her greatest wish—that her son, Bryan, would always remember her as a beautiful woman, unchanged by illness and despondency. Her body was taken from Lake Michigan today.

Two years ago her husband died, followed by the death of her mother last summer. According to relatives, Mrs. Russell grieved continually. She placed her son in the home of her brother, John C. Singleton of Evanston.

"My sister's illness had marred her beauty," Mr. Singleton said, "and she did not want her son to see her. She used to go to the second floor of a barn and watch the boy through the lighted windows of our house. She wanted to see him, to be near him but could not bear to have him see her."

The boy is 8 years old. Mrs. Russell watched him as he left school Monday. Then she walked to the lake and disappeared. She was a member of one of the first families of Virginia. Her father was a Confederate soldier.

OPPOSE TREATY TO NULLIFY ALIEN LAW

Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary of State Colby today was in receipt of a telegram from Karl Ross post, American Legion of Stockton, Cal., protesting against any treaty with Japan that would nullify the recently adopted alien land law of California.

"Newspaper reports state that your department is negotiating a treaty with Japan which would nullify the recently adopted alien land law of California. That law was sponsored by the American Legion, among other patriotic organizations, and approved by the legion in annual convention. Karl Ross post's 1,100 members, located at Stockton, Cal., the very hotbed of the Japanese menace, earnestly and emphatically protest any consideration of a treaty which will open our state in any degree to Oriental exploitation and control. Nullification of our protective laws would be no less than a direct insult to the American Legion and the people of California."

PROFESSORS TO PLAY CHESS WITH PRODIGY

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Twenty professors and army officers of the United States military academy will match wits at chess tonight in twenty simultaneous games against Samuel R. Zechewski, the boy chess prodigy, who arrived in this country from Poland a few days ago. Colonels, captains and lieutenants, the academy's crack chess wizards, were chosen to play against the 11-year-old player, who has amazed Europe with his skill.

CORONER SAYS VOGTEL DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—Charles Vogtel, wealthy miller of New Ulm, Minn., whose body was found in an alley after he had fallen from the ninth floor of a hotel here, met his death in an accident, Coroner Gilbert Seashore declared today. He was believed to have toppled out of a window while seized with a fainting spell.

The coroner's verdict was based on the fact that shortly before his death Mr. Vogtel had been writing a letter to his wife and in this he said that he felt sick and meant to step to a window and get some fresh air. No evidence was found, Dr. Seashore said, to indicate any purpose of suicide.

RATTLES FOR INFANTS ARE TO BE CLASSED AS ATHLETIC APPARATUS

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 10.—Infants' rattles are henceforth to be classed as athletic apparatus by the Michigan state boxing commission. Tom Biggers, the commission's chairman, so decided when applicaton for a "bale of baby rattles" was made by Supt. Montgomery of the state school for orphans and abandoned children at Coldwater.

Among the commission's duties is the distribution among schools of athletic goods purchased from a fund drawn from boxing bouts in the state.

The Coldwater requisition was the first to include athletic equipment for such young athletes, but Biggers was quick to decide that rattles could be so classed. The state's wards at Coldwater range in age from several months to 16 years.

SHIPS SOLD TO MEN OF NO EXPERIENCE

Further Testimony Given on Failings of Shipping Board.

Irresponsible Persons Favored in Deals, Declares Witness.

New York, Nov. 10.—Individuals and corporations of no financial standing and no experience in maritime affairs have been allocated United States shipping board vessels for operation, J. F. Richardson testified today when the Walsh congressional committee resumed investigation of alleged irregularities in shipping board affairs.

Richardson, who conducted an investigation regarding the board's operating methods for the committee, declared irresponsible individuals were favored while established steamship companies complained of inability to secure any tonnage from the government.

Such allocation, the witness assured, has been performed at will by a "director of operations" under the shipping board who "commandeered" vessels from established transport lines and reallocated them to private companies. Ships, he said, had been turned over to companies in which relatives of men connected with the shipping board were financially interested.

Only Financial Investigation.

The competence of applicants for ships, Mr. Richardson stated, was investigated only through facilities provided by financial agencies.

He added that those who purchased outright vessels from the board have complained they cannot compete with companies financed and equipped by the shipping board. Others, he said, felt they had cause for dissatisfaction when the board took back and reallocated vessels turned over to them.

"The statement has been made," he said, "that out of 200 companies to which ships have been allocated, there are so many irresponsible companies that the list must be cut in half."

Lack of Foreign Agents.

One of the gravest deficiencies of the shipping board's system, said Mr. Richardson, was the lack of foreign agents, which on occasions had made it necessary for supercargoes on the board's vessels to go out and solicit freight so that the ship might not be compelled to return to its home port in ballast.

He criticized the failure to establish reciprocal working agreements with other agents through which ships might be kept busy, adding: "There are instances where an operator with cargo enough for a half dozen ships has but one or two vessels, while other agents at the same time may be keeping ships idle for lack of cargoes."

The recent creation of the United States bureau of shipping the witness characterized as "entirely unnecessary."

Charges of Waste.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Charges that the action of the shipping board has resulted in an enormous waste of government funds are contained in a report submitted to the house committee on shipping board operations by two former employes of the board, A. M. Fisher and J. F. Richardson, who for more than a year have conducted an investigation for the committee.

The report states that the investigators found evidence of graft in the purchase of supplies for repairing gov-

REFUGEE EMPEROR IS NOW CONTENTED

Doorn, Holland, Nov. 10.—Two years ago tonight William Hohenzollern arrived at the Dutch frontier, a refugee emperor. Today he is leading in this little village the life of a Dutch country gentleman, doing just about as he pleases and going almost where he desires, about the countryside, so long as he stays within the territorial limits prescribed by the Dutch government.

The Associated Press correspondent has been told by those in close touch with the former emperor that during the past few months William has found much contentment in the life on his new estate here. He is said to feel certain that no further demands for his surrender will be made upon the Holland government.

SUFFRAGAN BISHOP FOR EAST MONTANA

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10.—Rev. Dr. Herbert H. H. Fox, six years rector of St. John's Episcopal church here, was consecrated bishop suffragan of the diocese of Montana at St. John's church this morning. Bishop Fox will have charge of the church's work in Eastern Montana.

Rt. Rev. William F. Faber, D. D., bishop of Montana, preached the consecration sermon. Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, D. D., bishop of Missouri, was consecrator.

FATE OF 11 MEN IN JURY'S HANDS SOON

Attorneys Making Closing Addresses in Liquor Conspiracy Case.

Deliberations of Jury May Begin Late in Afternoon.

Case on Trial Since Oct. 28, Longest in Judge Morris' Service.

It will be late this afternoon before the jury in United States court will begin its deliberations on the fate of the eleven defendants charged with a conspiracy to transport smuggled liquor. A motion to direct a verdict for the defendants made by George H. Spear was denied this morning.

Taking of testimony was completed shortly after court opened this morning. United States Attorney Jaques then outlined his argument. He was followed by Attorney Victor L. Power for the defense. At 2:30 today Mr. Power had not yet completed his address.

Six attorneys have been engaged by the defendants and Judge Morris indicated this morning that other attorneys will have permission to supplement Mr. Power's speech. They will be followed by Mr. Jaques in his main argument. Judge Morris will then deliver his charge. It is expected that the jury will open its deliberations about 6 o'clock.

Will Receive Report Late.

In case a verdict is reached at a reasonable hour tonight, Judge Morris will leave instructions that he be summoned from his home so that the jury may report. Otherwise, the jurymen will retire for the night to quarters which are being prepared in the county courthouse.

The case has been on trial since Oct. 28. Judge Morris has declared that the sessions have been the longest in his seventeen years on the bench. More than twenty witnesses were called by the prosecution, while over forty were summoned for the defense.

Longfield Storm Center.

Mr. Jaques, in outlining his argument, asserted that the corroborative evidence offered was conclusive proof of the story told by Fred Longfield, who became the state's chief witness after he had been promised immunity.

"The defense will base its whole argument on Longfield's bad character," Mr. Jaques predicted. "When men are caught in the meshes of the law, the guiltier they are, the more they try to implicate someone else and the more viciously they attack the character of their accusers.

"They will also talk about immunity. It is the law that the grand jury cannot indict a man brought before them by the government as a witness. I could not have proceeded in any other way. Men do not conspire openly with men of good character. Such men can only be prosecuted by evidence gathered from their coworkers."

Where Evidence Dovetails.

Mr. Jaques stressed the manner in which evidence of telephone calls and hotel registers dovetailed in with all details of Longfield's story. He reviewed records of phone calls from Cahill at Eveleth to Clark at Duluth followed by trips to the range made by Clark and Longfield. He also pointed out the evidence of numerous calls from Teddy, Hurley and Ashland, Wis., to Clark in Duluth which were followed in turn by calls from Clark to Longfield. The government contends that following these calls Longfield

TWO ARE WOUNDED IN CHICAGO GUN FIGHT

Chicago, Nov. 10.—W. J. Held, court clerk at the Maxwell street police station, and Joseph Pijanowski, a policeman, were probably fatally wounded early today in a gun battle with two men, fought under mysterious circumstances.

Held, who has not left his home at night for months without a police guard, went to a drug store after midnight to get medicine for his baby. A policeman went along.

Held asserted the men were robbers and insisted his reason for asking a police guard for several months was fear of robbery.

NO MATERIAL CHANGE IN SENATOR PENROSE

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Reports that United States Senator Boies Penrose, who has been ill for a year, had had a relapse, were denied today by one of his physicians, who said there was no material change in the senator's condition. Besides his other ailments, the senator is suffering from neuritis, which at times gives him much pain. The fact that he is not seeing visitors is believed to have given rise to reports that his condition is worse.

Senator Penrose is making preparations to return to the senate after an absence since last November. He has leased a large apartment in Washington.

SETS UP STILL, STEALS CORN FROM FARMER

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—An illicit whisky manufacturer operating near Council Bluffs, Iowa, set up a still in a farmer's cornfield, without the farmer's knowledge, and used up an acre of corn before he stopped work, it was learned today. The farmer discovered his loss when he started shucking.

Professor Found Dead.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Nov. 10.—Prof. Matthews Schaefer, 49, of St. Lawrence college, Mount Calvary, was found dead in his apartment at the rectory today. He was last seen Monday when he apparently was in good health. His failure to attend the church yesterday led to an investigation.

ARMISTICE DAY HERE WILL LACK INITIAL DELIRIUM

Will Be Observed Quietly; American Legion Will Give Dance.

Many Business Houses Will Display Flags and Bunting.

Gold Star List of St. Louis County and Nearest Relatives.

HALF HOLIDAY IN DULUTH DECLARED BY CITY COUNCIL.

The city council this morning officially declared a half holiday for tomorrow afternoon, beginning at the noon hour, in observance of Armistice day. This is the first public recognition taken locally.

It is also requested that as many as possible display the national colors in honor of the veterans of the war and in memory of those who never came back.

Tomorrow will be Armistice day.

For the most part Duluthians will observe it by wearing poppies, the national flower of the American Legion and recalling that the World war came to a close just two years ago. Silent tribute will be paid to those who made the supreme sacrifice for the cause.

Locally the celebration of Armistice day will be confined to civic organizations. The American Legion will observe the day with a dance at the Armory, but outside of that the former service men will conduct no public celebration. The civic organizations that have announced special programs are the Kiwanis club, the Rotary club and the Duluth Commercial club. The Kiwanis club met today and devoted its regular meeting to a special program appropriate to the day. A number of speakers talked on Armistice day here and "over there" and a number of war songs were sung by the Kiwanis quartet.

The Rotary club will give a special program at the noonday meeting of the club at the Spalding hotel tomorrow, including a number of prominent speakers who will talk on what the day means to America. War songs will be sung.

The Duluth Commercial club will observe the day by decorating the rooms of the club in the American flags and by having a prominent speaker at the luncheon hour.

Armistice Day Sing in "Y" Lobby.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, the second anniversary of the signing the armistice with Germany will be celebrated by singing patriotic songs in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A., central department. An invitation is extended to all citizens to join in this form of remembrance of the day.

The songfest will continue for about half an hour and all men and women who can are urged to crowd the big lobby. J. R. Batchelor, city recreational director, will lead in singing the songs which stirred all during the war.

Business places throughout the city will decorate their stores and office buildings with American flags and bunting, it was announced by several. All owners of buildings are urged to display the colors.

Governor Burnquist has set aside the day as a special day in memory of the closing of the war and on which tribute should be paid to those who gave their lives in service.

Memorial Certificates.

The state of Minnesota will issue handsome memorial certificates, personally signed by the governor and secretary of state, to the relatives of each of the gold star men on the state's honor roll.

In St. Louis county, a list of 232 names represents the present recorded Gold Star roll for this county. This has been prepared by the St. Louis County Branch of the Minnesota War Records commission, of which William E. Culkin of this city is chairman. The state war records commission is assembling the records of each man who made the supreme sacrifice with the ultimate plan of publishing a complete and official Gold Star roster for Minnesota. The county war records commission is also planning publication in the future and should be able to include the record of every man in the county who died in the service.

The names in the list which is published herewith have been procured from records on hand at headquarters in Duluth and from the files of the state commission in St. Paul.

Recorders Need Assistance.

"In order to avoid omissions or errors in the complete and official Gold Star roster, it can be readily seen that assistance will be necessary from everyone who knows a Gold Star man," said Mr. Culkin. "In a county as large as ours, it is a huge task to assemble the names and records of every service man. In some cases it has been impossible to learn the names and addresses of relatives or friends of Gold Star men. Some names have been omitted. Each city, town and village in St. Louis county should take pride in seeing that no names are omitted from its locality.

"If every person in the county who reads this list will carefully check through it and notify the local commission of any possible errors it will help in making our record complete. It

INVENTOR OF FAMOUS GERMAN PLANE IN U. S.

A. G. H. FOKKER.

New York, Nov. 10.—A. G. H. Fokker, inventor and builder of wartime combat airplanes, arrived here today from Rotterdam on the steamer Noordam. The Fokker was the swiftest pursuit plane used by the Germans.

FINE BATHS FOR SOLONS

Greco-Roman Establishment at Washington to Be Finished.

Washington, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Greco-Roman baths of the United States senate, installed nearly eight years ago, but never put into effect, are now being cleared of the cobwebs and stains of time, and will be in shape to offer their luxuries of steam, plunge, shower and electricity to the members of the new senate when it assembles. Charges of extravagance were aimed at the baths in congressional debate when the power of administration last swung from Republican to Democratic and as a result the baths, installed in the then new senate office building, were shorn of their expensive equipment, bereft of their attendants and left to gloom. The marble slabs, Turkish rugs and steam-proof tables and chairs were turned over to government hospitals and only the marble shell and nickel fittings left in place.

Baths Coming Back.

Now, however, the baths are coming back, but under a new plan. Members of the senate themselves will pay a large part of the operating expenses, and a special unofficial committee has taken charge of the assessments, which will be levied against each user in proportion to the service he exacts. The baths will be somewhat less gorgeous than the original plan anticipated, but in their luxury and completeness will still have claim to comparison with private club installation.

Senators will be able to steam themselves out in a series of marble hotrooms, resuscitate themselves on the drying room cots, invigorate under one of the several types of needle and french showers and float in the swimming size plunge.

They also can try massage, the electric cabinet or the prickling shocks from the static machine.

Installation of the baths cost many score of thousands, and some senators at least feel that the waste of letting the equipment lie dormant is as great as any expense that may be encountered in putting it into service.

"OLE CLOTHES" MEN LACKING CUSTOMERS

New York, Nov. 10.—Fashionable uptown clothiers who are reducing sluggish stocks by means of elaborately advertised "reduction sales," have nothing in the way of business worries on their humbler brothers of the "Ole clothes" curbstone market in Bayard street, off the Bowery, itinerant members of the "curb" declared today. Despite a lively cut rate war, these picturesque dealers in second and third hand clothes asserted business has come almost to a standstill.

Some blame the trouble on prohibition, which has dulled many a "buying mood" and others attribute it to the passing of the era of extravagant buying. All agree, however, there is a surprising lack of customers.

Silk shirts which have been in demand since the armistice was signed, they say, are out of favor. Fancy shoes, silk socks and gaudy cravats are no longer in demand. One street corner merchant cut the price of a $45 overcoat to $15.65, in the course of half an hour's argument, but could not make a sale.

The financial depression not only has hit the retailers, but the wholesale dealers as well, it was said.

HARDING ABANDONS GOLF FOR FISHING

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—President-elect Harding deserted golf for tarpon fishing again today, canceling a tentative appointment at the Brownsville Country club golf course in order to remain on the water all day trying his luck with the rod and reel. Yesterday's try at tarpon angling made him a stanch devotee of the sport and his friends predicted that during the remainder of his vacation here he would give very little time to any other form of recreation.

Tomorrow Mr. Harding is to speak at Brownsville at an Armistice day celebration.

Loan to Rock Island.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The interstate commerce commission today approved a government loan to the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad of $7,862,000 for improvements.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION OF HOUSING SITUATION

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Investigation of the housing situation in the Middle West was begun here today by the senate special committee of reconstruction. United States Senator W. M. Calder, chairman of the committee, and his party arrived early this morning from Cleveland.

The investigation was expected to bring forth suggestions helpful of home building, from railroad presidents, real estate dealers, architects, club women, engineers, contractors and labor union heads.

Delegations arrived today representing associations of commerce in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan cities to attend the meetings.

Besides Senator Calder, who presided, the committee includes Senators W. S. Kenyon of Iowa, W. E. Edge of New Jersey, J. D. Wolcott of Delaware and E. J. Gay of Louisiana. Eugene Meyers, Jr., ex-chairman of the war finance board, joined the party here.

Testimony presented today began with a report by Wharton Clay, architectural engineer and fire preventionist and commissioner on losses of housing due to fire waste.

KNOX OF PENNSYLVANIA AS SECRETARY OF STATE

Irreconcilable Senator Is President-Elect Harding's First Choice.

Likely Gen. Pershing Will Be Asked to Take War Portfolio.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Philander C. Knox, United States senator from Pennsylvania, will be secretary of state in the Harding administration if his health permits him to accept the office. Senator Knox is President-elect Harding's first choice.

This and other names under consideration for the Harding cabinet may come to the writer from men who discussed the entire cabinet situation with Senator Harding before the latter went South.

In a general way President-elect Harding feels that he must follow certain geographical rules in picking his cabinet. Certain states are demanding recognition, and it is probable that some excellent men may have to be eliminated simply because of the embarrassment of selecting two men from the same state.

Senator Knox is wanted for the portfolio of secretary of state, however, not because Pennsylvania gave Harding such an overwhelming majority, but because Mr. Knox, more than any other man in the world, reflects the wishes and desires of Senator Harding on foreign policy. An irreconcilable, or "bitter ender," at heart, Senator Knox voted against the treaty and reservations of any kind, but differed from his colleagues in the irreconcilable group by offering constructive suggestions for a concert of nations to enable America to play her part in world peace movements.

Would Please Penrose.

Mr. Knox was attorney general in the Taft administration and also secretary of state. He knows how to deal with foreign diplomats and is thoroughly acquainted with the traditions of American foreign policy. Senator Penrose would be especially pleased over the appointment of Knox. It is a fact that Mr. Penrose helped to hold the Pennsylvania delegation at the Chicago convention in line by using the name of Knox as a dark horse. Friends of Harding say he has been persuaded to believe that Penrose helped nominate Harding with the influence of Knox. Whatever there may be to the political side of the matter, however, the fact is Senator Harding thinks Philander Knox not only knows what he, the president-elect, would like to see done in foreign policy, but he is looked upon as the one man capable of untangling the treaty situation so that action will be taken to square with the Harding campaign speeches.

If Mr. Knox's health doesn't permit him to take the job, David Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany, or Charles Evans Hughes, former justice of the supreme court, may be asked to take the portfolio. Mr. Hill is well liked for his views on foreign policy, and the only hesitancy about asking Mr. Hughes is that Senator Harding

Boston, Mass. Nov. 10.—The establishment of "nationwide selling organizations which shall fix the price of farm products," if the farmer does not receive "the same pay for the same hours of work that others receive," was predicted today by Sherman J. Lowell of Fredonia, N. Y., master of the national grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, in opening the annual convention of the grange.

"We are willing to have a fair understanding of values, the farmers receiving the same pay for the same hours' work that others receive, no more, no less, but we feel that this is the last call," he said. "If no attention is paid to this now by bankers, manufacturers, railroads and labor organizations, and if the government continues to use its great power to import raw material free of duty to reduce costs, then the grange will be the first to help organize nationwide selling organizations which shall fix the price of farm products.

"There is no threat in this; we will have been driven to it in self-defense to preserve our agriculture."

PRIEST'S HOUSE IN OHIO IS BLOWN UP

Struthers, Ohio, Nov. 10.—The parish house of Holy Trinity, Czecho-Slav Catholic church, was dynamited early today, the porch being blown off. No one was injured. The house is occupied by Rev. John Frena, recently installed priest, against whose appointment a protest was made by members of the church, who for a time maintained an armed guard to prevent his taking possession.

Protesting church members declared the former incumbent, Rev. Joseph Zaliberа, was removed because he urged autonomy for the Slovaks and that Rev. Frena was installed because he favored the Czecho-Slovakian union. Officials of the church organization denied any political motive in the removal and appointment.

COLBY PARTY WILL TRAVEL ON "FLORIDA"

Washington, Nov. 10.—Definite announcement having been made that Secretary Colby shortly will visit Brazil and Uruguay to officially return visits to this country of Presidents Brum of Uruguay and Pessoa of Brazil, it was expected today that the secretary and his party would sail within two weeks. No date of departure has been announced.

After President Wilson had issued a statement that he had directed Secretary Colby to make the trip "on my behalf and in my stead," Secretary Daniels announced last night that the dreadnought Florida of the Atlantic fleet would be placed at the disposal of the state department party.

President Wilson in his statement said he would be gratified if Mr. Colby accepted the invitation extended by Argentina to visit that country.

Washington, Nov. 10.—After a night at a police station, Representative Garrett of Tennessee was in police court today to answer charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. PENETRATE PENINSULA

Soviet Official Statement Reports Advance by Bolshevik Army.

London, Nov. 10.—Penetration of Crimean peninsula is contained in the soviet official statement of Tuesday received here today by wireless.

May Maintain Position.

Paris, Nov. 10.—Military observers at Sebastopol say the recent retreat of Gen. Wrangel's army into the Crimea was notably successful, according to the French foreign office. The morale of the troops remained high and Gen. Wrangel is confident that with proper material he can reorganize the forces and maintain his position without great difficulty.

Conditions Desperate.

London, Nov. 10.—Conditions in Armenia as a result of the pressure of Turkish troops are reported to be desperate, says a Constantinople dispatch to the London Times. Tens of thousands of refugees from Kars and other districts are fleeing in a pitiable state for want of food, clothing and transport.

Three Brutally Killed.

London, Nov. 10.—Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick, representative of the American Red Cross in South Russia, and two nurses were brutally killed during a Bolshevik cavalry raid on Salkovo station, says a Sebastopol dispatch to Reuters last night.

No Mention of Death.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Reports reached the state department yesterday that Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick of the American Red Cross and C. Atechny of the Mennonite relief society had been captured, but no mention was made of the death of either. It was believed that the recent assertion of the soviet government that an "American mission" headed by "Gen. Morel" had been captured by their troops, was founded on the capture of Kilpatrick.

Kilpatrick, formerly publisher of a country newspaper, served with the American army in France. He obtained his discharge from the army in Paris in September, 1919, and became connected as a civilian with the peace commission. When the commission was dissolved, Kilpatrick joined the Lithuanian army.

When the fighting ended, he asked for his discharge and returned to Paris to join the American Red Cross in 1920 and was ordered first to Constantinople and then to Southwest Russia.

"Kilpatrick was last seen at Novo-Alexeievsk on Oct. 30, stripped to his underwear in bitter zero weather, and being led away by Red cavalry raiders," said the statement given out before the London report of the captain's death was received.

FORTY-EIGHT ON SHIP ARE BELIEVED LOST

Manila, P. I., Nov. 9.—Forty-eight persons are believed to have perished when the coastwise steamer San Basilio was struck by a typhoon last Wednesday, en route to Puerto Bello, Leyte island, South Philippines, according to a survivor reaching here today. Fifteen survivors reached Cebu. There were sixty-four people aboard the vessel.

News of the disaster was brought here today by Concordia Eardo, a survivor picked up by the steamer Samal after drifting four days in an open boat.

Puerto Bello is located on the south coast of Leyte, more than 300 miles south of Manila and in the center of a typhoon belt.

TICKET SPECULATORS TO BE INVESTIGATED

New York, Nov. 10.—Initiation of an investigation of reports that theater ticket speculators have not reported all their sales and prices charged, as required by Federal law, was announced today by William H. Edwards, collector of internal revenue.

Mr. Edwards explained that speculators are required to pay over to the government as luxury tax 50 per cent of their profits when tickets are sold for a profit of more than 50 cents, said he received reliable reports that "scalpers" had charged as high as $10 to $20 a seat and had made no reports of their sales.

ULTIMATUM TO JUGO-SLAVS BY ITALIANS

Demand Fiume Be Made an Entirely Independent State.

Rapallo, Italy, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—In what may be considered an ultimatum to the Jugo-Slav delegation here regarding the negotiations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia over the Adriatic question, Count Sforza, Italian foreign minister, as head of the Italian delegation, laid down Italy's minimum claims. These, the document stated, were:

The Istrian frontier, including the Julian Alps, Nevazo mountain and the railway from Fiume to St. Peter Junction.

Territorial contiguity between Fiume and Italy.

Fiume to be a state entirely independent without any control by the League of Nations.

Annexation of the islands of Lussin-Piccolo and Cherso to Italy.

Annexation of Seara to Italy.

Annexation of several of the Jugo-Slav islands to Italy for strategical reasons.

Demilitarization of some of the Dalmatian positions which will be allotted to Serbia.

NONPARTISANS CLAIM THIRTY IN MINN. HOUSE PLEDGED TO PROGRAM

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—Complete results from last Tuesday's election for the Minnesota house of representatives shows that thirty members are claimed by the Nonpartisan league as definitely pledged to its program.

In the house two years ago, the contest for speaker showed a poll of twenty-seven Nonpartisan league votes, with one league supporter absent.

The results of last week's election, based on pre-election claims of affiliation of candidate made by the Nonpartisan Leader, the league's official publication, show that twenty-two so-called rural members are definitely aligned with the league.

Two members from Hennepin are claimed as avowed league supporters, three from Ramsey are similarly claimed and three from Lake, Cook and St. Louis districts.

WIDOW OF FOOTBALL STAR ENDS HER LIFE

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Clarence W. Russell, widow of the former University of Chicago football star who disappeared from her home in Evanston yesterday, realized her greatest wish—that her son, Bryan, would always remember her as a beautiful woman, unchanged by illness and despondency. Her body was taken from Lake Michigan today.

Two years ago her husband died, followed by the death of her mother last summer. According to relatives, Mrs. Russell grieved continually. She placed her son in the home of her brother, John C. Singleton of Evanston.

"My sister's illness had marred her beauty," Mr. Singleton said, "and she did not want her son to see her. She used to go to the second floor of a barn and watch the boy through the lighted windows of our house. She wanted to see him, to be near him but could not bear to have him see her."

The boy is 8 years old. Mrs. Russell watched him as he left school Monday. Then she walked to the lake and disappeared. She was a member of one of the first families of Virginia. Her father was a Confederate soldier.

OPPOSE TREATY TO NULLIFY ALIEN LAW

Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary of State Colby today was in receipt of a telegram from Karl Ross post, American Legion of Stockton, Cal., protesting against any treaty with Japan that would nullify the recently adopted alien land law of California.

"Newspaper reports state that your department is negotiating a treaty with Japan which would nullify the recently adopted alien land law of California. That law was sponsored by the American Legion, among other patriotic organizations, and approved by the legion in annual convention. Karl Ross post's 1,100 members, located at Stockton, Cal., the very hotbed of the Japanese menace, earnestly and emphatically protest any consideration of a treaty which will open our state in any degree to Oriental exploitation and control. Nullification of our protective laws would be no less than a direct insult to the American Legion and the people of California."

PROFESSORS TO PLAY CHESS WITH PRODIGY

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Twenty professors and army officers of the United States military academy will match wits at chess tonight in twenty simultaneous games against Samuel R. Zechewski, the boy chess prodigy, who arrived in this country from Poland a few days ago. Colonels, captains and lieutenants, the academy's crack chess wizards, were chosen to play against the 11-year-old player, who has amazed Europe with his skill.

CORONER SAYS VOGTEL DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—Charles Vogtel, wealthy miller of New Ulm, Minn., whose body was found in an alley after he had fallen from the ninth floor of a hotel here, met his death in an accident, Coroner Gilbert Seashore declared today. He was believed to have toppled out of a window while seized with a fainting spell.

The coroner's verdict was based on the fact that shortly before his death Mr. Vogtel had been writing a letter to his wife and in this he said that he felt sick and meant to step to a window and get some fresh air. No evidence was found, Dr. Seashore said, to indicate any purpose of suicide.

RATTLES FOR INFANTS ARE TO BE CLASSED AS ATHLETIC APPARATUS

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 10.—Infants' rattles are henceforth to be classed as athletic apparatus by the Michigan state boxing commission. Tom Biggers, the commission's chairman, so decided when applicaton for a "bale of baby rattles" was made by Supt. Montgomery of the state school for orphans and abandoned children at Coldwater.

Among the commission's duties is the distribution among schools of athletic goods purchased from a fund drawn from boxing bouts in the state.

The Coldwater requisition was the first to include athletic equipment for such young athletes, but Biggers was quick to decide that rattles could be so classed. The state's wards at Coldwater range in age from several months to 16 years.

SHIPS SOLD TO MEN OF NO EXPERIENCE

Further Testimony Given on Failings of Shipping Board.

Irresponsible Persons Favored in Deals, Declares Witness.

New York, Nov. 10.—Individuals and corporations of no financial standing and no experience in maritime affairs have been allocated United States shipping board vessels for operation, J. F. Richardson testified today when the Walsh congressional committee resumed investigation of alleged irregularities in shipping board affairs.

Richardson, who conducted an investigation regarding the board's operating methods for the committee, declared irresponsible individuals were favored while established steamship companies complained of inability to secure any tonnage from the government.

Such allocation, the witness assured, has been performed at will by a "director of operations" under the shipping board who "commandeered" vessels from established transport lines and reallocated them to private companies. Ships, he said, had been turned over to companies in which relatives of men connected with the shipping board were financially interested.

Only Financial Investigation.

The competence of applicants for ships, Mr. Richardson stated, was investigated only through facilities provided by financial agencies.

He added that those who purchased outright vessels from the board have complained they cannot compete with companies financed and equipped by the shipping board. Others, he said, felt they had cause for dissatisfaction when the board took back and reallocated vessels turned over to them.

"The statement has been made," he said, "that out of 200 companies to which ships have been allocated, there are so many irresponsible companies that the list must be cut in half."

Lack of Foreign Agents.

One of the gravest deficiencies of the shipping board's system, said Mr. Richardson, was the lack of foreign agents, which on occasions had made it necessary for supercargoes on the board's vessels to go out and solicit freight so that the ship might not be compelled to return to its home port in ballast.

He criticized the failure to establish reciprocal working agreements with other agents through which ships might be kept busy, adding: "There are instances where an operator with cargo enough for a half dozen ships has but one or two vessels, while other agents at the same time may be keeping ships idle for lack of cargoes."

The recent creation of the United States bureau of shipping the witness characterized as "entirely unnecessary."

Charges of Waste.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Charges that the action of the shipping board has resulted in an enormous waste of government funds are contained in a report submitted to the house committee on shipping board operations by two former employes of the board, A. M. Fisher and J. F. Richardson, who for more than a year have conducted an investigation for the committee.

The report states that the investigators found evidence of graft in the purchase of supplies for repairing gov-

REFUGEE EMPEROR IS NOW CONTENTED

Doorn, Holland, Nov. 10.—Two years ago tonight William Hohenzollern arrived at the Dutch frontier, a refugee emperor. Today he is leading in this little village the life of a Dutch country gentleman, doing just about as he pleases and going almost where he desires, about the countryside, so long as he stays within the territorial limits prescribed by the Dutch government.

The Associated Press correspondent has been told by those in close touch with the former emperor that during the past few months William has found much contentment in the life on his new estate here. He is said to feel certain that no further demands for his surrender will be made upon the Holland government.

Rt. Rev. William F. Faber, D. D., bishop of Montana, preached the consecration sermon. Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, D. D., bishop of Missouri, was consecrator.

FATE OF 11 MEN IN JURY'S HANDS SOON

Deliberations of Jury May Begin Late in Afternoon.

Case on Trial Since Oct. 28, Longest in Judge Morris' Service.

It will be late this afternoon before the jury in United States court will begin its deliberations on the fate of the eleven defendants charged with a conspiracy to transport smuggled liquor. A motion to direct a verdict for the defendants made by George H. Spear was denied this morning.

Taking of testimony was completed shortly after court opened this morning. United States Attorney Jaques then outlined his argument. He was followed by Attorney Victor L. Power for the defense. At 2:30 today Mr. Power had not yet completed his address.

Six attorneys have been engaged by the defendants and Judge Morris indicated this morning that other attorneys will have permission to supplement Mr. Power's speech. They will be followed by Mr. Jaques in his main argument. Judge Morris will then deliver his charge. It is expected that the jury will open its deliberations about 6 o'clock.

Will Receive Report Late.

In case a verdict is reached at a reasonable hour tonight, Judge Morris will leave instructions that he be summoned from his home so that the jury may report. Otherwise, the jurymen will retire for the night to quarters which are being prepared in the county courthouse.

The case has been on trial since Oct. 28. Judge Morris has declared that the sessions have been the longest in his seventeen years on the bench. More than twenty witnesses were called by the prosecution, while over forty were summoned for the defense.

Longfield Storm Center.

Mr. Jaques, in outlining his argument, asserted that the corroborative evidence offered was conclusive proof of the story told by Fred Longfield, who became the state's chief witness after he had been promised immunity.

"The defense will base its whole argument on Longfield's bad character," Mr. Jaques predicted. "When men are caught in the meshes of the law, the guiltier they are, the more they try to implicate someone else and the more viciously they attack the character of their accusers.

"They will also talk about immunity. It is the law that the grand jury cannot indict a man brought before them by the government as a witness. I could not have proceeded in any other way. Men do not conspire openly with men of good character. Such men can only be prosecuted by evidence gathered from their coworkers."

Where Evidence Dovetails.

Mr. Jaques stressed the manner in which evidence of telephone calls and hotel registers dovetailed in with all details of Longfield's story. He reviewed records of phone calls from Cahill at Eveleth to Clark at Duluth followed by trips to the range made by Clark and Longfield. He also pointed out the evidence of numerous calls from Teddy, Hurley and Ashland, Wis., to Clark in Duluth which were followed in turn by calls from Clark to Longfield. The government contends that following these calls Longfield

TWO ARE WOUNDED IN CHICAGO GUN FIGHT

Chicago, Nov. 10.—W. J. Held, court clerk at the Maxwell street police station, and Joseph Pijanowski, a policeman, were probably fatally wounded early today in a gun battle with two men, fought under mysterious circumstances.

Held, who has not left his home at night for months without a police guard, went to a drug store after midnight to get medicine for his baby. A policeman went along.

Held asserted the men were robbers and insisted his reason for asking a police guard for several months was fear of robbery.

NO MATERIAL CHANGE IN SENATOR PENROSE

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Reports that United States Senator Boies Penrose, who has been ill for a year, had had a relapse, were denied today by one of his physicians, who said there was no material change in the senator's condition. Besides his other ailments, the senator is suffering from neuritis, which at times gives him much pain. The fact that he is not seeing visitors is believed to have given rise to reports that his condition is worse.

Senator Penrose is making preparations to return to the senate after an absence since last November. He has leased a large apartment in Washington.

SETS UP STILL, STEALS CORN FROM FARMER

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 10.—An illicit whisky manufacturer operating near Council Bluffs, Iowa, set up a still in a farmer's cornfield, without the farmer's knowledge, and used up an acre of corn before he stopped work, it was learned today. The farmer discovered his loss when he started shucking.

Professor Found Dead.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Nov. 10.—Prof. Matthews Schaefer, 49, of St. Lawrence college, Mount Calvary, was found dead in his apartment at the rectory today. He was last seen Monday when he apparently was in good health. His failure to attend the church yesterday led to an investigation.

FINE BATHS FOR SOLONS

Greco-Roman Establishment at Washington to Be Finished.

Washington, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Greco-Roman baths of the United States senate, installed nearly eight years ago, but never put into effect, are now being cleared of the cobwebs and stains of time, and will be in shape to offer their luxuries of steam, plunge, shower and electricity to the members of the new senate when it assembles. Charges of extravagance were aimed at the baths in congressional debate when the power of administration last swung from Republican to Democratic and as a result the baths, installed in the then new senate office building, were shorn of their expensive equipment, bereft of their attendants and left to gloom. The marble slabs, Turkish rugs and steam-proof tables and chairs were turned over to government hospitals and only the marble shell and nickel fittings left in place.

Baths Coming Back.

Now, however, the baths are coming back, but under a new plan. Members of the senate themselves will pay a large part of the operating expenses, and a special unofficial committee has taken charge of the assessments, which will be levied against each user in proportion to the service he exacts. The baths will be somewhat less gorgeous than the original plan anticipated, but in their luxury and completeness will still have claim to comparison with private club installation.

Senators will be able to steam themselves out in a series of marble hot-rooms, resuscitate themselves on the drying room cots, invigorate under one of the several types of needle and French showers and float in the swimming size plunge.

They also can try massage, the electric cabinet or the prickling shocks from the static machine.

Installation of the baths cost many score of thousands, and some senators at least feel that the waste of letting the equipment lie dormant is as great as any expense that may be encountered in putting it into service.

"OLE CLOTHES" MEN LACKING CUSTOMERS

New York, Nov. 10.—Fashionable uptown clothiers who are reducing sluggish stocks by means of elaborately advertised "reduction sales," have nothing in the way of business worries on their humbler brothers of the "ole clothes" curbstone market in Bayard street, off the Bowery, itinerant members of the "curb" declared today. Despite a lively cut rate war, these picturesque dealers in second and third hand clothes asserted business has come almost to a standstill.

Some blame the trouble on prohibition, which has dulled many a "buying mood" and others attribute it to the passing of the era of extravagant buying. All agree, however, there is a surprising lack of customers.

Silk shirts which have been in demand since the armistice was signed, they say, are out of favor. Fancy shoes, silk socks and gaudy cravats are no longer in demand. One street corner merchant cut the price of a $45 overcoat to $15.65, in the course of half an hour's argument, but could not make a sale.

The financial depression not only has hit the retailers, but the wholesale dealers as well, it was said.

HARDING ABANDONS GOLF FOR FISHING

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—President-elect Harding deserted golf for tarpon fishing again today, canceling a tentative appointment at the Brownsville Country club golf course in order to remain on the water all day trying his luck with the rod and reel. Yesterday's try at tarpon angling made him a stanch devotee of the sport and his friends predicted that during the remainder of his vacation here he would give very little time to any other form of recreation.

Tomorrow Mr. Harding is to speak at Brownsville at an Armistice day celebration.

Loan to Rock Island.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The interstate commerce commission today approved a government loan to the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad of $7,862,000 for improvements.

HALF HOLIDAY IN DULUTH DECLARED BY CITY COUNCIL.

The city council this morning officially declared a half holiday for tomorrow afternoon, beginning at the noon hour, in observance of Armistice day. This is the first public recognition taken locally.

It is also requested that as many as possible display the national colors in honor of the veterans of the war and in memory of those who never came back.

Tomorrow will be Armistice day.

For the most part Duluthians will observe it by wearing poppies, the national flower of the American Legion and recalling that the World war came to a close just two years ago. Silent tribute will be paid to those who made the supreme sacrifice for the cause.

Locally the celebration of Armistice day will be confined to civic organizations. The American Legion will observe the day with a dance at the Armory, but outside of that the former service men will conduct no public celebration. The civic organizations that have announced special programs are the Kiwanis club, the Rotary club and the Duluth Commercial club. The Kiwanis club met today and devoted its regular meeting to a special program appropriate to the day. A number of speakers talked on Armistice day here and "over there" and a number of war songs were sung by the Kiwanis quartet.

The Rotary club will give a special program at the noonday meeting of the club at the Spalding hotel tomorrow, including a number of prominent speakers who will talk on what the day means to America. War songs will be sung.

The Duluth Commercial club will observe the day by decorating the rooms of the club in the American flags and by having a prominent speaker at the luncheon hour.

Armistice Day Sing in "Y" Lobby.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, the second anniversary of the signing the armistice with Germany will be celebrated by singing patriotic songs in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A., central department. An invitation is extended to all citizens to join in this form of remembrance of the day.

The songfest will continue for about half an hour and all men and women who can are urged to crowd the big lobby. J. R. Batchelor, city recreational director, will lead in singing the songs which stirred all during the war.

Business places throughout the city will decorate their stores and office buildings with American flags and bunting, it was announced by several. All owners of buildings are urged to display the colors.

Governor Burnquist has set aside the day as a special day in memory of the closing of the war and on which tribute should be paid to those who gave their lives in service.

Memorial Certificates.

The state of Minnesota will issue handsome memorial certificates, personally signed by the governor and secretary of state, to the relatives of each of the gold star men on the state's honor roll.

In St. Louis county, a list of 232 names represents the present recorded Gold Star roll for this county. This has been prepared by the St. Louis County Branch of the Minnesota War Records commission, of which William E. Culkin of this city is chairman. The state war records commission is assembling the records of each man who made the supreme sacrifice with the ultimate plan of publishing a complete and official Gold Star roster for Minnesota. The county war records commission is also planning publication in the future and should be able to include the record of every man in the county who died in the service.

The names in the list which is published herewith have been procured from records on hand at headquarters in Duluth and from the files of the state commission in St. Paul.

Recorders Need Assistance.

"In order to avoid omissions or errors in the complete and official Gold Star roster, it can be readily seen that assistance will be necessary from everyone who knows a Gold Star man," said Mr. Culkin. "In St. Louis county, a large number of names [illegible] its assembly [illegible] of the service men. In some cases it has been impossible to learn the names and addresses of relatives or friends of Gold Star men. Some names have been omitted. Each city, town and village in St. Louis county should take pride in seeing that no names are omitted from its locality.

"If every person in the county who reads this list will carefully check through it and notify the commission of any possible errors it will [illegible]

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

DEFECTIVE PAGE

GIVEN WRONG IMPRESSION

Washington, Nov. 10.—Flat denial of certain statements recently coming from the United States senate committee on reconstruction regarding the bituminous coal industry was made here last night by President D. B. Wentz of the National Coal association.

A "wholly wrong impression," said gone to the public through these statements, Col. Wentz asserted in his reply, adding that the broad charge had been made that the "entire industry" had been practicing gross extortion on the whole American public.

"Senate committee asserts," he said, "that wrongdoing has been admitted by D. B. Wentz, representing the National Coal association, by Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison of the interstate commerce commission, and Daniel Willard, representing the railroads.

No Such Admission Made.

"No such admission has been made by me, nor do I understand that any such admission has been made by either of the others.

"So as to put the matter straight on the record, I wish to deny emphatically that there was any wrongdoing in any action taken by representatives of the National Coal association of the interstate commerce commission or of the American Railroad association, in their efforts during the coal shortage emergency to increase the production and shipments of bituminous coal.

"On the contrary, the priority orders issued by the Interstate commerce commission and the action taken by the railways and the coal producers were eminently practical and right, and have been the direct means of averting a very serious shortage of coal during the fall and winter.

Grossly Misleading.

"The joint statement of Senators Calder and Edge gives the impression that the National Coal association and the coal industry have done nothing up to this time to put an end to abuses which the senators attacked. This impression is grossly misleading and unfair. The fact is that the National Coal association months ago, through special committees, began an effort to eliminate various abuses that had developed during the shortage emergency with the result that through the co-operation of other branches of the industry, they have been generally eradicated."

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

ALIENIST MADE N. Y. POLICE COMMISSIONER

New York, Nov. 10.—Appointment of Dr. Carleton Simon, noted alienist and criminologist, as a special deputy police commissioner, was announced yesterday by Police Commissioner Enright.

Dr. Simon has been identified with many international murder case investigations. Some years ago he conducted an experiment by which, through prearranged signals with a condemned murderer, he was able to receive communication from the man after he was hanged. The experiment was responsible for the abolition of that form of capital punishment in New Jersey.

GOPHER STATE SETTING PACE

Leads Four States in Division in Dethroning King Alcohol.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—Minnesota leads the other four states in the Northwest prohibition enforcement division in the number of arrests, stills seized, taxes and penalties assessed and in liquor seized and destroyed, according to figures given out today by Paul D. Keller, supervising prohibition director for the division.

In the four months from April 1, to Aug. 1, 360 arrests were made in the state, seventy-three stills seized and destroyed, 7,057 gallons of mash confiscated, 866 gallons of liquor seized but not destroyed, and taxes and penalties to the amount of $344,260.93 were assessed.

Iowa ranked next in the activities of the enforcement department, with Nebraska, South Dakota, and North Dakota, the other states in the Northwest division, following in the order named.

Eighty-three arrests for liquor violations were made in the period from April to August in Iowa, as compared with eighteen in Nebraska, ten in South Dakota and fourteen in North Dakota.

Stills seized and destroyed numbered thirty-seven in Iowa, as against three in Nebraska, nine in North Dakota and six in South Dakota.

More mash was seized and confiscated in Iowa than in the other Northwest states excepting Minnesota. In Iowa, 1,458 gallons were confiscated, while Nebraska yielded 224 gallons, South Dakota seventy-eight gallons, and North Dakota sixty gallons.

Much "Good" Liquor Seized.

Excluding Minnesota, which greatly outdistanced the other four states in enforcement work, Nebraska held the lead in the number of gallons of "good" liquor seized, which was not destroyed, with seventy-two gallons, compared to fifty-six in Iowa, and two gallons each in the Dakotas.

Although Minnesota's figures more than tripled those of Iowa's, almost in every case the latter state's taxes and penalties were more than half levied against Minnesota. As compared to Minnesota's $344,260.93 assessment, taxes and penalties assessed liquor violators in Iowa amounted to $180,966.12, while similar levies were $45,482.92 in Nebraska, $27,610.65 in South Dakota, and $22,452.21 in North Dakota.

Mr. Keller explained that owing to a shortage of clerical help, his office was unable to keep the records up to date, but that with an augmented force in the next few weeks, he expected to have his records completely in order. He is sending to Washington the above figures as his latest report, he said.

Activities of "bootleggers" and moonshine makers have increased considerably since Aug. 1, Mr. Keller said, and he predicted that the following monthly reports would show more violators apprehended.

SOUTH DAKOTA AGAINST BONE DRY PROHIBITION

Huron, S. D., Nov. 10.—The South Dakota direct legislation organization, in a statement issued last night, declared that returns received by it from county auditors showed that the prohibitory law submitted to a direct vote of the people to strengthen prohibition enforcement in this state was defeated by a majority of more than 10,000 at the election last week.

The statement declared that South Dakota, as an original temperance state, was the first to repudiate the bone dry prohibition idea and search and seizure in private homes. It also said that the returns showed that the Richard primary election law was sustained for the fourth time.

Blamed for Decreased Production.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Prohibition was blamed for the decrease in hemlock production in the north woods in an address by O. T. Swan of Oshkosh, Wis., before the convention of the Northern Hemlock association.

"The lumberjacks used to get drunk every Saturday night when they were paid," he said, "but they were always back Monday for work. Now they work four or five weeks and then lay off a week and consequently we never know how many men will be on the job Monday mornings. The men are paid five times as much as in 1915, but they won't work."

GIVEN WRONG IMPRESSION

Washington, Nov. 10.—Flat denial of certain statements recently coming from the United States senate committee on reconstruction regarding the bituminous coal industry was made here last night by President D. B. Wentz of the National Coal association.

A "wholly wrong impression," said [illegible] to the public through these statements, Col. Wentz asserted in his reply, adding that the broad charge had been made that "the entire industry" had been practicing gross extortion on the whole American public.

"[illegible]," he said, "[illegible] has been admitted by D. B. Wentz, representing the National Coal association, by Commissioner [illegible] Aitchison of the interstate commerce commission, and Daniel Willard, representing the railroads.

No such Admission Made.

"No such admission has been made by me, nor do I understand that any such admission has been made by either of the others.

"[illegible] to put the matter straight [illegible], I wish to deny emphatically that there was any wrongdoing in the action taken by representatives of the National Coal association, of the interstate commerce commission or of the American Railroad association in their efforts during the [illegible] shortage emergency to increase the production and shipments of bituminous coal.

"On the contrary, the priority orders issued by the interstate commerce commission and the action taken by the railways and the coal producers were eminently practical and right, and have been the direct means of averting a very serious shortage of coal during the fall and winter.

Grossly Misleading.

"The joint statement of Senators Calder and Edge gives the impression that the National Coal association and the coal industry have done nothing up to this time to put an end to abuses which the senators attacked. This impression is grossly misleading and unfair. The fact is that the National Coal association months ago, through special committees, began an effort to eliminate various abuses that had developed during the shortage emergency with the result that through the co-operation of other branches of the industry, they have been generally eradicated."

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

ALIENIST MADE N. Y. POLICE COMMISSIONER

New York, Nov. 10.—Appointment of Dr. Carleton Simon, noted alienist and criminologist, as a special deputy police commissioner, was announced yesterday by Police Commissioner Enright.

Dr. Simon has been identified with many international murder case investigations. Some years ago he conducted an experiment by which, through prearranged signals with a condemned murderer, he was able to receive communication from the man after he was hanged. The experiment was responsible for the abolition of that form of capital punishment in New Jersey.

GOPHER STATE SETTING PACE

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—Minnesota leads the other four states in the Northwest prohibition enforcement division in the number of arrests, stills seized, taxes and penalties assessed and in liquor seized and destroyed, according to figures given out today by Paul D. Keller, supervising prohibition director for the division.

In the four months from April 1, to Aug. 1, 360 arrests were made in the state, seventy-three stills seized and destroyed, 7,057 gallons of mash confiscated, 866 gallons of liquor seized but not destroyed, and taxes and penalties to the amount of $344,260.93 were assessed.

Iowa ranked next in the activities of the enforcement department, with Nebraska, South Dakota, and North Dakota, the other states in the Northwest division, following in the order named.

Eighty-three arrests for liquor violations were made in the period from April to August in Iowa, as compared with eighteen in Nebraska, ten in South Dakota and fourteen in North Dakota.

Stills seized and destroyed numbered thirty-seven in Iowa, as against three in Nebraska, nine in North Dakota and six in South Dakota.

More mash was seized and confiscated in Iowa than in the other Northwest states excepting Minnesota. In Iowa, 1,458 gallons were confiscated, while Nebraska yielded 224 gallons, South Dakota seventy-eight gallons, and North Dakota sixty gallons.

Much "Good" Liquor Seized.

Excluding Minnesota, which greatly outdistanced the other four states in enforcement work, Nebraska held the lead in the number of gallons of "good" liquor seized, which was not destroyed, with seventy-two gallons, compared to fifty-six in Iowa, and two gallons each in the Dakotas.

Although Minnesota's figures more than tripled those of Iowa's, almost in every case the latter state's taxes and penalties were more than half levied against Minnesota. As compared to Minnesota's $341,260.93 assessment, taxes and penalties assessed liquor violators in Iowa amounted to $180,966.12, while similar levies were $45,482.92 in Nebraska, $27,610.65 in South Dakota, and $22,452.21 in North Dakota.

Mr. Keller explained that owing to a shortage of clerical help, his office was unable to keep the records up to date, but that with an augmented force in the next few weeks, he expected to have his records completely in order. He is sending to Washington the above figures as his latest report, he said.

Activities of "bootleggers" and moonshine makers have increased considerably since Aug. 1, Mr. Keller said, and he predicted that the following monthly reports would show more violators apprehended.

SOUTH DAKOTA AGAINST BONE DRY PROHIBITION

Huron, S. D., Nov. 10.—The South Dakota direct legislation organization, in a statement issued last night, declared that returns received by it from county auditors showed that the prohibitory law submitted to a direct vote of the people to strengthen prohibition enforcement in this state was defeated by a majority of more than 10,000 at the election last week.

The statement declared that South Dakota, as an original temperance state, was the first to repudiate the bone dry prohibition idea and search and seizure in private homes. It also said that the returns showed that the Richard primary election law was sustained for the fourth time.

Blamed for Decreased Production.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Prohibition was blamed for the decrease in hemlock production in the north woods in an address by O. T. Swan of Oshkosh, Wis., before the convention of the Northern Hemlock association.

"The lumberjacks used to get drunk every Saturday night when they were paid," he said, "but they were always back Monday for work. Now they work four or five weeks and then lay off a week and consequently we never know how many men will be on the job Monday mornings. The men are paid five times as much as in 1915, but they won't work."

WOULD AVERT FOREST FIRES.

State Forester Cox Will Speak Here on Proposed Activities.

Plans will be outlined for greater publicity being given campers, tourists, hunters and farmers at a meeting to be held at the Duluth Commercial club tomorrow night, at which State Forester W. T. Cox will be present. He will urge greater caution in the prevention of fires and give in detail where forest rangers can be communicated with in the event of fires. He will also advocate the posting in conspicuous places of notices to help prevent a repetition of the disaster of October, 1918, and the threatened one of last month.

The meeting is the result of the efforts of T. W. Walker, representing the Rotary club and the Duluth Automobile club. These organizations have asked the assistance of other civic organizations in promoting this movement, and the meeting tomorrow is the outcome of the agitation. L. B. Arnold and F. W. Milhelmi were appointed by the Commercial club to represent that body at the meeting tomorrow, which will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the club. The public is invited to attend.

ANNUITIES PAID TO GOPHER CHIPPEWAS

Bena, Minn., Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chippewa Indians of Minnesota are being paid their annuities amounting to some $17 for each Indian, squaw and child and large amounts are being disbursed. Payment is being made by Indian officials here today and the town is crowded with redskins and their families who have come here and put up their tepees in anticipation of the big event. Indians, old and young, have been drifting in here for several days and camping around in the village in anticipation of today's payment. In some of the larger tepees where the more sportively inclined of the red men gather, it is said that various games of chance are thriving and it is even hinted that in some manner the noble red man inclined to take a drink has found something to cheer in that line, although Federal agents are on the watch. Similar payments are to be made at Bowstring and other points.

DRIVE FOR RED CROSS

Armistice Day-to-Thanksgiving Campaign Will Begin on Thursday.

Responses to the Red Cross roll call have already begun and with the completion of the mobilization of the Duluth field army, set for tomorrow, the newly established Armistice day-to-Thanksgiving campaign will be well under way.

Chairman W. A. McGonagle and his assistants have been working under special pressure during the last three days to complete their preparations for the roll call. With the assistance of the executive committee of the Duluth chapter and many of the men and women who served during the World war, the organization of the five counties included within the jurisdiction of the chapter has been about completed. Literally tons of Red Cross literature and posters have been received at the headquarters, which has been established in the Alworth building. Much of this has already been distributed to the various centers from which it will be distributed.

The posters that will be used this year, comprise some of the most effective that have been developed for Red Cross work. One that the chapter officials are particularly pleased with represents a Red Cross woman worker, mounted on a horse, pushing through a storm to carry relief to some stricken family in the wilderness.

This is typical of the work that is being carried on by the organization in this section of the country. More than 1,000 women have taken the special course provided by the Northern division to qualify themselves for this type of work and in the jurisdiction of the Duluth chapter, covering as it does one of the largest territories in the organization there are a number of these women constantly employed. They are subject to call under any and all conditions and up-to-date no appeal for their help has been in vain.

It is to keep up this sort of work that the funds derived from the Armistice day-to-Thanksgiving roll call are to be used. And, as the officers of the chapter have stated, the campaign that starts tomorrow is to be regarded in no sense a money-collecting campaign. It is a membership campaign. It is the annual census of the Red Cross. The memberships are divided into five classes, as heretofore, but the annual membership, $1 per year, is the one which the Duluth chapter workers will devote their time to securing.

ORE OUTPUT TO BE GREAT

Season's Shipments About 58,000,000 Tons; Gain of 10,000,000 Tons.

Operators of iron mines on the Minnesota ranges are sanguine that the aggregate shipments for the season from the Lake Superior district will closely approach 58,000,000 tons or approximately 10,000,000 tons in excess of last year.

The final figures up to Oct. 31 showed shipments of 52,122,342 tons as compared with 43,978,914 tons up to the same period last year, and 56,870,871 tons in 1918, which was the record year.

Shipments from the mines of the Oliver Mining company and the independents will be maintained as late as weather conditions will permit, according to reports from the various points. Yesterday was the first time this fall that the handling of ore at the docks was hampered by cold weather conditions, and shipments so far this month have only shown a moderate scaling from the October figures. Instructions from the Eastern headquarters of the companies are to move down as large an ore tonnage as possible this month, as furnace operations are expected to be on a heavier scale as soon as the price adjustments now underway have been effected.

Commenting upon the ore shipping situation, the Iron Trade Review says: "Shipments from the Head of the Lakes at present are much better than anticipated, and it is understood that the leading interest will continue shipments up to the end of navigation to make up some of the tonnage in which it is in arrears. Shippers report that furnaces are taking all the ore that can be shipped, and no further requests have been made for cancellations or carry-overs. Several inquiries are in the market for small tonnages of high phos ore.

"Operators do not anticipate any special interest in the market until next spring, due to the slackening of furnace operations. They foresee another big market in prospect when liquidation has been completed, and in discussing prices the concensus of opinion at present is against any reduction in ore. The matter, however, depends largely on the outcome of two important issues now pending, the first being the reduction of freight rates from mines to upper lake docks and the other the outcome of the tonnage tax question."

really wants to put him on the supreme court again.

Lowden for Secretary of Treasury.

The secretaryship of the treasury may be regarded as settled. It will go to Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who threw his delegates to Harding at Chicago and thus helped beat Wood. The Thompson machine, which has just won a big victory in Illinois, is determined to fight Lowden and has indirectly served notice on the president-elect that the selection of Lowden to any office in the cabinet will mean a declaration of war by the Thompson crowd. It will be noted that Senator Medill McCormick, a stanch friend of Governor Lowden, hustled to Marion on a flying trip the morning after election, and it was generally supposed in Marion that he brought Senator Harding tidings of the fight in Illinois and urged Senator Harding to stand pat on the Lowden name and not be worried by the threats of the Thompson people. Just what the McCormick errand was is not known to anybody but the two senators, but the general impression is that it had to do with the Lowden appointment.

Senator Harding likes Lowden and regards him as a splendid man to handle the finances of the country. He made a fine record in Illinois as a business administrator. Moreover, he was friendly to the Harding nomination when votes were needed. Under the Wilson administration the same tendency arose to recognize first the men who helped make the nomination possible at Baltimore. They were the original Wilson men. Well, the original Harding men will have much to say.

Daugherty Attorney General.

That brings us to the department of justice. Harry Daugherty, preconvention manager for Senator Harding, will be offered the portfolio of attorney general. He will be urged to accept. Some of his friends say he can't afford it, but that Harding will insist. If he doesn't take it, another man prominent in Ohio politics, whose name is not ready to be disclosed, will be in a position to demand another place in the cabinet and the feeling is that he isn't fitted for it. Ohio will have one portfolio and Daugherty may have it.

If Daugherty doesn't take department of justice, Senator Fall of New Mexico, or Former Senator Sutherland of Utah may be selected, though both these men are being really considered for the secretaryship of the interior because of their knowledge of the West. The latter section of the country will insist on having a Western man appointed to be secretary of the interior. Senator Fall is well liked by Senator Harding and is looked upon as an excellent all around adviser. As for Former Senator Sutherland, he spent much of the summer at Marion and his advice was taken on many important subjects by the nominee.

Pershing for War Secretary.

For secretary of war the present prospect is that Gen. John J. Pershing will be asked to take the job. Friends of Leonard Wood are insistent that he be given that or be made chief of staff. If Pershing is secretary of war, he will not pick Wood for chief of staff any more than he would permit Wood to come to Europe to be a part of the American expeditionary forces. President Wilson and Secretary Baker were blamed for keeping Wood out of Europe, but the truth is Gen. Pershing had much more to do with it than the folks in Washington.

Another thing: Wood fought Harding in the Ohio primaries and the sores of that struggle have not been entirely healed. Harding has forgiven Wood, but the alignment of Harding's friends and supporters is still against Wood. Senator Warren of Wyoming, father-in-law of Gen. Pershing, is a close friend of Senator Harding and helped get Wyoming and other Western states to vote for Harding at the Chicago convention.

For the secretaryship of the navy, Former Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts seems to stand the best chance thus far. Senator Harding likes him and made him a member of the campaign committee. Weeks is looked upon as a broad gauged citizen, whose early days in the naval academy and subsequent interest in the navy when he was in the senate have equipped him to handle the job.

Wallace in Agriculture.

For the department of agriculture, the name of Henry Wallace, editor of farm publications and resident of Des Moines, Iowa, is at the top of the list. He has been close to Harding throughout the campaign and has advised the senator on matters agricultural.

For department of labor, Representative Nolan of California is being considered, but at the background is the name of Representative John F. Burke of Pennsylvania, who, the writer is informed, has an even better chance for the place than Nolan. The difficulty is that if Knox beomes secretary of state it may not be possible for Harding to select another Pennsylvania man for a second cabinet position.

For postmaster general, Will Hays is the most likely choice. The selection has been fully approved by Harry Daugherty, Harding's right hand man, the one person from whom a veto might have come. Since Daugherty raises no objection, Hays will get the place. The work of Mr. Hays as an organizer is expected to fit him to carry on the executive task of the postoffice department and besides he is wanted as a political adviser. This has been the case in other administrations, and Harding's will be no exception.

Department of Commerce.

For department of commerce, no single name can be said to stand out. Former Governor Stokes of New Jersey is talked of in the event that the portfolio doesn't go to New York, but the feeling is that some New York business man will get the job. Albert D. Lasker of Chicago, one of the ablest men in the Harding campaign, president of Lord & Thomas and a skillful organizer, is being urged by many of the prominent men in the Republican party to be secretary of commerce, but there again is the difficulty of picking two men from one state—Lowden and Lasker. During the summer months, Lasker was a frequent visitor at Marion. Moreover, he was virtually in charge of the campaign of Senator Hiram Johnson at Chicago, and Senator Harding would certainly be pleasing Senator Johnson if he picked Lasker.

It will be noted that Herbert Hoover's name is omitted from the list of probabilities. This may be a surprise, but the group who have talked things over with Harding say that the antagonisms developed among the farmers of the country through the food administration ought not to be saddled on the Harding administration. They suggest Hoover should be appointed to some important foreign mission.

That's the latest cabinet gossip. It is where the situation stands today but is subject, of course, to all sorts of changes. Some of the names will be found on the permanent list next March. Others will be supplanted by new names. For the moment, it can be said that the cabinet will not contain many progressives but will be almost entirely conservative.

ernment owned ships, of corruption on the part of officials and employes of the shipping board emergency fleet corporation, and of the use of political and other influence in the negotiating of contracts for construction and allocation of vessels.

The investigators grouped their observations under seven general heads, representing various phases of the shipping board's activities. They declared that improperly drawn contracts had cost the government a large sum, that some divisions of the board had failed to co-operate efficiently and that others had failed completely to function properly.

Payrolls Padded.

The report charged that payrolls had been padded by some of the firms which repaired government-owned vessels and that there had been a heavy loss to the government as a result of wholesale thefts of supplies and equipment from ships. The investigators also reported to the committee that companies operating government vessels had in some instances owned stock in companies which furnished supplies to the ships at prices ranging as high as 50 per cent above wholesale costs.

Discussing the allocation of ships, the report states that "investigation of companies or applicants for assigned or allocated tonnage seems to be more or less haphazard with the United States shipping board." The investigators say that the division of assignment and allocation attempted to co-operate with the department of investigation, but that just about "the time proper co-operation between these two departments had been established, the department of investigation was so disturbed by a change in its directing heads and its personnel as to render its offices useless for the purposes of the division of assignment and allocation."

Mr. Richardson, one of the investigators, was formerly connected with the department of investigation. Mr. Fisher was at one time connected with the Federal trade commission. He states, in presenting the report, that it was "designed to be constructive and helpful to the shipping board, rather than destructively critical."

DEMOCRATS MEET AT FRENCH LICK, IND.

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 10.—National and state leaders began arriving here for an informal conference of Democratic party workers to be held here for the next few days.

Among those on the ground last night were Charles F. Murphy, New York, Tammany Hall leader; Thomas Taggart, defeated Democratic candidate for United States senator from Indiana; Judge J. K. Moss and Thomas F. Foley of New York.

A late train brought Alfred E. Smith, governor of New York, and several Tammany lieutenants.

FORMER DULUTHIAN DIES IN ASHLAND

ALFRED G. BOUTIN.

News has reached here that Alfred G. Boutin, formerly of Duluth, and recently on the road for the Union Match company of this city, died Monday at the general hospital in Ashland, Wis., of pneumonia. He was sick nine days, but his system had been weakened by two previous attacks of influenza, one in Duluth, while on military duty here, and one at Fort Dodge, when in camp. The funeral was held in Bayfield this afternoon under auspices of the American Legion. Mr. Boutin was 42 years of age and served in the World war. Unable to get into the service at first, he succeeded in joining the Fourth Minnesota regiment and served in Duluth for a time. Later, by using every influence he could command, he managed to get into the regular army and there tried in every way to get transferred to a company to serve overseas. He succeeded in his efforts but did not get across because of the armistice being signed too soon.

Before the war, Mr. Boutin was foreman for Stack Bros. in construction work here; later was with Whitney Brothers in Superior and Duluth, and for about a year operated the Enterprise Brick company at Wrenshall. He is survived by his widow, his father, one brother and two sisters.

Loss of "Good Will" $250,000.

New York, Nov. 10.—Loss of "good will" of "Jack's" restaurant, one of the well-known eating places, due to prohibition, is placed at $250,000, according to papers in a lawsuit filed here yesterday. Litigation is brought by administrators of the estate of Timothy Hurley, who was a partner with John Dunston in the restaurant.

FATE OF 11 MEN IN JURY'S HANDS SOON

brought liquor from Eveleth to Duluth and then proceeded to Wisconsin where Teddy had found a purchaser.

"Bank statements also corroborate Longfield's story," Mr. Jaques asserted. "Once where Longfield said he got $4,000 for liquor, Clark's account shows two deposits totaling that amount. Other evidence as to receipts and disbursements on Clark's accounts tally exactly with the money Longfield showed to have been obtained in the liquor business."

Condemns Defense.

Mr. Jaques also condemned the defense of Murphy and Bradley who have denied making trips to the range in company with Longfield. He demanded evidence that liquor seized by the two officers was actually destroyed and accused them of selling whisky seized by virtue of their official positions.

Mr. Power, in opening his speech, asserted that the government's case rests entirely on the word of Longfield, "a malicious perjurer." He declared that the latter's story was told only to save himself from prosecution.

"Longfield had to tell some sort of story to get immunity," Mr. Power shouted. "He knew the government had it on him otherwise. He probably told the government all sorts of stories. Finally, they have hit upon this one, which they think they can prove as true by hitching up calls here and some details there and labeling it corroborative evidence."

Claims Government Fails.

Mr. Power also mentioned that the government had failed entirely to bring in any whisky as evidence. Only one witness, he said, claimed to have seen liquor handled by Longfield. This was James Field, whose veracity Mr. Power questioned.

Witnesses who testified yesterday afternoon and last night for the defendants were: W. W. Wells, O. E. Owens, J. E. Walsh, Simon Clark, Helmer Jentoft, Patrick McCormack, R. W. Esterly, W. H. Salter, R. M. Funck, E. A. Thompson, C. A. Gronberg, S. A. Keating, J. H. Madden, Arthur F. Winkler, John A. Johnson, Bertha Clark and Telford M. Honnold. Most of these were character witnesses. The defendants, Cahill, Teddy and Eckard also took the stand in their own behalf with denials of Longfield's accusations.

Thomas E. Howard, Minneapolis taxi driver, and Fred Longfield testified this morning as rebuttal witnesses for the government. The latter denied the story of the defense that Longfield was engaged to run a taxicab for Cahill and Clark.

EXCHANGE DAY BIG FEATURE

Potato Growers Winding Up Show; Prize Lists Announced.

A potato exchange today features the close of the annual exhibit of the Minnesota Potato Growers' association at the Armory. The judges completed the awarding of prizes on exhibits yesterday afternoon and a banquet attended by a large number of the growers was held last evening.

W. C. Sargent, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Duluth Commercial club, presided. J. R. Batchelor had charge of the musical program. Impromptu talks were given by A. B. Hostetter, president of the Minnesota Potato Growers' association; C. P. Craig of Duluth; A. F. Hutchinson, publisher of Stock and Dairy Farmer, Duluth; A. D. Wilson, chief of agricultural extension work of the University of Minnesota; L. B. Arnold, land department of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, illustrated with lantern slides showing methods of land clearing and development work in St. Louis county and M. J. Thompson of the state agricultural farm, who told of the work of the state farm.

W. J. Fuller was adjudged the winner of the sweepstakes which carried with a trophy cup and a cash prize of $50. The award was made on his exhibit of a peck of Green Mountain potatoes.

Henry Gaylor was the only exhibitor in the King variety and won first place.

In the race for honors in the individual exhibits by the counties, the four counties winning were as follows: First place, Clay; second, Lake; third, Itasca, and fourth, St. Louis county. Clay county took first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth places on the Early Ohio variety, and St. Louis county all six places on the Irish Cobbler variety.

The other varieties and the places won by St. Louis county were: Triumphs, first place; Rurals, first, second, third and fourth; Green Mountain, second, fourth, fifth and sixth; Russetts, first and second; Burbanks, first, fourth and sixth, and on the King variety, all six places.

Itasca county won second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth place on Triumphs and sixth place on Rurals. First place on Green Mountain and fifth place on Russetts also went to Itasca county.

Lake county won first and fifth places on Rurals and third on Green Mountain.

C. L. Fitch of the Iowa state college, one of the judges, has been working among the county agents present at the exhibit to induce them to send exhibits to the Midwest horticultural exhibition, which will be held at Council Bluffs, Iowa, next week. Several of those attending the show will send exhibits.

Severe Storm at Nome.

Nome, Alaska, Nov. 10.—One of the severest storms recorded in this section in years struck Nome early Monday night and yesterday was continuing with increasing violence, accompanied by a 53-mile wind. The surf was driven over the sandspit for hours and washed into the city's streets, flooding many cellars and working considerable damage.

MINISTER WANTS TO HELP

It is only natural that one who has been relieved from sufferings should feel grateful and want to help others. Rev. W. F. M. Swyndale, 318 Elm St., Macon, Ga., writes: "My kidneys gave me much trouble before I took Foley Kidney Pills. My sleep is not disturbed now and my back seems to have gotten completely well. I am ready at any time to speak a word for Foley Kidney Pills." Why suffer from aches and pains, sore muscles, stiff joints or sleep-disturbing bladder trouble when you can procure such a good remedy?

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger-tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Banish Catarrh

Breathe Hyomei for Two Minutes and Stuffed-Up Head Will Go

If you want to get safe relief from catarrh, cold in the head or from an irritating cough in the shortest time, breathe Hyomei.

It will clean out your head in two minutes and allow you to breathe freely, awake or asleep or money refunded.

Hyomei should end a cold in one day, and relieve you of disgusting snuffles, hawking, spitting and offensive breath in a week.

Hyomei is made chiefly from eucalyptus, a soothing, healing, germ-killing antiseptic, that comes from the eucalyptus forests of inland Australia, where catarrh, asthma and other bronchial troubles are seldom known.

Hyomei is pleasant and easy to breathe. Just pour a few drops into the Hard Rubber Inhaler, use as directed and relief is almost certain.

A Complete Hyomei Outfit, including inhaler and one bottle of Hyomei, costs but little at Abbett's Drug Store, 219 West Superior street, and druggists everywhere.

DRUMSTICKS

THE holiday spirit is awakening. And with its first bow you know that this year there will be no hollow sound to the Thanks it utters—no forced smile behind the Gifts it gives.

Not for years has November been so propitious. Like Mr. Periwinkle, Autumn has been "one vast, substantial smile."

And smiles are much more catching than tears, kindly Nature having given us twice as many muscles to chuckle with as to cry with.

There is joy—because the drums of war are stilled.

Joy—because the harvests of America have been bountiful.

Joy—because of the day of more reasonable prices.

Joy—because epidemics have passed us by.

MINNESOTA'S CORN CROP

Second Largest in History of State, 115,050,000 Bushels.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Nov. 10.—Notwithstanding a rather unfavorable season, Minnesota's 1920 corn crop is the second largest in its history, being 115,050,000 bushels. This crop was exceeded only in 1919 when the final production was 118,000,000 bushels. This is the report of Paul H. Kirk, Minnesota statistician for the bureau of crop estimates at Washington, D. C. The report places the yield at 37.5 bushels per acre compared to forty bushels per acre last year. On account of excessive moisture early in the season, corn on low lands if not drowned out was too wet for proper cultivation which resulted in weedy growth and stunted corn which, though it matured, gave a low yield. In the east central part of the state some corn was damaged by hot, dry weather during July which materially cut down yields in that section. The quality of the crop is 91 per cent of normal. It is estimated that 17 per cent of the total acreage planted was cut for silos this year and the average yield per acre of this corn was eight tons per acre. It is also estimated that about 90 per cent of the crop is of marketable quality.

Potato Crop.

The potato crop in this state presents rather a peculiar situation as the total agricultural crop exceeds that of 1919 while the commercial crop will be less than one year ago. This condition exists because the southern part of the state where only a small per cent of the commercial crop is grown produced a crop above the average this year while the heavy commercial district in the east central part of the state, due to being too wet early in the season and too dry in the latter part of the crop season had a much smaller commercial crop than in 1919. The total commercial crop for 1920 is estimated at slightly over 23,000 cars, while the 1919 commercial crop was about 25,000 cars. The 1920 agricultural crop based on yield of ninety-nine bushels per acre is 27,918,000 bushels, compared to 26,100,000 bushels produced in 1919. The quality of the 1920 crop is placed at 90 per cent of normal. It is estimated that about 57 per cent of the total crop is grown for market.

The past crop season was on the whole a very favorable one for the growth and maturity of flax seed in Minnesota. Very little of the crop was damaged by frost and only small damage was done by dry weather and insect pests. The yields run very even throughout the state this year. The average yield being estimated at 9.5 bushels per acre or a total production of 3,164,000 bushels. The final production for 1919 was 2,880,000 bushels. The quality of the 1920 crop is placed at 92 per cent of normal.

Tobacco Being Raised.

While tobacco is still a small crop in this state, being between 500 and 600 acres, the yield this year is estimated at 1,000 pounds per acre.

The total production of apples is 75 per cent of normal or a yield in bushels of 1,462,000, compared with 1,365,000 in 1919. The number of bearing trees is estimated at 3 per cent more than in 1910.

While very little of the clover seed crop was hulled before Nov. 1, all reports indicate a fair crop this year. The yield per acre is placed at 2.2 bushels which is estimated at 80 per cent of a normal yield. The preliminary yield for this year is estimated at 50,000 bushels.

The Nov. 1 report for minor crops grown in this state are as follows: Sorghum for grain, yield per acre, seventeen bushels; sorghum for forage, yield, seven tons; sorghum for syrup, yield of syrup, 100 gallons. Grapes production, 96 per cent normal. Sugar beets, condition, 92 per cent of normal. Average weight per measured bushel in pounds: winter wheat 57.4; spring wheat, 54; oats, 34; barley, 46. Yield of buckwheat, sixteen bushels per acre; total production, 1920, 240,000 bushels.

Army Store Is Robbed.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Nov. 9.—Thieves broke into the army and navy store, recently established in East Grand Forks, Sunday night and made away with approximately $800 worth of army goods. A. T. Sinykin of St. Paul, who is in charge of the store, has offered $100 reward for the capture of the men who committed the crime.

BADGER "U" TO GREET ALUMNI

Football Game With Illinois and Other Big Events Are Planned.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—Homecoming of University of Wisconsin graduates occupies the attention of the university city this week-end. Thousands of former students are expected to attend the annual get-together and the season's most interesting football game.

The whole university section is preparing to receive the returning alumni. Gala appearances have already been assumed by stores and fraternity houses, which are decorating in honor of the occasion. It is expected to be the liveliest occasion of the year.

Football is the central attraction. The graduates expect Wisconsin to show the spirit that will mean the downfall of Illinois on the gridiron.

Action starts the day before the game, according to the homecoming committee. Registration of alumni will be held throughout Friday and during the early part of Friday evening will be the central attraction.

Two Bands to Play.

Two bands will be in the armory to put early life into the huge crowd that always packs the hall to hear Coach Richards, "Eddie" Gillette and members of the team tell how the foe will be handled on Saturday.

Following the mass meeting it is planned to have the annual snake dance around the bonfire on the lower campus. Engineers' minstrels, the annual production of the engineering school, will be held on Friday and Saturday nights for the first time.

A hobo parade is scheduled for Saturday morning, when Illinois' goat will be led through the streets followed by students in "hobo" attire. Then follows the game, always the most interesting of the year from the viewpoint of the university. It is the occasion of the most intense interest and enthusiasm. Over 25,000 are expected to attend.

Saturday evening an alumni dance is scheduled for Lathrop hall. Sunday is the get-together day when graduates spend their time renewing acquaintances and when the fraternities have their annual big get-together.

TO RETURN VISITS OF SOUTHERN PRESIDENTS

Washington, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Wilson formally announced last night that he had directed Secretary Colby of the state department, "on my behalf and in my stead," to visit Brazil and Uruguay in acknowledgment of the recent visits to the United States of the presidents of those two republics.

In addition, the president said he would be gratified if Mr. Colby took the opportunity also to visit Buenos Aires in response to the recent invitation received from the Argentine government.

"It has long been my hope that I might personally return these visits," the president's statement, issued at the conclusions of today's cabinet meeting. He said regarding the recent tours in this country of Presidents Brum of Uruguay and Pessoa of Brazil, "and I can conceive of no worthier object to which I could dedicate my time and strength; but I am prevented from doing so and cannot longer postpone the agreeable courtesy of their reciprocation which this country is strongly desirous of showing to the governments and peoples both of Brazil and Uruguay."

WAGE WAR ON BADGER STILLS

Dry Officers Get Co-operation in Superior But Little in Milwaukee.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—Five stills each week is the average toll of the state prohibition officials levied on the illicit liquor traffic in Wisconsin, according to B. C. Parkinson, deputy commissioner. A vigorous effort is being made, he said, to cut down moonshining and bootlegging.

While Wisconsin still may be classed with the more "moist" states, according to the commissioner, progress is being made toward a definite curtailment of the traffic. In most places the report comes that people generally are complying with the Eighteenth amendment.

Sentiment crystallizing against the bootlegger and his ware is the greatest aid the commission has in making its work effective, Mr. Parkinson said. He said that citizens generally were co-operating.

Milwaukee Prosecutor Hostile.

Mr. Parkinson declared that the commissioner had been prevented from clearing up the situation in Milwaukee because of what he said was hostility on the part of the district attorney there. He declared that rulings of the courts had made it practically impossible to get convictions, even though in some instances confessions have been presented.

Superior, on the other hand, the commissioner said, has been most active in co-operation with the prohibition authorities and has aided in securing more than fifty convictions. Nearly all other cities of the state outside of Milwaukee are sympathetic and willing to help the state enforce prohibition, he said.

Most arrests are made from among the foreign-born population, the records show. According to Mr. Parkinson they often have no conception of the American law and its enforcement. He said there have been a number of instances where those arrested have felt hurt because the commissioners would not dismiss their cases for what they considered a proper remuneration.

GOPHER TREASURY HAS LARGE BALANCE

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—It was a million-dollar day in the office of State Treasurer Henry Rines yesterday, one of the banner days of the year. The twine and machinery plant operated at the state penitentiary at Stillwater paid in $620,000 of earnings and $353,602 was paid out of the state treasury.

The balance in the state treasury at the close of business yesterday was $12,421,456.40.

FAIRFAX, MINN., MAN IS SAFE IN CRIMEA

Fairfax, Minn., Nov. 10.—Fred L. Bregel of Fairfax, whose name appears in the list of twenty Red Cross workers believed safe in the Crimea, enlisted in the Twenty-sixth Minnesota medical unit three years ago and was stationed at a base hospital in France until the end of the war. He then obtained his release and joined the American Red Cross in France and went to Siberia. His parents reside here.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this Hamburg Tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

Badger Commission Permits.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—The Madison Gas & Electric company has been given power to extend its telephone lines into the towns of Bloominggrove and Burke by the railroad commission. The commission also authorized the La Crosse & Southeastern railroad to charge a passenger rate of 5 cents a mile and baggage rates of 5 cents per 100 pounds.

THE VICTORY OF GOOD VALUE

It is good to be able to say to you that Dodge Brothers' implicit faith in the good will that grows out of good value is being vindicated by everything that is going on in their plants today.

You know well that Dodge Brothers dedicated themselves, from the very first, to the production of a car which should rise superior to all external conditions, and be, in effect, and in fact, a law unto itself.

They were supremely satisfied, to begin with, that good motor cars supplied a great and a permanent human need.

They were sure that no matter what happened, there would always be an inexhaustible market for the particular kind of a car they hoped and planned to build.

They were convinced that they could produce a car so sound in value, so saving, and so satisfactory to the individual owner, that no outside influence could shake its hold upon the public.

The simple facts, as they exist at this moment, are so inspiring that we are prompted to share them with everyone who shares with Dodge Brothers their faith in sound business principles.

Dodge Brothers are more strongly and soundly entrenched in the good will of the public at this moment than ever in their history.

Every good result which John and Horace Dodge counted upon when they committed themselves to the principles of building good will by building good value, has come to pass.

Their certainty that people will always discover a meritorious product, set it apart, prefer it and reward it, is continuing to come true with each and every succeeding business day.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car is in demand because Dodge Brothers Motor Car meets a definite economic need and satisfies a human craving for honest and substantial value.

Its market will continue to grow and the production continue to increase to meet that market, as long as merit continues to be the determining factor in motor cars and in all other manufactured products.

AT 68, SAYS IT'S BEST MEDICINE HE EVER SAW

St. Paul Man Declares Tanlac Rid Him of Stomach Trouble After Everything Else He Tried Had Failed.

"Since Tanlac has helped me so much I am not surprised that so many people are praising it," said Richard Heinbackel, 47 St. Anthony Ave., St. Paul, Minn., recently.

"In my opinion, there is no equal to Tanlac, for it has relieved me of eight years' suffering from stomach trouble, and has made me feel like a new man. I couldn't digest anything properly and every time I ate a meal I just suffered terribly for hours afterward. I also suffered from constipation and finally became very badly run down and weak, and got so nervous I could scracely sleep any at all.

"Well, it seemed that I just tried nearly everything, but nothing helped me. I could hardly believe the good things I heard about Tanlac, but before I finished my first bottle I felt so much better I decided nothing too good could be said about the medicine. I eat just anything I want now, never have the least trace of indigestion, am not constipated any more, sleep well every night and feel full of energy all the time. Although I am sixty-eight years old, I must say Tanlac is the best medicine I ever ran across."

Tanlac is sold in Duluth at the W. A. Abbett drug stores under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. Also the leading druggist in every town throughout the Northwest. Wm. Isaacson, Cowan; Geo. W. Swanson, Culver; Floodwood Merc. Co., Floodwood; Wilfrid Longtin, Grand Lake, P. O. Saginaw; Fairbanks Store Co., Fairbanks; George Lestic store, McKinley.—Advertisement.

Too Weak to Do Anything

The ordinary every-day life of most women is a ceaseless treadmill of work. How much harder the tasks become when some derangement peculiar to her sex makes every movement painful, and keeps the nervous system all unstrung until life seems hardly worth living. Every women in this condition should profit by the experience of these two women whose letters follow.

Read the Experience of These Two Women

Reading, Pa.—"I had organic inflammation, pains in the side and back which were so sharp that they pulled me to my knees, and I could not walk. I had an operation and still I failed, and in the eight years I suffered I had four doctors and none helped me. My mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was then in bed, and after the first bottle I could be out of bed, then I took Vegetable Compound Tablets and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and also used the Sanative Wash. I still take the medicine and am able now to do my own housework. My friends say, 'My! but you look well—what do you do? Who is your doctor?' And there is only one answer, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines which I gladly recommend.'"—Mrs. Wm. Stein, 560 Douglas Street, Reading, Pa.

Gainesville, Tex.—"For three years I suffered untold agony each month with pains in my side. I found only temporary relief in doctor's medicine or anything else I took until my husband and I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I mentioned it to a neighbor and she told me she had taken it with good results, and advised me to try it. I was then in bed part of the time, and my doctor said I would have to be operated on, but we decided to try the Vegetable Compound, and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a dressmaker and am now able to go about my work, and do my housework besides. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial as I am always glad to speak a word for your medicine."—Mrs. W. M. Stephens, 202 Harvey St., Gainesville, Texas.

MOUNTAIN GOAT EXPOSES MINE

Stewart, B. C., Nov. 10.—A mountain goat recently was responsible for the discovery of what is believed to be one of the most valuable mines in British Columbia.

Years ago float ore was found in the mountain range south of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway ten miles from Stewart. It was so rich that its discovery created a sensation and prospectors flocked to the region and spent months in fruitless efforts to locate the vein.

A. Finn was hunting mountain goats high above timber line. He had trailed an animal for miles when it suddenly came out on a glacier and stood in full view against the sky on a pinnacle of ice. Finn's rifle cracked and the goat fell dead down a steep precipice and rolled several hundred feet. Its body fetched up near the foot of the glacier, and when Finn reached it he found it had dislodged a massive rock beneath which the long searched for vein lay exposed.

The lode is 5,000 feet above sea level and sixteen inches wide on the surface. The first assay ran 362 ounces of silver with 20 per cent gold and 15 per cent copper.

DECREASE OF WORKERS IN METHODIST CHURCH

Chicago, Nov. 10.—There is a decrease of nineteen deaconesses, 44 probationers and 104 associated workers in the Methodist Episcopal church, according to a statement issued by Dr. Daniel W. Howell, corresponding secretary of the general deaconess board of the Methodist Episcopal church. This decrease was partially explained by the large numbers of young women who are going out as missionaries to foreign lands and as community workers in home missions in the states.

Dr. Howell reported to the Centenary conservation committee in Chicago that there are eighty-one deaconess homes with property valued at $5,111,639. These deaconess homes employ 682 deaconesses, 65 probationers and 107 associated workers. There are sixty-six hospitals of which the property value is $4,522,217 and which employ 97 deaconesses, 18 probationers and 373 workers. There are nine deaconess training schools of which the property value is $694,274, and employ forty deaconesses, four probationers and twenty-one associated workers. There are five deaconess educational schools of which the property value is $380,976, and employ twenty-seven deaconesses one probationer and thirty associated workers.

CAUGHT FOUR YEARS AFTER THEY ELOPED

Red Lake Falls, Minn., Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eugene Beaucage, alias Eugene Amiot, better known as "Curly," was arrested by Sheriff Fellman who also took into custody Beaucage's supposed wife, a Mrs. Annette Angers of Vassar, Man. Complaint was made by the real Mrs. Beaucage of Winnipeg, who alleged that her husband had deserted her and had eloped four years ago with Mrs. Angers. The pair came here some four years ago and have since lived here quietly and no one suspected they were not married. It is not likely that they would have been arrested had not an old acquaintance from Winnipeg run across him on the street here several weeks ago.

He spoke to Beaucage, calling him by name but the latter denied his name was Beaucage or that he knew the stranger. When the acquaintance got back to Canada, he informed Beaucage's wife of the whereabouts of her husband and a warrant was sworn out for his arrest. When taken before Judge William Watts of the district court, Beaucage pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one year in the state prison at Stillwater. Mrs. Angers came up for sentence yesterday, but her case was continued until Wednesday, Nov. 17 to allow her to take her children to the orphanage at Duluth. She left two children in Canada; Beaucage left four, and they have two of their own.

GUARD THE WATER SUPPLY.

The time has come when Duluth must think, talk and act about its water supply.

Everybody knows that the water is no longer as good as it used to be, and though conditions are by no means as bad as subterranean rumor has painted them during the past six months, they are not getting better. It might as well be told right out loud that unless action is taken before long they will become menacing.

During September there were many cases of enteric troubles in the city; nothing serious, no typhoid fever, but still enough such cases to cause concern. Physicians differed as to whether it was due to the water. Daily analyses made in the local laboratory of the state board of health showed nothing that would account for the trouble, but it was there. And earlier in the summer, before this trouble began, there were analyses that were disturbing. But on the whole the probabilities are that the water did not cause the sickness.

Yet the city is daily polluting its water supply with its sewage, and any day it may face the fact that it must stop it. Already the pollution is bad enough so that chlorine must be used constantly. Though chlorine is a poison, its use in treating water supplies is universal, and it is not used in quantities great enough to be harmful. Many cities use more than Duluth does, and those who think they taste it in the water are merely exercising their imaginations. But the fact remains that a water supply that has to be treated is not a pure water supply.

The Herald has refrained from discussing this subject so long as there were intestinal disturbances that might be made the basis of needless alarm. It is not discussing it now to scare the public about anything in the conditions that exist now, for there is nothing in them to scare anybody. But it will do no harm to awaken alarm for the future, and there is real need and occasion for alarm about that.

And now, before anything serious has developed, and not later, when perhaps lives have been sacrificed, is the time to talk about the water supply and to take steps to safeguard it.

What is needed is, first, a thorough independent examination and report on the water supply, sewage disposal and the present and future relation between the two. Then, on the basis of that report, a plan for action should be immediately created, and the city should get ready to carry out that plan.

It is common knowledge among those in touch with the situation that sooner or later Duluth must plan and build an intercepting sewage system to catch and disinfect all sewage before it gets to the lake, out of which Duluth's water supply must always come. It is also common knowledge that any day national and state authorities may command Duluth to cease polluting its water supply by putting untreated sewage into the lake. Emptying sewage into the well can't be made to look like good sense anyway.

Duluth, therefore, ought to get ready for action. It is NOT ready for action. It hasn't even a plan. It hasn't even an idea where the money is coming from to pay for it, and it is going to cost a good deal of money.

There is nothing in the present situation to be alarmed about, gossip and street talk to the contrary notwithstanding. There is no typhoid, though occasionally there are bacilli in the water that are often accompanied by the bacillus typhosus which does bring typhoid.

But there is much in the possibilities for the future to give occasion for grave concern, and the duty of taking steps to safeguard the water supply is immediate, and should not be postponed a single unnecessary day.

The first step, as we have said, is a thorough expert examination of the situation with a report making recommendations for action. That step should be taken at once.

WELL NAMED CHICAGO.

Somebody has been mean enough to dig up the fact that the name of Chicago, in its original Indian form, does not mean "strong" or "mighty" as many Chicago people have boasted, except as a bad smell may be "strong" or even "mighty."

For, not to put too fine a point upon it, the word "Chicago" as applying to the metropolis of the Middle West, as well as to a bay and settlement on the north shore of Lake Superior, comes from an Indian word meaning "skunk."

The early Frenchmen found the word applied to Chicago river and pronounced and spelled it "Chicagou." There was a local Indian tradition, too, that a chief of great fame for fighting ability had been drowned in the river, and that the name had been given to the stream in his honor. It was not until the city was well established, and it seemed too late to change it, that an Indian sage came forward with the real meaning of the word.

But, reflecting that William Hale Thompson is the mayor of Chicago, that Chicago liberally supports a Hearst newspaper, and that its politics are as they are, perhaps it is just as well that the name wasn't changed. In some respects it now seems peculiarly appropriate—especially in its odoriferous sense.

> When the liquor's out, why clink the pannikin?
> —Browning.

AN INVESTIGATION THAT IS NEEDED.

Two Harbors has a municipal coal dock, supplying coal for its own people.

The Two Harbors municipal coal dock has been unable to get a pound of hard coal this year, and it is charged that this is because the coal dealers refuse to sell to an enterprise of this sort.

So the Federal department of justice has ordered an investigation. It should be thorough, and if the charge is proved punishment should follow.

The whole coal trade reeks with symptoms of collusion and conspiracy for plunder. If the people of a community, seeking refuge from this tribute, see fit to organize a municipal coal business to save money for themselves, they have a right to do it, and coal companies have no right to refuse to sell to them.

If the coal companies have deliberately boycotted the Two Harbors municipal coal dock, they ought to be exposed and punished.

THE CURLING CLUB—AN OPPORTUNITY.

Anybody interested in keeping alive during the winter—too many people go dead when it gets cold, and injure health and rob living of its joy by hibernating—who does not take advantage of the present opportunity to join the Duluth Curling club cheaply is missing a great opportunity.

In the first place, bear in mind that this is the biggest and best curling and skating club under one roof in the United States or Canada; that its facilities are not excelled by any similar club in the world; and that it is a Duluth institution which is maintained for you if you want to enjoy its privileges.

And they are many, and valuable. Besides curling—and if you once get into that game you will be a nut about it all your active life—and skating, a lively winter is ahead for the club members. There will be music four nights a week by the American Legion band—two nights with hockey and two without. There will be entertainment of many kinds, besides the curling and skating and the hockey games; there will be fancy skating, races, masquerades, dances.

In a word, the winter will be full of clean amusement, in a place which is an excellent place for young people to congregate, making it unnecessary for any of them who have its privileges to seek amusement resorts that are less wholesome.

The club house was built nine years ago at a cost of $43,000 for the land and $120,000 for the building—mostly borrowed money. Last year, besides the $43,000 bonded debt, there was still $25,000 in floating debts. Thanks to the support of business interests, that floating debt is cleared up. The only indebtedness is the $43,000 bonded debt, and the place is easily worth today a quarter of a million dollars.

But the business interests that did this expect the club to get members enough to make it self-supporting. The club wants that many members, but not so many as it had one time when there were 950—it dropped to 250 during the war—and it was found that that was too many; that it made things crowded. So it has been determined to put a limit of eight hundred on the membership, and to bring it up to that number in a campaign now in progress.

This is your opportunity if you are not a member. It used to cost $72, plus the war tax, to belong. Now it costs $19.80, which includes the war tax, and that takes in your wife if you have one. Skating privileges for the children can be bought for $2.20 apiece or, if the children are as numerous as Roosevelt used to like to see them, a total of $5.50, the maximum, will take them all in.

This opportunity is very real, the price is very low, and the privileges it will give you are many out of all proportion to the cost.

If you are interested, don't wait to be solicited—for it is hard to get people to solicit these days—but make out your check for $19.80, payable to the Duluth Curling club, and send it with your application to the Duluth Curling club, in care of the City National bank.

And as the limit—eight hundred—is not very many, it might be wise to do it now.

President Wilson

Editorial in the New York Times.

Singularly felicitous at this time is Mr. Tumulty's quotation of an earlier saying of Mr. Wilson's:

> I would rather be defeated in a cause that some day will triumph than triumph in a cause that some day will be defeated.

All the essential Mr. Wilson is in that saying; the high, unselfish purpose, the tranquil courage, the long prevision that sees, beyond temporary discouragements, obstacles and disasters, the victory of justice, of right, the welfare of the country and the world. Popular thought may be slower than Mr. Wilson's, but that it will confirm his own on this cardinal policy of the League of Nations he can have no doubt. The people have not voted against the league. In a tangle of questions and complaints there has been no direct expression of popular opinion on that. American participation in the league must come because it is necessary to the peace and the prosperity of the United States. Meanwhile, Mr. Wilson suffers for a time the fate of Aristides.

We Americans have our peculiar little ways with our great men. We make heroes of them. We worship them passionately. Then we depreciate them. We hate and damn them. Nothing is harsh enough to say against them when they are in office. When the best-hated of them leave office we begin to discover that they have again the vivid and noble qualities that we attributed to them and then denied them utterly. The president, who was lampooned, derided and denounced as a model of all imperfections and misdeeds, is transformed imperceptibly into the ex-president in whom everybody takes a pride, who becomes a venerated public character. Especially is this true of strong and salient personages. Jackson, Cleveland, Roosevelt have been adored and burned and then adored again. So will it be with Wilson. He, who has read so much history and written it so well, knows the process, the flow, the ebb, and finally the resurgent, unconquerable wave of popular favor.

Of lasting posthumous fame, the late justice of history, Mr. Wilson is sure. The country owes and will pay him a more immediate obligation. His countrymen owe him much. They will not wait for posterity to clamor into deaf ears what should have been said by their living voices. If we are not mistaken, this hour of apparent petulance and ingratitude is the beginning of the reaction. Having vented all its griefs and irritations, as was its right, the country will think with a growing kindness of the man who has done so memorable a work for it, who has not spared, who has all but spent himself in its service. For long years yet may it be Mr. Wilson's fortune, when his retirement has softened the asperities of political opinion, to live in health and activity among his fellow citizens and to receive from them, as his great predecessors have received, the honor, the regard and the affection that accompany the old age of illustrious American statesmen—after they are emeriti.

Germany Also Wins

New York World: Press comment in Germany on the result of the American elections bears a remarkable resemblance to the utterances of our own Republican newspapers before and since the event. Everywhere there is hatred of President Wilson. It is the defeat of "Wilsonism" that is celebrated.

"We have got rid of Wilson," says the Lokal-Anzeiger. "It is the complete disavowal of Wilson," says the Vossiche Zeitung. "We shake hands in spirit with President-elect Harding," says the Tageblatt. "We are pleased with a United States president who is against the League of Nations, an anti-German instrument," says the Kreuzzeitung. Germania and the Boersen Courier upbraid Cox for his hostility to Germans, and Count von Bernstorff rejoices because Senator Harding "adopts what was largely the attitude of the recent German pacifists' congress at Brunswick, which wished to place a reformed league in place of that proposed at Versailles."

Considering the fact that we are still technically at war with the nation whose spokesmen are thus free in expressing their sentiments as to our domestic affairs, the question naturally arises: Has Germany gone Republican, or has the United States repented of the recent unpleasantness and gone German?

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON.

The Japs

I've met about ten thousand Japs, out here, upon the western shore, and they're such courteous little chaps I'd gladly meet ten thousand more. Most white men view them with alarm, and say they are a grievous pest; they do our bulwarks deadly harm, and make our sacred boons a jest. I know I ought to join the gang where cusswords in a torrent flow, and make a fierce and hot harangue, insisting that the Japs must go; I know my course is far from right, when I admit I like the Japs because they always are polite, with winning smiles upon their maps. Politeness is an art that's lost where white men hump to make their piles, and evermore I meet a frost where I'm expecting cordial smiles. In every town the skate is found who thinks up caustic things to say; in every street the boors abound, their rudeness jars me every day. But when I seek the Japanese, to buy an onion or a brick, they bow with grace of old grandees, and hand me taffy on a stick. The Japs are taking half the globe because they are so blamed polite; the white man howls and tears his robe, and says it isn't just or right.

"Conspiracies" to Retard Building

The Press on the New York Investigation.

Despite the fact that the New York legislature has appointed a committee to investigate the "criminal practices" with which the head of the building trades in New York city is charged, the press of the country, still interested in the election, has failed as yet to comment as widely upon this phase of the housing question as the display given to the early dispatches promised.

Evidence given to the committee, the Topeka Capital asserts, fully supports the charge of "the existence of a combine or trust of employers and labor unions which holds up the building trades throughout the United States."

The "master mind" behind the conspiracy, according to the testimony, is the president of the New York building trades council, Robert P. Brindell, whom the Philadelphia Bulletin calls "a two-gun man, working with both hands, holding up contractor and worker alike." His system of operation is outlined in the Buffalo Express thus:

> About 18,000 laborers are said to have paid $2 a week each to Robert P. Brindell's building trades council as tribute. Brindell's service for the $36,000 per week was to keep wages high and jobs for the members. A few hundred house wreckers are said to have contributed $10 a week to the same organization for the same purpose.

But more serious than the exaction of tribute from contractors and workers, the Cincinnati Enquirer believes "the disclosure which will excite the wrath of the public generally is that labor leaders are alleged to have demanded and received huge bribes to call off 'hold-up' strikes," thus holding the power "to stifle construction work in New York city.

Naturally, the Indianapolis News suggests, "the people who contracted for such work found somewhere in their bills sufficient overcharges to cover all of the money that went into the corruption fund." Ultimately, the New York Times asserts, "the public, especially the poor, pays the bill. It pays it in the lack of housing and in increased rentals for the old, squalid tenements in which it is forced to live; it pays it in overcrowding, in unseemly and demoralized living conditions; in an increased infant mortality and in the uncontrolled spread of contagious disease. Most of all, the public pays in a lowering of moral standards, in a sense of general and inevitable corruption."

The revelations are probably not more astonishing to the public in general than to the workers themselves, the Philadelphia Bulletin believes, as they have paid their "dues" without question, and "in implicit faith that they were required for the support of the union." The New York Mail also considers "that for sheer selfishness, tyranny and rapacity," this "wholesale and unrelenting levying on labor by the building trades council" exceeds any of the "heart-rending charges against the methods employed by conscienceless employers to exploit the worker and profit from his need." And the Detroit News adds that "in the highbinding tactics of the leaders," employes have been "ruthlessly held up."

Graft in union labor ranks is not an argument against unionism, the New York Tribune concedes, since "the crooked infest all walks of life, and charity comes when the percentage of grafters is approximately the same in all groups." But unionists should realize, "when next they encounter an employer who fights the closed shop, that perhaps all he personally knows of unions has come from the visits of blackmailers."

The New York World also points out the danger to organization in such practices as Brindell is accused of. "A united industry," it says, "is none too strong to meet employers' organizations on even terms. But the first interest of a graft-pursuing labor leader is to split his industry, not to unite it. His best chance to call frivolous strikes which can be called off as mysteriously lies in camouflaging clear issues by setting rival organizations against each other within the industries." Further, "to benefit the public by doing honest work for an honest price no trade conspiracies are necessary. Mr. Untermyer and the Lockwood committee are revealing one cause of the rental situation that has so wronged and robbed the public. They are giving honest builders, both employers and employed, a way of escape from abuses that have put upon them business losses and intolerable wrongs."

Kipling Bought a Book

Bishop McDowell in the Central Christian Advocate: I heard a good Kipling story the other day. I was driving with one of the ministers in the Washington area from Washington to Mountain Lake park. During the long and really wonderful drive I was reading aloud a half dozen chapters from a volume of character sketches. One of the sketches was of Rudyard Kipling. Quite to my surprise the minister said at the end of the reading, "I met Mr. Kipling once," and proceeded to tell me about it in substantially the following language:

"I was a student at Mount Hermon away back in the days when Mr. Kipling was living at Brattleboro, Vermont, for a time. Like many another student, I was trying to earn some money by selling books. In selecting customers I naturally aimed high. So one morning I rang the bell at Mr. Kipling's residence. An old negro man came to the door, assured me that Mr. Kipling was in, and took me in to where he was. Then my fright began. Really, I hardly thought I would be admitted to his presence at all.

He was writing, but looked up at once when I entered, and said rather sharply, 'What can I do for you?'

"Not knowing what else to say, I replied, 'You can buy a book from me.'

"He evidently entered at once into the spirit of the game, and asked me emphatically, 'Why should I?' And I promptly recited my well learned story.

"Though my heart was hammering, I did not slip a word. I had the lesson well learned, and recited it without a break, and was rewarded at the conclusion by having Mr. Kipling say that, upon the whole, he thought he ought to buy a book, which he did.

"Then I asked him if I might say that he had subscribed. He promptly replied that I might say it and that he would give me the names of a lot of people in Brattleboro to whom he would be glad to have me say that he had bought one of my books. He made a list of twenty-two names. I sold twenty-two books in consequence, and went out of Brattleboro financially richer by the commission on twenty-two volumes, but personally richer by the recollection of a genuinely cordial treatment accorded by a great big man to a student boy, who might easily have been dismissed with a word. I know the criticisms," he went on, "that have been lodged against Mr. Kipling and his writings in recent years. But they are always discounted in my own mind by the remembrance of the way he treated me on that long ago morning."

Health Talks

By William Brady, M. D.

Why Not Isolate Coryza?

It has been demurely hinted here on more than one occasion that whoever imagines it is possible to contract a communicable disease by merely getting the feet wet or sitting in a draft or changing clothing should be pitied if not punished as a nuisance within the purview of the public health statutes. That fool superstition is directly accountable for a great deal of preventable illness. Unfortunately some of our old time, very old time indeed, health authorities committed themselves too positively on the actuality of catching cold from such fancied causes as were just mentioned, and nowadays we find these old timers running around in circles trying to scare up tangible evidence to support the dear old delusion. But even the disinterested and utterly unprejudiced guinea pig refuses to succumb to the hypothetical pathologic effects of "exposure." Guinea pigs will multiply, but they won't multiply a delusion.

Don't be angry, dear reader, if you happen to be a little too old fashioned about this. I'm not censuring you for your superstitious belief; I'm merely trying to show you the error of your way.

One may suffer chapping of the skin, chilblains, frostbite or freezing from exposure to cold, but one cannot catch coryza, sore throat, laryngitis, bronchitis, pneumonia, diphtheria, the flu or tuberculosis from any such exposure, though all the old fogy health authorities that ever held down administrative jobs advise you in one breath to have plenty of fresh air and open the windows and with the next breath warn you to look out you don't expose yourself. Wet feet, drafts and all that sort of thing may be uncomfortable. But we don't contract disease from mere discomfort.

The respiratory infections I have just mentioned are but a few of the diseases needlessly spread through the community as a consequence of the catching cold delusion. About one-third of all cases of appendicitis operated on today may be charged up against some preventable respiratory infection, and a respiratory infection is a disease spread through the exchange of nose and throat secretions, as in close conversation, open-face sneezing, unmuzzled coughing. All the so-called infectious diseases of childhood (measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, etc.), are respiratory infections. So is epidemic meningitis, and probably infantile paralysis.

Physicians and health officers, not hopelessly tangled up on the catching cold delusion at present, draw the line at tuberculosis and diphtheria—these they concede are not in any way dependent on wet feet, drafts or exposure to cold. It will not be long now before they will consent to shove the line up far enough to include pneumonia—some health authorities already have done so. After that it will be but a short step onward to include common coryza (still vulgarly called head cold) and ordinary sore throat in the list of respiratory infections which call for isolation of the patient for a period consistent with public safety.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Shock.

When an individual suffers "shock" from an injury or accident is his face pale or flushed? Is it advisable to raise his head or keep it lower than the rest of his body when giving first aid in such a case? (G. P.)

Answer: In the state called shock the individual is cold, pale and very weak, either unconscious or dazed. Keep the head as low as the body. The condition and treatment are the same as in fainting.

Boys and Cigarettes.

Please give me suggestions for breaking up the cigarette habit in a boy aged 14 years. He has been smoking secretly since he was 10 years old, and he confesses he smokes about fifteen cigarettes a day. He says he wants to stop, but can't do so because if he goes without them for a day he is sick all the next day. (M. A. C.)

Answer: Two things explain the cigarette habit in boyhood: (1) A rather natural desire to "show off," and (2) mental defect. The case you describe belongs, evidently, to the second class, for the boy smokes in secret. The boy who smokes to "show off" may be brought to his senses, as a rule, by a sound thrashing by his father or teacher or an officer of the law. The mental defective requires special disciplinary training, as in schools for the feeble-minded or delinquents. Incidentally, the person who supplies the boy with cigarettes ought to be manhandled, too.

Good Luck, Girl Scouts!

Life: The Girl Scout campaign committee is to be congratulated in getting Mary Robert Rinehart to lead their nation-wide drive.

In making up your list of things to be thankful for, don't forget the Girl Scouts. There are now 86,176 Girl Scouts, nearly twice as many as there were a year ago, and the only reason there aren't more is that their organization lacks funds. From Nov. 6 to 15 the public is going to have an opportunity to remedy that. It is going to be given the opportunity of becoming a Girl Scout daddy.

Any man is eligible to become a Girl Scout daddy so long as he believes—as of course we all do—that every girl in the United States ought to have a chance to be a Girl Scout if she wants to. All he has to do after that is to back his opinion with cash. Fifteen dollars makes him a daddy, a sustaining member.

Life believes in Girl Scouts. They know a lot of things that their mothers and their schools don't seem quite able to teach them. They know how to keep rosy and grow straight and strong; how to wear low-heeled, sensible shoes and simple clothes with growing room in them; how to set the table and wash and rinse the dishes; how to make buttonholes (by hand), and how to bathe and dress the baby. The things that the modern girl loathes and will have none of, the Girl Scout enjoys and calls "fun."

The budget of the Girl Scouts is modest enough. They need $1,033,400. With nearly 90,000 members and 7,200 volunteer captains and lieutenants, it is not a large sum. Here's hoping they get it, for they deserve it. Every Girl Scout ought to have a daddy along with her Thanksgiving turkey.

Bemidji Pioneer: The employing class (capitalists if you care to term them such) are curtailing production and are laying off men in large numbers. They will continue to do so until production is at a minimum. In some cases mills may close down entirely. This action will gradually extend to all parts of the country and into all lines of industry.

The millions of employes who are thus thrown out of work can not afford to remain idle for any great length of time. They and their families must eat.

In time necessity will force them back into the shops at reduced wages and production will start up again, with a reasonable profit for the producer and a considerable reduction in price to the consumer. The laboring man will be no worse off in the end, because his living expenses will be reduced in proportion to the reduction in his wages.

Just continue doing your full share toward keeping things running smoothly and the administration will in all probability keep its end up.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of This Date, 1900

The steamer Iroquois has arrived at Ashtabula, Ohio, with a cargo of 2,456 tons of brown hematite iron ore from the new Michipicoten field, north of Lake Superior, in Canada. This is the first cargo from that field brought to a United States port, and probably it will be sent to one of the valley furnaces.

The Kentucky election is still in doubt. The Democrats claim the election of their whole ticket, placing Governor Beckham's plurality close to 5,000, while the Republican leaders assert that the official count will show that Yerkes is elected.

C. J. Rathvon, an old resident of Duluth, but now of Deerwood, has purchased the Deerwood Inn.

Mrs. James McDonough and son Earl of Brainerd, Minn., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Scobie of Hazelwood Park.

The Grand Marais Herald reports that recently the logs which the Alger-Smith company was driving down Pigeon river got jammed a short distance above the falls. While six men were working on the logs in the middle of the stream the jam broke unexpectedly. Foreman Murphy and another man got to the shore and succeeded in saving two others, but Jacob Longbody and another man, name unknown, were drowned. Longbody was about 30 years old and has always lived at Grand Marais or Grand Portage.

William Lorimer, congressman from the Second Illinois district, often called the "boss of the Tenth ward" of Chicago, was defeated at the recent election. His defeat is regarded as a rebuke administered by Republican voters of the district to his dictatorship. His friends say he will be out "only one term" and will then return to the house or go to the senate.

W. S. McClenahan has been elected district judge in the Brainerd district by nearly 1,700 over Judge Hollard, who twice previously had defeated Republican opponents.

Jacques Bareau, formerly of Duluth, was elected to the Canadian parliament this week from the Three Rivers constituency in the province of Quebec. He is a Liberal in Canadian politics.

Charles W. Cate, who has been a resident of Duluth since 1891, when he went into the haberdashery business with John T. Condon, is dead from Bright's disease. The body will be taken to Bay City, Mich., his former home, for burial.

Paul Foucault and Frank Lavelle have returned from a hunting trip in the vicinity of Iron Junction. Each brought back a deer.

The following officers have been chosen for the university traveling library at West Duluth: President, Arthur Hoag; vice president, Ransom Metcalfe; secretary, Mrs. Mary T. Sparks; librarian and treasurer, S. J. Nygren.

W. J. Smart has returned to West Duluth from Fall Lake, the Fall Lake Lumber company having completed its season's cut.

SOCIALISM'S VIEWPOINT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Our state election outcome offers to the studious mind the highly regrettable fact that the major portion of Minnesota voters do not possess sufficient political intelligence to enable them to understand that if they "let Jake do it," the present economic inequalities will not be legislatively remedied or eradicated. The agriculturists in the state of North Dakota years ago came to the politically-logical conclusion that "the Lord helps those who help themselves," and so, instead of begging at the feet of big-business legislators for remedial laws, the farmers elected law-making and law-enforcing machinery composed of themselves and of conscientious sympathizers. And the calamitous howl of "Socialism" and "Townleyism" did not and will not dislodge the government of the farmer by the farmer for the people.

The major portion of Minnesota voters rejected the Nonpartisan program because big business propaganda suggested that said program is pure Socialism. Now these self same voters overwhelmingly voted for the Good Roads program, a stupendous venture into Socialism. How is that? Every honest student of economics will tell you that Socialism is nothing but the logical extension of governmental efforts in commercial enterprises for the benefit of society. If the Socialistic good roads project interfered with the profits of big business, big business would not boost it. Instead we would hear the usual howl of "Socialism" and "Townleyism" and what not. Such governmental efforts will not destroy private property, it will increase private property ownership by the wage earner. How? By simply eliminating profiteering profits of large commercial enterprises. Now you can understand why big business howls "Socialism" and "Townleyism" whenever a governmental solution of economic ills is offered for the voters to legally adopt.

I am very positive that before the next election for governor of Minnesota rolls around many enfranchised children will, long before that, be thoroughly disillusioned of the horrors of Socialism. The coming reactionary industrial program of big business will accomplish that. However, during the interim I urgently suggest as absolutely and vitally necessary the study of economics, political, industrial and social, and the study of government, its function and purposes. Then big business and its numerous mouthpieces will not succeed in fooling and scaring the voter with their hypocritical cry of "Socialism."

AN EXCEPTIONAL CASE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading the Open Court about mothers-in-law and wish to give my opinion of one. I have had considerable experience with mine and hope there are not many others like her. I believe in respecting my mother-in-law, but when she tries to prejudice her son against his wife and tells him to leave her when she is in a condition where she needs him most, why should I respect any one like that? She was never kind to her mother-in-law, so how should she expect her daughter-in-law to be kind to her?

When a mother and her son talk to every one they meet about his wife and say things which are not true you can't blame the daughter-in-law for not wanting anything to do with her husband's mother.

Here's hoping my three sons never have a mother-in-law like I have.

SCHOOL SPORTSMANSHIP.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I stood on the sidelines at the Duluth-Superior high school game in which the locals were shut out by Superior and I heard more things said about Hancock, a crack Superior player, than I care to repeat. Some of those sideline heroes were wishing that he would break a leg, others thought the neck would be better. This was something new in the line of sport for me. I must confess that this is my first experience with a bunch whose only hope to win is by having their opponents present a crippled lineup. On the range, where I hail from, it was considered more of an honor to hold a good team to a small score than to walk away with a weaker one. To defeat a crippled team was more or less of an empty honor.

I do not know who is spreading that kind of propaganda among the students, but I believe that the school authorities should do a little sleuthing and ascertain who the culprits are and take action to squelch their activities before they give Central a bad name. Besides, what good did it do to get after Hancock the way they did. He walked all over them anyway. Besides, even if he was hurt Superior has a number of men to substitute who can more than hold their own with Duluth, for, while the locals spend their time in wishing Superior some hard luck, Superior keeps right on developing new football material, because it has been instilled in their minds that they can assist their team more by trying out and giving the regulars more practice than they can by standing on the sidelines munching chocolates and yelling their fool heads off at a man who has made a record in high school football that will not be equaled for some time to come. Yours for clean sport.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading with interest all the letters in the Open Court of your paper on the Irish question, and would like to give views of one that is not Irish or English. My father came over to our country from Norway when he was about 20 years old. I was a soldier in the World war and have a brother over their now. I have never thought it right the way the Irish people have been treated by England. Even a savage could hardly be as bad as the English have been in some things they have done to the Irish. A writer that ends his letter with "American" tells Mr. Riordan to go over and help Ireland to fight against England. He knows that Ireland would not have a chance alone to win. But even at that, if they should try, I know one that is not Irish, but who believes in fair play, and freedom to all nations, who would be there. I do not see how any fair-minded American can believe a nation just that forces a smaller nation to do her will by the use of rifles, machine guns and prisons.

CHARLES LEE.

Duluth, Nov. 8.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Would you kindly allow an American-born Irishman who has been brought up among a few Irish and met quite a few air his opinions? England, in the Irish question reminds me of the fellow who sitting on a keg of powder lit the fuse and attempted to hold it down, but the darn thing blew up. Same way when England tries to subdue Ireland, they only light the fuse and up she goes.

In my opinion there should be two governments in Ireland by the Irish for the Irish. A government by the Catholics and one by the Protestants, a north and a south, with England's nose kept out. They have been donating to her long enough.

Admits Being Wanted.

Great Falls, Mont., Nov. 10.—The man arrested by Great Falls police Monday charged with the murder of Florence Barton, a prominent Kansas City girl, Oct. 2, yesterday admitted that he is wanted in Kansas City for fleeing an $11,000 bail bond, according to the police.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallable. It will endeavor, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, reserving the right to ignore all that are trifling or of concern only to the questioner, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person asking it. This is not wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

N. B. C., Biwabik, Minn.: (1) Has a man not a citizen any right to run any kind of business? (2) Is a girl born in the United States but whose parents are not citizens, a citizen or must she take out papers when she becomes of age?

Ans.: (1) Yes. (2) Yes, she is a citizen, as is any child born in the United States, regardless of the status of parents.

A. J. S., Duluth: About three weeks ago you published in your paper a contest making words out of a certain brand of cigarettes. This contest was supposed to be closed at noon, Oct. 30, and the words were then to be counted by the advertising managers of The Herald and Tribune. What I wanted to find out is who the winners of this contest were. I wish you would please answer this in your Question and Answer column.

Ans.: It is stated by the manager of the tobacco company interested that owing to the large number of answers to inspect, the winners cannot be announced until some time in December.

J. H. B., Proctor, Minn.: Please answer whether anyone who owns land in Canada can sell tickets to raffle it in the U. S.? It is against the law to do so in Canada.

Ans.: Raffling, a mild form of gambling, is not countenanced by law here, although it is frequently done regardless of where the property might be located.

M. S., Floodwood, Minn.: Will you kindly answer the following questions in your inquiry department: To the Aero club in what city would a letter need to be addressed to reach Ralph Upson, one of the entrants in the recent balloon races?

Ans.: Write the Aero club of America, New York city.

Inquirer, Duluth: Will you please tell me the state law governing the number of pupils in a graded school, outside the city, that one teacher is required to teach? Is there any law fixing a substitute's salary, and if so, how much does she receive, and is a teacher allowed any days off besides the regular holidays?

Ans.: The state law does not apply to either of these questions. It is entirely a matter for the local school board to regulate. If there is overcrowding, the pupils are the losers and it is up to the people of the district to rectify the evil.

Subscriber, Duluth: Please let me know if there is a law to prevent party or parties from sending children to bed without supper for punishment, or can said parties send children away from their meals before they get half through for talking, where there is a group of them? Is there a law to prevent a party from locking children in a closet for two and three hours at a time where there is no ventilation, for punishment?

Ans.: The law inhibits cruel and unusual punishments for children, and any punishment that jeopardizes a child's health is a foolish, if not dangerous practice. The law, however, makes no reference to the penalties referred to, and there are circumstances where discipline might make them, or similar measures, if common sense prevails in their application, necessary.

Interested, Duluth: Please give me this information regarding the night college school in Superior: (1) Must one have sixteen high school credits to enter? (2) How many evenings a week is school held? (3) Can a woman enter the wireless telegraphy class? (4) Is there a course in English and higher mathematics?

Ans.: (1) No, although certain educational requirements are necessary the details of which you may learn by getting in touch with Prof. A. D. Whealdon of the Superior normal school, who is in charge of the night college school. (2) Three nights each week, and two periods each evening. (3) Yes, a number of women are at present in the class. (4) Yes, the courses include these as well as a number of other academic and vocational subjects.

Reader, Biwabik, Minn.: Is there a Jugo-Slav consul in Duluth, or which is the nearest point I could get in communication with one.

Ans.: There is no Jugo-Slav consul in Duluth, but there is one in Chicago in charge of matters relating to this territory.

Scour the COFFEE Pot

IN thousands of American homes the COFFEE pot is never properly cleansed. Even the lifeless grounds from the breakfast COFFEE are sometimes left in the pot and resteeped for dinner or supper with the addition of a small quantity of fresh COFFEE.

It is not enough to give the pot a hurried rinse and set it away to dry. Scour it even more carefully than other cooking utensils.

The only way to be sure of perfect COFFEE is to cleanse all COFFEE-making utensils thoroughly every time they are used. Boil out the COFFEE pot occasionally with soda. If you use a percolator, pay particular attention to the little tube through which the hot water rises to spray over the grounds. Scrub it with the wire-handled brush that comes for the purpose.

If you use a drip pot with a filter bag, rinse the bag clean in cool — never hot — water. Keep the bag submerged in cold water when not in use so that it will not be exposed to germs in the air. Renew filter bags frequently. (See rules for making good COFFEE.)

Six Rules for Making Good Coffee
1—Keep your Coffee fresh—preserve the aroma to the last. Fruit-jars are ideal for this purpose.
2—Measure proportions carefully, both Coffee and water.
3—When serving hot Coffee, serve it hot. Never recook.
4—Use water only at full boiling-point in making "drip" Coffee.
5—Strain or settle carefully. ALL Coffee is clear if properly made.
6—Keep Coffee-making utensils clean.

THERE should be a whole new column written on the subject of the new art of picture framing. Perhaps there has been, I don't know. But many people who have excellent taste in furniture and hangings, and even in pictures themselves, are still clinging to the old methods of framing of twenty-five years or more ago.

To begin with, frames are much simpler. The heavy, deeply convoluted gilt frame, ornate with scrolls and bumps and curlycues, is as hopelessly out of date and out of taste as a bustle. Go through the modern galleries of paintings and see how great a change there has been in framing. Plain, flat frames or frames which have only a little depth, showing only slight decoration, have almost entirely superceded the gnarly gold frame of yore. In many cases the prevailing tone of the painting is carried out in the frame—the gold is tinged with green or the frame is a gray silver.

A frame of simple, beautiful lines is known as the "Whistler" frame, made with three or four parallel grooves on a slightly rounded molding. It comes in a number of widths, from an inch or so to four or five inches.

Ruth Roland's Beauty Advice

Ruth Roland, that beautiful actress, is famous for her wonderful complexion. When her friends inquired about it, she said, "It's all due to a simple toilet preparation called derwillo, which I use twice daily. Any girl or woman can beautify their complexion if they follow my advice. Here it is: Just go to any up-to-date toilet counter and get a bottle of derwillo, use it as directed, and lo! the first application will astonish you. It immediately gives the skin a youthful, rosy-white appearance and clear baby softness so much desired by everyone." Be sure to read the large announcement of Miss Roland's, soon to appear in this paper, in which she tells how to instantly have a beautiful, rosy-white complexion and soft unwrinkled skin everyone "just loves to touch." Co-ordinate Public Nursing With Red Cross

Recently perfected plans for coordinating the public health nursing activities of the Minnesota state board of health and the Red Cross in Minnesota have been put into operation very successfully during the last two months.

According to this plan, Miss Frances V. Brink, who is superintendent of nurses for the state board of health at St. Paul, becomes state superintendent of nursing, having under her direction the work of the Red Cross public health nurses as well as those under the jurisdiction of the state board. Her salary is paid by the state board of health and a portion of her expenses by the Red Cross. Her assistant, Miss Ruth Houlton, is financed entirely by the Red Cross.

The purpose of this plan is both to make the work of the public health nurses more effective and more uniform. It also anticipates the ultimate supervision of all public health nursing activities and the placing of all public health nurses by the state board of health. The intention of the Red Cross in all such work is simply to develop it to the point where the community realizes its need and its value.

Miss Phyllis Dacey, acting director of the nursing department of the Northern division, says the following regarding the public health nursing situation in Minnesota now:

"There are at present 130 public health nurses in Minnesota in the territory outside of the Twin Cities and Duluth, fifty-seven of whom are supported entirely by the Red Cross. Twenty-five additional counties have made requests for nurses, but, owing to the scarcity of properly qualified nurses, they cannot be supplied, for a time at least. Special attention is being given to calls for nurses from the rural counties, that is, counties where there are few large cities.

"Minnesota is a pioneer in this work among the Western states. Although the Red Cross in this division has been engaged in this phase of nursing since the early part of 1919, the state had begun the activity several years ago. The war has given much added impetus to it, arousing the interest of the nurses to enter the field and making people see more clearly the value of a service whose aim is primarily the prevention of disease and physical deformity."

Women to Work in Red Cross Roll Call

Although women have always lent their aid and generous support in promoting the annual roll call of the American Red Cross, this year they will take active part in making the roll call a success, and tomorrow when canvassers take up the responsibility of enlisting in the ranks of the Red Cross, every man, woman, young or old, in the city, women will be found taking equal part with men in this work.

Invitations have been issued to every woman organized in Red Cross work during the late war, to support the work of making the roll call an overwhelming success, and to members of the fairer sex the entire residential sections of the city will be turned over. Men will make the canvas of shops, offices and other places of business in the downtown section.

Rev. W. L. Staub to Address Women

The women's meeting will be held at the Bethel tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. W. L. Staub, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, will speak. All women are welcome.

THE TRUE ROLL OF HONOR.

A certain organization put up a bronze tablet containing its "roll of honor" for the war recently. The list was made up of men who had served in any capacity in the war.

I happened to know a good many of the men, and when I looked it over I saw the name of one man who, after consulting a doctor to see whether he would not be exempt on account of a slight physical defect and being told that he unquestionably would be pronounced fit, had hastily enlisted in the coast guard. Another had waited until he was practically sure that the draft was going to be extended to include him and then had enlisted in the quartermaster's department. A third had struggled in every way he knew of to get himself exempted, claiming first necessary work and then dependency, and finally had spent a few months at a training camp.

And these names were on a roll of honor of war service!

The Eager and Those Who Were Forced to Go.

These men will be the honored veterans of this war. These men, and thousands like them, will march with the men who really wanted to serve their country. And only a few people will know that there is any difference between them. These men, as they grow older, will sit on grandstands and receive tributes for what they did. And doubtless they will themselves, in time, come to believe that they did do something splendid.

I suppose that it is inevitable that this should happen after every war. A college friend of mine told me that she had an uncle whom she used to think won several battles in the Civil war almost single-handed until she finally discovered the truth about him—and that was that he had been drafted into the war late, after a struggle on his part, and had served for a few months as a guard in a Federal prison.

Civilians Who Deserve More Honor.

It is too bad that we cannot thresh the wheat from the chaff so that those who really deserve honor might have it without sharing it with those who are getting it under false pretenses. And it is equally too bad that there cannot appear on some rolls of honor the names of civilians who gave their strength and sometimes their lives to the war, just as truly as if they had been in the army or navy.

Think of the home doctors who bore on their shoulders the burden of double duty during those terrible times when we needed twice as many instead of half as many doctors. Some of them impaired their health at that time, some of them gave their lives. Do they not deserve to be on some roll of honor?

Think of men who worked so hard in public service that they broke under the strain. I mean men like Carleton Parker, who literally worked himself to death helping the government mediate its labor troubles.

Think of the Bank Employes.

Think of the way the bank employes worked over the Liberty Loan and the Red Cross work. A bank treasurer told me the other day that he would rather be dead than go through another two years like those in which the loans were issued. He said he often went home staggering as if he were drunk, from utter exhaustion. And the banks gained nothing from this work—on the contrary, they lost thousands of dollars.

Think, too, of the Home Guard men who took big losses in their business and worked themselves eighteen or twenty hours a day in the cause of public safety.

Don't you wish some power that could know the hearts and lives of men, and how to weigh service in some superhuman balance, might write a true roll of honor of the war?

THE WINTER WEDDING BREAKFAST.

IN the month of June the magazines and newspapers deal with the problem of what to serve for the wedding breakfast and it is easy enough for the summer bride to make her plans with the wealth of suggestions at hand. But the winter bride is not so blessed. She must rely more or less upon her own igenuity in this matter—and, to make things harder, the supply of fresh fruits and vegetables is not as great. The following wedding breakfast menu may be appreciated by the winter bride:

Stuffed Olives
Halved Grapefruit a la Royale
Breaded Chicken
De Luxe Potato Salad
Coffee Wedding Cake
Small Fancy Cakes
Bonbons

Halved Grapefruit a la Royale—Halve the fruit, run a knife around the inside of the skin to remove the pulp. Throw away the membranes which form the sections. Dice the hardest pieces of pulp and mix them with an equal amount of diced canned pineapple. Fill the grapefruit halves with this mixture, sweeten slightly and chill.

Breaded Chicken—Cut up the raw meat of one chicken as for stewing, and roll each piece in beaten egg and then in bread crumbs which have been well seasoned. Put in a baking pan with a little butter on each piece and about one cup of water. Cook first in the upper oven till a delicate brown, then cook more slowly in the lower oven, covered, until tender. Just before serving pour a cup of rich cream over the hot chicken.

De Luxe Potato Salad — 3 cups cooked, diced potato, 2 hard-boiled eggs 4 tablespoons minced canned pimentos, 1 tablespoon minced onion, boiled dressing. Separate the yolks from the whites of the eggs. Chop the whites finely and add them to the potatoes with 3 tablespoons of the pimentos and the minced onion. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and moisten with the dressing, which should be hot. Set away to cool. Just before serving garnish the salad with the rest of the pimentos, the egg yolks rubbed through a sieve, and extra boiled dressing.

Wedding Cake—1 pound butter, 1 pound sugar, 9 eggs, 1 pound flour, 3 pounds currants, 2 pounds seedless raisins, ½ cup lemon juice, ½ pound citron, 1 grated nutmeg (or 1 teaspoon of the already-ground nutmeg), ½ teaspoon mace, 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Rub the butter and sugar together; when light, add first the yolks of the egg and then the whites (beat these separately beating the whites stiff).

Then put in almost all of the flour, keeping out only enough to dust the raisins and cement them. Cut the citron in slices to suit your individual taste and add it with the raisins, dried currants, lemon juice and spices. Now grease a four-quart pan carefully (a large milk pan) and line it with oiled paper, rubbing a little butter all over the paper. Pour in the cake batter and bake in a slow oven (it burns easily, so the oven must be a slow one).

After it is baked take it out of the pan, paper and all, and let it cool. Next day, to keep it moist, put it back in the pan or in a tin cake box and keep it tightly covered. Frost with white icing—ordinary boiled icing—or with the ornamental icing to be published tomorrow.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES

By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

MR. WOLF SEES LADY DUCK.

NOW when Tinker Bob, king of the forest, told Lady Duck to go over and speak to Mr. Wolf, the forest terror, Lady Duck was almost ready to faint, for she knew how terrible that Mr. Wolf was. He was so dangerous that every creature of the forest, except Major Pole Cat and Chief Porky was dreadfully afraid of him. She thought to go over where he was in the middle of the night would mean sure death.

Anyway, why did the king want her to do such a thing? All of these things ran in her mind. She remembered when Mr. Wolf and a crowd of his friends came upon a flock of her duck friends and there were only a few remaining to tell the story. She also remembered how young Red Fox almost lost his tail when Mr. Wolf was after him.

Then for her to think of such a thing was out of the question, for the minute he spied her he would tear her to pieces, and it would be done quicker than she could think. It might be that the king wanted her to be killed, she didn't know.

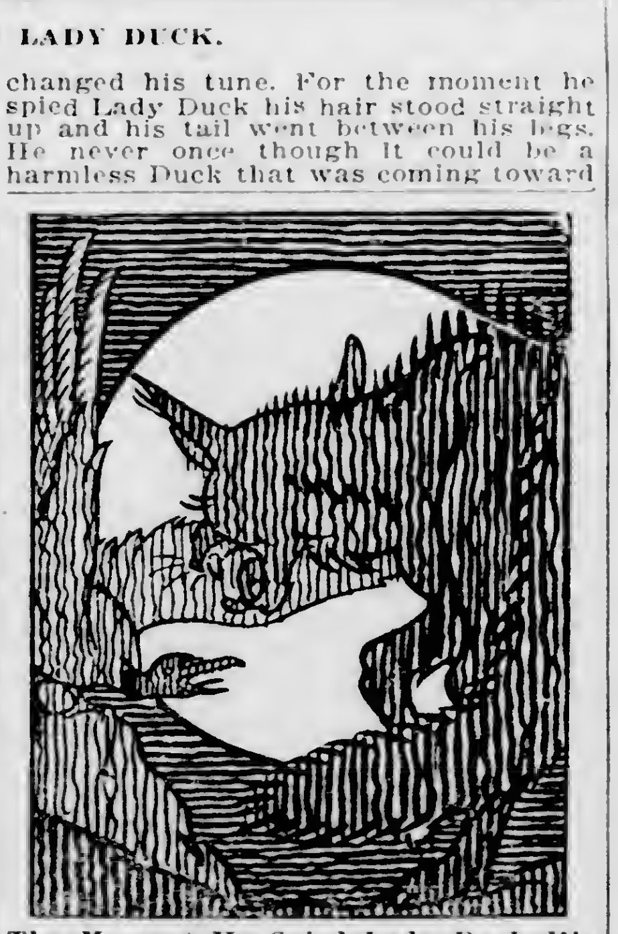
"I'll go over if you say," said Lady Duck, "for you are the king and I'll do anything the king says. She could hardly say the words.

"I want you to go," said Tinker Bob. "But don't be afraid for I will be right here in the edge of the woodland, waiting for your return."

Surely if the king expected her to return he would take care that nothing happened to her. She started toward the terror of the forest. If he came upon her and tore her into pieces she would at least have done what the king told her to do.

Mr. Wolf howled again and it was indeed a mournful howl. Lady Duck shivered and went closer. "I will spread my wings when I get close to him and perhaps he will think me too big and will run away." She said this to herself. Then she spread her wings as she went closer.

Suddenly there was a different howl. It was the howl of fright. Mr. Wolf changed his tune. For the moment he spied Lady Duck his hair stood straight up and his tail went between his legs. He never once though it could be a harmless Duck that was coming toward him. For the only kind of ducks that he ever saw were always going away from him. He was so frightened that he could not run, his legs wouldn't move.



The Moment He Spied Lady Duck His Hair Stood Straight Up.

Lady Duck moved steadily toward him with her head down and her wings outstretched. "Woow, Woow," cried Mr. Wolf, "Save me! I will never do it again, never again if you will save me now."

Then it came to the mind of Lady Duck that he had done something terrible and was afraid that some one had come to punish him. Tomorrow we will find what Mr. Wolf did.

AT THE THEATERS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Frank Dobson and Thirteen Sirens; other acts.
NEW GRAND—Mlle. Celeste and her Wonderful Leopards; other acts.
PLAZA, SUPERIOR—Fiske O'Hara in "Springtime in Mayo."

ORPHEUM—In the Ziegfeld Follies of 1914 Herbert Clifton was entered in the running, but was an exceedingly dark horse, as nothing whatsoever had been heard from him on this side of the ocean, although in the English music halls, according to report, he achieved considerable success. Much to the surprise of all concerned, the dark horse came under the wire a winner and the one big hit of that season's appearance was Herbert Clifton. His character impersonations were absolutely flawless and, like every other artist who scored a hit in any branch of the theatrical profession, is now in vaudeville and is, of course, giving several of his character impersonations, the best of which is probably that of a scrubwoman. In fact, most of Mr. Clifton's impersonations are of feminine type.

NEW GRAND—There probably never will come a day when theater-goers will tire of the variety of fun designated as "hokum" or "nut." Its real appeal to the average amusement-seeker, its very simplicity, makes it so understandable that all ages can and do appreciate it. It is in this situation that the offering of Bryant and Stewart, "gentlemen jesters," finds its universal appeal. These two "daffydills," as they call themselves, have been among the hits of an unusually popular bill for the first half of the week, ending tonight. Their fun is nothing if not contagious and their eccentric dancing is so unique that the sample they give makes the crowds insist on more. There will be an entire change of bill tomorrow, with Donald's Serenaders, a colorful Scotch musical act, as the feature.

PHOTOPLAYS

NEW LYRIC—Elaine Hammerstein in "The Daughter Pays."
ZELDA—William Russell in "The Man Who Dared."
STRAND—"Humoresque" with Alma Rubens.
NEW GARRICK—Charles Ray in "Peaceful Valley."

NEW LYRIC—Elaine Hammerstein in "The Daughter Pays," a drama that searches the very soul; and Bobby Vernon with other of the Christie funmakers in "Going Through the Rye," an uproarious comedy special—that is the sort of amusement feast which New Lyric patrons have set before them today, opening a three-day engagement. In addition, to make it a sort of triple-headline show, Director Gustave Jackson of the New Lyric concert orchestra will offer a violin solo, "Gypsy Love Song," and the usual short subjects will be shown. "The Daughter Pays" is an adaptation of the story of the same name by Mrs. Baillie Reynolds, which caused a big stir when it was published in the United States and England. In the supporting cast are such players as Norman Trevor, Theresa Maxwell, Bryson Russell and Dore Davidson. Dorothy Phillips, star of "The Heart of Humanity," and other big attractions, is coming Saturday in her newest feature.

ZELDA—Heralded as the best feature in which William Russell has starred, "The Man Who Dared," a new William Fox production with the story laid in the California Redwoods, opens a three-day engagement today at the Zelda. William Russell has the role of Big Jim O'Kane, boss of a lumberjack camp. The story, which is by Julius G. Furthman, tells what happened to Big Jim and the girl he loved when he "got in wrong" with the sheriff. For the sheriff happened to be in love with the girl, too, and he was not exactly all that a sheriff should be.

NEW GARRICK—Hailed as one of the most artistic productions of the year, "For the Soul of Rafael," a picturization of Marah Ellis' great love story of old California, brings Clara Kimball Young to the New Garrick screen tomorrow for the first time in months. Charles Ray, who has been immensely delighting in his latest feature, "Peaceful Valley," will be seen for the last time this evening.

The story of "The Soul of Rafael" is laid against a background of California mission life at a time in the history of the state when the Spanish were the chief settlers. The star is seen as a convent-bred girl who goes into the world pledged to save the soul of the man she has promised to marry. The events take her through a series of dramatic situations and climaxes, with romance the dominant factor. The added attractions include "Dynamite," one of the funniest of the Mermaid comedies; New Garrick World Events and other short subjects.

STRAND—Nothing we could tell you in cold print about "Humoresque" will do the picture justice. It is one of those productions that you have to see in order to appreciate. Once you have seen it, you will agree with thousands that it is one of the really great productions of all times. Fannie Hurst wrote the story. As handled by Frank Borsage, who is responsible for its direction, it has lost none of its original beauty. Duluthians are taking advantage of the second week of this engagement by attending the matinees to avoid the night crowds.

PLAZA—Tonight's attraction at the Plaza, Superior, will be Fiske O'Hara in his latest success, "Springtime in Mayo," described as a fascinating comedy of Irish wit, romance and song. Not in many moons has so much advanced interest been created. "Springtime in Mayo" was built for the welcome purpose of evicting care, making mankind laugh and showing the world through rose-tinted glasses. It is typical of Ireland in flavor, graceful in romance, appealing in heart interest, never failing in vitality, never ceasing in speedy action. Mr. O'Hara is said to play the role of an Irish gentleman with a sparkling finish and will sing several new songs, melodies that pull at the heartstrings. Mr. O'Hara is said to be supported by a company of capable players.

DULUTH THEATERS WILL HONOR GOLD STAR MOTHERS

Although there will be no formal observance of Armistice day in Duluth tomorrow, the New Grand, New Garrick, New Lyric and New Astor playhouses, controlled by the Duluth Theater company, will not forget its Gold Star mothers. All of them will be admitted with their escorts [illegible] free of charge at any performance during the day. Even the war tax will be paid.

The service men on the staffs of the theaters will pay the war tax and all that will be required is that the applicant explain to the doorkeeper that she is a Gold Star mother. Appropriate patriotic features have been arranged to provide a holiday atmosphere.

The poppy, which became a world symbol of those who fell on Flanders fields, will be the flower of the day, and if enough of these can be obtained in the city every Gold Star mother will be presented with one at each of these four amusement places.

Service men on the staffs of these theaters will be dressed in uniform.

The Herald prints today's news today.

OUT-OF-TOWN RESIDENT FIGHTS WHEELAGE TAX

Dr. Henry Johnston, who maintains a dentists' office in the city, but who resides without the corporate limits of the city, has appealed to the district court from his conviction in municipal court on Aug. 4 last on a charge of violating the wheelage tax ordinance.

Dr. Johnston failed to pay wheelage tax on his automobile and was arrested. His defense was that he was not a resident of the city. Judge Funck, however, held that his case was different from that of farmers who very seldom used the streets of the city.

BUTTER FAT LESS IN OCTOBER, SAYS MILK INSPECTOR IN HIS REPORT

The average butterfat from dairies supplying milk to consumers in Duluth showed a slight decrease, according to the milk inspector's report for October. In September the average amounted to 4.02 per cent and in October 3.92 per cent. The average bacteria count per 100 pounds for last month was 91.114 as against 70.528.

The milk inspector tested 124 samples of milk during October and found only thirteen below standard. Seventy-two dairies were visited and sixty-three scored. Letters and postals were sent out to 137 different concerns. Eighteen were ordered to make changes and one legal case was tried. Seventeen applications for milk licenses were received.

The scoring and report of standing of Duluth dairies for October were as follows:

Skin Diseases Cause Real Torture

Fiery Irritation Becomes Almost Unbearable

Only those afflicted with Eczema, with its terrifying irritation and ceaseless itching know what constant torture this disease can cause.

You can't relieve skin torture by scratching. Nor can you expect peace and comfort until you remove the cause.

The disease appears in different ways, sometimes with a reddening and irritation of the skin, sometimes in the form of blisters. Other cases of Eczema take the form of a dry, scaly condition of the skin that cracks and peels. But no matter in what form the disease appears, it is a source of constant fiery irritation that is well-nigh unbearable.

Eczema is very often considered a skin disease. This is a natural mistake, as it attacks the skin and it is through the skin that it causes so much discomfort and suffering. The germs of Eczema are in the blood, and the irritated and diseased condition of the skin is the result of the germs trying to break out of the system.

Beyond the use of antiseptics to promote cleanliness there is no local treatment that will accomplish a permanent cure of this disease. And those who have been relying altogether upon salves, soaps, ointments and other local applications to the skin will find that no permanent good will come from such treatment by itself.

Years of untold suffering can be avoided if the real cause of a disease can be definitely determined, and the proper method of treatment employed. Hence those afflicted with Eczema will continue to suffer as long as they consider the disease a condition of the skin, and rely solely upon local applications.

If you really want to be cured you must realize that the disease is in the blood, and you can expect relief only from treatment that is directed toward cleansing the blood of the disease germs. This is why S. S. S. is so successful in the treatment of Eczema and all other diseases of the blood; because it acts as an antidote to any impurity that finds lodgment in the blood. It is an exceptionally fine tonic, and besides eliminating from the blood all traces of impurity, it builds up and strengthens the entire system at the same time.

Cleanse your blood of the disease germs and you will soon be rid of all skin troubles.

We invite everyone afflicted with Eczema, or other blood or skin disease, to write our medical department for advice, which is gladly given without charge. Full instructions as to how to treat your own individual case will be gladly furnished by our chief medical adviser, who is an expert on these diseases. NO FIRES ON STREET CARS

Company Suffers From Coal Shortage; Will Provide Heat About Dec. 1.

Inability to get within 400 tons of the amount of coal usually required, will make it necessary for the Duluth public to ride on cold street cars until about Dec. 1, according to a statement made yesterday by Herbert Warren, vice president and general manager of the Duluth Street Railway company. If the fires were started now, the company would face the possibility of having to withdraw them about Feb. 15, said Mr. Warren.

"We have been unable to get the usual amount of coal to supply the company for the winter season," said Mr. Warren. "So far, we have been fortunate in having warm weather and there has been little suffering and we are optimistic enough to believe we may not have any extreme cold weather for a couple of weeks or more. If our fires are started now, we would run out of coal about Feb. 15, which would mean that the public would have to ride cold cars after that date.

Saving on Labor.

"It is impracticable to start fires and run them for a few cold days and then allow them to go out. That would entail a large amount of unnecessary labor for the company and also a great deal of inconvenience for the public. It is necessary to keep a car in the carhouse for a period of about twenty-four hours, while the fires are being started. We hope that by starting the fires on Dec. 1 we will have a supply of coal sufficient to last until the latter part of March."

The company is putting the storm windows on the cars, which will help a little in keeping out the cold. A crew of about twenty-five men is necessary to maintain the fires in the cars during the winter and these men will not be put to work until about Dec. 1. The company is now operating on the local lines 112 cars during the peak of rush hours in the morning and evening. This is the same number that operated prior to the curtailment of the service.

"The curtailment," said Mr. Warren, "was not effective during the rush hours."

COLD BUT WORSE IS YET TO COME; SAYS WEATHER FORECASTER

Continued cold weather, slightly moderating today, but to turn colder tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night, is the forecast given out by H. W. Richardson, local weather observer. Last night the temperature dropped to 8 deg. and as low as zero on the ranges. The weather will be generally cloudy with the wind increasing and shifting from southwest to northwest tomorrow followed by snow flurries. No heavy snowfall is expected, however.

OBJECT TO USE OF FUNDS TO BUILD MEMORIAL

Washington, Nov. 10.—Use of the $5,000,000 offered by the Knights of Columbus to the American Legion for a national memorial building in Washington would constitute a "moral breach of trust and an act of injustice" to many suffering soldiers, Marvin G. Sperry, national president of the Private Soldiers' and Sailors' Legion, declared in a letter to Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty.

The money offered was contributed during the war for the "aid and relief of our soldiers," Mr. Sperry asserted, and its use for the construction of a "great marble palace at Washington" would be an "undefensible diversion from the purpose for which it was intended."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

SPRINGFIELD, S. D., BANKER BANKRUPT

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 10.—Creditors of the estate of Peter D. Magnusen, banker, speculator and cattle and land dealer of Springfield, who was adjudged a bankrupt in Federal court here a month ago and whose liabilities are estimated at $1,700,000, met with Robert J. Gamble, trustee in bankruptcy here yesterday, and Walter W. Wagner of Tyndall, S. D., was appointed trustee by the referee.

At the meeting of creditors yesterday, claims for over $1,700,000 were presented, while other creditors were not represented. At the hearing in Sioux Falls, prior to Magnusen being declared insolvent, his attorneys sought to show that his assets totaled over $700,000 and claimed that as he was a tiller of the soil, a South Dakota law protected him from being adjudged bankrupt. During the hearing it developed that Magnusen's actual assets did not exceed $400,000.

At the meeting here yesterday it was decided to accumulate as much of the assets and estate as possible so that dividends may be paid creditors. Another meeting has been called for Nov. 17, when it is expected Magnusen will be present in person.

GOPHERS ARE OUT OF THE RUNNING

Ohio State and Illini Will Clash for Conference Title.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—Titular football honors in the Big Ten conference will be decided in the annual battle between Illinois and Ohio State a week from Saturday, as the result of last Saturday's play.

Both Ohio State and Illinois came through with wins last week, the State team defeating Michigan, 14 to 7, and Illinois snatching a victory in the game with Chicago by a field goal when the ball struck the cross bar and rolled over for a 3-to-0 victory.

Minnesota is hopelessly out of the conference running, with two games to be played to complete the schedule. Wisconsin's 3-to-0 victory last Saturday gave the Gophers a mark of four conference defeats and no wins for the season.

Next Saturday Minnesota meets Iowa, with the hope of wiping out defeats administered by the Iowa team during the past two years. Minnesota showed a stronger team against Wisconsin than at any other time this year. With Ruben back in the game and Oss going as he was last Saturday, Minnesota's offense will present a problem to Iowa.

Wisconsin and Illinois meet next Saturday. Wisconsin slid through the Minnesota game to a 3-to-0 victory without showing scouts from Illinois and Chicago anything, but a hard smashing backfield which is also able to run ends behind the best wall of interference seen on the Minnesota field in years. The passing game shown by the Badgers was nothing more than any conference team is supposed to have. The game with Illinois is expected to develop all the playing ability of both teams.

Three Remain in Race.

In the Minnesota college conference, St. Olaf staged a comeback against St. Thomas last Saturday, winning 6 to 0, and dragging the Cadets out of the conference race, leaving only Carleton, Macalester and Hamline in the running. The three championship possibilities were not in action last Saturday, and with a two weeks' preparation behind them, it is expected that the play next Saturday will develop the best football seen on college fields this year.

Carleton meets Hamline at St. Paul. Both teams are strong, with driving power enough to score if given an advantage. In the games played this season both teams have shown many flashes of real football, and Saturday's game is expected to develop the best either coach has to offer. Hamline has one conference defeat to its credit, while Carleton will get into action with a clean slate.

Macalester meets St. Thomas this week-end. Mac has not lost a game this year and St. Thomas is a traditional enemy, always showing its best football against the Presbyterians. Earlier in the season Macalester played a tie game with Hamline and Hamline gave the Cadets a licking in the annual contest between the two schools.

Hamline Meets Carleton.

The four conference college teams, which will go into action this week-end, will show their full strength. Hamline and Carleton are expected to show a driving attack varied with open work, while St. Thomas and Macalester, with lighter and shiftier teams, are expected to depend for the most part on open field work. Both schools have backfield men who are dangerous runners in broken fields.

North Dakota saw its last football game this season when Fargo college went down to a 7-to-0 defeat at the hands of the North Dakota Agricultural college Saturday. The University of North Dakota won the state championship the previous Saturday by defeating the Agricultural college.

NEUTRALITY EXPECTED

Herrmann to Plead With Minors for Support of Lasker Plan.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10.—With the opening shots fired in the scramble to win the support of the National Association of Minor Leagues, August Herrmann, owner of the Cincinnati Nationals and a leader in the organization of the new twelve-club league, is to address the convention of minor leaguers here today in an appeal for indorsement of the Lasker plan for baseball reorganization.

Mr. Herrmann will attempt to offset the favorable impression created among the minor league leaders yesterday by Ban Johnson, president of the American League, and George W. Miller, the American league attorney, who urged the minors to appoint a committee of three to meet with a similar committee from the major leagues in a final effort to avert a baseball war. President Johnson, in opposing the Lasker plan, told the minor leaguers that the management of baseball should remain in the hands of men who have devoted their lives to the sport, instead of being turned over to men outside the game.

What action the minor leagues will take in the major league dispute remains problematical, but it is expected they will consider both plans in executive session and then refuse to take sides in the issue, leaving the threatened war to the major leagues for settlement.

Favors No Action.

"I do not see how we can be expected to take sides in this situation," said M. H. Sexton, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, today. "President Johnson of the American league very frankly asked us not to show any favor to either side. I think it would be the only fair thing to do. It is my opinion that minor leagues will not give any consideration to the Lasker plan. We are satisfied to govern our own affairs, as we have done for the last two years, at least until some definite plan for a new national commission, with minor league representation, is created."

The proposition made by President Johnson to the minor leagues yesterday, promising them equal representation in the formation of a new national commission, sharing equal power with the National and American leagues, seemed to be favorably received. For a score of years the minor leaguers have fought for such representation, but without success. The American league executive characterized A. D. Lasker of Chicago, the sponsor of the Lasker plan, as "one who has not shed his swaddling clothes in baseball" and asked the minor league officials to consider "how such an individual could direct the affairs of the game or its reformation."

MIKE O'DOWD VICTOR OVER JEFF SMITH

New York, Nov. 10.—Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight boxing champion, outpointed Jeff Smith in a fifteen-round match at Madison Square Garden here last night. The judges disagreed and the referee awarded the bout to O'Dowd.

O'Dowd was the aggressor in nearly every round and used effectively a punishing right to the body and a left hook to the face. Smith favored left hooks and used an occasional right.

The men appeared to be trained rather fine for the contest. O'Dowd's weight being announced as 158 pounds and Smith's 156¾. The former champion's blows seemed to lack their usual power, but he carried the fight to his opponent.

WORLD'S BEST TO SCULL HERE

Philadelphia Oarsmen Will Commemorate Victory of John B. Kelly.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—Local oarsmen have taken the initiative to hold a world's sculling title race yearly to commemorate the recent victory of John B. Kelly of the Vesper Boat club in single sculls at the Olympics.

A petition has been addressed by the Schuylkill navy, an organization of local rowing clubs to those interested in amateur rowing as follows:

"The recent victory of John B. Kelly, we believe, is the only victory ever recorded that may truly be considered as representing the world's championship in amateur single sculls.

"Heretofore, the winning of the diamond sculls at the Henley has carried with it the nearest approach to such a title, but due to the fact that any sculler, no matter how valid his personal qualifications, may have his entry refused by the Henley stewards this event may well be considered as a closed, local or at least an invitation event.

"In his recent victories John B. Kelly defeated not only the recent winner of the diamond sculls, but the pick of all the amateur single scullers from all nations of the world.

"Now, therefore, that this victory may be commemorated for all time that opportunity may not henceforth be lacking for clean amateur scullers from all parts of the world to compete for this noble title, it is proposed to present a gold cup to be known as the 'Philadelphia Challenge Cup' for the world's championship amateur single sculls, this cup to pass from one champion to the next under terms to be set forth in a deed of gift to be drawn up by the committee appointed by the commodore of the Schuylkill navy and executed by that committee, representing the individual subscribers, a list of whom is to be attached to the deed of gift. The cup to be the property of the Schuylkill navy, but to be held by the champion until by defeat, default or loss of amateur standing it passes to the next champion or to the Schuylkill navy pending the appearance of a new champion. The first name to be engraved on this emblem will be that of Champion John B. Kelly of Philadelphia."

Champions in Fight.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 10.—Young Montreal, bantamweight champion of New England, was given the decision over Frankie Mason, flyweight champion of the United States, in a ten-round bout here last night.

HOLD NEW LEAGUE HAS RIGHT TO MEN

Lasker Plan Attorney Declares American League Moguls Powerless.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The American league has no power to hold the players on the three clubs which have joined the new National league and every man on these clubs can play in the new organization next year, according to an opinion given last night by Alfred Austrian, attorney for the two Chicago major league clubs, and adviser in the drafting of the Lasker plan for reorganization of the game.

Mr. Austrian's opinion was rendered in response to statements from representatives of the five clubs which are backing Ban Johnson in the baseball war that the league owned all its players and that the Chicago White Sox, New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox clubs consequently could "take only their ball parks into the new league."

"The players belong to the clubs and their contracts are made with the clubs," Mr. Austrian said.

"The league is merely a voluntary organization which has no contract power over the men other than to prescribe certain clauses which may be put into contracts. I do not care to say at present whether even this power, which voluntarily has been given the league, is lawful.

Court Actions Awaited.

"There is no doubt, however, that the Chicago, New York and Boston clubs, formerly of the American league, may take their entire playing personnel into the new National league regardless of claims to the contrary which may be made by Mr. Johnson and his five backers."

The new National league, however, is preparing for extensive court action and expects numerous injunctions to be applied for by the five American league clubs before they permit the players on the other three clubs to be taken from the league, according to representatives of the new organization.

"We expect bitter court battles," said one club owner, "but we have proceeded carefully and have no doubt as to the outcome. The new league is composed of the money-making clubs and they are ready to spend every cent necessary to win."

This club owner pointed out that if necessary the Chicago, New York and Boston clubs could put teams of amateurs in the field as their representatives of the American league if they so desired.

The three former American league clubs are made up of many of the stars, including Babe Ruth, Dick Kerr, Ray Schalk, Eddie Collins, Carl Mays, Harry Hooper, Duffy Lewis, Jack McInnis, Bob Shawkey, Roger Peckinpaugh, Schang and Ward.

REAL MONEY IS BEING WAGERED

Morgan Park Fans Place $3,000 on Allison to Beat Alberts.

When it is stated that between $7,000 and $10,000 will have been wagered on the Kid Alberts-Neil Allison glove battle by the time the boys crawl through the ropes at the New Armory arena next Friday evening it seems remarkable, but nevertheless that's the truth. Morgan Park fans said they would move in last evening with $3,000 to wager on Allison and they kept their word. The downtown section of the city fairly blazed with steel plant coin and the best part of the splurge came when every penny of it was covered. There will be another chest of Allison lucre moved uptown this evening, according to promises from Morgan Park, and the Alberts supporters claim they will be waiting when the strongbox is opened.

We knew all along there was keen interest being taken in this mill but we never had any inkling that feeling was running rampant as it truly is. There are many angles to the wagering but most of the Allison gilt is being bet 1 to 2 that the Morgan Park boy stops the Jewish lightweight inside the ten rounds which the fracas is scheduled to go. Even money is being bet that if the bout goes the limit Allison will be returned winner on points. All of this latter coin is being grabbed at by the Alberts' supporters, who look to their boy to win easily if the row goes to a newspaper decision. They believe that Alberts will outhit Allison at least three to four to one but they give the steel plant boy credit for a terrific wallop which will certainly spell defeat for the uptown lightweight if it should land on the right spot.

Big Crowd Assured.

That the largest crowd of Morgan Park fans that ever attended a boxing contest at the Head of the Lakes will be present at the new Armory next Friday evening was assured this morning when every one of the usual number of seats alloted to the steel plant fans was sold and a demand was made for additional pasteboards.

All of the ten boxers who are to take part in the mitten carnival have been training faithfully and all of the boys are reported at or under the poundage which each is required to make. Each contestant is confident of winning his respective fight and this should assure some grand milling.

The pass evil will have to be checked by the Duluth A. C., according to orders which were received this morning by R. J. Carnes, president of the club, from the Minnesota state boxing commission. The order says that no one except those to whom passes have been formally issued by the club president can get by the doortender without paying. No police, deputy sheriff or city fireman badges will be recognized by the doortenders. The order is said to be general in Minnesota and must go into effect at once.

FULTON TO FIGHT WILLIAMS AT PEG

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 10.—Members of the Winnipeg Attraction club are working hard to make their third show an all-around good card. With Fred Fulton and Harry Williams signed up for their next bill, which will be staged at the Board of Trade building Nov. 15, they are trying to line up Jack Josephs to box Billie McKenzie, the local artist. Josephs holds a win over Bobby Ward, who recently defeated Clonie Tait, the Canadian lightweight. If the Attraction club can line up Josephs, local fans should see one of the best boxing cards ever staged in this city.

In Harry Williams and Fred Fulton they have a star bout. The heavyweights will box twelve three-minute rounds. Fulton is a good boxer. He carries a wicked left punch and although he was knocked out by Jack Dempsey on their first meeting, Fred is clamoring for a return go, and claims that he can make the present champion travel at top speed.

Williams hails from San Francisco, where he has met and defeated most of the good boys along the coast. He is now touring the Middle West, as he is anxious to get a crack at more of the celebrities.

LANDIS UNDECIDED ON $50,000 BASEBALL JOB

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Federal Judge K. M. Landis repeated yesterday his statement that he is still undecided as to what reply he will make to the offer of the chairmanship of the new National league baseball commission. The newly created position carries with it a salary of $50,000. Judge Landis said he would make prompt announcement of his decision as soon as it was reached.

BILLIARD CHAMPION WINNER IN FINALS

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Ralph Greenleaf of New York, national pocket billiard champion, won his second straight game last night in the finals of the national tournament, defeating James Maturo of Denver, 125 to 35 in sixteen innings. Greenleaf had a high run of 35.

In the afternoon match Maturo defeated Walter Franklin of Kansas City, 125 to 47.

Players May Decide.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 10.—Whether the American league will be able to retain its players may depend on the "good will" of the men, according to Phil Ball, president of the St. Louis Americans, who returned yesterday from Chicago.

The Herald prints today's news today.

DEER SEASON OPENS MONDAY

Army of Duluth Nimrods Will Leave for Forests on Saturday.

Big game hunters of Duluth who plan on leaving here for the timbered country next Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning so as to be on the ground when the season for killing moose and deer opens next Monday morning are jubilant over the first fall of snow, for it will make it easy for them to locate and track the big game and will also greatly deaden sounds in the forest, making it easier to get close to the game.

The snowfall is much heavier up in the timber than it is in Duluth and with the mercury at the freezing point the "beautiful" bids fair to remain for several days at least. The change to cold weather will also make it easy for the hunters to preserve their trophies and get them home without danger of the meat becoming tainted.

Many Duluthians who have hunting lodges up in the timber or who have friends that own shacks in the forests, are preparing to leave here as early as Friday, intending to stay in the woods for ten days or more of the season which runs to Dec. 5. Some of the local nimrods will go to the border country up around Ranier and International Falls, others will hunt in the region of Baudette while many will invade the Itasca county forests where deer and moose are said to be plentiful.

Vermilion a Choice Spot.

But the great army of Duluth big game slayers will travel up into the Lake Vermilion country which has for many years been the favorite rendevouz for local hunters. There are any number of deer in the country about the North Shore of Lake Superior and that district is known as the one, where more moose can be found than anywhere else in the world. Lake and Cook counties will both have heavy invasions of hunters, which has been usual for several years.

Three well-known Duluth sportsmen, Art Von, coach of the Duluth City football team; M. C. Gebert of the Kelley-Duluth company, and Frank Seaman, promoter of baseball, football and hockey enterprises have taken out licenses and will leave here probably Sunday afternoon for the Itasca country woods where they expect to remain at least a week. And they may get some game at that. Some wounded deer may wander into their camp yard and expire right at their very door. And, again, there are known to be several deaf and blind moose up in the Lake Pokegama regions and the sportsmen may run across one of them.

Some Pertinent Laws.

Some of the laws governing the shooting of big game in Minnesota, as laid down in the 1920 book follow: "Deer and only male antlered moose may be taken from Nov. 15 to Dec. 5 both inclusive of the same year, but nothing in this chapter shall be so construed to permit the taking or killing of elk or caribou at any time.

"A person may take a deer or moose in an open season, but may not take both.

"No artificial light, snare, trap, salt-lick, set gun, swivel gun or other device to entice or entrap deer or moose shall be used, made or set, nor shall any deer or moose be taken by aid or use thereof. Deer or moose shall not be hunted, pursued or killed with dogs. The license shall, after killing a deer or moose, immediately affix to the carcass coupon tab B of his license."

MOTHER TO WATCH SONS ON GRIDIRON

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 10.—The struggle of the brothers Callahan, "Mike" of Princeton, and "Tim" of Yale, as the captains and opposing centers of the two varsity elevens when they meet in the Palmer stadium at Princeton next Saturday, will have as a witness their mother, Mrs. Mary E. Callahan of this city, and Miss Eunice Callahan, 19-year-old sister. Mrs. Callahan said she would leave for Princeton on Friday to attend the game.

"I shall sit on the Princeton side of the field this year," the mother said, explaining that she sat on the Blue side as the guest of Capt. Tim last year at the Yale bowl when his team went down to defeat before the Princeton Tigers and he and his brother, Mike, came to grips at Centre, with honors for both. Mrs. Callahan added, however, that "of course, I may go over to the Yale side of the field before the game is over."

WOULD LEGALIZE ILLINOIS BOXING

Chicago, Nov. 10.—A bill to legalize boxing in the state was ready to be submitted to the city council today for its approval before being offered to the legislature. Alderman Joseph O. Kostner is author of the bill, which, as a whole is similar to the one drawn up by the alderman last year. It provides for a state athletic commission of three men to be appointed by the governor. The bouts shall not be longer than ten rounds and six-ounce gloves must be worn.

According to friends of Alderman Kostner, the bill will go to the judiciary committee without action today. As the council and judiciary committees are familiar with the bill, it is expected to be ready for the state legislature in two weeks. Governor-elect Small is said to be in favor of a fair bill and boxing enthusiasts are hopeful of its passage.

TY COBB GIVES NEW VERSION OF SCANDAL

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 10.—Ty Cobb tells a story about a row Eddie Cicotte had with Charley Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, last year which he believes is largely responsible for Cicotte's decision to accept money from the gamblers.

"Comiskey promised Cicotte $1,000 if he'd win thirty games during the season," says Cobb. "When the season ended Cicotte had won twenty-nine but the Sox had won the American league pennant. Ball players figured the White Sox owner was a cinch to give Cicotte the extra bonus, but he refused."

Cobb claims Cicotte was one of the lowest salaried pitchers in the league, getting $6,500 a year, which wasn't much considering the wonderful season Cicotte was enjoying.

LAMB AND MUTTON WEEK BEGINS THURSDAY

Lamb and mutton week is being observed in Duluth. Started last year as a result of the development of sheep raising in this section of the state, it was found to be a means of encouraging greater interest in the raising of sheep and mutton and also of eating more of this class of meat. Three special days will be set aside by the hotels and restaurants and housewives will be urged to also serve special dishes featuring Cloverland honeyed mutton, as lamb and mutton grown in this region is known. These days will be tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

The Duluth Commercial club is sponsoring the movement and has received the assurance of the different butchers of the city that they will make a leader of lamb and mutton in their specials for these three days.

Eat more Cloverland lamb this week. Ask your butcher. Swift & Co.—Advertisement.

WOULD INTRODUCE BILL FOR REFUGE HOME HERE

Representative Marcus B. Cullum of the Fifty-seventh district this morning asked The Herald to announce that he wishes those interested would call a meeting to discuss provisions for a girls' refuge home in Duluth, so that he may learn their desires, in view of the fact that he contemplates introducing a bill to cover such a matter in the coming session of the legislature.

Mr. Cullum introduced a bill two years ago providing for $35,000 for a girl's refuge home in Duluth. It met with considerable opposition and the sum was finally reduced to $15,000 which is considered far from adequate. He wishes to present a bill at the opening of the session which will meet with more approval than opposition and for that reason suggests that a meeting be called at the earliest date possible.

Sure, Harmless Way To Remove Hair Roots
(New, Wonderful, Quick Method)

You who are annoyed with embarrassing growth of superfluous hair have waited long for something that would do more than merely take off the surface hair temporarily—something that would really remove the hair roots. And now—at last—your wish is realized!

The new phelactine process is far different from, far better than electrical, depilatory or other methods, because it actually removes the hair entire, roots and all—before your very eyes—easily, quickly, harmlessly! Get a stick of phelactine from your druggist, follow the simple directions, and you will be surprised and pleased beyond words. It has no odor, no irritating element and is so non-injurious a child could safely eat it. It leaves the skin so soft, smooth, hairless, that not the least sign of your former trouble remains.—Advertisement.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

NOT BETRAYED BY BEST GIRL

Luikkonen Denies He and Marie Aho Were Sweethearts.

Swan Luikkonen, 18-year-old boy held at the county jail for complicity in the Jones murder of June 5 last, and Marie I. Aho, 17-year-old girl of East Lake, Aitkin county, who informed the authorities as to his whereabouts, are not "lovers" or "sweethearts" and never have been.

This, at least is Luikkonen's version of the affair. The young man characterizes a story given circulation this morning to the effect that he was "betrayed by his lover" as "pure bunk."

"Of course I knew Marie, but there was nothing between us," said he today. "I may have written some mushy letters to her, I don't remember, but I was only kidding her if I did, and she knows that very well. That's pure bunk about us being sweethearts or lovers."

Luikkonen said this morning that he did not meet Marie until after the Jones killing.

"I first saw her at East Lake," he said. "We went to a few dances together there and when she came to Duluth to visit some time later I took her out again. After I left for Canada I wrote to her and received one letter. In it, she advised me to keep away from Duluth because everybody knew I was in trouble. I answered this letter but never received any reply."

Young Woman Gets Busy.

During October, Miss Aho visited Duluth and was interviewed by deputy sheriffs concerning the whereabouts of Luikkonen. She professed to be ignorant of his address at that time but promised to co-operate with the authorities.

On Oct. 15 last, she wrote the following note from her home in East Lake to Bert Duff, deputy sheriff here: "Dear sir: Is there any reward given, if a person would find positive whereabouts of Swan Linkkonen? I would like to know because possibly I could locate him if I tried again. Kindly let me know by return mail."

The letter was addressed to Mr. Duff personally and as he was out of the city for several days it did not reach him until he returned to Duluth. He immediately sent Miss Aho one of the circulars announcing the payment of rewards to presons furnishing information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons connected with the Jones murder.

Miss Aho, having received a letter from Luikkonen at Nairn Center, Ont., showed the circular to the sheriff of Aitkin county and inquired if she would receive the reward if Luikkonen was captured. He assured her that she would. Sheriff I. E. Bockenoogen of Aitkin then came to Duluth and without imparting this information to the local authorities asked for the warrant for Luikkonen's arrest. He was informed that the warrant was in the possession of Deputy Sheriff G. A. Hoel, who was then at International Falls running down a clue on the men.

Aitkin Sheriff Active.

Sheriff Bockenoogen then went to the municipal court, procured certified copies of the warrant and the complaint and left for Canada to get Luikkonen. He brought him back to Aitkin county and from there to Duluth.

Sheriff Frank L. Magie of St. Louis county is of the opinion that the offering of rewards for the capture of criminals is a valuable aid in running down fugitives from justice. Luikkonen's arrest was brought about in this way and the sheriff also pointed out that Andrew Koski, arrested a few months ago for the Carlson murder at Markham in June, 1919, was arrested from information received by persons seeking a reward.

Victor Luikkonen, 16-year-old brother of Swan Luikkonen, who is employed by the Marshall-Wells company here, was detained by the sheriff for some time this morning and questioned concerning his trip to Fairbanks, where it is alleged that he "tipped off" his brother that the authorities were looking for him and advised him to "beat it." This is the statement made by Swan, but Victor denied that he talked with Swan about the latter being wanted by the authorities.

"I went up to Fairbanks to get $7 which a fellow owed me," he said. "I saw Swan there and gave him a copy of the paper which had an account in it about the finding of the Jones' car in a garage at Tamarack. I didn't tell him to 'beat it.' I just give him that paper."

ASKS COUNTY AID.

Home Demonstration Bureau in Need of Funds to Continue Work.

Approximately $1,500 is needed to assure the continuation of the work of the Home Demonstration bureau, according to J. R. Batchelor, city recreational director, in a letter to the county board asking for an appropriation covering that amount.

"We are face to face with losing the department in our city by lack of funds," Mr. Batchelor wrote. "The state university providfes $1,000 for this work in Duluth and the school board and the city welfare department provide $1,200 more, but we need an additional $1,500 to meet the expenses for the coming year. It has occurred to me that the county funds are used for the same kind of work throughout the county districts and other cities in the county and we feel some assistance should be given by the county in keeping this valuable service in the city of Duluth, which composes a very large part of St. Louis county.

"The home bureau aims to make home life happier, children healthier and financial matters less a burden. Literally between $5,000 and $6,000 was saved by the people who were reached by this department last year."

The county commissioners took no action on the matter at the morning session of the board.

DENIES ROAD FUNDS RAISED BY TAXATION

Charles E. Adams, special county counsel, this morning denied the statement attributed to him by the morning paper today that the $3,000,000 road program of St. Louis county "will be financed for the present by county taxes."

"The fact of the matter," said Mr. Adams, "is that the county expects to issue about $3,000,000 of the $7,500,000 worth of bonds authorized for work on the subgrading and paving of the Miller Trunk road from Duluth to Eveleth. No direct taxes will be levied at all for this purpose. The bonds will be issued and sold as fast as they are needed.

"Amendment No. 1 having passed, authorizing the state to engage in the construction of a highway system in accordance with the Babcock plan, the county will go ahead with its program. The state will eventually repay the interest and principal of these bonds on some fair basis, as the legislature at its next session shall by law provide."

The increased consumption is due principally to prohibition, Mr Coste asserted.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ-destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.—Advertisement.

A butter expert in an up-to-the-minute plant

The new Troco plant, just completed, is the latest, most up-to-date margarin plant that it is possible to design.

It is under the supervision of A. E. Hoffman, a famous butter expert, who for 30 years has made butter, judged butter and taught butter making in leading dairy schools.

Famous in the butter world

Mr. Hoffman was famous for the peculiarly sweet, delicate flavor of his butter. He puts this same sweet, delicate flavor into Troco.

The white, nutritious coconut fat which replaces butter fat must meet an exacting laboratory test.

All milk used comes from selected herds and is twice pasteurized.

What you can't expect

Troco is the fancy brand of nut margarin, with quality standardized. You can count on fresh, appetizing deliciousness.

What you can't expect is price cutting to compete with other brands. Troco may always cost a few cents more.

Ask your dealer. If yours hasn't it in stock tell him to order it. All leading dealers should supply Troco.

The downward revision of Columbia prices

When we purchase merchandise, we buy only from reliable houses and always consider price as secondary to quality. As long as prices kept soaring we paid them freely for first-class wearables instead of looking for third-class goods in order to make our prices look low. Our customers did likewise for they have faith in this establishment and know full well that the relative cost to them depends entirely on the service a garment gives. A Stein-Bloch $75 overcoat good for 3 to 5 years is always considerably cheaper than the one-season or part of a season $35 nondescript coat.

It is in this light that we wish you to consider our sale merchandise and our sale prices in these days when The Herald is filled every night with costly full page advertisements of most doubtful character. Our figures today represent a definite and very considerable loss to us, for all our garments are based on a high cost of material, labor and overhead. There is no low priced worthy merchandise in store at this time except where maker or seller sacrifices profits and part of his overhead expenses. And it is wise to sacrifice, honestly and courageously now when the turn in the cost of manufacturing for the future has finally arrived, for it is only anticipating inevitable later losses and giving the people a chance to supply their needs for the cold season just starting.

ON THE IRON RANGES

TAKEN REDHANDED IN BOOZE TRAFFIC

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The next time Bude Barach of Kitzville delivers moonshine he is expected to be more circumspect as Game Warden George Wood and a Federal agent claim they caught him in the act of delivering some contraband to Andrew Anselmo, living five miles west of Forbes. As they were leaving the latter's place, they say, Barach drove his car to a rear door and began to unload a keg that looked suspicious. They retraced their steps and arrested the Kitzville man and Anselmo for violation of the Volstead act.

Both were arraigned before Commissioner Poirier here yesterday afternoon and held to the Federal grand jury in $1,000 bail each which at last accounts they were still trying to raise. The car was confiscated.

Make Your Own Gray Hair Remedy

Mrs. A. Dixon, a well-known Brooklyn trained nurse, made the following statement regarding gray hair: "Streaked, faded or gray hair can be quickly turned black, brown or light brown, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

"Merely get a box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 2 ounces of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for mixing and use and a gold bond guarantee come in each box. One box will last you for months.

"It is safe, it does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy, and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Advertisement.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Louis Ojunovich, who was arrested last Friday night by local police charged with violating the dry laws, was found guilty yesterday in municipal court and paid a fine of $100 and costs, amounting to $102.50. Ojunovich was operating a pool hall at 410 Grant avenue when he was arrested. The officer who made the arrest stated that he kept moonshine in a back room of his establishment and that an attempt was made to destroy the bottle from which it was evident he was serving his drinks when he appeared. A small quantity was left in the bottle when it was taken, however, and served as the convicting evidence in the case.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c-30c.

VIRGINIA READY FOR CELEBRATION

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite the drop in temperature, it is said there will be no change in the Armistice day plans celebration for tomorrow, even the football game not being called off on account of the weather. RANGERS PLANNING TO FIGHT INCREASE

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night on being advised by County Auditor Borgen of the action of the state tax commission in boosting valuations of real estate in range cities and towns beyond all expectations decided to fight the matter in the courts in conjunction with other communities affected. All members of the council who expressed themselves denounced the action as unwarranted and some did not spare words in expressing themselves, Alderman J. C. Richards dramatically demanding by what right the state body had taken such action.

A resolution to promptly meet with representatives of other range communities to decide upon concerted action against the raise went through flying and communications are being sent out today. The proposed boosts in range real estate as near as can be learned here are: Virginia, 33 1-3 per cent; Hibbing, 30 per cent; Chisholm, 40 per cent; Eveleth, 50 per cent; Ely, 10 per cent; Proctor, 20 per cent. Other cities affected for which the exact percentage of increase has not been ascertained are Biwabik and Aurora.

EXPECT COLD WILL HELP TAKE CARLSON

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Carlson, 16, who made a sensational escape from the county jail here early yesterday morning by boring his way through a thick stone wall with a piece of piping wrenched from a radiator, is not expected to get far, as he had no money, and it is expected the cold weather will drive him to cover. In passing through the sheriff's office while making his break, Carlson helped himself to some new clothing that he is alleged to have purchased with stolen money and which was being held till his case was disposed of. The boy is also said to have ransacked drawers in the sheriff's office, apparently seeking money, but did not take guns in one drawer.

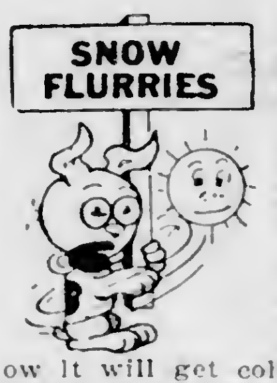
UNSETTLED; SNOW FLURRIES; SOMEWHAT COLDER THURSDAY



Those who did not drain their cars last night probably had a good deal of trouble this morning, unless they have heated garages, for it certainly did get snappy, even though the mercury did not hit zero. It was close enough. Moderation was the rule today, but tomorrow it will get cold again if the prediction is carried out. The sun rose this morning at 7:04 and will set this evening at 4:40, giving nine hours and thirty-six minutes of sunlight. Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A decided drop in temperature has taken place over the lake region and the Ohio, Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys, the Southwest and Wyoming. Zero weather prevails in the latter state. The thermometer is rising throughout the Northwest. During the last twenty-four hours snow fell over the northern parts of the lake region and most of Canada and rain from Pennsylvania and Maryland southwestward to including Central Texas. The barometer is high over Central and Middle Western states and relatively low off the New England coast and Western North Dakota."

MEDALS FOR NAVAL MEN

Boston, Mass., Nov. 10.—First announcement of awards to naval officers for distinguished service during the war was made at the Boston navy yard today. Rear Admiral Herbert D. Dunn, commanding the First naval district, was the only recipient here of the distinguished service medal.

The citation which accompanied the honor to Rear Admiral Dunn said it was given for "exceptionally meritorious service in a duty of great responsibility as commanding officer of the naval station at Ponta Delgada, Azores."

The naval cross was awarded eleven other officers, among them Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, commander of the Boston yard, who commanded the submarine force which operated in the war zone.

Distinguished Cross.

Those given the distinguished cross here follow:

Commander George B. Neal, who was commanding officer of the U. S. S. Cummings engaged in important, exacting and hazardous duty of patrolling the waters infested with enemy submarines and mines and escorting and protecting vitally important convoys of troops and supplies through these waters and in offensive and defensive actions rigorously and unremittingly prosecuted against submarine activity."

Lieut. P. J. Kelly, who was commanding officer of the U. S. S. C-124, engaged in important exacting and hazardous duty of patrolling the waters of the war zone and operating against enemy submarines."

On Duty With Grand Fleet.

Capt. Adolphus E. Watson, who was executive officer of the battleship Florida, on duty with the grand fleet.

Capt. George Freeman, who commanded a naval base hospital in France.

Lieut. Commander Robert A. Lavender, who served as a pilot on seaplane service.

Lieuts. Barney O. Holloway, Michael J. Wilkinson and William Fremgen, who commanded vessels that were part of the mine-sweeping flotilla that laid down the barrage in the North sea.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Charles R. Moro, who was in charge of the armed convoy ship Tidewater on March 17, 1918, when it repelled a night submarine attack.

Capt. John T. Tompkins, commanding the battleship Delaware, also was awarded the navy cross, but because of his absence from the yard today the citation was not announced.

No Mention of Sims.

Newport, R. I., Nov. 10.—Announcement at the navy war college today of awards for notable naval service during the war contained no mention of honor for Admiral William S. Sims, president of the college, who was the commander of the American naval forces in the war zone.

Admiral Sims had refused an original recommendation for a distinguished service medal as a protest against failure of the navy department to accept his recommendation for honors to subordinates.

WAR SCENES ARE PICTURED

Armistice day was celebrated by eloquent speakers at the Armistice day program carried out by the Duluth Kiwanis club at its regular meeting today noon. The scenes before the war, during the war, and of the moments and days that followed the first hush of the great guns, were pictured before members of the club as they had never been before, and aroused the enthusiasm of one of the largest attendance of Kiwanians that has ever attended one of the regular meetings.

Describe Battle Scenes.

Chaplain A. T. Croft gave a vivid description of Le Marie on the day warfare ceased and the resulting celebration. W. T. Wilke told of Verdun on that day. He described the city during the war, the continued crash of guns that never ceased, the torn buildings and streets and the aged appearance of everyone, old and young. He told of the last great barrage by the Allied troops and the gradual diminishing of the pounding of the heavy guns until at 11 o'clock absolute silence reigned, the first in four years, or since the war started. People appeared stunned for a few minutes, he said, and then the first move was towards the shell-torn cathedral where two American girls tolled the bell that had been silent since the war began. He told how men of all nationalities gathered and knelt as a short prayer was said that few understood, and how the Americans and English united in singing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," and then he told of the wild, hysterical and unbounded enthusiasm of the soldiers and residents for the rest of the day. He brought it all back home in a picture that will never be forgotten.

W. S. McCormick talked of "Over There" and described the boys going, of the duty they performed and the spirit with which they carried out their duty. "It was sufficient for them to know they were called," he said. "They asked not the reason why, they knew it their duty and they went. And it is our privilege today to pay a tribute to the service they performed. Their names are forever written on the sun scroll of fame and on the tablets of time."

Spencer Searles brought the scenes of the hospitals to hearers in a picture that was sometimes sad and sometimes humorous. He told his hearers that for many the war was not ended, that there was no Armistice day for them. For some the war would never end for their continued living in the past. For those who have given all but life, the country can never do enough. For such as these, the question will always be present, whether the war was not stopped too soon, and until the terms of the armistice are fully carried out, they will never be satisfied.

Songs were sung by the entire membership, consisting of "America," "Over There," "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and many other of the popular war songs.

Tetrazzini, who was to have appeared as the guest of the club, was unable to appear and sent her regrets. According to the announcement her car had been switched too far away from a street, and she would have been forced to travel at least six blocks through the snow and cold to reach a conveyance of any kind.

"I know an easy way to clear your skin"

"My skin was even worse than yours, and I, too, had tried so many remedies I was discouraged. But Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap relieved the soreness almost immediately, and I was amazed when the blotches began to disappear and the pores to clear. In a short time my skin was perfectly healthy. Do give the Resinol treatment a trial." At all druggists.

FAVORS COTTAGE PLAN.

But Sheriff Points Out Impracticability Under Present Conditions.

The welfare committee of the Woman's council is in favor of the cottage plan of segregation of women prisoners, now customarily confined in the county jail, it was announced in a conference with Sheriff Frank L. Magie. That this plan could be carried out when the new industrial home is constructed, which is the intention of the county to build, is the opinion of Sheriff Magie, but at the present time there is no question of changing the women prisoners to the present industrial home.

This could be done at the present time, according to Sheriff Magie, on an order from the municipal court, but this would be impractical, as the quarters now used for the home are far too small. An additional appropriation would also be necessary if the home were enlarged and moved outside the city limits. Special legislation would have to be passed to obtain this move, it was said.

ABOUT THREE WEEKS OF NAVIGATION AT PORTAGE

Navigation on Portage lake will close in about three weeks, according to present indications. The ordinary date of closing at lower lake ports for freight consigned to the upper lakes is from Nov. 20 to 22. The absolute dead line is Nov. 30. East and westbound freight is accepted there, subject to certain conditions, up to Nov. 25.

Westbound business by lake out of Houghton was a little ahead of last year. The eastbound business, largely copper going out over the Great Lakes line, is about the same as it was last year. The total copper movement this year by water will probably exceed that of last year.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

GOOD GAINS IN WHEAT PRICE

Market Gains on Export Trade at Seaboard; Flaxseed Drops Again.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 10.—Wheat market was strong at close on covering operations. December spring closed 7¾c up at $1.77½ bid; March, 6c up at $1.79¼ asked; December winter, 7¾c up at $1.76½ nominally; December durum, 7½c up at $1.84½ asked, and March, 7c up at $1.82 asked.

Spot rye closed 6½c up at $1.58; December, 4½c up at $1.51, and May, 3½c up at $1.48.

Substantial recoveries were made in the wheat market today as a result of bidding by exporters at the seaboard and the reported working of considerable business. British buyers were reported to have been in the market for the first time in months, and a quantity of wheat was also taken by Belgium. Covering operations helped along the upturn. That demand filled, however prices failed to hold at the high levels set and reactions came about.

December spring wheat advanced 4½c to $1.74 and reacted to $1.73¼ at the noon hour. March advanced 4¾c to $1.78, and then weakened 1¾c. December durum gained 5½c at $1.82½ and then broke 1½c, and March advanced 5½c to $1.80½, and later eased 1½c.

With export inquiry reported for rye, that market moved up 2c to $1.48½ and then eased ½c. May gained 1¼c at $1.15¾.

The bulk of the cars of barley offered on the tables were disposed of within a radius of 75@92c. The grain was taken chiefly by the elevators.

There were on track here for the day 276 cars of all grains, including: Spring wheat, 14; durum, 140; winter, 4; corn, 1; oats, 2; rye, 58; barley, 22; flax, 20, and bonded spring, 15. The latest information from the country has led the elevator interests to go slow regarding predictions of any increased movement from the country during the remainder of the fall season, owing to the disposition of growers to hang on.

Flaxseed Slumps.

Operators are still feeling for the bottom of the market in flax in view of the drastic price adjustments taking place in that commodity from day to day. The market was asserted to have been without support and prices opened 9c off, to be followed later by further recessions. Recoveries were made around the close.

November flax closed 8c off at $2.26 nominally; December, 4c off at $2.30, and May, unchanged at $2.45.

At Winnipeg, November flax closed unchanged at $2.35 bid and December unchanged at $2.31 asked.

At Buenos Aires, December flax opened today at $1.86.

A Winnipeg wire said: "Plans have been completed by farmers of Western Canada to hold back their wheat for better prices. A Winnipeg wire to Armour Grain company said: "A reduction of a cent a loaf in bread prices followed yesterday's drop of 80c a barrel for flour."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Announcement that no general curtailment of rural bank loans in Kansas was contemplated had a bullish influence today on the wheat market. Upturns in foreign exchange tended also to lift prices, and it was said that for the first time in months there had been acceptances of wheat by the British royal commission. Buying was general, with strong houses in the lead. Opening prices, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to 2½c higher, December, $1.78@1.79½, and March, $1.75@1.76 were followed by material gains all around.

It was said that hedges here on nearly 2,500,000 bu of Canadian wheat were lifted by exports interests and that there was considerable export business by way of the Gulf of Mexico. The market closed strong 5⅜c to 9¾c net higher, with December $1.86¼ to $1.86¾ and March $1.81 to $1.81½.

Corn strengthened with wheat. After opening unchanged to ⅝c off, December, 78@78⅜c, the market scored a general upturn.

Heavy covering by shorts took place. The close was unsettled, ⅝c to 1¾c net higher, with December 79⅝c to 79¾c.

Oats were governed by the action of other grain, starting at ¼c decline to ¼c advance, May, 55@55⅝c and then climbing somewhat.

Provisions reflected firmness of grain and hogs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 10.—A false downward start in the wheat market was followed by a quick reaction today when Eastern markets became stronger, foreign exchange improved and reports came from the seaboard that the British commission was in the market for Canadian wheat. Starting on a range from $1.65 to $1.67 and scattered liquidation, December wheat soon rallied to $1.69 and then began edging higher. March rallied 5⅝c. In the cash market premiums on top grades were unchanged. Recovery in wheat helped coarse grains. Rye rallied 4⅝c after a fractional decline at the outset and barley advanced 1¼c on the comeback. Bearish Argentine news broke flax future sharply.

BIG DROP IN ANACONDA STOCK

Anaconda was a weak feature in the copper stock list at New York today, selling off $2.12 to $47. Butte & Superior sold around the close $1.75 off at $13.25, Chino fractionally off at $24; Great Northern Ore 25c off at $31.75, Inspiration $1 off at $39, Kennecott 62c off at $21.75, and Utah unchanged at $56.50.

Copper is considered by experts to be the one commodity that has had the longest deflatory purging. The price of copper started downwards when the war industries board dissolved in January, 1919, and the quotation slumped from 25 cents to 14¾ cents a pound in March last year. With the exception of a buying movement, which started in November last year and extended until February when 750,000,000 pounds of copper were sold and sales of 320,000,000 pounds last March, the metal has been in poor demand ever since. While exports of copper during the first eight months of this year amounted to 438,875,000 pounds, it is said that only a small part of it was actually sold to the European nations. The great bulk of the copper was shipped to the other side on consignments, and stored there in the hope of finding a market later. Refiners estimate that the production of refined copper in the United States this year will amount to 1,500,000,000 pounds or 300,000,000 pounds less than in 1919.

Paine, Webber & Co. wired from New York: "Head of a large steel company makes following comment on steel outlook: 'Wall Street, as usual, seems to be going into hysterics over steel situation. Professionals operating for a decline in stocks would be disappointed if the industry did not go all to pieces and force hundreds of thousands of men into idleness, but steel industry, as in the past, will survive the destruction wished on it by certain short sellers of stocks. This year large steel companies will earn their respective dividends several times over. Common stock of nearly every steel company is selling below actual cash put back into property over last six years."

Crude rubber is selling at 20 cents a pound, a new record low price. That compares with 50 cents a pound a year ago and $1 in 1913. Sentiment in the trade is improving, however, for it is believed that a revival will be witnessed next spring with the manufacture of tires on a larger scale.

Shattuck Arizona Copper company's production for the month of October was as follows: October, 206,772 pounds of copper; 790,149 pounds of lead; 39,254 ounces of silver, and 436.56 ounces of gold; ten months, 2,368,055 pounds of copper; 6,869,382 pounds of lead; 336,807 ounces of silver, and 4,102.47 ounces of gold.

Logan & Bryan wired Robinson Macaulay company from New York: "The steel tonnage statement brings more forcibly to mind the falling off in the demand for steel products. It is thought that the slackening has been more pronounced with the so-called independent concerns. This has something to do with the weakness in stocks like Crucible and Republic Iron & Steel."

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Sharp Setback After Advances During the Morning Session.

New York, Nov. 10.—Substantial recoveries from yesterday's extreme depression were made by many leading shares at the opening of today's stock market, the rally being facilitated by short covering. Crucible Steel rose 2½ points, probably as a result of its excellent annual report. Mexican Petroleum, yesterday's weakest feature, rose 2½; Pan-American, 1½, and Royal Dutch, 1. Gains of 1 to 2½ points marked the initial dealing in American International, Baldwin Locomotive, United States Rubber and Retail Stores. United States Steel rallied ½ point and some of the rails were fractionally better. Further weakness was shown, however, by sugars and tobaccos, rumor associating those issues with prospective dividend reductions.

Favorable conditions marked today's session, the extensive trading for the first time in almost a week indicating an excess of demand over supply. According to reports there was considerable odd lot buying by so-called bargain hunters. Another reassuring feature was the recovery of foreign exchange, the London rate advancing almost 7 cents over Monday's low. Oils, steels, equipments, shippings and motors improved their early position and rails of the investment and speculative classes were 1 to 2 points higher. "Nickel Plate" recovered almost half of yesterday's 12½-point decline, but Lake Erie & Western lost about 5 points. Call money opened unchanged at 9 per cent.

Publication of October tonnage figures of the United States Steel corporation, disclosing a very large decrease in unfilled orders, and suspension of the extra dividend on American Sugar caused a sharp setback at midday. Steels, sugars, motors and shippings led the reaction, declining 1 to 4 points, with more moderate losses elsewhere.

The afternoon break extended to 5 and 6 points in Crucible Steel and Mexican Petroleum, with subsequent rallies of 1 to 4 points, rails displaying marked strength. Closing was irregular.

WEST PUTS UP GOOD CASE FOR WATERWAYS, SAYS CRAIG

C. P. Craig, executive chairman of the Great Lakes-Tidewater association, has returned from the East, where he attended a series of hearings on the proposed Great Lakes to ocean waterway. Mr. Craig said that the Western cities had put up a strong case and that the Eastern opponents to the proposed waterway had advanced no sound economic arguments against it, but seemed to be governed mainly by a hatred for Canada.

ALLEGED PROFITEERS IN COAL SET FREE

New York, Nov. 10.—Indictments charging the Brooklyn Edison company and the Adelphia Coal company, Inc., with profiteering in the sale of coal were dismissed in Federal district court here today by Judge Julius M. Mayer. Judge Mayer reserved decision on the indictment charging the Lynch Coal company with the same offense.

Dismissal of the indictments was automatic, when after hearing arguments of opposing counsel, Justice Mayer sustained demurrers to the proceedings against the Edison and Adelphia companies.

TAX RATE 3 MILLS HIGHER

Duluth Will Pay That Much More Next Year Than This.

Duluth property owners will pay next year's taxes on a rate of approximately 57 mills, or 4 mills more than this year.

Figures which are now available at the office of the county auditor indicate that the 1920 tax rate, on which 1921 taxes will be computed, will be at least 3 mills higher than last year, and most likely 4 mills.

The 1919 tax rate on which current taxes were figured was as follows for the tax district of the city of Duluth.

	Mills.
State purposes	8.05
City purposes	17.264
County purposes	8.80
Schools	18.886
Totals	53.000

The 1920 tax rate on which next year's taxes will be computed is estimated by County Auditor W. H. Borgen as follows:

	Mills.
State purposes	5.370
City purposes	20.831
County purposes	8.735
Schools	21.882
Total	56.818

State Rate Decreases.

The state rate, which has been definitely fixed shows a decrease of 2.68 mills. The county rate cannot be definitely fixed until the state tax commission arrives at a definite figure for the county valuation. The county auditor now figures it at $361,000,000 more than last year. At any rate the county rate will not be greater than last year. The principal factors in the aggregate increase are the new city and school rates which are each approximately 3 mills more than a year ago. The 3-mill increase for city purposes was voted at the special city election in October.

County Budget.

The county budget will probably be passed by the county board this afternoon. A tentative budget, in which some changes may be made, has been announced as follows:

	Mills.

Building new jail	.111	40,000.00

PEACE IN BALL WAR IN SIGHT

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10.—Peace is in sight in the major league baseball war. This was the statement of Garry Herrmann, representing the National league, when he appeared today to address the National Association of Minor Leagues. Before Mr. Herrmann had proceeded very far in his address to the minor leaguers, he was handed a telegram. He read it slowly and then announced:

"I told you, gentlemen, that I believe peace in baseball was going to come in the very near future. I have just received a telegram advising that an informal meeting of the sixteen clubs in the American and National leagues will be held in Chicago Friday."

Herrmann declared the telegram was signed by the five club owners of the American leaguers loyal to President Johnson and who refused to attend the meeting in Chicago last Friday when the formation of a new twelve-club league was completed.

SOLVE SHORTAGE OF HOUSES BY REDUCING FIRE LOSS, ADVOCATED

Chicago, Nov. 10.—The housing shortage in the United States can be solved, in part, by reducing the heavy fire loss, Wharton Clay, Chicago architectural engineer, told the Calder committee on reconstruction here today.

Mr. Clay offered figures showing the loss from fire waste last year on insured houses alone was $63,000,000, sufficient to build 16,000 homes costing $3,000 each. During the year there were but 20,000 new houses built, he said.

During the last ten years fires in 171 cities of the United States consumed houses valued at more than 25 per cent of the total new construction in the same cities, Mr. Clay said. He urged changes in construction practices to eliminate the more vulnerable points.

Besides the monetary waste, fires claim 23,000 lives annually in the United States, he said. He advocated more stringent local building ordinances and greater publicity for the work of the bureau of standards and underwriters' laboratories to reduce fire losses.

The new plant will generate 20,000 horse power and will greatly relieve the present power situation, the lines being loaded to capacity at all times.

One Hundred Investment Bargains in Railroad Bonds

In a circular prepared by one of the greatest bond authorities in this country, which we have just had printed, the bond situation is not only thoroughly covered, but there is a list of one hundred bargains in high grade railroad bonds yielding as high as

Ten Per Cent

Among this list are many unusual investment opportunities, and inasmuch as underlying factors are now favorable to rising bond prices, a selection of these bonds would unquestionably result in excellent market profits, in addition to an attractive income return.

The circular will be sent without obligation, together with a booklet describing a convenient method of purchasing the bonds.

CO-OPERATION in buying bonds

The investment banker, like any other merchant, buys his merchandise because he knows its worth, and because he knows it can be sold again, once that worth is known to the buyer.

An important function of the banker is to learn the exact need of his prospective customer, so that, by means of a frank conference, he may select for him the bond which will best suit his purpose.

Hence the advantage of dealing with a long-established, national institution, whose thousands of customers include many individuals whose problems are the same as your own. Once your need is known, we can supply it from among the bonds we have on hand.

The banker, unlike other merchants, cannot display his wares so that the passer-by may study them—the initial contact of the banker and his customer must be closer than that. For this reason our Inquiry Department is one of the most active features of our business. It handles all inquiries and investigations in the intimate and personal manner expected of modern merchandising.

A word from you telling your investment problems will bring a complete solution—the result of mature investment experience—either through one of our representatives or by mail. Or call at our office if you prefer. This without obligation of any nature.

Fox Film Company and Agents Must Face Charges Saturday.

The Fox Film corporation, M. J. Weisfeldt, manager of the Fox branch at Minneapolis, and A. Roberts, agent in the same city, have been cited for contempt of court by Judge Dancer and have been ordered to appear in district court here Saturday forenoon. The charge is that they failed to obey the order of the court and comply with the terms of an injunction issued in the case of S. J. Bennett, operator of the Tempest theater, West Duluth, and the Fox Film corporation.

Bennett brought action against the Fox corporation, charging violation of contract. The company had a contract with Bennett to furnish Victory films for exhibition at the Tempest. Pictures were furnished for a time and then releases were stopped, says Bennett. An injunction was obtained from the court ordering the company to comply with the terms of the contract. H. A. Carmichael of the law firm of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell is acting as counsel for Bennett.

DEMOCRATS AIMING TO WIN CONGRESS IN 1922

Leaders Are Undismayed by Defeat in Last Week's Election.

Also Look Forward to Regaining Presidency Four Years Hence.

Will Not Abandon League of Nations as an Issue.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920, by The Duluth Herald.)

Washington, Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leaders of the Democratic party have practically agreed upon a course of action looking to the capture of both houses of congress in 1922 and the presidency in 1924. Far from being dismayed by the overwhelming defeat suffered at the polls last week, the Democratic leaders have jumped back into the fight with a spirit that is unlike anything a defeated party has shown in a generation. The principles on which the reorganization of the party will be based are these:

First, the selection as national chairman of an organizer who will for the next four years give his whole time to the making of organizations in every state, county and city in the United States. Wherever there are no Democratic organizations, new ones will be started.

Second, an effort to get unanimous agreement upon the man who is to do the organizing, so as to remove at the outset any traces of factionalism.

Third, the new chairman must be a man who has not been actively identified with any of the different factions—he must be on friendly terms with the Cox people, the friends of Palmer, the followers of McAdoo and Wilson and be skillful enough to attract friends of Mr. Bryan and Western Democracy.

Candidacies Tabooed.

Fourth, all talk of candidacies for 1924 is strictly taboo. The effort is to keep factionalism out of the door until the next national convention requires its introduction.

In these principles, the Democrats have taken a leaf out of the Republican book. All the talk about a new leader for the Democrats, all the suggestions about Mr. Bryan or Mr. McAdoo or Mr. Cox assuming the leadership are being frowned upon. For the Republicans haven't had an outstanding leader but simply a good organizer—Will Hays. It was Mr. Hays' method to travel about the country and keep things harmonious. He gave the impression for a long time that he wasn't interested in any candidacy or booms but merely in Republican solidarity. He got that solidarity. How long it will endure depends now on Warren Harding. The job of Hays is done.

So the Democrats who have been in conference informally here in the last few days have come to the conclusion that the wisest thing to do now is to reorganize the party and get every-

THREE BODIES FOUND IN HOLD OF STEAMER

New York, Nov. 11.—Three bodies were discovered this morning in the hold of the Morgan line steamship El Mundo on which nine men were seriously injured yesterday when one of the vessel's fuel tanks exploded while she was tied up to her Hudson river pier. Latest reports from the rescuers last night indicated that there had been no loss of life.

El Mundo today lies beached on the Communipaw flats near Ellis island. Fire fighters last night towed the blazing ship out of the congested section of the harbor.

HARDING WILL MAKE SPEECH

President-Elect to Deliver Armistice Day Address at Brownsville.

Brownsville, Texas, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Interrupting his vacation at Point Isabel, President-elect Harding will make an Armistice day speech here late today.

Although most of the address is to be devoted to a commemoration of the signing of the World war armistice, Mr. Harding is expected to take cognizance of the presence of Mexicans in his audience and deliver an informal message of assurance and good fellowship to that republic.

Brownsville has made great preparations for the event, a long program of parades and addresses preceding the speech of the president-elect. Special trains will bring crowds from cities along the international boundary.

Leaving Point Isabel by motor in the morning Mr. Harding will play a game of golf and have luncheon at the country club here before his address.

Lands Tarpon.

Point Isabel, Tex., Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—President-elect Harding landed his first tarpon yesterday and came back from the Point Isabel fishing grounds looking prouder than he did when just a week ago election figures confirmed his overwhelming majority for the presidency.

The catch measured four feet and five inches, a fair-sized prize as tarpons go, and Mr. Harding handled the reel unassisted while the big fish raced back and forth through the water in its furious attempt to get away. It was pulled in just fifteen minutes after it took the bait.

Mrs. Harding shared the honors of the day, for she also hooked a tarpon. It was almost a six-footer, however, and she did not try to land it. She passed the rod over to Senator Hale, a guest of the president-elect and his wife on their vacation trip here, and he brought it in after a struggle of more than a half hour.

Senator Harding again spent the whole day on the tarpon fields, three miles off shore, passing up an ideal golf day to devote himself to the sport to which he was introduced Monday.

WELL KNOWN NAVAL OFFICER DIES SUDDENLY AT AGE OF 66

REAR ADMIRAL HOWARD.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 11.—Rear Admiral Thomas B. Howard, 66, United States navy, retired, died suddenly yesterday. He was found unconscious in the bathtub and died within a few minutes of heart failure.

Admiral Howard was a native of Illinois, and was gradnated from the naval academy in the class of 1872. He served on active duty continuously until 1916, when he was transferred to the retired list by operation of the age limit.

Surviving him are his widow, three sons, Commander Douglas L. Howard and Lieut. Commander B. M. Howard of the navy; Claude Howard of New York and a daughter, Mrs. James P. Morton of Annapolis.

BOY'S DEATH BIG MYSTERY

Middle River Youth's Body Found With Bullet Through Brain.

Middle River, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Did Arthur Schankey, 15, son of Theodore Schankey of this locality, accidentally kill himself while hunting recently or was he killed by a stray bullet? That is the question being asked in this community, a coroner's jury having decided that he was killed by a bullet fired by "some person unknown to the jury."

The final chapter in the strange case was written yesterday when the funeral was held, but speculation as to the manner of his death still continues.

Nine days after the boy's disappearance the body was found by a posse in a thicket only thirty rods from the Schankey home, which is three miles east of Middle river. The boy had died from a bullet wound which had entered the top of his head and continued on down through his brain and body, lodging in his abdomen. The gun which is believed to have fired the bullet was found nineteen feet from the body, but the shell had been extracted. The gun was the one the lad had taken with him while hunting.

The Schankey boy left his home two weeks ago, accompanied by his younger brother, aged 9. According to the younger lad's story his brother made him return home while on the hunting trip. The young boy declares he did so and that was the last he saw of his brother alive. He declares, however, that as he reached his home he heard a shot.

Father Becomes Alarmed.

When Arthur Schankey failed to return home that evening and was still missing the next day his father became alarmed and notified the authorities. A posse was organized and started a search and it was not until the ninth day after his disappearance that one of the searchers accidentally found the body only a short distance from the Schankey home.

The theory that the lad had committed suicide was scouted by those who pointed to the fact that it would have been beyond the realm of possibility for the boy to be able to hold the gun in such a position that the bullet would enter the top of his head and pass straight through his body and then after that for the boy to extract the shell from his gun and throw it nineteen feet away. Following the inquest over the remains a coroner's jury closely questioned the 9-year-old brother, who was the last person known to have been with the dead boy before he was killed, but the youngster refused to be deviated from his tale that he had returned home, leaving his brother hunting and the coroner's jury returned a verdict that the boy had been killed with a rifle bullet fired by "some person unknown."

NEARLY 2,000 MEDALS DISTRIBUTED IN NAVY

Washington, Nov. 11.—The second anniversary of the signing of the armistice was celebrated in the navy and marine corps today by the distribution of nearly 2,000 medals and letters of commendation for particularly valorous or distinguished performance of duty during the World war. The medals and letters awarded had been forwarded to commanding officers in all parts of the world and upon signal by radio and telegraph today from Secretary Daniels' office here, the honors were distributed with appropriate ceremonies.

The action marked the final phase of the controversy over naval decorations that resulted in a congressional investigation last winter after Rear Admiral W. S. Sims had refused to accept the distinguished service medal intended for him, on the ground that injustice had marked the manner of distributing the navy's recognition of distinguished war time service.

During the investigation Secretary Daniels was accused of making awards to officers who commanded ships sunk by the enemy and ignoring other officers who performed distinguished duty in responsible positions on shore.

Impressive Ceremonies Held In Celebrating Armistice Day

Great Britain and France Pay Elaborate Tribute to Men Who Sacrificed Their Lives During the Titanic Struggle.

Impressive ceremonies were held in London and Paris today, the people of the French and British nations celebrating the second anniversary of the closing of the World war and paying tribute to the men who sacrificed their lives during the titanic struggle. The body of an unknown British soldier was buried in Westminster Abbey, King George, governmental chiefs and relatives of missing soldiers witnessing the interment. In Paris the body of a French soldier, taken from a nameless grave at Verdun, was laid at rest under the Arc de Triomphe. President Millerand and three French marshals—Joffre, Foch and Petain—stood by the open grave.

TO "THE GLORIOUS DEAD."

King George unveiled in Whitehall, London, a permanent cenotaph dedicated to "The Glorious Dead," and in Paris the heart of Gambetta, the French statesman who was virtual dictator during the troublous days succeeding the collapse of the Third empire, in 1870, was deposited in the Pantheon.

No ceremonies of a national character were held in the United States, but men who served the country during the war observed the day, which in some states was made a holiday. In others, governors issued proclamations, pointing out the significance of the occasion.

The exercises consisted, for the most part, of parades, memorial services and meetings at which patriotic addresses were delivered.

The United States naval department observed the day by awarding crosses and medals to men who did heroic work during the war.

BURIED WITH GREAT HONOR

Unknown British Warrior Is Given Field Marshal's Funeral.

London, Nov. 11.—Great Britain today impressively honored her war heroes by according a field marshal's funeral to an unknown British warrior who was buried in Westminster Abbey and unveiling a permanent cenotaph in Whitehall to "the glorious dead." Aside from members of the royal family, who included Queen Mary, Queen Mother Alexandria and Queen Maude of Norway, and a few officials, the only witnesses to either ceremony were persons who lost relatives in the great war.

As Big Ben, the great clock in the tower of the parliament building, began to strike the hour of 11 King George, facing the sixteenth century coffin of the unknown soldier, which was resting on a gun carriage, drew a cord that released the Union Jack draped above the cenotaph and, after the last stroke of the hour, thousands of people who crowded Whitehall as far as one could see in either direction remained absolutely silent for two minutes. This silence was broken by a choir softly beginning the hymn:

"Oh, God, Our Help in Ages Past," which was followed by the Lord's Prayer, recited by the archbishop of Canterbury. Buglers sounded "The Last Post" and, with its escort of troops and a band, the gun carriage then moved toward the Abbey with King George as chief mourner plodding behind it, accompanied by the royal princes.

King at Foot of Grave.

During the brief services in the nave of the Abbey, the king stood at the foot of the grave, the royal ladies and princes ranging themselves on either side. Of all the witnesses that packed Whitehall or crowded the Abbey, a little band of approximately 100 women in the Abbey received the most reverent attention. They had been selected for the seats of honor because each had lost her husband and all her sons.

NAVAL PLANE LOST IN LAKE

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 11.—The missing seaplane has been sighted fifteen miles off Manitowoc, Wis. The revenue cutter Tuscarora reported that she would pick up the crew of the seaplane and bring the men to Milwaukee.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—A naval seaplane of the F-2-L type with three men aboard, which left Great Lakes naval training station yesterday morning on a photographic reconnaissance tour of the west coast of Lake Michigan, is believed lost somewhere on the lake.

The plane was in charge of Lieut. Harry E. Barr, Lake Forest, Ill., pilot, accompanied by Ensign Edwin M. Clark, Peoria, Ill., photographic officer, and Gunner's Mate John Caesar, Hollywood, Ill., mechanician.

The seaplane was reported by fishermen to have landed in the lake off Centerville, Wis., twelve miles north of Sheboygan, last night. Coast guard crews from Sheboygan and Manitowoc searched the lake all night without finding the ship. The search is continuing today.

The plane passed north over Sheboygan at 1:30 yesterday afternoon and was next reported passing south over Manitowoc at 4:30 p. m.

Lieut.-Com. Wilson in command of the aviation mechanics' school at Great Lakes, said today that Lieut. Barr was a very careful pilot and he believed the plane had come down because of engine trouble and had been beached on some isolated spot along the Wisconsin shore, far removed from telephonic communication.

Fishing vessels from Sheboygan Manitowoc and several other ports are aiding the coast guard crews in the search for the missing seaplane, Commander Wilson said.

Coast Guards Searching.

Sheboygan, Wis., Nov. 11.—A naval seaplane from the Great Lakes naval station with a crew of three men is adrift somewhere in Lake Michigan between this city and Manitowoc, Wis. Coast guards from this city and Manitowoc have been searching for them since late yesterday afternoon.

Fears that the plane may have been driven far out into the lake and sunk by a high wind that has been blowing on the lake since yesterday morning or that the men may have perished from exposure were expressed today by members of the Two Rivers coast guard crew which put in here this morning for repairs to their boat. A heavy sea is running and the coast guard boat was covered with ice and one of its bow plates was stove in.

FRENCH GENERAL IS GUEST AT BALTIMORE OBSERVANCE

GEN. GEORGES NIVELLE.

SOLEMNITY MARKS DAY

Official and Civilian France Do Honor to the Nation's Sons.

Paris, Nov. 11.—Official and civilian France today did honor to the memory of the nation's sons who fell during the great war, the ceremonies lending a solemn atmosphere to the celebration of the second anniversary of the armistice with Germany. Paris, accustomed to observing its victory days and national fetes with rejoicing, turned aside this year and dedicated the day to memory and recognition of the sacrifice made by hundreds of thousands of dead who are sleeping in cemeteries along the battle lines.

Called from its grave on the field of Verdun, the body of an unidentified French "poilu" was carried solemnly through the streets and reburied under the Arc de Triomphe. Following the flag-draped gun carriage on which the coffin rested walked President Millerand, cabinet members and three French marshals—Joffre, the hero of the Marne; Foch, whose genius accomplished the final defeat of Germany, and Petain, whose defense of Verdun will forever live in French song and story.

Remembers Gambetta.

In addition France took occasion to remember that fifty years ago the country, defeated by Germany, owed its very existence for a time to Leon Gambetta, who took virtual control of affairs in Paris when the city was besieged by Germans and later succeeded in organizing armies to continue the futile struggle against the Teuton invaders. The heart of Gambetta, which had been preserved since his death in 1882, was inurned in the Pantheon, the national shrine of France.

The procession formed in Place Denefert Rochereau at 8:30 o'clock this morning, the head of the column standing in the shadow of the huge statue of the "Lion of Belfort," which represents the spirit of the city in offering bitterest resistance to the Germans in 1870. First came mutilated soldiers and veterans of the great war, then troops from Alsace and Lorraine, and then colonials. Gen. Berdoulat, governor of Paris, followed, preceding flags used in the late war, behind which came Gen. Falque and staff bearing artillery flags, and Gen. Derescas and staff, above whom waved cavalry standards.

Flags of 1870.

Faded and shattered flags of 1870, recently retrieved from Potsdam and Berlin and carried by veterans of the Franco-Prussian war, escorted the car bearing the heart of Gambetta, who resisted desperately giving those very flags to Prussia in the hour of defeat.

A delegation of noncommissioned officers of all arms separated this car from the 155-gun carriage upon which lay the body of the unknown soldier. President Millerand and all members of his cabinet walked behind it, accompanied by the three marshals. The procession terminated with delegations from the St. Cyr and Polytechnic schools, Republican guards, Colonial infantry, Senegalese units, aviation officers, two batteries of 75s and one of 155s. As the procession entered Boulevard Sainte Michael, there was heard in the distance from the forts sur-

SERVICES ARE DIVERSIFIED

Memorial Services, Awarding Medals and Other Celebrations in U. S.

New York, Nov. 11.—Memorial services in scores of churches, unveiling of monuments, planting of trees in memory of fallen heroes; dinners and patriotic speeches today crowded New York's Armistice day program from early morning until late evening with celebrations commemorating the memorable "cease firing" order two years ago.

The chief celebration was planned for tonight by the New York county chapter of the American Legion in the seventh armory. Victory medals will be presented to commanders of the 175 posts of the chapter.

Ring Historic Bell.

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 11.—Armistice day was announced at sunrise today with the ringing of a small silver bell, one of the old historic relics of the early days of the old Northwest territory, which is said to have been rung first in celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776.

The bell hangs in the tower of the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, which is recorded here as the oldest church in the Northwest territory. It was given to the French missionaries who founded the church by friends in their home country.

Two years ago today, the morning of the signing of the armistice ending fighting in the World war, the Rt. Rev. H. Joseph Chartrand of Indianapolis was reading a midnight mass and it was through the ringing of the historic bell that the people of this city were notified that the armistice had been signed.

Buried at Arlington.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Observance of Armistace day in Washington today was marked by the burial in Arlington National cemetery of twelve officers and enlisted men who died while serving overseas with the navy and marine corps. A detachment of bluejackets and marines formed a guard of honor as the flag-draped caskets were carried from the receiving vault at Arlington to the graves.

Observed by Church Services.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—With the city hall and many business and semi-public establishments closed today in commemoration of closing of the great war, Armistice day in Chicago was observed by high mass, special church services, military ceremonies, entertainment of soldiers in the hospitals, and social affairs set for the evening.

BOY WONDER WINS GAMES

Easily Defeats Eighteen West Point Strategists at Chess.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Eighteen officers, strategists all, and most of them trained in the post graduate school of war—and one picked cadet, the chess star of the military academy, went down to defeat in as many games of chess here last night before the invincible onslaught of Samuel Rzeschewiski, 8½-year-old Polish wonder of the chess board. One of the boy's twenty opponents played to a draw at the end of eighty-five moves. The lad from overseas, who added to the laurels he has won from the champions of Vienna, Berlin, Paris, Warsaw, London and other European capitals, played all of his adversaries simultaneously, moving rapidly from one board to the other and making his plays after lightning calculations.

Child Unperturbed.

Throughout the play, Samuel, who is rather an undersized child for his years, and apparently differing in no respect other than his proficiency on the chess board from others of his age, was unperturbed in the presence of his opponents, many of whom were gray-bearded senior officers whose after-dinner games at the officers' mess table are noted throughout the service.

Before a gallery which thronged the academy gymnasium, the child prodigy, clad in a blue suit with knickerbockers and sailor collar, effected his first checkmate after twelve moves which occupied thirty-five minutes.

Col. G. J. Fieberger, who held the lad to an even score, met him on more even ground. When a deadlock was reached the game was called off by the boy's father and teacher, Jacob Rzeschewiski, who announced that his son's bedtime was long passed.

CRACK VAULT TO SAVE MAN

When Safe Is Opened, Missing Clerk Not Found Inside.

Ottawa, Ill., Nov. 11.—Officials of the National City bank of Ottawa, city officials and volunteers worked feverishly last night and until early this morning to open the bank safe, believing that Francis J. Carey, a teller in the bank, had been locked inside by bank robbers.

When two mechanics had cut through the six-inch steel door with acetylene torches no one was inside and the $60,000 taken from the safe was recovered.

Terence Connolly, an Ottawa resident stepped from the rear door of a soft drink establishment adjoining the bank about 7 o'clock last night and pulled out his watch. A man standing in the rear of the bank dropped a package and fled apparently in the belief that Connolly had drawn a revolver. The missing currency was in the package.

Call on Penitentiary.

Bank and city officials called upon the Joliet penitentiary for expert safe blowers imprisoned there, but were told that none was serving time there who would be of assistance in opening a modern vault door.

Telephoning Chicago police, a band of safe experts and mechanics was hastily organized, as the bank officials feared Carey would smother quickly in the vault.

A Rock Island train was held for the life saving crew and made a special run to Ottawa but before its arrival a four-inch hole had been burned through the door and by the light of a flashlight Sheriff C. S. Ayers of Ottawa saw the safe was empty.

When the bolts of the safe door had been opened Charles C. Taylor, president of the bank, entered and found that the separate compartments belonging to the various employes of the bank had been opened and their cash contents taken.

An unsigned note, found today in the vault, is the only clue to the robbery. The note read: "If you had treated me right, this would not have happened."

SYLVIA PANKHURST'S EMPLOYES THRASHED

London, Nov. 11.—The girl employes in the office of Sylvia Pankhurst's communistic paper, The Workers' Dreadnought, in Fleet street, were thrashed and the offices upset just after 11 o'clock today by an angry crowd.

The leaders of the party which raided the offices alleged that during the two minutes of solemn silence in honor of the fallen dead, as provided in the Armistice day program, some of the women in the office were "singing, dancing and banging tin cans."

The indignant crowd in the street waited until the two minutes had passed and then a mob of men and women invaders gave the girls a sound trouncing. This continued until the police arrived.

One girl employe later said the members of the publication's force, who did not believe in the tribute of silence, continued dusting the office and made some noise, but did not think it could be heard in the street.

BOOTLEGGER SHOOTS CANADIAN POLICE

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 11.—Three provincial policemen were shot, one of them possibly fatally wounded, by an unknown gunman at the Stockyards hotel, St. Boniface, early this morning. The shooting occurred when four officers entered the building in search of liquor.

When the alleged bootlegger fired on the officers, Officer Alex McCurdy dropped with a bullet through the head. He is not expected to live. The gunman made his escape.

ARMENIANS, TURKS SIGN ARMISTICE

London, Nov. 11.—An armistice has been signed between the Armenians and the Turkish Nationalists, it is announced in an Armenian communique, dated Nov. 7, received here today.

The armistice conditions give the Turks possession of the fortress and railway station of Alexandropol and the surrounding districts during the peace negotiations.

The Turks, it is stated, guarantee the safety of the inhabitants of the city and the maintenance of order.

BURNS GETS SIX MONTHS; ELEVEN OTHERS ACQUITTED

Whisky Runner Sentenced by U. S. Judge Morris; Heavy Loser.

Jury in Liquor Conspiracy Case Frees Eleven Defendants.

Two More Whisky Cases Are Still to Be Tried.

Three weeks spent in the trial of alleged liquor smugglers ended this morning, when Judge Page Morris sentenced A. R. Burns, confessed whisky runner, to six months in the Cook county jail. Burns pleaded guilty on Oct. 21 to two indictments charging smuggling activities between Port Arthur and Duluth.

A jury last night, after deliberating barely an hour, freed eleven defendants charged with conspiring to transport liquor smuggled from Fort Frances. It was the second acquittal in two weeks. On Oct. 28 a jury returned a verdict of not guilty to a similar charge lodged against John Murphy, former chief of police; Frank L. Bradley, former deputy United States marshal, and Frank Schaeffer, Duluth clothing salesman.

Second Acquittal.

Defendants in the strenuous two weeks' trial which ended last night included not only Murphy and Bradley, but also John B. Clark, former assistant claim agent of the Oliver Iron Mining company; Joseph Teddy, Superior taxi driver; John Clayton, Joseph Trudell and Harold L. Mitchell, Virginia trainmen; William Cahill, hotel proprietor at Eveleth, Earl Eckard, police department mechanic; Henry Hill, Eveleth brakeman, and John McKay, St. Paul rooming house keeper.

Doubt as to the veracity of Fred Longfield, the government's chief witness, was said to be the reason for the acquittal in both cases. Attorneys for the defense continually hammered this point. Attorney Victor L. Power, in his closing argument to the jury yesterday afternoon, described Longfield as a "snaky, slimy lizard."

Judge Morris will leave tonight for Fergus Falls, where the November term opens tomorrow. On Nov. 22 he is due in Minneapolis for a continuation of the October term. He goes to St. Paul for the opening of a new term on Dec. 7. He is due in Duluth again Jan. 11.

Liquor Cases Business Getter.

"Liquor cases are keeping the courts busier than they have ever been in all my experience," Judge Morris said today. "I doubt if it would be possible to transfer other judges to help out here because the liquor situation is apparently the same over the whole country. We'll just have to consider each case as it comes up, and keep postponing those we can't handle until the following term."

In charging the jury last night, Judge Morris intimated that he thought Earl Eckard and John Clayton should be acquitted. The jury left the courtroom at 6 o'clock for supper and began its deliberations about 7:15. Before 8:30 they reported that they had reached a verdict.

A call was sent out immediately for Judge Morris and the defendants. The former arrived shortly after 9 o'clock. It was ten minutes later before John McKay, the last of the defendants ap-

UNEMPLOYED TEUTONS ATTACK METAL WORKS

London, Nov. 11.—Three thousand unemployed men in Berlin, part of whom were armed, stormed the Lion Metal works there yesterday, drove out the proprietors and engineers and extinguished the furnace fires, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. In the North side gas plant of Berlin, it is said, workmen drove out the industrial council and established a political soviet.

GATHER FOR LEAGUE MEET

Over 1,000 Statesmen Will Attend Session at Geneva.

Geneva, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Geneva is being violently elbowed to make room for the League of Nations, with all its appurtenances.

The secretariat of the league, 300 strong, is occupying the largest hotel for its offices. The delegations to the assembly of the league on Nov. 15, their secretaries and advisers are expected to number a thousand more, taxing to the utmost the accommodations of this small city.

Judging by the promptness and numerical strength of its representation, Japan is the country that takes its role in the league most seriously. About eighty of its delegates already are here, and quarters have been reserved for 100 in all.

Delegations are expected from at least forty-one of the forty-five members of the league. The delegations already announced make up a brilliant group of statesmen, orators and diplomats, headed by two former presidents of republics.

Two Former Premiers.

There are two former premiers, two presidents of senates, one president of a house of representatives, nine cabinet ministers, four ambassadors and twenty ministers plenipotentiary.

Final preparations for the assembly will be completed on Sunday by the league council which will meet at the old National hotel. Since its purchase by the league rechristened "The Palace of Nations."

The first important subject coming up, according to the program as it now stands, is an amendment to the league Covenant. This discussion may, if the delegates so wish, be preceded by the question of the voting strength of the delegations. It is recalled that Leon Bourgeois, the French representative, at the time of adoption of the covenant, expressed the hope that the assembly would accord the French colonies the same right of representation as accorded the British dominions.

JOHN PANTON OPENS NEW STORE IN DAVENPORT, IOWA

Advertisements in the Davenport, Iowa, newspapers of Oct. 27 announced the opening of a new woman's wear store there by John Panton, formerly of the firm of Panton & White of Duluth, who operated the Glass Block here some years ago. The new store is operated on the "cash and carry" basis, and the advertisements bear all the characteristics of the former Duluth merchant, whose aggressive methods here made him noted in Duluth and vicinity.

Mr. Panton has been in Davenport for several years, associated with one of the large firms there. Recently he organized the John Panton company, and on Oct. 28, opened the doors of his new store for business.

Something Human

By DR. FRANK CRANE

As we go up and down the ways of this busy age, the thing that makes us stop and wonder, the thing that is like the discovery of hidden treasure or a pearl of great price, is Something Human.

I have just seen two whopping human treasures. One is the writing about Mexico by Ibanez, a wonderful piece of journalism, of which I will speak later.

The other is a moving picture entitled "Humoresque," based on a story by Fannie Hurst.

The intense humanity of it is emphasized by the fact that it is all about people who live in a world entirely different from any I have known. Something human is all the more human when it is Japanese, or Hottentot, or Eskimo. Then it is brought home to you that these people, so different in their environment from yours, are after all, blood of the same blood and spirit of the same spirit.

The characters in this movie are taken from the Ghetto. They are all Jewish. In this story we are thrust into the midst of this little world as close and clannish as ever a little world was, and our hearts are melted within us at the realization of our common humanity.

The real star of the play is the Jewish mother, performed by Vera Gordon, who is not starred at all on the program, and of whom I have never heard. I have no hesitation in saying that it is the most remarkable and appealing characterization I have ever seen upon the screen.

She is the incarnation of what, after all, is the most interesting type in all the world—a mother. She is the most perfect representation of motherhood I have ever seen. All the strong currents of mother feeling, affection, fear, tenderness, apprehension, gloating, pride and joy stream from her face in an overwhelming tide.

While I have never had the acquaintance of any lady of the Ghetto, I had the feeling as if my own mother had enveloped in her personality.

The art of the thing is unconscious. Somehow the spectator feels that neither the writer of the play nor the director of the film production, nor the actors themselves really intended to do the smashing thing they have done. They were intent upon telling a story and making good pictures and developing the love scenes between the boy and the girl, and showing the trials of a struggling artist. But all these are by the way. It is the simple, naive, child-hearted Jewish mother that walks away with the whole performance.

For, after all, it is the mother who is the one universal figure. It is the mother who is the real League of Nations. It is in motherhood that there is neither Jew nor Gentile, Greek nor Barbarian, bond nor free.

There are all manners of tongues, customs, tastes and divergencies among human beings, but the one strong red cord that binds them forever together is motherhood.

And this is the truest, deepest business of the theater: to reveal to us our humanity, to show us strange types, and now, after all, they are not strange at all.

Here is the real hope of mankind; that underneath all our differences, our struggles for precedence, our race hates, our clashing selfishness, our clamant competitions, our wars and rumors of wars, our contests of classes, our angry disputes of labor and capital, our envy, superciliousness and provincialism—underneath all of these is the mother's lap, around all these are the mother's everlasting arms.

Most books are written, most plays are tinkered up. Once in a while a story is born, not made. "Humoresque" was born and don't forget that the greatest figure in it is the Jewish mamma.

LAWS HINGE ON CENSUS

Federal Reports Will Require Changes by Legislature, Says C. E. Adams.

Numerous changes in Minnesota laws relating to classification of counties on the basis of population will be required when official announcement is made of the 1920 Federal census of Minnesota and its various political subdivisions, State Senator Charles E. Adams of this city stated today.

Several laws applying only to St. Louis county at the present time will not be applicable to this county after the new census figures are officially promulgated in this state. The census figures will become effective for classification purposes immediately after the director of the Federal census files a copy of the official count with the governor and secretary of state.

Law Depends on Population.

Unofficially St. Louis county's census has been announced at 206,391, an increase of 43,117 over the 1910 figures. Certain legislation affecting only St. Louis county offices passed by the legislature in 1911 and prior to that time have been framed to cover all counties having a population of more than 150,000 and less than 200,000. If St. Louis county passes out of that classification the law will no longer apply.

In some cases the county may pass into the classification given a number of years ago to cover Ramsey county, but it is pointed out that these laws would not be adequate to meet present conditions, and would undoubtedly result in much confusion. At the present time certain laws, particularly affecting the offices of the county auditor, county treasurer and the sheriff would no longer apply to St. Louis county as the county will pass the 200,000 mark in classification. In view of the fact that there are no statutes covering counties having a population of less than 225,000 and more than 200,000 with respect to these offices, enabling legislation would be required from the legislature.

Another big question may be presented to the legislature with reference to the classification of cities by population. The supreme court has upheld the law which specifies that the classification of all cities shall be determined by the last state census instead of the last Federal census. This being the case the last state census, taken in 1905, controls.

Rating of Cities.

Under this classification, the city of Winona is the only city of the second class in the state. This is due to the fact that the state census of 1905 gave Winona a population of more than 10,000, although the Federal census of five years later placed it less than 20,000. The city of Virginia, which now has a population of 14,022, is still ranked as a city of the fourth class, because the 1905 state census figures which placed it below 10,000 still control.

An attempt will be made in the legislature to make the Federal census control instead of the state census, but this will probably be opposed by the Winona delegation because of the likelihood of that city losing its present classification and dropping back into the third class.

SMALL CHARGE FOR FOOD AT WORK FARM

Report for Six Months Shows Meals Served at 13 1-3 Cents Each.

Fred Ward, superintendent of the St. Louis county work farm, evidently has solved the problem of the high cost of living. In spite of prevalent high prices on all commodities in local stores, Mr. Ward is feeding prisoners at the workfarm for a consideration of 13½c per meal, according to a bill he has rendered the city for meals served during the six months ending Sept. 30.

According to men who have served sentences at the work farm, the food is wholesome and plentiful. Pie, they say, is included in the bill of fare daily. There is a good supply of vegetables on the table at each meal and they say that a similar dinner purchased in local restaurants would cost from 40 to 75c.

The city is charged with four meals served in March and its bill for that amounts to 53c. The total bill for the six months is $264.80. The bills for the other five months are April, $35.20; May, $58.27; June, $19.73; July, $63.07; August, $31.20 and September, $56.80.

SAYS CANAL WOULD BE MONEY WASTED

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 11.—A ship canal from the Great Lakes to Montreal will not be a success commercially and money spent upon it would be wasted so far as the United States is concerned, Lewis Nixon, former state public commissioner, informed the delegates at the eleventh annual convention of the New York State Waterways association here today.

DULUTH AN ORDERLY CITY; RANKS WITH BEST IN WEST

Mayor Hugo Offers Reports in Answer to Woman's Council.

Burglaries Not Common; Volstead Act Enforced Rigidly, He Says.

Burglaries and violations of the Volstead act are not common in Duluth and, in fact, there is less of this form of crime in Duluth than in any other city in the West, is the assertion of Mayor T. W. Hugo in his answer to the Womens Council's resolutions submitted to the city council last Monday in which the women say that "The Woman's council regards with conern the lax enforcement of law in our city." The communication was drafted yesterday and sent to Mrs. A. Jacques. The reply follows:

Answer of Mayor Hugo.

"Dear Madam: Your communication addressed to the mayor and city commissioners of this city has been duly received and has received the consideration of the entire council.

"The gist of that communication is that 'The Woman's Council regards with concern the lax enforcement of law in our city.' This charge has been thoroughly investigated by the entire city council, and after such an investigation, we find that there is no laxity in the enforcement of the law.

"As municipalities grow and develop, people flock thereto, the bad as well as the good, and infractions of the law increase with the increase of population. As population increases, crime increases. Crime cannot be wholly prevented. It is true of course, that the efficiency of the police department is not what it was five years ago. Wartime wages attracted some of the best men from the department, and wartime prices began to wear down the morale of those who remained. Good men left the department, and good men could not be obtained to take their places at the salaries offered. The rising costs forced the city to curtail expenditures, and the police force had to be reduced. The department at the present time consists of ninety-three persons, and is being added to as rapidly as available material for that purpose can be procured. But irrespective of these losses ,the police department of the city of Duluth is efficient and active. It is more efficient than the average department of cities of the size of Duluth in the United States of America, and it is active in the enforcement of the law.

"We desire to call your attention to the fact that the assessed valuation of the property within the city of Duluth, on Jan. 1, 1920, was $132,050,472. All of this property was under the protection of the police department of the city.

"You state as a fact that burglaries are common in the city of Duluth. Burglaries are not common. In this, as well as every city, there are bound to be burglaries from time to time. There are no more of this class of infractions of the law than might be expected in a city of this size and these offenses may become localized for particular reasons. In this connection, we desire to direct your attention to the three months of August, September and October. During the month of August, there were thirteen burglaries reported to the police department, involving a purported property loss of $4,380.35. Of the property reported, $1,590.50 was recovered by this department.

Burglaries Not Common.

"During the month of September, five burglaries were reported to the department totaling a purported property loss of $675. Of that amount $87 was recovered.

"During the month of October, twelve burglaries were reported to the department with a purported property loss of $1,478.50. Of this amount $450 was recovered.

"During the month of August there was a total loss of property reported from all sources, including burglary, theft, automobiles stolen, and property lost, in the sum of $16,350.81. Of this amount there was recovered $11,605.75, or a total of 70.97 per cent.

"During the month of September there was a total loss of property reported from all sources, including burglary, theft, automobiles stolen, and property lost, in the sum of $18,034.60. Of this amount there was recovered $13,153, or a total of 72 per cent.

"During the month of October, there was a total loss of property reported from all sources, including burglary, theft, automobiles stolen, and property lost, in the sum of $54,239.25. Of this amount there was recovered $37,607, or a total of 69.3 per cent.

"The foregoing, we believe, clearly demonstrates that burglary is not common in the city of Duluth. But it is a fact that whatever infractions of the law have taken place in that regard, have been greatly magnified as will readily be seen from the foregoing figures.

"Representatives of the Federal government, engaged in the enforcement of the Volstead act, say that the liquor laws are more rigidly enforced in Duluth, than in any other large city in the West. The police department of the city is constantly on the alert for violators of the prohibition act. There are no flagrant violations of that law within the city limits. There are violators of that law, bootleggers, so-called. But an examination of the police records of the city will demonstrate that they are constantly and persistently pursued by the authorities. Up to and including Oct. 30 of this year, there has been collected in fines in the municipal court of this city, the sum of $48,120.88. Most of this amount has been collected as fines from persons engaged in the illegal liquor traffic within the city of Duluth, to say nothing of the number of individuals that have received straight jail sentences for the same offense.

Liquor Laws Enforced.

"Between July 1 and Oct. 30, 1920, there were 101 persons arrested for violations of the liquor laws. As a result of these arrests, $3,316 was collected as fines, $3,900 collected from forfeited bails, fifteen persons committed to jail, thirteen discharged, five paroled, and ten cases pending.

"It may not be amiss to direct your attention to the activity of the police department from July 1 to Oct. 30. During that period of time the police made 1,317 arrests.

"We sincerely trust that the foregoing will demonstrate to you that there is no laxity in the enforcement of the law in our city."

COAL SUPPLY IS SETTLED

West Duluth and Street Car Shortage Overcome by Council.

Funel for West Duluth and for the street cars has been assured the city council by James A. Ferguson, of the Pittsburgh Coal company, and deliveries will begin at once. Some carloads of coal have been sent to the West Duluth dealers already and more will follow at once, according to City Commissioner P. G. Phillips, who started the agitation. While this section of the city has not been promised the same amount it was given last year, it has been assured that at least 360 tons will be delivered.

At an informal meeting of the city commissioners yesterday, Mr. Ferguson called at the city hall on other business and was called in to the conference and asked as to whether there was a possibility of coal being shipped to this section of the city. He replied that there was, but that as there is a shortage of coal this year he was in a position to guarantee only 60 per cent of the amount shipped to West Duluth last year, which was about 600 tons.

While at the conference he also remarked that he understood that Herbert Warren, manager of the Duluth Street Railway company had asserted that the lack of heat in the street cars was due to a shortage of coal and that the company would be unable to heat the cars before Dec. 1, for this reason. He assured the commissioners that his company would see that the street railway company was furnished sufficient coal to heat the cars until that time, he understanding that the company had sufficient coal on hand to carry it over the balance of the winter.

No Discrimination.

Mr. Ferguson declared his company had never refused to ship coal to West Duluth and as it was the same as any other section of the city, it would receive the same consideration in being supplied as the rest of the city.

It was announced by Mr. Phillips that two companies are shipping coal to West Duluth now and that if the shipments continued, this section of the city would have sufficient fuel to last the winter. What coal has so far been shipped has been apportioned by the different dealers and care is being exercised to see that there is no hoarding or over supply to any one individual.

Mr. Warren has announced that the street cars would be heated at once as fast as the fires could be started. As it takes all the way from one to two days to get them in commission, some of the cars will not have fires started before tomorrow, but within a day or two every car in service will be heated, he said.

CENTRAL STUDENTS PLAN ANNUAL AUCTION

A special chapel meeting was held at Central high school yesterday to formulate plans for the auction, which is held every year for the benefit of the poor. Wilbur Taylor, chairman of the auction, appealed to the student body to support the auction as it cannot be a success otherwise. He announced the date of the auction as Nov. 24. Principal Leonard Young told his experiences with auctions of the past. He said one of the greatest things accomplished by the auction was the engendering of school spirit. Katherine McDonald, girls' chairman, told of the girls' work in boosting the auction. All the class presidents gave short talks.

Miss Taylor, who is at the head of the auction committee, is doing a great deal of work to help make the auction a success. All the speakers thanked Miss Taylor for the work she is doing. A. F. M. Custance, auctioneer, was landed for the successful way in which he helps make the auctions a success.

FORECASTS BY WIRELESS

Professor at University Farm May Send Weather News Over State.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A radio station at University farm, from which may be sent daily weather forecasts and market reports all over the state, is projected by Prof. E. A. Stewart, now in charge of agricultural physics, division of engineering, Minnesota College of Agriculture. Prof. Stewart, who came to University farm only last September from the Kansas State Agricultural college, is a graduate of the Michigan state normal college and of the University of Chicago. While in Kansas, he was in charge of agricultural physics and radiotelegraphy and started a wireless weather forecast service which has been in operation in that state ever since the war. This is said to be the first service of the kind ever established.

Cost of Equipment.

A three-kilowatt set or outfit, which will be needed for a state-wide service from University farm, would cost, says Prof. Stewart, from $300 to $500. Sets for receiving messages only can be bought for $30 to $75. There is nothing prohibitive about the cost and Prof. Stewart believes it would be only a question of time until many hundreds of "Johns" would be "tuning in" morning and night to get the weather and markets "right off the bat."

Prof. Stewart is an enthusiast in the matter of the practical use of the wireless for the benefit of the farming people. If his dreams ever come true, University farm will yet be the seat of the weather bureau service over all Minnesota. Short courses will be offered here for the training of boys and young men for the business of receiving messages and setting up and operating radio outfits. A wireless receiving set may of itself be used as a reliable indicator of weather conditions. Market reports brought up to the minute would save the farmer thousands of dollars. Warning of a winter storm of great severity gives the farmers and stock men ample time to house their cattle and sheep and make everything snug and tight for the impending blast.

MANY TO EXHIBIT AT BADGER TUBER SHOW

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 11.—More than twenty-five counties have signified their intention of exhibiting at the Wisconsin potato show, which will be held at the Auditorium here Nov. 30 to Dec. 4, according to J. G. Milward of the agricultural department of the University of Wisconsin, who is here completing arrangements for the show. He says that in his visits to the various district potato shows he has found much interest in the fact that special recognition is to be given during the convention to Wisconsin growers who have been notably instrumental in advancing the industry and improving the product.

Nothing definite is being given out as to who will receive these honors, but the Marinette County Potato Growers' association, in the development of the Triumph variety; the Oneida Potato Growers' association, in the development of the Green Mountain variety; the Waupaca County Potato Growers' association, in the development of the Rural New Yorker; the Mikana Potato Growers' association, for its work in Barron county; a Danish sailor and his family at Seeley and J. W. Smith, for their work in developing the Triumph stock, are among those mentioned for special honors.

NORTHWEST CONTRACTORS' CONVENTION HERE IN MARCH

The convention committee of the Commercial club received word that the executive committee of the Northwestern Association of General Contractors have selected Duluth for its annual convention to be held March, 1921. The convention committee has been trying to obtain this organization for sometime and a representative attended its last convention and extended a verbal invitation to the membership to meet in Duluth.

This is the largest and most representative gathering of contractors in the West, and will include building, railroad, road, sewer and special contractors. W. O. Winston of Winston Brothers, Minneapolis, is the president and H. H. Weston of St. Paul is secretary. Local committees from Duluth and the range have been called to a meeting next Tuesday to plan the preliminary arrangements for this convention. J. R. Stack of the Stack Construction company, Duluth, one of the directors will have charge of this local meeting.

The attendance will be about 500 and the sessions will last about three days. As this association is affiliated with the Associated General Contractors of America many of their members and officers will attend the Duluth sessions.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE IS GIVEN $200,000

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 10.—Lawrence college trustees have accepted the offer of the general educational board to donate $200,000 to the college if the trustees will raise an additional $100,000. The money will be used to care for a deficit incurred the last two years and to pay larger salaries to instructors.

WOULD CONNECT SALE WITH BOND DRIVE

New York, Nov. 11.—By Associated Press.)—Questioning of bank employes by government counsel in an effort to connect the alleged German purchase of the Evening Mail with a German bond drive before America's entrance into the war, was a feature yesterday of the trial of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, former publisher of the newspaper, who is charged with making false statements regarding its ownership to the alien property custodian in 1917.

Testimony in this connection, admitted by the court after objections by the defense, led to the examination of witnesses in regard to the financial transactions made here in 1915 and 1916 by Heinrich F. Albrecht, Germany's financial agent.

The prosecution announced it would attempt to prove that the alleged transactions were carried on between the defendants and the German agent through a man employed for the purpose, and that Dr. Rumely received funds from the German agent without actually taking part in the negotiations.

T. Raymond St. John, a member of the law firm of Hays, Kaufman & Lindheim, testified that George Renner, an employe in the German agent's office brought sums aggregating $250,000 to his office, which he in turn handed over to Walter Lyon, the alleged "go-between."

Kaufman and Lindheim are co-defendants in the trial with Dr. Rumely.

What Dual Valves Do In Pierce-Arrow Trucks

THE Dual Valve principle is the greatest advance in trucks since the Worm Gear was introduced in 1910 by Pierce-Arrow. It means a surpassing performance—vast power and surprising economies.

They Save Road Time

More power and more speed mean avoiding road delays, doing more work, making more trips. The pulling power is equal to any demand. Hills and rough going have no terrors.

They Save Operating Costs

Increased valve area means a fuller, purer gas mixture. Fired by two sparks, all of the charge is converted into power. This means a big saving in gasoline—more miles per gallon.

They Save Shop Time

Sturdiness keeps Pierce-Arrow out of the shop. The ready accessibility of its parts permits repairs to be made when necessary, in the least time and saves big labor charges.

THREE TRUCK SIZES:

2-ton, 3½-ton and 5-ton—and a tractor—all electric lighted, worm driven, and equipped with Dual Valve engines.

SUNSET HOMES FOR THE AGED

Agent Appointed by Governor Sets Forth Plans for Statewide System.

Provisions for caring for aged people under state supervision in "Sunset Homes for the Aged," similar in many ways to the one under construction in Duluth by the Aftenro society, is meeting with favor throughout the state, according to Rev. E. C. Teachout of Winnebago, chairman of a commission for the aged, appointed recently by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist. Mr. Teachout is in Duluth today looking over the local situation.

Mr. Teachout said that there were 64,000 people in Minnesota over the age of 70 years, of whom about 2,000 were being cared for in poorhouses and in old people's homes. He said that many worthy aged people are not being cared for by anybody and are now living in conditions that are a menace and a disgrace. Many of these, he said, are living in homes where they are unhappy, in the noise and confusion of child life, and where the aged are a burden and are neglected.

Special Care for Aged.

"Old people require quiet and care that can in many, if not in most cases, be supplied better in homes for the aged than in private homes," said Mr. Teachout. "No adequate plan has so far been provided to supply this need. The need is widely recognized and many worthy aged people would welcome some provision for their comfort and care during their declining years. A bill to provide such homes will be presented to the state legislature in the near future, which, if adopted, will place the burden of responsibility and care of these worthy aged people, who have supported the state during their working years, on the state."

The proposed bill has been drawn by the commission appointed by the governor. Members of the commission are now visiting various parts of the state in order to get the sentiment of the public on the various points in the bill. A synopsis of the bill follows:

"A proposal to the Minnesota legislature to authorize 'Sunset Homes' for the care of aged citizens of the state.

"By joint action of county boards and the state board of control, when the county or counties vote therefor.

"Tax for construction not to exceed 1 mill on the dollar, except by vote of the county or counties.

"Homes to be under control of county sunset homes commission, composed of chairman of county board, county attorney, probate judge and four others (at least two women) under general rules of the state board of control.

Counties May Co-operate.

"Counties may unite to build sunset homes.

"Counties and state to each pay half of cost of maintenance.

"All persons over 70 years of age to be admitted, and those over 65, if unable to maintain themselves, if resident of state ten years and of county one year, and have been of reputable character, and have paid their required payments, amounting to $750, at time of entrance.

"Such payments insuring care during life, additional payments of actual costs are required of those having sufficient means.

"Insane, feeble-minded and venereal-diseased persons not admitted.

"No county, township, city or village funds to be paid for maintenance of any paupers in any sunset home.

"Dues for care to be paid to county treasurer, and returnable to the individual or his estate, if not used.

"Husband and wife to be admitted together.

"The purpose being to provide comfortable care under guarantee of the state, for the self-respecting aged who wish to assure care for themselves, if needed, in their last years."

HIGH SCHOOL CLUB ORGANIZES AT "Y"

The Central high school boys' club organized last night with sixty members present. President Lindsley Edson presided and short talks were made by Dr. Kent, Leonard Young, Harvey Hoshour and John Carson.

The club will meet every Wednesday and at the next meeting the president will appoint entertainment, membership and service committees. Plans will be made to make this year's club the most aggressive of the fifteen years that the organization has been operating. The club will be limited to 100 members and the membership committee will try to fill that quota within the next week. While the active membership will be limited, it is planned that from time to time there will be open meetings to which all the upper classmen will be invited.

The club stands for clean sport, clean speech and clean living, and the promoting of these ideals throughout the city. Prominent men will be asked to address the club every month.

The motion picture entertainment that was planned for tonight has been postponed to Friday, the regular entertainment night of the club. All members are invited. The picture is "The Jackknife Man," of six reels, and will occupy one hour and a half. Parents and members are invited.

Saturday at 2 o'clock President William Watson of the outing committee has called a meeting of boys interested in outdoor activities. He has some unique plans, including a 500-mile hikers' club to terminate with a hike to St. Paul, at which time the hikers will carry a message to the major of St. Paul and also call on the governor after the trip.

PROBING DEATH OF WOMAN AT BARWICK

Fort Frances, Ont., Nov. 11.—A coroner's inquest is to be held at Barwick, a station on the Canadian National Railway to ascertain whether Miss Kate Mathews, 40, was killed there by a freight train as claimed or was murdered. A strange feature of the case was the action of a man giving the name of J. W. Dixon who, while waiting at the Barwick station for a passenger train, told the depot agent he had seen the freight train strike the woman at the crossing throwing the body a few hundred feet. After giving this information, the man disappeared. The woman's body was found where he indicated, and the coroner is said to have declared no evidence of its being struck were found.

When, upon their arrival here, members of the freight train crew were informed of the manner in which Miss Mathews was thought to have been killed, they disclaimed all knowledge of her death. They were not held pending a coroner's inquest over the body of the victim. Dixon is being sought.

IRISH THREATEN REPRISALS IN U. S.

Washington, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The British embassy announced yesterday it had taken steps to call the attention of the state department to a message recently received by the British chief secretary for Ireland, dated New York, and threatening reprisals against residents in the United States "if there are any more reprisals in Ireland on and after the fourteenth day of November."

The New York message was sent in the name of the Amalgamated Irish Societies of America and bore the signature, "J. V. O'Connor, president."

At the state department it was said nothing had been received from the embassy in relation to the message. No comment as to the course the Washington government might pursue was available.

The New York message, as made public by the embassy, read:

"We hereby inform and warn you that if there are any more reprisals in Ireland on and after the fourteenth day of November, 1920, the men of Irish blood in this country and their sympathizers will immediately begin reprisals of Englishmen here who are not citizens of the United States. For every man, woman or child who is murdered after the above date by the cowardly English soldiers and police three Englishmen in this country will pay the penalty.

ABOUT the nicest fur to use when economy is a pressing consideration is Australian opossum. It is soft and becoming in color, always in good style, and compares favorably in wearing qualities with beaver or squirrel. For the young girl's coat or suit, opossum is an old favorite, combining effectively with the different shades of blue, including navy, and dark green, the popular colors in misses' outer apparel.

How attractively this friendly fur may be used by Miss Sixteen-to-Twenty is illustrated in one of the downtown shop windows. This trim-looking suit is made in Copenhagen blue veldyne, that newest of materials with a deep soft pile. The coat is snugly fitted, with a belt cut as part of the front, and the gathered peplum is an agreeable feature for the youthful figure.

Though comfortably wide for walking the skirt retains the narrow silhouette, and a mouse gray duvetyn beret with silken tassel to match completes the jaunty outfit.

With the publishing of an interesting biography of the late Rev. Frank Higgins, the lumberjack's "Sky Pilot," from the pen of Rev. T. D. Whittles, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Duluth, Duluth has added another name to its already numerous roll of literary people. It is interesting also to note that his own book will be used by Mr. Whittles as the text for the Mission Study institute, to be conducted Nov. 15 to 18 at the Y. W. C. A., given under the auspices of the Duluth Presbyterial society.

WORK OF LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS GROWS

Announcement by Marguerite Milton Wells, State President.

Election is over. The time has come for the League of Women Voters to begin its big constructive winter program. It is two-fold. Education in preparation for the spring municipal elections and work for progressive social legislation at this winter's legislative session. Both these tasks belong peculiarly to a nonpartisan organization like the League of Women Voters. Having nothing to do with national issues, they should not be done by party organizations. Party politics have been reformed out of local government after a long struggle. They must not be allowed to creep back. All good citizens should interest themselves in local affairs and women have an especial interest in them and a particular aptitude for them. The new voters need first to study, however, both theory and practice. Under the League of Women Voters study classes will be formed in every town in the state as fast as local women are found to co-operate.

Next in importance to local government, is state legislation. It happens to be the year of a legislative session and haste in making ready for work is therefore necessary. The Minnesota legislature is elected on a nonpartisan basis. National parties do not function in state legislation. Demands for legislation good or bad comes straight from the citizens of the state and women are chiefly interested in good legislation along social lines—in child welfare, in the protection of women in industry, in better school laws.

A committee composed of representatives from other women's organizations in the state is busy formulating such a program and League of Women Voters women all over the state are preparing themselves to get behind it, to stir up public opinion for it, to interview members of the legislature in its behalf.

This is the call that is going out from headquarters today to league officers: Has any one suggested to you that the League of Women Voters is a temporary organization and asked you when its work would be finished? Answer that the object of the League of Women Voters is to make the people fit to govern, and that when the people really are fit to govern, when our democracy has been made a success, then, and not until then, will the work of the league be over. Your first task is to prepare for the coming local elections. Study what kind of government you want and how to obtain it. The League of Women Voters offers you your opportunity for such study. It will help you carry education for good government into every part of your county. Organize, study, teach, carry on.

Win Prizes in Poster Contest

To encourage art in the public schools, Mrs. George S. Richards has given prizes in money and season tickets for the "All-Star Concert course in poster" contest, which will be held each season. Many will be interested to view the display of the prize poster in the window at the Spalding hotel, near the corner of Fifth avenue and Superior street.

The first prize was won by Florence Gray, Denfeld senior high school. This is a poster of the Tetrazzini concert.

The second prize went to Temple Carter, Denfeld junior high school, a bright, attractive poster of the Kubelik concert of Dec. 7.

The third prize was assigned to Irma Christenson, Denfeld senior high school.

Honorable mention was given to the posters of Albin Kuschner, Denfeld junior high school, and Hert Mehling, Denfeld junior high school, while other attractive posters worthy of notice are those displayed by Gretchen Wahl, Morgan Park school; Alice Olson, Edna Johnson, Rose Davis, Cecil Moore, Mildred Isaacson and Grace McNamara, all of the Lincoln junior high school; Edith Shrodeen, Theodore Hillengass, Florence Gray, Dagmer Wick and Seroney McComber of the Denfeld junior high school and Edna Hendrickson, Irving school.

AT THE THEATERS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Frank Dobson and His Thirteen Sirens; other acts.

NEW GRAND—Donald's Serenaders; other features.

ORPHEUM—The sirens of old according to mythologists were nymphs of the sea, who by their entrancing music lured sailors to destruction. "The Sirens," the musical tabloid in which C. B. Maddock is presenting Frank Dobson, does something of the same thing. By its general attractiveness, the piece lures its spectators, but by no means to destruction. It merely cajoles them into a vein of contentment caused by good entertainment. Frank Dobson is a light comedian, who is funny without being forced. His methods are clean cut, and unctuous, and he sings and dances more than creditably.

In "The Sirens" there is just enough plot to hold the thing together. The important part is its singing, dancing and comedy, and of course, its production. The scenery and costumes are really excellent. The sirens, who compose the ensemble, have been selected by a beauty expert.

NEW GRAND—Special features have been provided for today at the New Grand with the new show for the last half of the week, due to the fact that this is Armistice day. All Gold Star mothers are to be admitted absolutely without charge, merely upon application to the door man, the right of free entry extending to their escort, should they have one, and many of the acts will help provide the proper atmosphere for the occasion.

Donald's Serenaders, the featured offering, is heralded as one of the most pleasing singing and instrumental acts of the year, every member of the company possessing musical talent to an unusual degree. Donald Lindley, cornetist, who is starred, is ranked among the best players of that instrument now on the vaudeville stage.

"The Wise Crackin' Couple" might mean almost anything, and Gayle Wyer and Sam Evens, who so designate themselves, announce that they will demonstrate it means "almost everything" in the fun line.

La Coste and Bonawe will be seen in a one-act playlet of domesticity entitled "The Tamer," which is said to be bulging with comedy lines and situations.

Jean Germaine wears some wonderful evening gowns but it is not as a model but as a singer that she has gained popularity.

The Jupiter Trio comes almost direct from foreign shores. Work on the rings and the triple bars is their forte.

The photoplay program is a double-headline affair with Hank Mann in a new comedy, "The Nickel Chaser," and "A Fanatic's Revenge," one of the "Hidden Dangers" stories, occupying the featured places. "The Sunset Trail," a Bruce scenic, and the Grand News Weekly, are also on the bill.

MANY DULUTHIANS SEE FISKE O'HARA PLAY AT THE PLAZA

Many Duluthians traveled across the bay last night to see Fiske O'Hara, the Irish tenor, and his company in "Springtime in Mayo" when it opened a two-day engagement at the Plaza in Superior. The theater did almost capacity business and the company was well received.

"Springtime in Mayo" is a typical Fiske O'Hara production—Irish romance, wit, blarney and song. It is not necessary to go into the plot or to measure it according to dramatic standards. People like to hear Fiske O'Hara sing, see him make love according to his own ideas and welcome the old friends in his company who come year after year with their good fellowship and smiles. If the big Irish singer and comedian tried to be anything but Fiske O'Hara, his old friends would be disappointed, and when an artist can hold the same audiences year after year he must have something worth while.

For these reasons we simply join in giving him a hearty welcome and giving him credit for doing something distinctly his own. Mr. O'Hara has several new songs with the ripple and lilt so characteristic of his former work, and they all reflect the colorful, romantic atmosphere of the Emerald Isle. His most pleasing song numbers are "Top o' th' Mornin'," "Springtime in Mayo" and "A Bit o' th' Brogue." Responding to vociferous applause, Mr. O'Hara gave a little curtain speech and sang two simple Irish ballads effectively. These were "The Lilac Tree" and "Don't You Love to Dream of Dear Old Ireland?"

Everybody was glad to see Patricia Clary back as Mr. O'Hara's leading woman. She is just as charming and pretty as ever and has a part well suited to her gifts.

The play is well staged and the costuming is attractive. The orchestra did its part well and a violin solo and a piano solo were rendered as special features between acts.

Mr. O'Hara will appear again tonight and another large audience is expected.

TETRAZZINI AT ARMORY NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

Luisa Tetrazzini, the queen of song; Queen Elena, consort of the reigning monarch of Italy, and his mother, the Dowager Queen Margarita, are the only three sovereigns that are entitled to wear the Italian Red Cross medal of the first class. The duchess of d'Aosta, who is a relative of the royal family of Italy, is the only other to whom the Italian government has accorded the unusual honor. The rare medal was presented to Mme. Tetrazzini for her patriotic war work.

When the romantic city of Venice was being bombarded by the long-range guns of the Austrians and the citizens were much depressed, Mme. Tetrazzini was guided by night through the canals in a gondola and sang patriotic and martial songs to arouse the morale of the Venetians.

THOUGHTS.

DID you ever stop to think about the queerness, the wonderfulness the illimitability and the endless multiplicity of your own thoughts? That's a funny idea, isn't it—thinking about your own thoughts?

But never mind if it is funny, try it some time. When you've been sitting in a trolley car thinking about one thing and another, stop the flow of idle thought for a moment, and look back over it and rehearse what you have been thinking of for the last few minutes.

I feel pretty sure you will be astonished at the number of things your mind has touched on in those few minutes.

And not only the number, but the variety. It has probably leaped a dozen times from one subject to another which would appear absolutely irrelevant to one who did not know the subterranean connection which exists between the two for you.

We Think a Bookful a Day.

Suppose a very rapid court stenographer could listen in on your thoughts for a single day and make a record of them, just think of the number of subjects that record would cover and the great length of it! I am sure the record of an average person's thoughts for a day would be at least as long as an ordinary book, probably much longer. Just think, that means you think a book every day!

Perhaps you would not want to have the stenographer listen in. I don't blame you at all. I know I wouldn't. There are many times when I wouldn't want to share my thoughts with anyone in all the world. And yet I doubt if I'm more than average wicked. I used to think perhaps I was. But as I have grown older, I have heard and read so many times an admission of the same state of mind by other people that I have come to feel that almost all average men and women have some thoughts that come from the part of them that they try to keep under.

Could You Keep Them From Thinking of a Million Dollars?

That brings me to another angle on the subject of our thoughts—the great matter of thought-control. No one in the world can entirely control his thoughts. A story that excellently illustrates this was a fanciful piece of fiction of which the plot was that a man had been offered a million dollars if he would not think of a million dollars for a week. Hard as it would be to make a million in the ordinary way (whatever that may be) I suspect it would be even harder to make it that way. And yet one's thoughts need not be as utterly uncontrollable as many of us let them be. One may not be able to prevent the thought of a million dollars coming into one's mind, but one can drive it right out again if one will teach oneself to do so.

Can You Think Steadily of One Thing?

And one can learn to think steadily of one thing when there is any reason to. The men and women who achieve big things in any walk of life always have this ability to think steadily of one thing—in other words, to concentrate.

And one can get rid of, or at least fight, foolish thought habits, such as the habit of holding arguments in one's mind with various people, or going back over past decisions, or fretting over decisions which cannot yet be made.

We are all the rulers of our own kingdoms, the kingdom of our minds. And it is just as true today as it was in Milton's that the "mind is its own place and in itself can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven."

REQUESTED RECIPES.

Bride-to-be: "Please give a recipe for bride's cake with ornamental icing."

Answer: Bride's Cake—One-half cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup milk, 2½ cups flour, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon almond extract, 6 egg-whites. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually. Mix and sift the flour, baking powder and cream of tartar and add these alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Now add the almond extract and the stiffly-beaten egg-whites. Put in a buttered round and deep pan, a gold ring, a thimble and a dime in the the cake, and bake forty-five to fifty minutes. Cover with ordinary plain white (boiled) frosting, then ornament with the following:

Ornamental Icing—Four egg-whites, 4 cups confectioners' sugar, 1-3 teaspoon cream of tartar. Beat the egg-whites with ½ cup of the sugar for 3 minutes steadily; then add the sugar gradually, beating between additions ½ cup at a time, till it is half used up. Now mix the cream of tartar with the sugar that is left and, still beating vigerously, gradually add the rest. When a knife makes a "clean cut" in the frosting it is ready to use. (It is possible that a little of the sugar may be left over.)

Mrs. F.: "Please send me a recipe for beet pickle."

Answer: Beet Pickle—Six medium-sized beets, 1 quart vinegar, ½ teaspoon black pepper, ½ teaspoon allspice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 small horseradish grated. Wash beets, put them in boiling water and cook until the skins loosen, then remove skins and cut them into ½-inch slices and place them in glass jars which have been sterilized. Pour over them the following vinegar mixture: Boil the quart of vinegar with the pepper, salt, allspice and grated horseradish for four minutes, then let it cool; when cold pour it over the beets and seal the jars.

Alice L.—"Please tell me if there is a way to can peppers in brine, without cooking them, so that I can use them baked and stuffed, or in salads later on? Also give recipe for candied citron to use in cake."

Answer: Brining Peppers—Remove stems and seeds from fresh peppers—either red or green peppers. Wash and pack in a jar with the blossom end down. Cover with a brine made by adding two pounds of salt to a gallon of water. Put a paraffine cork on the top to weight the peppers down. Grease rubber rings with vaseline to keep the salt from oozing out, and seal. These must be kept from 8 to 10 months, freshened by soaking in cold water, and served as stuffed baked peppers, in relishes, or in salads.

Candied Citron—Cut citron melon into quarters, pare and remove seeds, then cut into small pieces. Drop these into a sirup (1 cup sugar to ½ cup water) boiled until it spins a thread—just as boiled cake icing does. Cook the citron in this sirup until transparent, then drain and dry it in a slow oven. Finish drying on top of range, off the very hot part.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES

By CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

THE STORY OF THE FOREST TERROR.

MR. WOLF with his shaggy tail tucked tight between his legs, was so frightened that he knew not what to do. When he saw Lady Duck with her wings outstretched and her head bent down, he thought it was a great spirit from another land that came to do him harm. "Oh, save me, I'll never, never do such a thing again," he begged.

Lady Duck thought it was time for her to speak and she did: "Tell me what you have done or I'll gobble you up in a hurry. I was sent to see you and now you must tell me all for you cannot move a step."

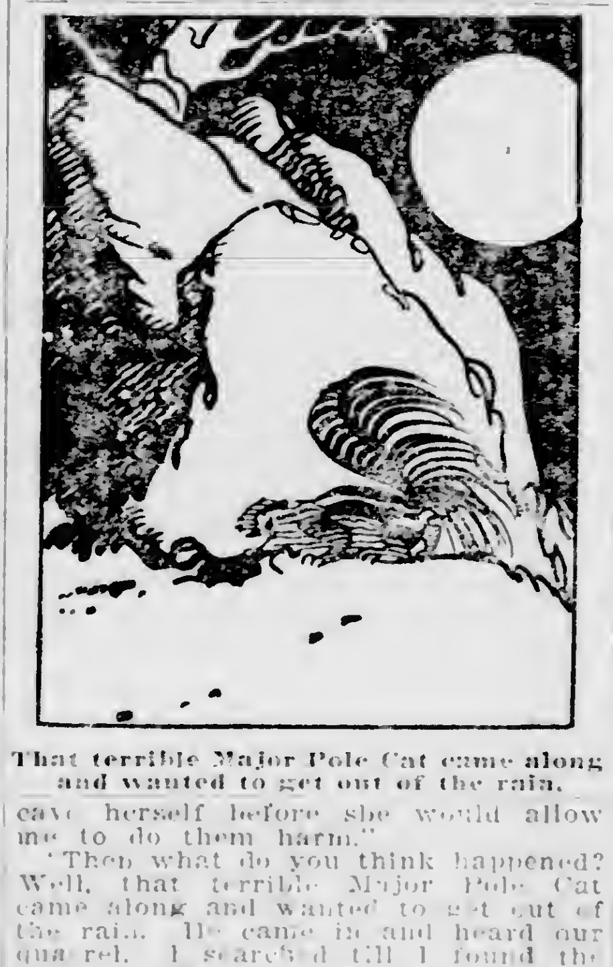
She told Mr. Wolf the truth, for he could not move a step—he was so frightened. And she was sent, for Tinker Bob was waiting for her in the edge of the Forest. He was the one who sent her. "Oh, I did it, I did it, I drove her away, and now I am sad and alone."

"Who did you drive away?" asked Lady Duck. "Now tell me the truth."

"Oh, Great Spirit, I will tell you the truth. It was on a dark and rainy night when we were in the door of the great cave where we have lived since the day we first met. I had been out on a trip through the Forest in search for food. I came back cold and wet and without one thing to eat. But while I was gone two Rabbits came along, and she was watching at the door of the cave. They were lost in the dark and it was raining hard. She spoke to the Rabbits and told them they could come into the cave and stay till morning. I smelled them the moment I came into the cave. I asked my mate where they were hiding for I was very hungry. She told me they were lost in the night and she had promised to protect them till morning when they could go on their way. I told her to show me the Rabbits for I was hungry and that's what Rabbits are for. But she would not show me the Rabbits when I was hungry."

"Then what did you do?" asked Lady Duck anxiously.

"Oh, Great Spirit, I went to find them for myself. But she said she would not allow me to do them harm. Then I became angry and I told her I would eat them bones and all if I could find them. She told me, O, Great Spirit, that she would be driven out of the cave herself before she would allow me to do them harm."



That terrible Major Pole Cat came along and wanted to get out of the rain.

"Then what do you think happened? Well, that terrible Major Pole Cat came along and wanted to get out of the rain. He came in and heard our quarrel. I searched till I found the Rabbits. Then she warned me again, but I pushed her aside. I was about to grab the trembling Rabbits when Major filled my eyes with his poison liquid. It was all over. I could not see nor smell, and when morning came they were all gone, and I haven't seen her since."

NEW GARRICK—Clara Kimball Young in "For the Soul of Rafael."
ZELDA—William Russell in "The Man Who Dared."
STRAND—"Humoresque" with Alma Rubens.
NEW LYRIC—Elaine Hammerstein in "The Daughter Pays."

NEW GARRICK—Imagine, if you can, the wondrous days of romance, chivalry and dashing adventure as were seen when the greater part of California was a vast wilderness and the few settled spots were peopled by the Spanish. In this land of the Great Golden West and of present-day orange blossoms and sunshine was filmed Marah Ellis Ryan's beautiful love story, "For the Soul of Rafael." Clara Kimball Young, she of "the most beautiful eyes in the world," comes to the New Garrick screen today in this fascinating exposition of youth, beauty, adventure and love.

ZELDA—With the towering California Redwoods as a background, William Russell provides beauty for the eye and thrills for the heart in "The Man Who Dared," a new William Fox drama written by Julius G. Furthman, which opened last night at the Zelda theater. The story is that of Big Jim O'Kane, a lumberjack boss who falls in love with the girl upon whom the sheriff has set his heart. The sheriff is a powerful figure, but before the play is over he finds that it is very unhealthy to be at war with Big Jim O'Kane.

NEW LYRIC—Elaine Hammerstein is adding scores of admirers by her work in "The Daughter Pays," the tensely dramatic story of present-day life in which she opened a three-day engagement at the New Lyric yesterday. And Bobby Vernon, who as the star of "Going Through the Rye," a brand new Christie comedy special, shares the limelight honors on the program, is not lagging behind in that regard. "The Daughter Pays" is the story of a young girl of a family none too well endowed with this world's goods, who is all but crushed between the "upper ten" and the "submerged tenth" in the family's struggle to keep above the world's waves. The romance is a pretty one and appealing. Gustave Jackson will play the "Gypsy Love Song" as a violin solo.

STRAND—Nothing we could tell you in cold print about "Humoresque" will do the picture justice. It is one of those productions that you have to see in order to appreciate. Once you have seen it, you will agree with thousands that it is one of the really great productions of all times. Fannie Hurst wrote the story. As handled by Frank Borsage, who is responsible for its direction, it has lost none of its original beauty. Duluthians are taking advantage of the second week of this engagement by attending the matinees to avoid the night crowds.

VIOLENCE RESUMED IN MINGO COUNTY

Williamson, W. Va., Nov. 11.—The Norfolk & Western railroad trestle over Grapevine creek at Thacker, near here, and the drumhouse of the Matta May Coal company at Ajax, a few miles from Williamson, were blown up early this morning. State police with bloodhounds have been sent to the scene of the explosion.

The explosions occurred in the heart of the coal strike zone in Mingo county and mark a renewal of violence in the district. Federal troops were removed from the fields recently.

Polk County Institute.

Crookston, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A record of attendance of Polk county teachers was noted yesterday at the opening of the three-day teachers' institute at the Polk county courthouse. A total of 200 teachers is expected to attend the daily sessions. The first program of the institute was under the direction of Miss Cora Osborn of the Moorhead normal school, who lectured on "Written Languages." She was followed by Miss Margaret Bieri, also of the Moorhead school, who spoke on "Arithmetic." These two women have charge of the institute and will give two lectures daily on school subjects pertaining to English work and arthmetic. The 200 teachers in attendance at the institute will be entertained this evening at a social affair at the Crookston Association of Public Affairs.

To Look Young Quickly For Special Occasion

How often have you fussed and puttered with your face on the eve of some important social event when you wanted to look your prettiest, and try what you would you just couldn't get the desired result! Next time your face becomes unruly, exhibiting a careworn and saggy appearance, and crisscrossed with fine lines, here's something that will quickly transform it into one of youthful freshness.

Just get an ounce of powdered saxolite at your druggist's, mix this with about a half pint of witch hazel, and bathe your face in the solution for two or three minutes. Immediately after you feel a "firming up" of the skin and underlying tissue, which naturally irons out the little wrinkles, worry marks and flabbiness. The contour and general appearance of your face are so improved, you will be glad you heard of this simple and harmless method.—Advertisement.

GILBERT'S EXPANDING PROSPERITY

A ST. LOUIS COUNTY METROPOLITAN VILLAGE—IRON ORE MINES AND DEPOSITS—FERTILE FARM LAND ZONES—BUSINESS, MARKETING AND EDUCATIONAL CENTER OF A RAPIDLY DEVELOPING TERRITORY.

SCHEDULE OF SUCCESS.

By John A. Monger.

THE more one delves into the natural resources of this portion of the Mesaba range, the more amazing seems the glorious future in store for it. Located in the midst of one of the world's great iron ore deposits, fertile farm lands, so pregnant in plant life for all kinds of crops, small grain, wheat, oats and barley; small fruits; root crops, potatoes, cabbage, carrots, beets and rutabagas, while clover and timothy are the weeds of the soil. The most ideal farming section in Northern Minnesota. Fertile agricultural lands that have heretofore been classed as mineral lands, now on the market for agricultural development, to the south and east of Gilbert. Every acre of this land will soon be under cultivation, in truth, the whole outlaying country is dotted with farms ranging from 40 to 160 acres each. The land under cultivation on these farms runs from 10 to 40 acres, with good farm houses, barns, garages, hog, chicken, tool and machinery houses, where but a few years ago was a barren waste. The farm home program has already greatly stimulated Gilbert's growth and prosperity and will eventually make it a city of three times its present population.

The early pioneers of St. Louis county first exploited its wonderful wealth, the pine tree forests and later the fabulous iron ore deposits. Both of these opened up the territory to railroad building, for passenger and freight hauls, thus creating villages and cities which now rank among those of the older sections of Minnesota, both as to population and wealth, while in municipal up-to-dateness these villages and cities are the peer of many, their schools, churches and good roads taking the lead where other cities and towns lag behind.

The zenith is all but reached in village and city building on the Mesaba range.

The one interest, iron ore, that created them has reached the top level. There is plenty of ore in sight to keep up the present output for the next fifty years to come, to say nothing of the known drilled ore deposits that have not been developed into shipping mines. The apex has nevertheless been reached as to the mining population and the output of the mines. This being true why stand idly by and let the greater natural resources, soil and climate, go undeveloped? There is but one crop to be harvested from an iron mine, where from the cultivation of the soil there is a never ending annual harvest of dollars, from the deep, rich, level areas of this sandy and clay loam soil, so lavishly endowed by nature and fertilized by autumnal crops of vegetation during the past centuries. An everlasting soil for all kinds of plant life suitable to the Western hemisphere in diversified farming, dairying and stockraising. A section of clover land where the average yield in clover and timothy hay is two to two and a half tons to the acre, containing 17 per cent more nutrition than the timothy and clover hay grown in the states of the Middle West. Yet this is one of the most sparsely settled sections of Minnesota agriculturally, nevertheless offering the best and cheapest agricultural lands, soil and climate considered, in the Northwest.

The pressing need of today is the capitalization of these lands by putting them under cultivation. It is the most inviting avenue open to future growth and prosperity. The development of these farm zones would double the annual wealth of Gilbert and the whole Mesaba range, stabilize its resources and population. It would then not make so much difference whether all the mines were on the active shipping list or shutdown. The farming communities would support the trading centers, in fact double the present volume of business, sustained only by the mining of iron ore. Then again, the unbalanced growth of the urban as against the inter-urban population must be checked and the way to accomplish this is to encourage farm land settlement, by organized all-year-round propaganda.

The true foundation of our social and economic structure rests on the farm. The soil is the source of virgin wealth. No community can really prosper without farm development to supply food production to feed the urban dwellers and population of the mining locations.

With the tributary farm lands to the south and east of Gilbert under cultivation, no tradesman would be insecure, but reassured of his business future. The development of these lands into farms will bring new prosperity, and dispel the uncertainty which now exists, mining being the backbone as to resource; the money paid in wages and received from taxation financing the villages and cities of the Mesaba range. To remedy this evil there is but one open road—farm home building, and the making of such metropolitan villages as Gilbert, the trading and marketing center of this rich soil area. Capitalize the good auto-wagon highways, steam and electric railways; build creameries to encourage dairying, the great mortgage lifter, potato warehouses to take care of the crops and encourage larger acreage. There is a fortune in potatoes to the grower at $1 to $2 per bushel, as the average yield is 200 bushels per acre with reasonable cultivation and growing season. Encourage the farmers to grow their own stock feed, oats and barley, grinding it into feed in their own mills. This will make the tillers of the soil in a few years not only well to do, but well off.

This is what we mean by the "Schedule of Success." The young and middle-aged men who dream of success and feel somewhat bitter because their dreams will not come true have only themselves to blame as they have failed to capitalize their opportunities. There is no easy road to success. Success in farming as in the other pursuits of life means long hours of labor, tired eyes and ache of muscles, patience and unflagging zeal, a determination that never wavers. Yet today there are none of the old pioneer hardships as experienced in the farm settlement of Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska or that of the Candian Northwest. Every two to five miles there is a trading center, postoffice and telephone exchange, good auto-wagon highways, steam and electric passenger and freight service, the best of schools, with free auto transportation for the children in the Gilbert farm land zone. The farm lands of this district with all these modern advantages are priced at only $10 to $25 per acre, on long time easy payments. It is simply a passing opportunity that will last only until the farmers of the Middle West and the Pacific Northwest get wise to the situation.

The goal of Gilbert's growth will be reached through the development of the non-mineralized zones into farming, dairying and stockraising settlements. This will settle the question for all time, whether Gilbert is to stand still, or go forward. The key to the situation is the farm settlement. If these raw lands are put under cultivation, Gilbert will be a bigger and more prosperous village than the most optimistic citizen realizes.

The widespread natural resources of the Gilbert area are being more and more developed industrially and agriculturally. This is the "Hub" of the Mesaba range in iron ore deposits and it is now due to add a further laurel to its fame as the "Hub" of the richest agricultural district of the Mesaba range. Geographically Gilbert is five miles east of Virginia, five miles north of Eveleth, sixty-eight miles north of Duluth and 230 miles north of the Twin Cities.

Let the motto of the progressive citizen be only one word: "Forward." Let the word be inscribed in letters of gold. Forward towards a new Gilbert, with bigger resources from land cultivation, with great prosperous farming communities to counterbalance that of mining. Then and only then will Gilbert reach the zenith of her real greatness in village building, capitalizing its splendid school system, auto-wagon highways, trading and market centers, as a drawing magnet for new business enterprises and farm home builders.

DR. FREDERICK BARRETT,
Mayor of Gilbert.

The splendid municipal growth of Gilbert is universally accredited to the present mayor, who is now serving his seventh consecutive term. He is not only a likeable public official but a man of big mould, a "booster" by nature and a generous giver of time and money for promoting the welfare of Gilbert and its farmland settlement.

In his practice of medicine no seeker of professional service is ever turned away. It is not the avarice of money with him, but a duty to suffering humanity. This is the key to Dr. Barrett's wide popularity as a man and public official.

GILBERT AS A RAILROAD CENTER.

The Duluth & Iron Range has six daily passenger trains; Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway, six daily passenger trains; Mesaba Railway company, electric inter-urban, hourly service from 6 a. m. to 12 p. m. between Gilbert and Hibbing. Then there is a daily auto bus between Gilbert and Duluth; in addition to auto inter-urban bus lines, giving hourly service between Virginia, Elcor, McKinley, Biwabik, Aurora and Tower, which certainly gives it superior advantages as a receiving and shipping center.

Gilbert is on the Babcock system No. 35, linking up Grand Rapids, Hibbing, Chisholm, Buhl, Mountain Iron, Virginia, Gilbert, McKinley, Biwabik, Aurora, Tower and Ely.

GOOD AUTO ROAD.

Gilbert is on the Minnesota Scenic highway from St. Paul to Ely. Babcock Highway No. 35 that starts from Grand Rapids, linking up all the range cities and towns, except Eveleth, which will be connected up with it.

In local auto and wagon roads—to the northeast is the public highway from Gilbert to McKinley and Biwabik, with the Vermilion Trail. Southwest from Gilbert to the Genoa location and other points, the Miller Trunk. Then there is the Ely Lake boulevard drive connecting up this road from Gilbert. There is also a system of good roads from Gilbert to Ely Lake, only one and one-half miles distance. Ely lake is three miles long and half to one and a half miles wide at points. It is noted for its black bass fishing. There are no more delightful summer resorts to be found than those of Ely and Eshquagama lakes, all within half an hours' auto drive from Gilbert. During the hunting season Gilbert's territory is the hunter's paradise for partridge, ducks, rabbits, deer and moose. All of Gilbert's surrounding country is connected up with good roads, to all the farms, which has been so helpful in opening up the rich farm lands to settlement.

A. E. MacINNIS,
Municipal Judge.

Men come and go in this busy old world of ours. But the successful man leaves his footprints in the sand that others may follow. Judge A. E. McInnis is one of the Mesaba range pioneers, locating in Sparta, in 1903. He was at that time representing Farwell, Ozman, Kirk & Co., St. Paul, wholesale hardware merchants, and was later associated with the firm of Saari, Campbell & Kraker of Sparta, the leading general store of that period. In 1909, when Sparta was moved to Gilbert he did likewise. He owned the pioneer hardware and furniture house in the first addition to Gilbert, which was established in 1909 and was successfully continued down to 1919, when the business was sold. In 1911-12 Mr. McInnis was treasurer of Mesaba Mountain township; village clerk in 1912-13-14-16-17; secretary of the water, power, light and building commission in 1912-13-14-15. He has made good as a faithful public official, giving him wide popularity, and merited advancement, being elected municipal judge in March, 1920. Judge MacInnis is vice-president of the Gilbert Commercial club and an active promoter for not only a bigger and better Gilbert, but the development of its non-mineralized agricultural lands into farming zones.

GILBERT'S GREAT GROWTH.

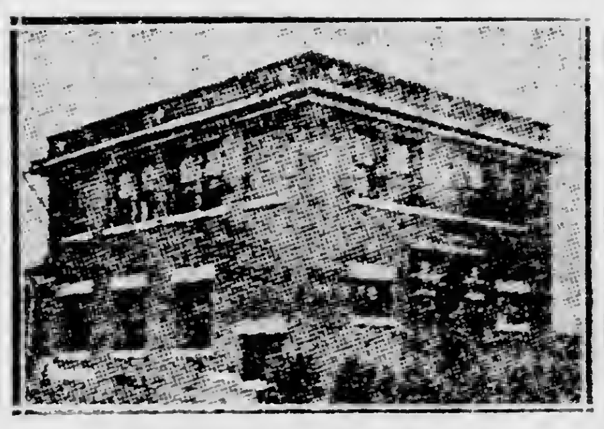
Gilbert has had a remarkable career since it was first incorporated as a village in 1907 and its re-incorporation in 1909. Its growth during the past ten years, since the 1910 United States census, which gave it 1,700, has been phenomenal in 1920, 3,510, an increase of over 100 per cent. Then add to this population 500 more, located in the mining locations and you have a population of 4,010, that does its trading and centers its interests in Gilbert. Then if you desire to delve further, we have only to point out the bank deposits which average $500,000. This speaks volumes for the wealth and thrift of the community. The main business thoroughfare is located on Broadway, while there are one and one-half miles of paved street and seven blocks of white way, well-built pressed brick or concrete business blocks, cement walks, giving it a citified appearance. Water mains and sewerage system cover the entire business and residence section. Gilbert is a home-owned city, the residence section reflecting the taste and refinement of its people. There is a municipally owned water system, while the electric current is supplied by the Northern Power company. One of the attractive municipal buildings is the city hall, that was built in 1915 at a cost of $50,000. It is two stories and basement, built of mottled pressed brick, the furnishings costing $10,000. The basement is devoted to the heating plant, coal and storage. First floor, police and fire departments, Mesaba township office. Second floor, council chambers, village clerk's office, municipal judge, village attorney, water and light department, making it a fully equipped municipal building. It is electric lighted, steam heated, and has sewerage system.

The men employed in the mines number 1,000, covering the Elba, Pettit, Sibley, Hobart and the village of Gilbert, with monthly payrolls of $175,000. The assessed valuation of the mineral and non-mineral resources of the village of Gilbert, mineral $5,181,299, non-mineral $299,122. Tax valuation, $5,480,-421.

The number of men employed in the mines tributary to Gilbert is as follows: Wistar, 50; McKinley, 15; Corsica, 250; Elba, 120; Pettit, 300; Schley, 175; Hobart, 175; Gilbert village, 15; a total of 1,100.

GILBERT WATER SYSTEM AND PUMPING STATION AT ELY LAKE.

The village of Gilbert has the best equipped and most modern water plant for its size in the state of Minnesota. It has a duplicate pumping system, three Pittsburgh gravity filters with a capacity of 750,000 gallons; two high and two low pressure pumps with a capacity of 750,000 gallons per day; wash pump, chlorine and chemical machines. The pumps are the Alberger centrifugal type.



PUMPING STATION

Electric power is used through the plant. The supply of water is taken from a well located at the pumping station, Ely lake, is chemically treated, coagulated, filtered and treated with chlorine before it is delivered for public consumption. A much higher standard of purification is maintained than is required by the state law.

Gilbert has six miles of water mains, seventy-eight hydrants, five hundred taps, a 100,000-gallon steel storage tank and 212 street valves.

A. W. INDIHAR,
Village Clerk.

Elected clerk of the village of Gilbert in March, 1920. He was one of Gilbert's 223 that served in the United States army. He was mustered into service at Camp Dodge April 25, 1918, and sent across the sea to France on June 14, where he saw service down to Aug. 11, 1918.

Mr. Indihar is a native of Tower, Minn., where he received part of his education, finishing up as a graduate of the Gilbert high school. He is an active lodge member in the Order of Moose, Owls, K. of C., Forresters, and historian for the American Moe-Indihar post, American Legion, and was one of its organizers.

INTERNATIONAL WORK PEOPLE'S CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

This is one of the new general merchandise stores of Gilbert and has a capital stock of $15,000. The business has been a success from the opening day. This was made possible because all of of its customers are stockholders and participate in the profits.

The International Work People's Co-operative association occupies a business block of 50 by 100 feet, with full basement. The grocery and stock of general merchandise, 25 by 100 feet and the whole of the basement, flour and feed in carload lots. Meat market, 25 by 100 feet. The trade zone of the store covers Sparta and Elba mining locations and Gilbert's tributary territory by auto truck.

Jacob Korpi, the manager, recently came here from the Tower Mercantile company, where he served in a similar capacity for five years. Mr. Korpi is a thoroughly trained general merchandise man, who has worked his way up to manager because he understands every detail of the business, so essential in conducting a business operated under the plan of the International Work People's Co-operative association. These stores have proven successful wherever operated, where a large number are employed in industrial and mining centers and outlying farm sections, the Gilbert store being no exception to the rule.

GILBERT HOTEL.

The best rooming accommodations in this territory for the traveling public is the Gilbert hotel. The rooms are all good sized, well furnished, electric lighted, steam heated, with hot and cold running water in each room. Beds replenished each day with snow white linen, mattresses and springs of the best. The rooms are not only sanitary but have a wholesome atmosphere. No better rooming quarters on the Mesaba range than those of the Gilbert hotel. This is the favorite stopping place for commercial travelers, land lookers and auto tourists who visit this wonderland lake country during the summer and fall outing seasons, and hunters for partridge, ducks, deer and moose.

BROADWAY, LOOKING NORTH, GILBERT'S BUSINESS THOROUGHFARE.

LYCEUM THEATER.

This chummy theater has a seating capacity of 250, all on the ground floor. The Lyceum is electric lighted, steam heated, with fan ventilating system. Four exits make it safe in case of a stampede during a fire or other cause. None but the leading and latest attractions in motion pictures are shown on the screen. This has given the Lyceum wide and deserved popularity. It is the equal of any of the Mesaba range theaters and for that matter, Duluth. Two shows an evening, at 7:15 and 8:30, Sunday matinee at 1 o'clock. Prices: general admittance 20 cents and children 10 cents.

H. Frajola is not only the proprietor of the Lyceum theater, but owner of the building, size 25x125 feet, located on Broadway, in the heart of the business zone of Gilbert.

Mr. Frajola is also proprietor of an up-to-date confectionery, ice cream parlor, soft drinks, cigars and smokers' supplies, adjoining the Lyceum. This business was opened March 20, 1918, and from the first has enjoyed a large patronage. The stock carried covers all the leading and most popular brands. The fixtures and furnishings add to its attractiveness. Mr. Frajola is a good mixer, which is but another drawing card. People like to spend their money where their trade is appreciated and where their dollars go the farthest in buying the goods they desire.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

An active organization of fifty members that has successfully promoted the Farmers' fair, held annually in September; Farmers' warehouse; good roads and farm land settlement. The club is now boosting for a rural postal route, rural telephone, electric light and power for the outlying farms, with every prospect of success. The members of the Commercial club realize that natural advantages and location do not of necessity assure successful town building, but the people that make up the community. This is the right interpretation. If you want your town to grow and prosper get busy. Then you will forge ahead and outstrip your next door rival who is sitting idly by, waiting for advantages that never come. Map out your own program. The officers of the Commercial club of Gilbert are: Alfred Hoel, president; A. E. MacInnis, vice president; A. W. Indihar, secretary, and H. A. Radermacher, treasurer.

GILBERT'S CHURCHES.

The religious side of life is well represented in Gilbert, as there are four denominations that have edifices erected to the Master's cause, for the upbuild of humanity. Catholic, Lutheran, Methodist and Presbyterian, all having large congregations. There is special attention given to the Sunday school and Epworth league.

KRAKER MERCANTILE COMPANY.

There is always one big leading up-to-date store in every trading center. In Gilbert it is the Kraker Mercantile company and in Duluth the Glass Block. The evolution of this company dates back to Sparta, when it was established as Talboys & Campbell, then Saari & Campbell, and later Saari, Campbell & Kraker. In January, 1919, it was incorporated for $40,000 as the Kraker Mercantile company, Gilbert, Minn. The concern owns its business block, built of red-pressed brick, one story and full basement, covering a ground site of 100 feet front and 140 feet deep. Electric-lighted, steam-heated and sewerage system. The interior fittings and fixtures are metropolitan, equipped with the electric cash and bundle carry system. The store carries a general stock of merchandise divided into the following departments:

M. G. Kraker, manager and buyer for the grocery, hardware, flour and feed departments; F. L. Olson, buyer for dry goods, ladies' ready-to-wear and gents' furnishings; Ray Arimond, buyer for the shoe department and window trimmer; Peter Kraker, buyer of meats; C. G. Fulton presides over the credit and account department. For the accommodation of patrons the departments are classified as follows: Department A: Groceries, flour, feed, hardware, crockery, glassware and furniture. Department B: Meats, fresh and salted, and fish. Department C: Dry goods, gents' furnishings and shoes. The basement is used for storing surplus stock. There is also a warehouse for flour and feed which is carried in carload lots.

The Kraker Mercantile company carries eighteen people on their payroll and have two auto trucks and a team in commission to make deliveries of goods purchased. Daily deliveries to Hutter, Sparta, Genoa, Elba, Hobart and other locations and the farming zones. Another branch of the business is the mail order department.

The annual volume of business equals or excels that of any store on the Mesabe range. The real success of the business is due to the quality of the stock carried in all lines of merchandise and selling at right prices, lower than the out-of-town mail order houses, quality and style considered. There has been no profiteering on the part of the Kraker Mercantile company, only a fair profit or none at all. It is such companies that are town builders, stretching out a welcoming hand to those who are worthy of credit, assisting them in making a new start in life.

THE ANNUAL FAIR, GILBERT, MINNESOTA.

On Sept. 18, 1920, the seventh annual fair was held under the auspices of Independent School District No. 18. Gilbert's annual fairs tell the whole story of farm land settlement in the hinterland south and east of Gilbert in this rich soil section. There has been more real farm home building in this section of St. Louis county in the past five years than any other location on the Mesaba range. In this work of farm land settlement the Oliver Iron Mining company, Republic Iron & Steel company, Hanna Ore Mining company, Pickands-Mather company have and are extending liberal aid. The iron mining companies are the best friends of the tillers of the soil, for they realize that the nonproducers, mine workers, must be fed by the farmers. Then, why not develop the nonmineralized zones into farming areas? This is their line of reasoning. Again, farm settlement in and around the mines makes for better environments, making the mine workers more contented with the part they are playing in the battle of life.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, GILBERT, MINN.

Gilbert has the distinction of having one of the strongest banks on the Mesaba range and the further distinction of having a bank building equal to many of the best in the state. It was built at a cost of $40,000, which covers site and fixtures. Constructed of pressed brick with polished Bedford stone front, size 30 by 80 feet, 18-foot ceiling. Its interior decorations and furnishings give it a very attractive setting. There are separate safety deposit vaults with room for 500 boxes. The capital of the First National bank of Gilbert is $30,000, surplus $25,000, with average deposits of $500,000. The bank's financial growth has been gradual, keeping pace with the development of the Gilbert territory, the mines and farm home builders. Its policy has been to extend liberal financial aid to the business men, wage earners and tillers of the soil. This open policy has made friends with those who have banking business to transact, the cornerstone of the bank's present-day prosperity.

The officers of the First National bank of Gilbert are Alfred Hoel, president since 1916, formerly cashier in 1912-13 and vice president from 1913 to 1916, a record which proves his worth and popularity; T. A. Flannigan, first vice president; M. G. Kraker, second vice president; C. B. Hoel, third vice president, also president of the Miners' National bank of Eveleth; John Seman, cashier, and Lillian Havila, assistant cashier.

The First National has twenty-eight stockholders, of which twenty-two live in Gilbert, making it a home-owned bank for extending financial assistance to the merchants, miners and farmers of not only Gilbert but its outlying territory.

VILLAGE COUNCIL.

It is not necessary to devote much space to the village council of Gilbert. Their official acts and the prosperity of the village denote good government, conservative business and yet broad enough vision to keep on the road of progress, keeping pace with the taxpayers and those who have business to transact with the village. The members of the council are: Frederick Barrett, president; A. W. Indihar, clerk; A. E. MacInnis, municipal judge; R. E. Anderson, attorney; trustees, T. W. Flannigan, M. A. Moykkynen and Sam Keller.

GILBERT'S FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Has a combination fire truck. Paid chief and three truck drivers, while there are forty-five volunteer firemen who are paid on being called for service, which gives ample fire protection.

GILBERT POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Gilbert, being an orderly city, with few vices to contend with, the police force consists of only seven members, including Chief John P. Shean. The force is governed by eight-hour shifts.

BARRETT DRUG COMPANY.

Incorporated for $12,000, while the business was established in 1908. It is the one big trading center in its lines, not only for Gilbert, but the mine locations and farming districts. The stock carried covers drugs, patent medicines, druggists' sundries, grafonolas, kodaks, stationery, confectionery, cigars and smokers' goods, news depot, carrying the leading daily newspapers and periodicals. Compounding physicians' prescriptions is one of its specialties. Then there is the Peacock parlor, where ice cream, cake, quick lunches, coffee, tea and light drinks are served, making it a drop in place for auto tourists and after theater parties. Dr. Frederick Barrett, mayor of Gilbert, who is now serving his seventh term, and one of the leading physicians and surgeons of the Mesaba range, owns the controlling interest. R. T. Dukelow has managed the business since 1910. The company occupies a central corner on Broadway, size 60 by 70 feet, with full basement, known as the Murphy block. The Barrett Drug company is conducted on broad, liberal business principles, carrying in stock everything pertaining to their lines that is called for. If it is not at Barrett's then it is not to be found in any of the drug stores on the range.

GILBERT'S EXPANDING PROSPERITY

A ST. LOUIS COUNTY METROPOLITAN VILLAGE—IRON ORE MINES AND DEPOSITS—FERTILE FARM LAND ZONES—BUSINESS, MARKETING AND EDUCATIONAL CENTER OF A RAPIDLY DEVELOPING TERRITORY.

SCHEDULE OF SUCCESS.

By John A. Monger.

THE more one delves into the natural resources of this portion of the Mesaba range, the more amazing seems the [illegible] future in store for it. [illegible] in the midst of one of the [illegible] iron ore deposits, fertile [illegible] so [illegible] in plant life for all kinds of crops, small grain, [illegible] and barley, small fruits and [illegible] potatoes, cabbage, carrots, beets [illegible], white clover and timothy [illegible] the wealth of the soil. The [illegible] farming section in Northern [illegible]. Fertile agricultural lands that have heretofore been classed as mineral lands now on the market for agricultural development, to the south and east of Gilbert. Every acre of this land will soon be under cultivation. In [illegible], the whole outlaying country is dotted with farms ranging from 10 to 160 acres each. The land under cultivation [illegible] farms runs from 10 to 80 acres, with good farm houses, barns, [illegible] and machinery houses, where but a few years ago was a barren waste. The farm home [illegible] has already greatly stimulated Gilbert's growth and prosperity and will eventually make it a city of three times its present population.

The early pioneers of St. Louis county that exploited its wonderful wealth, the pine tree forests and later the fabulous iron ore deposits. Both of these opened up the territory to railroad building, for passenger and freight [illegible], thus creating villages and cities which now rank among those of the older sections of Minnesota, both as to population and wealth, while in municipal up-to-dateness these villages [illegible] are the peer of many, their schools, churches and good roads taking the lead where other cities and towns lag behind.

The zenith is all but reached in village and city building on the Mesaba range.

The one resource, iron ore, that created them has reached the top level. There is plenty of ore in sight to keep up the present output for the next fifty years to come, to say nothing of the [illegible] ore deposits that have not been developed into shipping mines. [illegible] have nevertheless been reached [illegible] and the [illegible] of the mines. This being true [illegible] and let the greater [illegible] soil and climate, go [illegible] but one crop [illegible] from an iron mine, where from the cultivation of the soil there is a never failing annual harvest of [illegible] from the deep, rich, level acres of the sandy and clay loam soil, so [illegible] endowed by nature and fertilized by [illegible] crops of vegetation during the past centuries. An [illegible] soil for all kinds of plant life [illegible] to the Western hemisphere [illegible] diversified farming, dairying and stock raising. A section of clover land [illegible] its average yield in clover and [illegible] hay is two to two and a half tons to the acre, containing 17 per cent more nutrition than the timothy and clover hay grown in the states of the Middle West. Yet this is one of the most sparsely settled sections of Minnesota agriculturally, nevertheless offering the best and cheapest agricultural lands, soil and climate considered, in the Northwest.

The crying need of today is the capitalization of these lands by putting them under cultivation. It is the most inviting avenue open to future growth and prosperity. The development of these farm zones would double the annual wealth of Gilbert and the whole Mesaba range, stabilize its resources and population. It would then not make so much difference whether all the mines were on the active shipping list or shutdown. The farming communities would support the trading centers, in fact double the present volume of business, sustained only by the mining of iron ore. Then again, the unbalanced growth of the urban as against the inter-urban population must be checked and the way to accomplish this is to encourage farm land settlement by organized all-year-round propaganda.

The true foundation of our social and economic structure rests on the farm. The soil is the source of virgin wealth. No community can really prosper without farm development to supply food production to feed the urban dwellers and population of the mining locations.

With the tributary farm lands to the south and east of Gilbert under cultivation no tradesman would be insecure, but reassured of his business future. The development of these lands into farms will bring new prosperity, and dispel the uncertainty which now exists, mining being the backbone as to [illegible] the money paid in wages and received from taxation financing the villages and cities of the Mesaba range. To remedy this evil there is but one [illegible]—farm home building, and the making of such metropolitan villages as Gilbert the trading and marketing centers of this rich soil area. Capitalize the good auto-wagon highways, steam and electric railways; build creameries to encourage dairying, the great mortgage lifter; potato warehouses to take care of the crops and encourage larger acreage. There is a fortune in potatoes to the grower at $1 to $2 per bushel, as the average yield is 200 bushels per acre with reasonable cultivation and growing season. Encourage the farmers to grow their own stock feed, oats and barley, grinding it into feed in their own mills. This will make the tillers of the soil in a few years not only well to do, but well off.

This is what we mean by the "Schedule of Success." The young and middle-aged men who dream of success and feel somewhat bitter because their dreams will not come true have only themselves to blame as they have failed to capitalize their opportunities. There is no easy road to success. Success in farming as in the other pursuits of life means long hours of labor, tired eyes and ache of muscles, patience and unflagging zeal, a determination that never wavers. Yet today there are none of the old pioneer hardships as experienced in the farm settlement of Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska or that of the Canadian Northwest. Every two to five miles there is a trading center, postoffice and telephone exchange, good auto-wagon highways, steam and electric passenger and freight service, the best of schools, with free auto transportation for the children in the Gilbert farm land zone. The farm lands of this district with all these modern advantages are priced at only $10 to $25 per acre, on long time easy payments. It is simply a passing opportunity that will last only until the farmers of the Middle West and the Pacific Northwest get wise to the situation.

The goal of Gilbert's growth will be reached through the development of the non-mineralized zones into farming, dairying and stockraising settlements. This will settle the question for all time, whether Gilbert is to stand still, or go forward. The key to the situation is the farm settlement. If these raw lands are put under cultivation, Gilbert will be a bigger and more prosperous village than the most optimistic citizen realizes.

The widespread natural resources of the Gilbert area are being more and more developed industrially and agriculturally. This is the "Hub" of the Mesaba range in iron ore deposits and it is now due to add a further laurel to its fame as the "Hub" of the richest agricultural district of the Mesaba range. Geographically Gilbert is five miles east of Virginia, five miles north of Eveleth, sixty-eight miles north of Duluth and 230 miles north of the Twin Cities.

Let the motto of the progressive citizen be only one word: "Forward." Let the word be inscribed in letters of gold. Forward towards a new Gilbert, with bigger resources from land cultivation, with great prosperous farming communities to counterbalance that of mining. Then and only then will Gilbert reach the zenith of her real greatness in village building, capitalizing its splendid school system, auto-wagon highways, trading and market centers, as a drawing magnet for new business enterprises and farm home builders.

DR. FREDERICK BARRETT, Mayor of Gilbert.

The splendid municipal growth of Gilbert is universally accredited to the present mayor, who is now serving his seventh consecutive term. He is not only a likeable public official but a man of big mould, a "booster" by nature and a generous giver of time and money for promoting the welfare of Gilbert and its farmland settlement.

In his practice of medicine no seeker of professional service is ever turned away. It is not the avarice of money with him, but a duty to suffering humanity. This is the key to Dr. Barrett's wide popularity as a man and public official.

BROADWAY, LOOKING NORTH, GILBERT'S BUSINESS THOROUGHFARE.

GILBERT AS A RAILROAD CENTER.

The Duluth & Iron Range has six daily passenger trains; Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway, six daily passenger trains; Mesaba Railway company, electric inter-urban, hourly service from 6 a. m. to 12 p. m. between Gilbert and Hibbing. Then there is a daily auto bus between Gilbert and Duluth; in addition to auto inter-urban bus lines, giving hourly service between Virginia, Elcor, McKinley, Biwabik, Aurora and Tower, which certainly gives it superior advantages as a receiving and shipping center.

Gilbert is on the Babcock system No. 35, linking up Grand Rapids, Hibbing, Chisholm, Buhl, Mountain Iron, Virginia, Gilbert, McKinley, Biwabik, Aurora, Tower and Ely.

GOOD AUTO ROAD.

Gilbert is on the Minnesota Scenic highway from St. Paul to Ely. Babcock Highway No. 35 that starts from Grand Rapids, linking up all the range cities and towns, except Eveleth, which will be connected up with it.

In local auto and wagon roads—to the northeast is the public highway from Gilbert to McKinley and Biwabik, with the Vermilion Trail. Southwest from Gilbert to the Genoa location and other points, the Miller Trunk. Then there is the Ely Lake boulevard drive connecting up this road from Gilbert. There is also a system of good roads from Gilbert to Ely Lake, only one and one-half miles distance. Ely lake is three miles long and half to one and a half miles wide at points. It is noted for its black bass fishing. There are no more delightful summer resorts to be found than those of Ely and Eshquagama lakes, all within half an hours' auto drive from Gilbert. During the hunting season Gilbert's territory is the hunter's paradise for partridge, ducks, rabbits, deer and moose. All of Gilbert's surrounding country is connected up with good roads, to all the farms, which has been so helpful in opening up the rich farm lands to settlement.

A. E. MacINNIS, Municipal Judge.

Men come and go in this busy old world of ours. But the successful man leaves his footprints in the sand that others may follow. Judge A. E. McInnis is one of the Mesaba range pioneers, locating in Sparta, in 1903. He was at that time representing Farwell, Ozman, Kirk & Co., St. Paul, wholesale hardware merchants, and was later associated with the firm of Saari, Campbell & Kraker of Sparta, the leading general store of that period. In 1909, when Sparta was moved to Gilbert he did likewise. He owned the pioneer hardware and furniture house in the first addition to Gilbert, which was established in 1909 and was successfully continued down to 1919, when the business was sold. In 1911-12 Mr. McInnis was treasurer of Mesaba Mountain township; village clerk in 1912-13-14-16-17; secretary of the water, power, light and building commission in 1912-13-14-15. He has made good as a faithful public official, giving him wide popularity, and merited advancement, being elected municipal judge in March, 1920. Judge MacInnis is vice-president of the Gilbert Commercial club and an active promoter for not only a bigger and better Gilbert, but the development of its non-mineralized agricultural lands into farming zones.

GILBERT'S GREAT GROWTH.

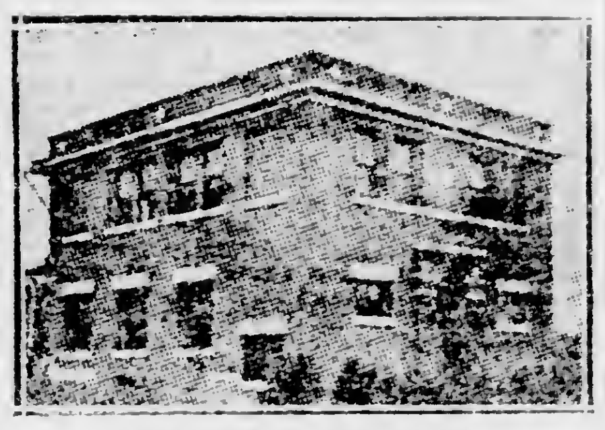
Gilbert has had a remarkable career since it was first incorporated as a village in 1907 and its re-incorporation in 1909. Its growth during the past ten years, since the 1910 United States census, which gave it 1,700, has been phenomenal in 1920, 3,510, an increase of over 100 per cent. Then add to this population 500 more, located in the mining locations and you have a population of 4,010, that does its trading and centers its interests in Gilbert. Then if you desire to delve further, we have only to point out the bank deposits which average $500,000. This speaks volumes for the wealth and thrift of the community. The main business thoroughfare is located on Broadway, while there are one and one-half miles of paved street and seven blocks of white way, well-built pressed brick or concrete business blocks, cement walks, giving it a citified appearance. Water mains and sewerage system cover the entire business and residence section. Gilbert is a home-owned city, the residence section reflecting the taste and refinement of its people. There is a municipally owned water system, while the electric current is supplied by the Northern Power company. One of the attractive municipal buildings is the city hall, that was built in 1915 at a cost of $50,000. It is two stories and basement, built of mottled pressed brick, the furnishings costing $10,000. The basement is devoted to the heating plant, coal and storage. First floor, police and fire departments, Mesaba township office. Second floor, council chambers, village clerk's office, municipal judge, village attorney, water and light department, making it a fully equipped municipal building. It is electric lighted, steam heated, and has sewerage system.

The men employed in the mines number 1,000, covering the Elba, Pettit, Sibley, Hobart and the village of Gilbert, with monthly payrolls of $175,000. The assessed valuation of the mineral and non-mineral resources of the village of Gilbert, mineral $5,181,299, non-mineral $299,122. Tax valuation, $5,480,421.

The number of men employed in the mines tributary to Gilbert is as follows: Wistar, 50; McKinley, 15; Corsica, 250; Elba, 120; Pettit, 300; Schley, 175; Hobart, 175; Gilbert village, 15; a total of 1,100.

GILBERT WATER SYSTEM AND PUMPING STATION AT ELY LAKE.

The village of Gilbert has the best equipped and most modern water plant for its size in the state of Minnesota. It has a duplicate pumping system, three Pittsburgh gravity filters with a capacity of 750,000 gallons; two high and two low pressure pumps with a capacity of 750,000 gallons per day; wash pump, chlorine and chemical machines. The pumps are the Alberger centrifugal type.



PUMPING STATION

Electric power is used through the plant. The supply of water is taken from a well located at the pumping station, Ely lake, is chemically treated, coagulated, filtered and treated with chlorine before it is delivered for public consumption. A much higher standard of purification is maintained than is required by the state law.

Gilbert has six miles of water mains, seventy-eight hydrants, five hundred taps, a 100,000-gallon steel storage tank and 212 street valves.

THE ANNUAL FAIR, GILBERT, MINNESOTA.

Thayer, park superintendent, Virginia, Minn.; Miss Campbell, poultry specialist, United States department of agriculture. Canning, domestic art, sewing—Miss Broecker, supervisor domestic science, Virginia, Minn.; Miss Newton, state home economics leader, St. Paul, Minn.; Juanita Shepherd, state specialist in home economics, St. Paul, Minn.; Emelissa Mandeville, supervisor of home economics, Eveleth.

Gilbert's annual fairs tell the whole story of farm land settlement in the hinterland south and east of Gilbert in this rich soil section. There has been more real farm home building in this section of St. Louis county in the past five years than any other location on the Mesaba range. LYCEUM THEATER.

This chummy theater has a seating capacity of 250, all on the ground floor. The Lyceum is electric lighted, steam heated, with fan ventilating system. Four exits make it safe in case of a stampede during a fire or other cause. None but the leading and latest attractions in motion pictures are shown on the screen. This has given the Lyceum wide and deserved popularity. It is the equal of any of the Mesaba range theaters and for that matter, Duluth. Two shows an evening, at 7:15 and 8:30, Sunday matinee at 1 o'clock. Prices: general admittance 20 cents and children 10 cents.

H. Frajola is not only the proprietor of the Lyceum theater, but owner of the building, size 25x125 feet, located on Broadway, in the heart of the business zone of Gilbert.

Mr. Frajola is also proprietor of an up-to-date confectionery, ice cream parlor, soft drinks, cigars and smokers' supplies, adjoining the Lyceum. This business was opened March 20, 1918, and from the first has enjoyed a large patronage. The stock carried covers all the leading and most popular brands. The fixtures and furnishings add to its attractiveness. Mr. Frajola is a good mixer, which is but another drawing card. People like to spend their money where their trade is appreciated and where their dollars go the farthest in buying the goods they desire.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

An active organization of fifty members that has successfully promoted the Farmers' fair, held annually in September; Farmers' warehouse; good roads and farm land settlement. The club is now boosting for a rural postal route, rural telephone, electric light and power for the outlying farms, with every prospect of success. This is the right interpretation. If you want your town to grow and prosper get busy. Then you will forge ahead and outstrip your next door rival who is sitting idly by, waiting for advantages that never come. Map out your own program. The officers of the Commercial club of Gilbert are: Alfred Hoel, president; A. E. MacInnis, vice president; A. W. Indihar, secretary, and H. A. Radermacher, treasurer.

GILBERT'S CHURCHES.

The religious side of life is well represented in Gilbert, as there are four denominations that have edifices erected to the Master's cause, for the upbuild of humanity, Catholic, Lutheran, Methodist and Presbyterian, all having large congregations. There is special attention given to the Sunday school and Epworth league.

KRAKER MERCANTILE COMPANY.

There is always one big leading up-to-date store in every trading center. In Gilbert it is the Kraker Mercantile company and in Duluth the Glass Block. The evolution of this company dates back to Sparta, when it was established as Talboys & Campbell, then Saari & Campbell, and later Saari, Campbell & Kraker. In January, 1919, it was incorporated for $40,000 as the Kraker Mercantile company, Gilbert, Minn. The concern owns its business block, built of red-pressed brick, one story and full basement, covering a ground site of 100 feet front and 140 feet deep. Electric-lighted, steam-heated and sewerage system. The interior fittings and fixtures are metropolitan, equipped with the electric cash and bundle carry system. The store carries a general stock of merchandise divided into the following departments:

M. G. Kraker, manager and buyer for the grocery, hardware, flour and feed departments; F. L. Olson, buyer for dry goods, ladies' ready-to-wear and gents' furnishings; Ray Arlmond, buyer for the shoe department and window trimmer; Peter Kraker, buyer of meats; C. G. Fulton presides over the credit and account department. For the accommodation of patrons the departments are classified as follows: Department A: Groceries, flour, feed, hardware, crockery, glassware and furniture. Department B: Meats, fresh and salted, and fish. Department C: Dry goods, gents' furnishings and shoes. The basement is used for storing surplus stock. There is also a warehouse for flour and feed which is carried in carload lots.

The Kraker Mercantile company carries eighteen people on their payroll and have two auto trucks and a team in commission to make deliveries of goods purchased. Daily deliveries to Hutter, Sparta, Genoa, Elba, Hobart and other locations and the farming zones. Another branch of the business is the mail order department.

The annual volume of business equals or excels that of any store on the Mesabe range. The real success of the business is due to the quality of the stock carried in all lines of merchandise and selling at right prices, lower than the out-of-town mail order houses, quality and style considered. There has been no profiteering on the part of the Kraker Mercantile company, only a fair profit or none at all. It is such companies that are town builders, stretching out a welcoming hand to those who are worthy of credit, assisting them in making a new start in life.

VILLAGE COUNCIL.

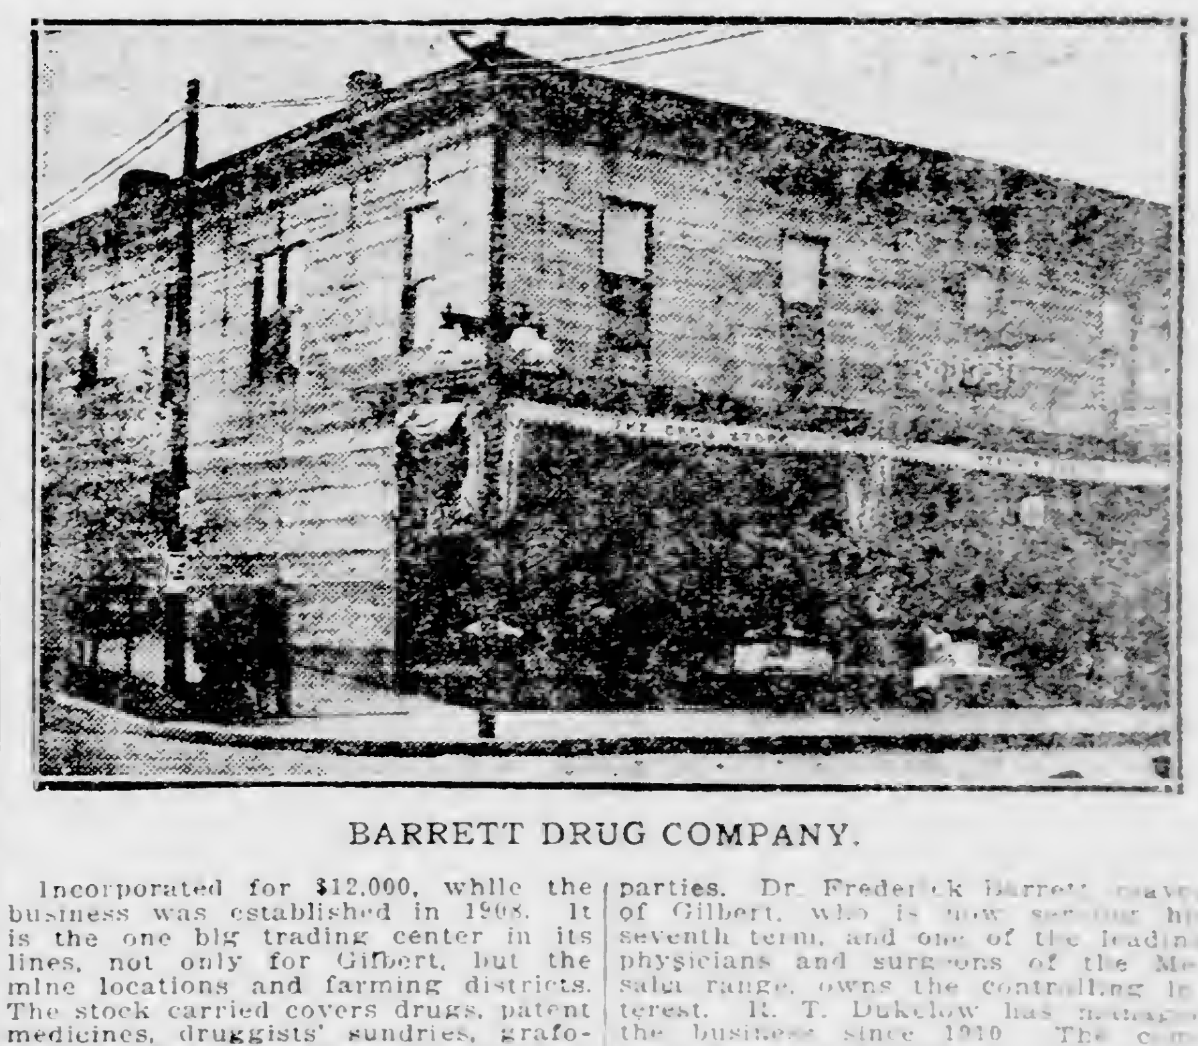
It is not necessary to devote much space to the village council of Gilbert. Their official acts and the prosperity of the village denote good government, conservative business and yet broad enough vision to keep on the road of progress, keeping pace with the taxpayers and those who have business to transact with the village. The members of the council are: Frederick Barrett, president; A. W. Indihar, clerk; A. E. MacInnis, municipal judge; R. E. Anderson, attorney; trustees, T. W. Flannigan, M. A. Moykkynen and Sam Keller.

GILBERT'S FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Has a combination fire truck, paid chief and three truck drivers, while there are forty-five volunteer firemen who are paid on being called for service, which gives ample fire protection.

GILBERT POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Gilbert, being an orderly city, with few vices to contend with, the police force consists of only [illegible] members, including Chief John P. [illegible]. The force is governed by eight-hour shifts.



BARRETT DRUG COMPANY.

Incorporated for $12,000, while the business was established in 1908. It is the one big trading center in its lines, not only for Gilbert, but the mine locations and farming districts. The stock carried covers drugs, patent medicines, druggists' sundries, grafonolas, kodaks, stationery, confectionery, cigars and smokers' goods, news depot, carrying the leading daily newspapers and periodicals. Compounding physicians' prescriptions is one of its specialties. Then there is the Peacock parlor, where ice cream, cake, quick lunches, coffee, tea and light drinks are served, making it a drop in place for auto tourists and after theater parties. Dr. Frederick Barrett, mayor of Gilbert, who is now serving his seventh term, and one of the leading physicians and surgeons of the Mesaba range, owns the controlling interest. R. T. Dukelow has managed the business since 1910. The company occupies a central corner on Broadway, size 60 by 70 feet, with full basement, known as the Murphy block. The Barrett Drug company is conducted on broad, liberal business principles, carrying in stock everything pertaining to their lines that is called for. If it is not at Barrett's then it is not to be found in any of the drug stores on the range.

GILBERT'S EXPANDING PROSPERITY

A ST. LOUIS COUNTY METROPOLITAN VILLAGE—IRON ORE MINES AND DEPOSITS—FERTILE FARM LAND ZONES—BUSINESS, MARKETING AND EDUCATIONAL CENTER OF A RAPIDLY DEVELOPING TERRITORY.

A MAN OF MANY PARTS.

It was in 1904, a year before Gilbert was incorporated as a village, that "Pat" Murphy, as he is familiarly known all over the iron and copper ranges of Minnesota and Upper Peninsula of Michigan, located at Gilbert. He came from the ranks and his rise from poverty to affluence has been of his own making. He capitalized every passing opportunity in the rugged days when the present order of society was not recognized. "Pat" was gifted with extraordinary common sense and adjusted himself and business to the requirements of every fleeting year. As a result he is today one of the outstanding figures in Gilbert's makeup, owning fifteen business blocks on Broadway, the retail center; the Elgin hotel property on First street, as also a business block of 100 feet front on Fifty-seventh avenue west, Duluth; Fifty-four acres on the bay front of Eshquagama lake, located two miles from Biwabik and eight miles from Gilbert on the Vermilion trail. This land has been platted into lake sites of 150 feet front and 300 feet deep, making them attractive building plots for summer cottages. Mr. Murphy is a believer in farm land settlement of the nonmineralized zones for the future growth of Gilbert and its territory. One of his recent real estate investments was the purchase of the Bailey block, a two-story concrete building, on Broadway, size 175 feet front and 90 feet deep. This building was erected at a cost of $100,000 in 1907, when building material and labor were at a low ebb. The building has been remodeled and rebuilt at a cost of over $30,000. The board of education has leased it for housing the teachers of the public schools. The second floor has fifty-one well-furnished rooms, electric lighted, steam heated, hot and cold running water in each room. The school cafeteria is on the ground floor and is one of the best equipped of any school in the state.

PATRICK MURPHY.

Mr. Murphy in 1904 was foreman of the Bearhead Lake Lumber company, which position he held for five years; for two years he drove the stage from Vermilion dam to Chain of Lakes, a 26-mile trip, taking in supplies, carrying the United States mail to the then gold field. In 1911 he located at Sparta, where he conducted a horse market; when Sparta was moved to Gilbert some thirteen years ago he came with the other public-spirited citizens and embarked in the real estate and farm land business. He has made success, being a booster, never a knocker. When Gilbert had any project that would benefit the community, Patrick Murphy's name always went down on the subscription list. Still he is a man that shuns public notoriety and therefore his many charitable gifts and aid extended to his fellow man is a closed book.

SPLENDID SCHOOL BUILDINGS OF INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT No. 18, GILBERT THE EDUCATIONAL CENTER

THE EIGHTEENTH INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT.

THIS school district was organized from two separate districts in 1909. At that time twenty-five teachers were employed and the enrollment was in round figures 500.

The ever-increasing school population and the rapid development of the natural resources of the rich territory of Independent School District No. 18 has necessitated the erection of new schools in many parts of the district. Gilbert, the educational center, having four school buildings: Gilbert high school, Industrial school, Gilbert primary and Schley schools. In the outlying district there are seven modern school buildings, affording the best of educational opportunities for the school population of the mine locations and farming zones. The work of providing adequate educational facilities for the ever-increasing enrollment, largely from agricultural development of the nonmineralized areas to the south and east of Gilbert is exemplified by the Hutter school, which now has 125 pupils, all sons and daughters of farmers, and the Sigurd Moe school at McKinley, just completed. Thus it is that the board of education, Independent School District No. 18, has had problems to solve in making the school budget cover the growing needs of the district. The board comprises such public spirited men as Walter M. Webb, chairman; F. P. Rutherford, treasurer; Dr. J. C. Farmer, clerk, with the following directors: P. R. Cosgrove, P. A. Walstrom and C. G. Fulton, all leading representative business men. K. K. Tibbetts, superintendent, elected in July, 1918, was principal of the Virginia high school for four years before coming to Gilbert. He is a graduate of Oberlin college, class 1910. Russell Johnston is principal, and A. K. Kapelier, auditor. Gilbert has one of the best free school systems in the state.

GILBERT SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The first school building was erected in Gilbert in 1909. During ten years the enrollment of the district has increased to 1,850 and today there are employed 100 teachers. Eight new buildings have been erected and seven schools are in operation outside of the village of Gilbert. The largest buildings in the district which have an enrollment of 1,100 are the Gilbert high school, Gilbert primary, Industrial and Schley.

GILBERT HIGH SCHOOL.

This stately building in school architecture is in a class by itself. It was finished March, 1911, at a cost of $125,000, which includes furnishings and equipment. The construction is buff colored pressed brick, steel girders and concrete, size 98x150 feet, two-story and sub-basement, electric lighted and high pressure steam heat, fan system of ventilation. Drinking fountains on all floors, telephone system, electric clocks, steel individual wardrobe lockers for the pupils.

The sub-basement contains the manual training, domestic science, cafeteria, two class rooms and the heating plant, which also heats the Gilbert Technical school building.

First floor: Seventh and eighth grade class rooms; high school manual training department; grade superintendent's office; high school principal's office; school and public library, containing 5,474 volumes; teachers' rest room, with bath.

Second floor: Auditorium, seating capacity 700, stage forty feet wide and twenty feet deep; a modern picture machine is part of the equipment and good films are shown every other Thursday night. The auditorium is also used for lecture courses, school parties and the Moe Indihar Legion of Honor. There are six high school class rooms on the second floor.

GILBERT INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

A substantial building erected in 1916, size 130 feet square; two stories, built of pressed brick and equipped at a cost of $150,000.

First Floor: Auto repair shop, mechanical drawing room, forge; agricultural laboratory, chemical and physical laboratory, opportunity department for backward children, swimming pool, twenty-five feet wide and sixty feet long, with complete filtration and violet ray purifying plant; shower baths for boys and girls and two well equipped gymnasiums. There is also a playground covering four acres, a portion of which is set aside for the school garden for growing vegetables for the school cafeteria, being canned for winter use. This school garden is worked in unison with the parents of the pupils, set off in garden and small farm tracts.

PRIMARY SCHOOL.

This building was erected in 1908 at a cost of $60,000; size 100 by 150 feet, three-story and basement, brick construction.

Basement—General supply room for the entire district and office of the district auditor; lumber supply room for the manual training department and kindergarten playroom.

First Floor—Six grade rooms up to the third grade.

Second Floor—Eight grade rooms, one nurse's and doctor's office and teachers' rest room.

Third Floor—Three grade rooms.

In 1908 this building was considered large enough for all future school needs of Gilbert.

SCHLEY SCHOOL.

This frame building was erected in 1918 at a cost of $30,000. It is electrically lighted and steam heated. A three-room building; has kindergarten and first two grades. It was built to take care of the school children of the mining population in this location.

TEACHERS' HOTEL.

One of the advanced steps is the providing of rooms and meals for the teachers of the Gilbert schools, the Murphy block on Broadway being leased for this purpose. It is a modern, fireproof building, electrically lighted, steam heated, hot and cold running water in each room, toilets and sewerage. Two stories, size 175 feet front and 90 feet deep. There are fifty-one well-furnished, homelike rooms for the teachers, with all modern conveniences. On the ground floor is a well-appointed cafeteria, one of the best equipped in the state; meals served at all hours in the well-lighted and furnished dining room; popular prices. Other school boards of the Mesaba range have been experimenting along this line, providing the teachers in their public schools with a place to sleep and eat. But Independent School District No. 18 has solved the vexed question by providing a permanent home for its school teachers.

OUTSIDE SCHOOLS.

THE SIGURD MOE SCHOOL, McKINLEY.

A new structure, just nearing completion, built at a cost of $175,000. A splendid two-story, pressed brick building with full basement, size 130 by 175 feet, semi-fireproof, electrically lighted and steam heated. This is a much-needed school building to take care of the school population of the thriving village of McKinley. It was made possible by the indefatigable efforts of Dr. J. C. Farmer, clerk of the school board, and will be a standing monument to his fame as a stanch friend of the village of McKinley and its upbuild. The course of studies will include the first to eighth grades, manual training and domestic science courses. The school attendance will include the district of Belgrade. One of the attractive features is the large combination auditorium and gymnasium, shower baths for boys and girls, American Legion clubrooms and public reading room. The Sigurd Moe school will be a school worthy of its name, with a curriculum equal to any school, through which the Eighteenth district has become so widely recognized from an educational point of view.

HUTTER SCHOOL.

Situated some three and a half miles southeast of Gilbert. This progressive agricultural district has been transformed from brush land in the past ten years into farm lands of the best. This is a new building, finished the present school year. It is a three-story and basement, electric-lighted, steam-heated, sewerage system, erected at a cost of $6,000. Basement: Heating plant, manual training and domestic science departments; first floor, three primary classrooms; second floor, two classrooms and principal's office; third floor, teachers' living apartments, living room, kitchenette, one complete bathroom and three bedrooms. The Hutter school has 125 pupils in attendance, all sons and daughters of the farmers of this great rich soil section, a level plateau extending for miles, a section that is like Central Illinois, the only difference being that it will never have to be tiled, the subsoil being porous and, therefore, self-draining

GENOA SCHOOL.

Located two miles west of Gilbert. It is the pioneer school building, erected in 1895. It provides for the school population of the Genoa location. An eight-room building, having six classrooms. Domestic science and manual training are among its departments.

ELBA PRIMARY SCHOOL.

A one-story frame. Two grade rooms and kindergarten.

McKINLEY-ELBA SCHOOL.

There are three auto busses for transporting the school children from Belgrade, McKinley, Elba, Malta, Genoa and Hobart to Gilbert. For the Hutter and St. Louis districts the transportation is provided by contracts with farmers.

SPECIAL SCHOOL COURSES.

College preparatory, agricultural, commercial and industrial, which give a complete educational course fitting the pupils for college or universities after finishing at the Gilbert high and Industrial schools.

GILBERT FARMING DISTRICT.

Through the courtesy of W. J. Ryan, agricultural agent for Independent School District No. 18, we are enabled to give his observations covering the Hutter and St. Louis agricultural districts, to the east of Gilbert. A reading of this condensed report will give farm home seekers who are land hungry in the Middle West an opportunity to judge the enticing advantages offered in this territory for new farm homes, for diversified crops, dairying and stock raising.

The Hutter district is located to the east of Gilbert and contains nine square miles, which up to 1913 was entirely undeveloped. No roads, land selling for $5 per acre. At this writing there is a road on each section line, land is selling from $25 to $50 per acre and some has sold as high as $100 per acre. Over one-half of the district is under cultivation. The drainage is natural, traversed by Embarrass river and its tributaries. The district has fifty farmers, they have portable sawmills; six stump pullers, four or five buying one together; four binders; two threshing machines; stock company with twenty-five members in each organization. Three binders are owned co-operatively. Their buildings are very good, practically every farmer has a root cellar to carry potatoes and root crops over the winter. Through co-operation with St. Louis County club, twenty bushels of Irish Cobblers, ten bushels pedigreed oats and ten bushels pedigreed barley have been distributed among the farmers.

The St. Louis River district is east of Gilbert, eleven miles to the St. Louis river school. The drainage of this district is natural, the St. Louis river and its tributaries.

GILBERT'S ORGAN OF PUBLICITY.

The Gilbert Herald, under the management of Editor D. A. Craig since Dec. 22, 1919, has been a livewire in promoting farm settlement, postal rural routes, telephones, electric light and power service to the mining locations and farms tributary to the Gilbert territory. These much needed advantages will come, but it will take hard and persistent work, with money back of it to reach the goal. The business men of Gilbert have become wise to the situation and will boost all of these projects through the Commercial club and their organ of publicity, the Gilbert Herald.

The first time we had the pleasure of meeting Editor Craig was at Wild Rose, N. D., where he was publishing a red hot Republican weekly. Later he was editor and publisher of newspapers at Noonan, White Earth and Clark, N. D., and in 1915 the Buhl Advertiser. Brother Craig is a forcible writer and a newspaper fighter from away back for what he believes necessary for the betterment and growth of the territory where his paper is published, and for that reason his paper has proven a valuable asset in the newspaper field as a town builder and agricultural booster. If Gilbert is to grow, double its present wealth and population, it must do so by putting settlers on the nonmineralized lands tributary to its territory. This is Gilbert's waiting opportunity.

MACHEK'S DRY GOODS AND MILLINERY STORE.

The fashion trading headquarters for everything in the line of women's and children's millinery, ready-to-wear suits, dry goods and notions is in stock at the Machek Dry Goods & Millinery store. Miss Julia Machek is the owner and business head of this big merchandise business, which she established March 16, 1916. The business grew to such proportions as to necessitate a new location, and to meet this trade expansion and to provide for its future growth, Miss Machek purchased a pressed brick corner building on Broadway, size 30x135 feet, with basement, full plate glass front, electric lighted and steam heated, making it one of the show places, not only of Gilbert, but the Mesaba range. Machek's specializes in individual styles in women's and misses' suits and coats, giving the purchaser exclusiveness in clothes, so desirable with ready-to-wear garments. The millinery department carries all of the latest designs and shapes, including the latest in sample hats. The notion and dry goods departments are stocked with everything that is useful and lovable to woman. The trade of the Machek Dry Goods & Millinery store is not confined to Gilbert, its outlying mine locations and farming zones, but it draws trade from all over the Mesaba iron range cities and towns.

Miss Julia Machek, the founder of this business, commenced her career as a store clerk at the age of 15 years, after four years taking up a commercial course at the Valparaiso university of Valparaiso, Ind., graduating in 1911. She then returned to Gilbert and accepted a position as bookkeeper, from which she resigned to embark in business for herself and where she is now on the top wave of success. Miss Machek is one of Gilbert's very enterprising merchants, a believer in and a builder for a bigger and better Gilbert, with its rich mining and farming areas around it.

TWO YEARS AFTER.

This is Armistice Day. Two years ago the world went mad with joy.

The war was ended. Fighting had ceased. The killing of men by men, the fratricidal slaughter of war, was over. War's woes and miseries were to pass away over night.

Two years have elapsed. There are still wars in progress, little wars but fruitful in blood and death. War's woes and miseries did not pass away over night; to an unhappily large degree they have not passed away even yet, nor do they seem likely to pass away soon. Because America was little hurt by the war—too little hurt, it almost seems sometimes, for her soul's good—it has failed to understand how deep the world's wounds were, and how slowly they are healing. Otherwise there would not have been in recent months so much callous talk of "America first" and "let Europe take care of its own troubles."

International trade, upon which the prosperity of the whole world largely depends, is still disjointed. Some nations are getting on their feet, others go from bad to worse. There is need of common effort, every nation participating, to get the world back to peace, order and production. And America cannot evade its duty. It is a duty to humanity; but it is also a duty to itself because its own prosperity and security depend upon it.

America is still technically at war, still barred from doing its decent share in the reorganization of human society, shattered by war, upon a peace basis.

Two years after the armistice, this situation still exists. Hasn't it lasted about long enough? When the issue got into politics, paralysis, doubt, confusion, delay were inevitable. But now the political spasm is over. There seems no reason why America should not now ratify the peace treaty, join the League of Nations on the best terms it can bring itself to accept, and regain its self-respect.

Will the Republicans, who wouldn't let the Democrats do it but who now have everything in their own hands, kindly fix it up?

A CHILLING PICTURE.

The picture drawn by David Lawrence in The Herald last night of the probable appearance of the Harding cabinet is depressing—all the more so because Mr. Lawrence is so shrewd an observer and so good a guesser, and is by no means unfriendly to Mr. Harding.

Knox, bitter-ender opponent of the League of Nations, for secretary of state, with Root ignored. A cabinet largely of politicians chosen for political ends first instead of the ends of good government first. Every man a conservative, if not a reactionary, and not a single progressive Republican in the list. Hoover left out for fear his appointment might offend the farmers.

For the sake of the country, let's hope that for once in his life Mr. Lawrence has observed amiss and made a bad set of guesses.

THE SAFETY OF THE FRONT PORCH.

Does making a campaign before the country help a presidential candidate, or does it ruin him?

There are coincidences that make it look like poor business politically; but then there are circumstances that make it possible that they are only coincidences.

Bryan campaigned before the country to beat the band, and he lost every time; but then, though many loved him, the people didn't and don't trust his judgment, which is distinctly not good, though he means well.

Judge Hughes campaigned and lost, and probably lost because he did campaign; but there is at least an opening for the theory that he lost not so much because he campaigned as because, campaigning, he snubbed Hiram Johnson—though it must be very difficult for a good man to resist the temptation to do that. Bumptiousness invites snubbing.

Governor Cox campaigned and lost; yet it is clear that nothing on earth he could have done or refrained from doing would have saved him.

But then Parker in 1904 didn't do much campaigning, either. Hazy recollection pictures him as mostly going in swimming at Esopus. Yet his defeat was second only to that of Governor Cox. McKinley, Taft, Wilson and Harding campaigned little or not at all, and they won.

> —Publius Syrus (42 B. C.).

On the other hand Debs chose to remain quietly in his new home at Leavenworth, and yet seems not to have got far; but of course he doesn't count.

At any rate, there are circumstances enough, even if they are only coincidences, in favor of front-porching for presidential candidates, to make future campaign managers think very seriously before sending their candidates on campaign tours through the country.

RE-ENLIST IN THE RED CROSS.

Of course you are going to re-enlist in the great army of the American Red Cross.

Having had your part in the great work of this great agency of American mercy and tenderness during the war, you will not want to let your membership lapse.

For though the war is over, unhappily peace did not put an end to human misery and suffering. Want, disease and hardships still abound in this world, and you will feel that it is a glory to America that it has such an agency as the Red Cross to cope with them, and you will want to be a part of it.

The annual membership drive begins today—Armistice day—and lasts until Thanksgiving day.

It is not only your dollar that the Red Cross wants, but your heart, which prompts you to give the dollar it costs to be a member.

There is still a vast amount of work for the Red Cross to do in this country as well as abroad, and it is doing it and must keep on doing it. The nature of that work you will learn from articles elsewhere, where more space can be devoted to it. It is work that you want done, and that you want a share in doing. It is work worthy of Him who died on the cross that is the emblem of the society which your membership has helped to keep going.

The Red Cross total membership OUGHT to be the same as the population. The need of it remains so long as human beings are in pain and want. Keep it going; and give it the support of your dollar, your heart and your participation in its work.

THE PRINCIPLE IS WRONG.

There is before the city council, introduced at the request of the plumbing trade, a proposed ordinance providing that no plumbing work shall be done in this city except by licensed plumbers. This applies to both masters and journeymen.

While there is a colorable case for the principle of this ordinance, it is a wrong principle, and the ordinance should not be passed.

This issue has been studied out, fought out and decided adversely. The city in its new building code after very careful consideration chose to rely on thorough inspection rather than on the licensing system for its protection, and the choice was wise. Indeed, as we recall it the immediate occasion of the movement that resulted in the new building code was an attempt to introduce the licensing system in several trades associated with building. The outcome was what is generally considered the best building code in the country, and it definitely excludes the licensing plan. It should remain excluded.

Though the licensing plan is offered for the public benefit, really it is intended for the special benefit of the trade that offers it; and of course if it is set up in one trade it will be set up in others, if not in all. It virtually limits the community to its own master and journeymen plumbers; and while of course they should have all our business under all ordinary circumstances, it might happen that a building boom would provide more work than they could do, and then it would be awkward if outside help were virtually barred, as it would be by this ordinance. Again, such an ordinance would prove a nuisance if such a thing should happen as that local plumbers took advantage of their monopoly to combine and hold up prices inordinately.

So far as the public is concerned it is fully protected by the inspection provisions of the present building code. A licensing system would add nothing whatever to this protection. Therefore it is not needed, and as it is wrong in principle and contains possibilities of mischief besides it ought not to be adopted. The building code, until it develops inadequacies not now apparent, should be kept intact.

KEEP IT STANDING.

"Johnson Declares Fight to a Finish," says a newspaper headline.

It happens this time to mean Ban Johnson, and the fight is a baseball fight.

But wait a little, and keep the headline standing.

Presently it will do very nicely for Hiram Johnson, and the fight will be political, with its objective the Republican national convention of 1924.

Living High

New York Mail: The Bolshevist government is collapsing again. The only rations are raw apples. Inasmuch as we paid 10 cents for the last raw apple we had, it seems to us the Russians are living high.

Variety as the Main Issue

The Press on the Election Outcome.

With but few exceptions, editorial writers who analyze the reasons for the overwhelming Republican victory arrive at the same conclusion. As viewed by writers of both parties, the great underlying cause is "the desire of the American people for a change." But radical differences of opinion develop when this "desire for change" itself is analyzed. It is denounced as forcibly as it is justified, but it is admitted to be the determining factor.

"This blind desire for a change for change's sake," as the Richmond News-Leader (Ind. Dem.) expresses it, is, the Times Dispatch (Dem.) of the same city believes, "a physchological condition that was natural following the termination of the great war," but it is "unreasoning and illogical." The American people, as the New York World (Dem.) sees it, "did not know what kind of a change they wanted, and they do not know what kind of a change they voted for. All of the restlessness and discontent bred of the war has finally found expression in the ballot box, and the result is Warren G. Harding."

> Resentment both against the treaty and against the delay in the treaty, resentment both against the high prices that were here until the other day and against falling prices today; resentment against the "exactions" of labor up to the other day and against the industrial decline and rising unemployment today—all these opposites combined in one great weariness, into one mighty desire for change."

The same baffling, "diverse and conflicting feelings" that the Post finds are brought out as well in the Baltimore Sun (Ind. Dem.), which adds more specific criticism of the administration. "Friends of free speech denounced it because of Palmer and Burleson and enemies of free speech because of Louis Post and Fred Howe * * * In addition there was justifiable criticism of the administration at Washington because of extravagance and inefficiency * * *. So all of these groups voted pell-mell for Harding."

Whether justified or not, the "referendum," the Indianapolis News (Ind.) believes, has "beyond question spoken in favor of a change," because "men have felt that there has been an undemocratic tendency." Of this accumulated and wide-spread feeling of animosity toward the present administration, "the Republicans," says the New York Times (Ind. Dem.) "made the utmost use." They stirred up new and special hatred of the administration. With all the resources of exaggeration they laid upon it faults of which it had been guilty and invented new ones with which it could not honestly be charged." And, the Birmingham Age-Herald (Dem.) adds, they led the people "to believe that a vote for Cox was a vote for Wilson and a vindication of all his policies," and they succeeded "because the public was in a frame of mind to believe it." This organized resentment against the administration proved a handicap against which Cox "fought a gallant fight," but which he "could not overcome." The Democratic candidate, the Johnstown Democrat (Dem.) agrees, "elected to saddle himself with the accumulated grievances against the administration, and these have borne him down to a wholly undeserved defeat."

The Republican press agrees entirely that the basic reason was the "desire for change," but it denies that this was either "baseless or illogical." "No room is left for doubt as to the will of the American people," the Manchester Union (Rep.) declares. "It has lost its faith in Democratic leadership." Reaction against "Wilsonism and all that the term implies," accounts, in the opinion of the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph (Rep.) for "so nearly a unanimous verdict * * *. For this was the outstanding issue."

The Worcester Telegram (Rep.) feels that "candor compels the admission that Mr. Harding's election seems due no more to popular enthusiasm for the candidate's personality than to violent distrust of the existing administration." From the same viewpoint the Utica Press (Ind.) regards the vote as being cast "against Wilson, Wilsonism and one-man government" rather than "for any particular candidate." The Indianapolis Star (Ind. Rep.) states frankly that "Mr. Harding owes his election to the demand of the people for a change in parties and in men in Washington"; or, as the Boston Globe (Ind.) puts it, "not only for a change in faces at the window, but for new men to adopt new policies."

Overdoing Our Prejudices

New York Evening Post: We fought to consolidate the free peoples and have bred a swarm of race prejudices and national antagonisms worthy of the dark ages. Stranded cockney sailors in lower New York are cuffed for their British accent. Visiting Frenchmen hear their nation called names which we hope they do not understand.

It is all very sad, and more absurd, so much talk of glorious Allies, partners in freedom, hands across the sea; and such dark looks, sneers, contempt, suspicion. Thus Athens spoke of Sparta after the Persians had been defeated. Thus the Germans cursed the British after Waterloo. It is tragic and a little absurd when literature as never before is busied in every tongue with the foreigner. Americans appear (somewhat jerkily) in French stories; Englishmen, Italians even Japanese, are the heroes of American stories; Hindus, New Englanders, Frenchmen are common in British fiction.

In the flesh we lift the nose and wrinkle the lip. In print we read about each other with keen and increasing sympathy. And literature is right. Race prejudice has its functions. It tickles self-respect, helps to preserve morale. It is fundamental. But so are a child's love of dirt and a grown man's vanity. They need not be cherished as if they were rare virtues.

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON.

Promptness

I went to James Augustus Jones, and from him borrowed fifteen bones, the which I needed sore, for all my aunts were sick in bed, my divers children cried for bread, as they ne'er cried before. I said to Jones, "November 8 you'll see me waddle to your gate, to pay you every red; November 8, at half-past 10, I'll pull your latchstring once again, or you may know I'm dead." And Jones, he heaved a sickly smile, for he was wise to human guile, to promises that fail; and doubtless in his soul he sighed, "I'm stung again, dingbust my hide! I'll never see the kale!" November 8 dawned bright and fair, a hint of frost was in the air, the wind was east by west; and to the residence of Jones I tooled my worn and aching bones, the boodle in my vest. The clock was striking half-past 10 when I produced the iron men, and paid him every bean; and after one astonished yell, poor Jones, he had a fainting spell, with spasms in between. His senses once again restored, "My faith in human men," he roared, "you've surely bolstered up; my jaded soul you've filled with peace, and you may wed my fattest niece, and use my pointer pup." And Jones has given me renown in all the byways of the town as one who keeps his word, and wheresoever I may go, the people say that I'm a jo, a looloo and a bird.

The Earthquake

By Savoyard.

Washington, Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In 1872 an old Confederate soldier, a Kentuckian, who zealously and enthusiastically voted for Horace Greeley because of the magnanimous greeting of brotherly love that great man tendered him and his at the close of the war—this old Confederate picked up his paper and saw the heading announcing the Republican victory, when he exclaimed:

"Landslide hell! It was an earthquake!"

And Harding's victory forty-eight years later is far more sweeping than was Grant's. The Republicans have captured the country. They have been given full power to do as they see fit. Lodge and Penrose are vindicated, and so are Johnson and Borah. Bull Moose Kansas and standpat Pennsylvania are not only reconciled, but are in perfect accord.

The "Hyphen" is the victor. He dominates our two foreign metropolises—New York and Chicago—and they went overwhelmingly for Harding. Every voter who applauded the sinking of the Lusitania and every Irishman who hopes for a war of extermination between the United States and Great Britain, rejoices over the election returns. It is a German victory in that had the congress, April 7, 1917, been in the humor the country was in Nov. 2, 1920, we would not have been a party belligerent to the war.

* * *

The people have spoken and their mandate to the Harding administration is to "scrap the League of Nations" and repudiate it toto caelo. Taft and Root, Hughes and President Lowell of Harvard may prattle about "reservations" and things till they are "blue, black and mulatto," but nobody is going to pay the slightest attention to them. That fond lover of England, the New York Tribune, may regret the league, but it did yeoman service in the ranks of the enemies of the league and it must bow to the will of the people.

That the league will live I doubt not; but that our glorious Union will be a party to it until it has achieved its blessed ends, now seems out of the question. If the league triumphs we will gain immensely. The profit will be ours—the filthy lucre of the profit; but the glory of it we will in no degree share, and if the league shall unfortunately fail, ours will be the shame of it, for we could have made its complete triumph inevitable.

* * *

It is the greatest political victory any party ever achieved in our glorious Union. It saddles responsibility for everything upon the victor. There is unrest in every community from ocean to ocean. It is natural, it is inevitable, and results from the tremendous convulsion of the World war. Ten millions of lives were lost on the field of battle. Three hundred billions of property were destroyed. Lunacy swept over the globe, and of course the party in power everywhere was discredited. Grand old Clemenceau, who saved France, was repudiated by France immediately after the negotiation of the treaty of peace; there is unrest in England that will overwhelm that consummate opportunist, Lloyd George, sooner or later. The Italian administration that fought the war has been overthrown. And now the Wilson administration is rebuked. The world is in agony and smites indiscriminately and blindly.

And unless peace comes to one world, until the work of reconstruction is far advanced, the unrest of the world will not cease, and two years hence an "earthquake" will overtake and engulf the G. O. P. in our glorious Union. The Republican leaders must do something. Abuse of Wilson will no longer serve. Wisdom must preside in the administration council and efficiency must appear in administration action.

We Democrats are now in the minority. We no longer are required to defend. We become the assailants and there is a deal more fun in assault than in defense. There is some comfort in that.

The Struggle of Science Against Mysticism

James Harvey Robinson in Harper's Magazine: In order that modern science might develop it is clear that a wholly new and opposed set of fundamental convictions had to be substituted for those of the Middle Ages. Man had to cultivate another kind of self-importance and a new and more profound humility. He had come to believe in his capacity to discover important truth through thoughtful examination of things about him, and he had to recognize, on the other hand, that the world did not seem to be made for him, but that humanity was apparently a curious incident in the universe and its career a recent episode in cosmic history. He had to acquire a taste for the simplest possible and most thoroughgoing explanation of things. His aspirations must drive him to reduce everything so far as possible to the commonplace. This new view was inevitably hotly attacked by the mystically disposed. They misunderstood and berated him and accused him of robbing man of all that was most precious in life. He was thus goaded into bitterness and denounced his opponents as pig-headed obscurantists.

But we must, after all, come to terms with the emotions underlying mysticism. They are very precious to us, and scientific knowledge will never form an adequate substitute for them. No one need fear that the supply of mystery will ever give out; but a great deal depends on our taste in mystery; that certainly needs refining. What disturbs the so-called rationalist in the mystic's attitude is his propensity to see mysteries where there are none and to fail to see those that we cannot possibly escape. When one declares, like myself, that he is not a mystic, he makes no claim to be able to explain everything, nor does he maintain that all things are explicable in scientific terms. Indeed, no, thoughtful person will be likely to boast that he can fully explain anything. We have only to scrape the surface of our experiences to find fundamental mystery. And how indeed, as descendants of an extinct race of primates, with a mind still in the early stages of accumulation, should we be in the way of reaching ultimate truth at any point? One may urge, however, that as sharp a distinction as possible be made between fictitious mysteries and the unavoidable ones which surround us on every side. How milk turned sour used to be a real mystery, now partially solved since the discovery of bacteria; how the witch flew up the chimney was a gratuitous mystery with which we need no longer trouble ourselves. A "live" wire would once have suggested magic; now it is partially explained by the doctrine of electrons.

"Discontent"--and Bombs

The Weekly Review: We ought to remove any causes of discontent whose removal would improve social conditions without bringing about evils greater than those they remove, but we ought to remove them because it is right, and not because it will stop outrage and murder, for it will not. As for curbing agitation by legitimate methods for political and social change, that neither can nor ought to be done. It ought not to be done because such agitation is a fundamental right of freemen; it cannot be done because any attempt to do it only drives the agitation into more secret and therefore more dangerous channels.

Going the Pace

Louisville Courier-Journal: "What kind of a time is he having on his motor trip?"

"Guess he's having a pretty lively time. He sent me a picture postcard of a hospital."

A Story With a Moral

Tulsa Tribune: A 138-year-old Indian died as the result of burning to death when his clothing ignited from sparks from his pipe. Which is proof enough that one should not begin the use of tobacco too early in life.

Health Talks

By William Brady, M. D.

The Bogey-Man

A sweet little patient, one of the brightest little patients I ever had, used to positively welcome my visits, even when she herself was sick. She would submit to any necessary examination, such as letting the doctor thrust a tongue depressor down her throat or telephone all over her chest, with unfailing cheer. Then, suddenly, at about the age of 3 years, she changed into the most difficult patient, screaming and crying at the doctor's arrival and fighting wildly against any examination or even a tender look. The child's mother was blessed with extraordinary good sense and had trained her well. The mother had been accidentally carried off, and some old fashioned aunts assumed charge of the child. These kindly-intentioned, but amateurish, maiden ladies at once began what they called moral suasion. One of their favorite disciplinary methods was to threaten to call the doctor if the child did not do thus and so. Naturally the coming of the doctor assumed terrifying proportions in the child's mind, despite her previous experiences. Bad enough for aunts to perpetrate such an injustice, but what shall we say of parents who deliberately instill in children's minds just such false fears?

A child does not naturally fear the dark, or the thunder, or the bogey-man or anything of the kind unless taught to do so. And a child is a great observer. You need not tell your child that thunder will not hurt her if you have a sneaking fear of it yourself. You can't make your child fearless of going to bed in the dark if you yourself are secretly afraid of the dark. You can't fool a child at all.

I have in mind a boy now 11 years old who will stand and scream and cry on the street or anywhere if a dog playfully approaches him or passes nearby. The boy's father is afraid of dogs, too, although he indignantly denies this when you mention it. Yet I have seen him go far out of his way in order to avoid a harmless little dog.

A woman, grown, with children of her own now, runs and hides whenever it thunders. Her mother was similarly obsessed. Her children suffer from this groundless fear, although she imagines they have not noticed her running off to hide when it thunders. She thinks they inherit the fear. They inherit nothing but good eyesight and good hearing. Precept won't change them; they learn by example.

You can't tell a child "it won't hurt" if it does hurt. Nor should you attempt to deceive the child, if you have the child's own interest at heart. Honesty is not only the best policy, it is the only policy to adopt for the rearing of children. You may be a fine, finished liar, but you can't fool your own child.

When there's a bogey-man about we may be sure some child is getting a mighty poor bringing up.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Danger of Change.

Do you think it weakens one to change the clothing often when it is very damp from perspiration? I am 46

Answer: No.

Cutting Teeth.

Is there any danger to be feared when an 8-month-old child cuts her double teeth? (F. M. W.)

Answer: No. Variations from the usual time or period of eruption of the teeth are of little significance and in any case no risk is involved.

The H. M. F. B.

You recommended a hot mustard foot bath in bed as the best treatment for most respiratory infections in which a chill or chilliness is a symptom at the onset. Would a mustard poultice placed on the feet, be as effective? How is a hot mustard foot bath in bed to be taken? (L. B. D.)

Answer: The purpose is to produce dilation of the surface blood vessels, flushing, or if possible, sweating. A mustard poultice is not a substitute. A hot mustard foot bath should be taken in bed, if at all, and, of course, it requires a nurse to administer it. No alleged "cold" remedy can compare with the h. m. f. b., properly administered. It is good economy for one "threatened" or coming down with such an illness to summon a visiting or hourly nurse, if there is no one in the family sufficiently trained in home nursing, to give the h. m. f. b. If this were more generally the rule, instead of indulging in heart-depressing dope purporting to "break up" such infections (which, of course, no medicine does), it would be far better for the health of the people.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinius, the Sunshine Man, Dayton, Ohio.

It is ill being an inhabitant in any place where God is an exile.—G. Swinnock, 1673.

Friendship founded on the principles of worldly morality recognized by virtuous heathens such as that which subsisted between Atticus and Cicero—which the last of these illustrious men has rendered immortal—is fitted to survive through all the vicissitudes of life; but it belongs only to a union founded on religion to continue through an endless duration. The former of these stood the shock of conflicting opinions, and of a revolution that shook the world; the latter is destined to survive when the heavens are no more, and to spring fresh from the ashes of the universe. The former possessed all the stability which is possible to sublunary things; the latter partakes of the eternity of God. Friendship founded on worldly principles is natural, and though composed of the best elements of nature, is not exempt from its mutability and frailty; the latter is spiritual and therefore unchanging and imperishable. The friendship which is founded apart from the piety, is permitted by kindred tastes and congenial habits, the benignity of Providence to embellish a world which, with all its magnificence and beauty, will shortly pass away and that which has religion for its basis will ere long be transplanted, in order to adorn the paradise of God.—Robert Hall.

Saturday

Yes, youngsters, half a holiday—I mind the maples blazed
Like flame against the smoky sky; the goldenrod was brown,
Across a stretch of searing hills the lazy cattle grazed;
And all the little neighborhood was on the way to town.

We clanked across the crisping fields, tired bay by tired gray—
The house was primed for company from roof to shining floor;
White, starchy curtains blowing in, fresh hung for Sabbath day,
And spicy oven smells afloat from out the kitchen door.

Fresh garments lay upon the bed in our wee lofty room.
We shared the cloudy looking glass with conscious boyish pride
To wield our new and shining blades, and feared a bloody doom
As, wavering on cheek and chin, we felt their keenness slide.

Yes, youngsters, half a holiday—the maple road at last
And other wheels to race our own, a happy-hearted way—
For some good genie stole an hour when all the rest were past
And consecrated it to youth and called it Saturday.

Around North Dakota With the Pen Pushers

Breezy Comments on Current Topics by State's Live Newspapers.

Must Give and Take

Fargo Forum: Tolerance is needed in North Dakota now, if we are to escape a condition bordering on chaos in our governmental affairs.

And tolerance can be achieved in North Dakota, if we get back to the government of North Dakota by North Dakotans, and only if we do.

The Forum earnestly appeals to the successful candidates whom it has helped to elect, as well as to the Nonpartisan league officials and legislators, to view the situation that now exists in North Dakota from the broadest possible standpoint, to think first of the welfare of the state and to submerge factional quarrels and issues just as far as it is humanly possible to do so.

A Big Chore Ahead

Bismarck Tribune: It was a glorious victory, but brings with it responsibilities which the Republican party cannot dodge. It must make good and bring relief from some of the conditions that have been stifling progress.

A Cause for Thanksgiving

Langdon Farmers' Press: It is a real Thanksgiving season for the American people if they will only lay aside their factional differences now the election is over and do their part in the readjustment of the commercial and economic problems that follow as a legacy of the war. Both social and political conditions in the United States contrast favorably when viewed alongside of the turmoil in which every country in the old world is acting its fearsome part. Indeed there will be found much cause for every true-hearted, patriotic American giving thanks on the Thanksgiving day of this year that he is a citizen of the United States and has Old Glory afloat over a land that he is proud to call his home.

The End in Sight

Grand Forks Herald: The result of the election in North Dakota is a victory for the independent forces of the state and a repudiation of Townley and everything that Townley stands for, notwithstanding the fact that men chosen by Townley will continue to occupy certain state offices for the ensuing two years.

The conclusion is unavoidable that Townley has reached the end of his tether in North Dakota, and the slaughter to which his forces have been subjected in other states must be exceedingly discouraging to him.

Defied the Boss and Proud of It

Valley City Times-Record: Mr. Townley's threat of boycott was met in Valley City by the people giving Mr. O'Connor the largest majority of any town in the state, according to the population. The people here were so scared that they gave O'Connor about 1,200 majority. That does not look like they were scared to any alarming extent.

An Able Race

Devils Lake Journal: Inside and outside of Greece its citizens reveal both business and political capacity and a high sense of civic ideals. That they, as a democracy, cannot manage Greece better than the Glucksburg line is one of those fictions that may be useful to intriguers but is hardly suited to the spirit of the times. At all events, even if the extinction of the ruling dynasty be postponed through the accession of Paul, the inevitable freedom of the Hellenes from kingly rule is well within prospect.

Accounting for It

Greenville, S. C., Piedmont: There are 30,000 poets in Japan—but living in Japan is very, very cheap.

Knoxville Journal and Tribune: The hand can go back to rocking the cradle for a few years now.

THE OPEN COURT

Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about topics of general interest, but discussion of sectarian, religious differences is barred. Letters must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.

All letters must be written on one side of the paper only.

The Herald does not publish original verse. Contributions of this nature that are submitted for the editor's perusal must be accompanied by a stamped and addressed envelope, if their return is desired. Otherwise no manuscript will be returned.

THE "ROOT COURT."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In an editorial under the above caption in the News Tribune of Nov. 7 it is stated: "Now that the war is over, what has become known as the Root court of the League of Nations will certainly have more consideration. * * * The plan supplies what was one of the most marked omissions of the Covenant."

The foregoing is another fraudulent statement of the News Tribune. The court was not omitted from the Covenant, and no plan has been supplied which was not already provided by the Covenant. Article 14 of the Covenant provides: "The council shall formulate and submit to the members of the league for adoption plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice. The court shall be competent to hear and determine any dispute of an international character which the parties shall submit to it," etc. Pursuant to Article 14, the council appointed several jurists, including Mr. Root, to formulate plans for such a court and submit them to the members of the league for the establishment of such court. That is all Mr. Root had to do with establishing the court, but the News Tribune, indirectly, deceitfully, represents that Mr. Root was responsible for an amendment to the league providing for the establishment of the court theretofore omitted from the league.

The Versailles league has been called by its enemies the Wilson league in order to discredit it; the court established by virtue of the league is now called the Root court in order to give it respectability and to steal the credit due Mr. Wilson as a member of the treaty commission.

In the editorial above referred to it is further stated: "It will be noticed that the court is tied up to, and interwoven with, the league, somewhat as Mr. Wilson scrambled the league with the treaty. It is for this reason the News Tribune has considered approval of the court and disapproval of the league."

The scrambling of league and treaty by an orthodox Democrat is disapproved; the subsequent scrambling of the Root court, league and treaty by an orthodox Republican is highly approved.

On May 8, 1919, the News Tribune published what purported to be the preliminary draft of the treaty; and in an editorial—"The Peace Treaty"—on or about that date, it was stated: "Of most interest and importance to Americans is the interweaving of the treaty with the League of Nations. The News Tribune approves this."

Subsequently the league became the victim of the most infamous conspiracy of partisan politicians ever known in our history. Again and again it was pronounced dead, dead. During that period the News Tribune practiced such deceit and chicanery in opposition to the league that it cannot now tell the truth even if it were to its advantage. J. C. HESSIAN.

A MOTHER-IN-LAW TO LIKE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading much in the Open Court in regard to mothers-in-law. Mrs. "C. R." says she feels so sorry for the mothers as they read the awful things said about them. I, too, have a kind mother-in-law and she wouldn't try to put the shoe on as she knows it would not fit her, but my first experience was anything but pleasant. I can't help feeling sorry for the women that have the kind of mothers-in-law who are constantly finding fault when you are just starting in and have lots to learn, and who think that their son is being abused.

Now, I am sure if a man's wife loves him she is going to do all in her power to please him, also please his mother if it can be done. I will say I would feel terrible if my mother was living to have my husband even dislike, let alone hate her, but who can help it if they have this kind. Now, I am not a constant knocker. I appreciate a kind mother-in-law, too, as I surely love the mother I have now. I can tell her anything and she can talk to me like she does to her own daughter, in fact on subjects some girls do not with their own mother. We are soon married three years and I can say hubby and I have never yet had one word over his mother. She comes to see us quite often, but not often enough, and when she does she is as welcome as my own mother if she was alive. You wouldn't find her looking to see what she can find to criticize or say, "Why don't you do this and that" or "you go out too much" and "you buy too much." She likes to see me have a good time and will take my baby at anytime to let me go. Now, who can help loving a mother like this? She loves her son just as much as the mother who is always feeling as if her son would not be treated kindly unless she was right on the job to see that he was.

Now, I am sure that the mothers who read this and are being this kind of a mother-in-law know that the pieces in the Open Court are not meant for all mothers-in-law and will not take them to heart. MRS. J. N.

Duluth, Nov. 9.

GOLDEN RULE THE BEST GUIDE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A word in favor of our mothers-in-law I am sure will not be out of place. The old Bible injunction, "Do unto others as you want others to do unto you," is a good thing to be guided by.

If our motive is right, not even mother-in-law would object to our singing around the house, but to yell, slam doors and push our furniture around in a defiant manner is not only a mark of poor breeding, but is enough to arouse antagonism in a saint.

A little more love and consideration expressed on both sides and less selfishness would not go amiss but would be the means of bringing about harmony in every home and mother-in-law would be a welcome guest.

A DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It will take more than C. Anderson's bitter denunciation of the Sinn Feiners to blight their spirit or convince the public. Where did that gentleman get his information as to the happy conditions in Ireland? And he announces that "for more than twenty years a small party in Ireland has been attempting to arouse a spirit of Irish nationality." The Irish people have had that spirit for 700 years, in spite of England's efforts to crush it. And "almost all Irish people spoke English," Mr. Anderson further illuminates. But I wonder if he knows why the Irish language was almost unknown? It would be well if Mr. Anderson read some authentic Irish history, written by someone with a name more Irish than his own. It would also be well for him and others of his stripe to remember that Norway gained her independence from Sweden because she longed for it, without any revolution. Norway was of importance to Sweden and very close to her, yet these far-seeing, intelligent people believed it unprofitable to hold a people unwilling subjects. Why is the situation so different in Ireland?

Those patriots of the revolution that Mr. Anderson wouldn't compare the Irish to, were Irish, many of them. We read of Sullivan, Barry and Knox in colonial history, Jackson and Calhoun in later history. Maybe Mr. Anderson knows as little of Irish history and of American history as he does about the entire Irish question. At any rate, little is gained by calling names, and I believe the Irish will survive without Mr. Anderson's help. E. C. D. M.

POEMS ASKED FOR.

AN AUTOGRAPH ALBUM.

Sometimes when I am rummaging
I come across a hidden spring
Which, when I touch, reveals to me
A maze of tender memory,
A book—now quaintly out of place—
And on its cover I can trace
Its title, "Autographs" in gold,
With here and there a fleck of mold.
Inside, I see "Presented to—
My name—in shades of red and blue
I turn its leaves, now dim with age,
And, as I read page after page,
Life's weariness begins to flit,
From off my shoulders, bit by bit,
For 'tis refreshing when one sees
Such old-time sentiments as these;
"Within your life's fair garden spot,
Oh, plant one flower forget-me-not,"
'Twas written there by Bessie Howe.

I wonder where is Bessie now!
"In after years when this you see,
Put on your specs and think of me."
Ah! this was Bessie's brother Jim—
How long since I have thought of him!
"Sure as the grass grows round the stump
You are my darling sugar lump,"
He's now state senator, Tom Brown,
But at that time the village clown.
"While sailing o'er life's restless tide,
May constant joys with thee abide."
Whose but a mother's guiding hand
This happy voyage could have planned!
And, as I read in simple rhyme,
These wishes, comic and sublime,
They seem to speak through moth and rust,
With such a childlike trust,
That in their autographs I find
A sweeter faith in all mankind.

"Whole Family Got Good Results From Mentho-Laxene Cough Medicine."

Universal endorsement of a medicine which is "guaranteed or money back" means something to every family, in the high-cost-of-living days. If you fail to get satisfaction, you can ask for your money back—less than fifty people in 10 years have ever asked for their money back, and that is a real endorsement. Mentho-Laxene is concentrated—a small bottle is made into a full pint of cough syrup, by adding home-made sugar syrup or honey.

Mrs. Oscar Pittack, Albany, N. Y., writes: "I have been using your Mentho-Laxene cough syrup and it gives the whole family good results, and I think there is nothing on the globe to beat it for I tried most everything, but nothing like Mentho-Laxene for prompt relief." Especially good for children and elderly people, because it is pleasant to use and absolutely pure. For colds, coughs, hoarseness, bronchitis difficult breathing, tightness of severe colds, there is nothing that acts so quickly and surely. Your druggist has it—or can get it from the jobbers. Do try it.—Advertisement.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: NOV. 14.

Matthew viii, ix: Power and Authority of Jesus.

CONNECTION.

It was soon after the "sermon on the mount." He was back at His headquarters in Capernaum, after healing a leper on the way. This lesson gives one striking instance of healing in response to a very remarkable faith in Him and then tells of the way He was in the habit of doing, followed by some instructions to the disciples. This was in the summer or spring of A. D. 28.

THE LESSON.

I.

An Instance of Faith, viii, 5-13.

"And when He was entered into Capernaum, there came unto Him a centurion, beseeching Him, and saying, Lord, my servant lieth in the house sick of the palsy, grievously tormented. And He saith unto him, I will come and heal him. And the centurion answered and said, Lord, I am not worthy that Thou shouldest come under my roof; but only say the word, and my servant shall be healed. For I also am a man under authority, having under myself soldiers; and I say to this one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it. And when Jesus heard it, he marveled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel. And I say unto you, that many shall come from the east and the west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of heaven; but the sons of the kingdom shall be cast forth into the outer darkness; there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth. And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And the servant was healed in that hour."

1. UNEXPECTED.—He was a soldier reared to a service that takes the poetry and tenderness out of life, a Roman soldier, presumably with the hard spirit of the imperial city—and yet he had a tender heart. He was a master, and among Romans a master had the power of life and death over his servants—and yet he loved his servant as a friend. He was in a calling that made men mercenary and rapacious, leading men to value servants only for their service—but he valued his servant for his personal worth. He was a Gentile—and yet had risen above the inherited and aggravated prejudices with which Jews and Gentiles regarded each other. He had been a worshiper of Roman deities, but had come to see that the true God had revealed Himself to the Jews and had given them His written word. He loved truth well enough to be drawn by it over many and mighty obstacles. He was a man of authority, accustomed to being obeyed, yet he stoops, with a beautiful humility, to ask the Jewish leaders to help him bring his needs before another Jew, the great healer, Jesus. He was sincere and benevolent, for, instead of using His great wealth in luxurious living, He had shown His gratitude to those from whom He had learned the truth, by building for them a synagogue at his own expense. Yes, he was a rare man. Many noble Romans, men and women, had abandoned their degrading heathenism for the worship of the true God, and they would be subjected to the scorn and persecution of their fellow heathen.

2. COMPLETE.—His faith was humble, since he felt unworthy to receive Jesus into his house, although a Roman officer. His faith was intelligent and not the usual blind Oriental credulity which credited great men with the power to heal diseases. Jesus destroys superstition and credulity. It was a reasoned faith. He had heard of what Jesus had done, probably had heard of his curing another centurion's son at a distance, some months before, and reasoned to a conclusion. He showed a marked grasp of Christ's character. He himself, as a Roman officer, needed only command a servant and he would obey, because he was under authority of the Roman government and when he spoke Rome spoke. So he reasoned that Jesus was under the authority of heaven and when He spoke God spoke. His faith was rational. It was also unselfish, in the interest of his servant. It was loving, for it had overcome the prejudices of the Jewish people and won their approval.

3. REWARDED.—It was rewarded, first of all, by the encomium of Jesus when He said it was the most perfect instance He had seen in anyone. Twice Jesus "marveled," once at the unbelief of His countrymen in Nazareth, now at this foreigner's faith. He takes time to give His warm approval, for it was more important that the man have this faith than have his servant back. Jesus appreciates health of soul more than health of body. It was a sign to Jesus that other Gentiles would have faith. In imagination He saw people coming from the distant and divers points of the moral compass, from North, South, East and West, from "the ends of the earth," to have the same privileges in the kingdom of God that faith had secured to the old worthies.

The other reward He gave the man was the direct answer to his prayer. "The will of Christ outstripped them" and the servant rose from his sickbed. Not a word had Jesus spoken, but His will had acted. That was the center of His work. Jesus didn't embarrass the man by going home with him, not then, at any rate. A man's faith moved that will to action. "All things are possible to him that believeth."

4. SORROW.—It gave Jesus sorrow to know that many of His own people who had been trained and had received many opportunities would reject Him, in spite of the overwhelming reasons for faith in Him. Thus it ever is.

II.

The Need of Helpers. ix, 35-38.

"And Jesus went about all the cities and the villages, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom and healing all manner of disease and all manner of sickness. But when He saw the multitudes He was moved with compassion for them because they were distressed and scattered as sheep not having a shepherd. Then saith He unto His disciples, The harvest indeed is plenteous but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that He send forth laborers into His harvest."

1. NEEDY.—He saw three kinds of need, bodily, intellectual and spiritual, and he met them all, constantly doing three kinds of work, healing sick and diseased people, for the number and extent of diseases was shocking, teaching them the truths of their Scriptures, which were distressingly misunderstood, and preaching with those wonderful appeals to trust God and sin no more. Those needs pulled at His heart constantly. In each respect the people were like a shepherdless flock, starving, exposed to perils of the cliffs and the wolves and the robbers, and He felt their lostness.

2. EFFORTS.—He sought to meet those needs, by doing all three kinds of work and by going everywhere in Galilee and working all the time.

3. HELP.—He needed help, their help, and the help of other workers. That help is to come through prayer. Pray for new recruits for the ministry. If you pray you will offer yourself and your friends and your children; and you will offer the work to them. There is still aching need. Pray.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The mere forthputting of the divine will without media or other divine act, is adequate to produce and sustain the universe. The sign manual of deity is stamped on Christ's works. He rebukes diseases and they cease. He speaks to howling tempests and roaring billows, and there is a great calm. He flings a word into the grave, and Lazarus stumbles out, dazzled, into the light. All creatures, all forces of the universe, are his soldiers; and at the bare word of that "imperator" the embattled and ordered hosts move and act. No grander, truer thought of Christ's sway, its sweep and its manner, can be attained than this heathen soldier had learned from the dreadful instrument of war as a part of which he was at once subordinate and authoritative.—McLaren.

Our Savior seemed driven to rescue the unfortunate by an impulse as irresistible as that which impels people in danger to run away. Without this holy impulse of helpfulness, pity has no moral quality.—Goss.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Is personal affection between employer and employe practicable?
2. How does real faith kill superstition?
3. Why is deliberate agnosticism irrational and immoral?
4. Does Christ wish to bestow on us right now everything we really need?
5. Why do we not have more young men seeking to be ministers?

ST. PAUL WOMAN IS NOW ENTHUSIASTIC

Could Hardly Eat or Sleep Before She Got Tanlac—Health Restored.

The way Mrs. A. Kostner of 194 W. Fairfield Ave., St. Paul, Minn., talks regarding the benefits she has derived from the use of Tanlac is just the way thousands of grateful men and women everywhere are praising the medicine.

"Tanlac has completely relieved me of troubles that had been pulling me down for two years," said Mrs. Kostner, "and I'm just as grateful as I can be toward the medicine. My appetite was so poor that I ate little more than enough to keep body and soul together and was in a terribly rundown condition. There were certain foods I didn't dare eat at all, and at times I would become badly nauseated. I was so nervous I didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep and was simply miserable.

"I saw where Tanlac was benefiting so many others that I began taking it myself, and it has given me a ravenous appetite, and has put me in the best of health again. I'm feeling just fine now in every way and am certainly thankful to Tanlac for setting me right."

Tanlac is sold in Duluth at the W. A. Abbett drug stores under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. Also the leading druggist in every town throughout the Northwest. Wm. Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HIGHWAY FROM PARK TO PARK

Convention to Ask $100,000,000 for Hard-Surfacing Roads.

Denver, Col., Nov. 11.—The initial convention of the National Park-to-Park Highway association, with nearly 100 delegates in attendance, opened here today with a program calling for congressional aid for the twelve most Westerly states in raising $100,000,000 for hard-surfacing the 5,600 miles of dirt roads that serve as connecting links to form the National Park-toPark highway. The convention will last three days.

Stephen T. Mather, director of the National Park service, officials of the American Automobile association, the Rotarians, Optimists and other Western organizations are participating. The National Park-to-Park Highway association will be put on a permanent organization basis, and state and local branches formed in twelve states and 100 cities of the West.

Want It Federal Highway.

Congress will be memorialized to make this a Federal highway, roughly circling nine Western states, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona and New Mexico and connecting eleven national parks.

Representatives of the governors of these states, as well as Utah, Nevada and Texas, are attending the conference, which marks the close of the official tour dedicating this American motor way, with the start and finish in Denver. The trip required seventy-six days, noon and night meetings being held in towns on the route to arouse the West to a greater apreciation of its scenic, industrial and agricultural possibilities.

This wonder highway in the form of a lariat loop embraces an area greater than continental Europe, touching in the course of its scenic running noose, Mesa Verde, Rocky Mountain, Yellowstone, Glacier, Mount Rainer, Crater Lake, Lassen, Yosemite, Sequoia, General Grant and Grand Canyon national parks. A branch road will some day connect Zion national park in Utah. Cheyenne, Great Falls, Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Denver are on the route.

body in it working together for Democratic success next time.

Keep Alive League Issue.

Speaking of the spirit of the Democrats, they do not regard the defeat as a slap at the League of Nations but merely as the natural reaction of the American people to their war government, a reaction parallel to the political overturning of other governments in Europe. Indeed, the Democrats have not the slightest intention of abandoning the League of Nations as an issue. They mean to keep it alive and fight for that during the next four years. They plan to keep intact the movement of Republicans and Democrats who, under Prof. Irving Fisher, constituted an independent pro-league organization.

The Democrats are joyful for another reason. They couldn't get much money during the early days of the campaign and didn't begin to get funds in any quantity until the last part of September, but checks keep flowing in even after election and the confident prediction is made by the leaders that the deficit estimated between $200,000 and $300,000 will soon be collected and a new fund for reorganization provided.

Underwood Leader in Congress.

As for leadership, the prospect is that Senator Underwood will be the real leader in congress. And he is a man who believes in caucus and party harmony and not in imposing his own views. He gave an example of leadership in the days just before Democratic success in 1912 and won prestige enough to be regarded as a presidential possibility. He is personally popular and will have little difficulty in getting co-operation.

Outside of the halls of congress the question of leadership of a defeated party is more or less abstract anyway. Woodrow Wilson himself will have a few things to say in print, just as Theodore Roosevelt used to do, and probably the influence of Mr. Wilson will not be without considerable effect. Instead of one gun bombarding the Republicans, the Democrats expect to have several. The taxation program of the Republicans will be scrutinized with special care, as will the effort of the Republicans to cut down the cost of living and bring back Liberty bonds to par, as pledged in the campaign by President-elect Harding.

Call Attention to Mistakes.

All this may sound premature partisanship but the Democrats have determined not to embarrass the next president in any way, but merely to keep calling the attention of the public to mistakes that may be made. The Democrats feel that the success of America has been by party government and the activity of one political party in always acting as a check on the other. Instead of letting the Republicans have the whole field to themselves without criticism, the Democrats conceive it to be their patriotic duty to play the part of opposition party just as the Republicans did in the last few years. And the curious part of it all is the sublime confidence of the Democrats that they will recapture both houses of congress within the next two years.

Every woman in England so bereft who applied for a place got it, but less than half the other applicants for seats were successful, owing to the lack of space.

After the 100 had been seated, the next to be considered were those mothers who lost their only sons, or all their sons, and then came women who lost their husbands only. They were given positions in accordance with the price they had paid during the war. A girl who wrote she had lost nine brothers killed or missing, was given a ticket, as also was a 12-year-old boy who wrote: "The man in the coffin might be my daddy." In all 8,000 tickets were issued.

Honored by Foch.

The body of the unknown soldier arrived here last night, after it had been honored by Marshal Foch and other military officials in France from the time it was exhumed until the escort of French destroyers turned for home after seeing the English destroyer Verdun, which bore the body, safely into the harbor of Dover. It was brought to London in the same railway car used to transport the bodies of Edith Cavill, the nurse, who was executed by the Germans, and Capt. Charles Fryatt, the British captain of a British merchant steamer, who also met death before a German firing squad. It lay last night in a room especially set apart and fitted for it in Victoria station, and a guard of honor remained there until morning.

The immediate guard which escorted the body on its trip through the crowded and silent streets from the station to Whitehall was composed of 100 men of all services who won the Victoria cross. The pall bearers were field marshals and admirals of the fleet, including Viscount Douglas Haig, Earl Beatty, admiral of the grand fleet, and Maj.-Gen. Sir Hugh Trenchard, commander of British air forces. Battalions of guards, with their bands and a few officials made up the balance of the escort.

Field Marshal's Salute.

The cortege proceeded through Grosvenor gardens and Grosvenor place to Hyde Park and thence to Buckingham palace, Pall Mall and Whitehall. As the procession started from the station, a battery in Hyde Park fired a field marshal's salute of nineteen guns, and just as the coffin was lowered into the grave another battery of horse guards fired the same salute.

The grave was filled with soil brought from the grave from which the body was exhumed in France, and was covered by what is known as the "padre's flag," one of the most famous flags figuring in the recent war. It was taken to France early in the struggle by a chaplain who used it scores of times at funerals on the field and it has been much coveted by many regiments to which the chaplain has loaned it for short periods.

Not in recent years has London seen such detailed police precautions. Extra strong barricades had been constructed at every approach to Whitehall and the abbey, and every man that could be spared was on duty, or was held in reserve near Whitehall. Premises even blocks away were boarded or protected by steel shutters. After the ceremonies the barricades were opened, and when the witnesses had passed out, all who cared to were allowed to go into Whitehall, pass the cenotaph and place wreaths on it. Long lines began to file past immediately, and it seemed the solemn march would continue for hours.

SOLEMNITY MARKS DAY

Gun Carriage Attracts Attention.

The gun carriage on which rested the coffin of the unknown soldier attracted greater attention than the car bearing the heart of Gambetta. All last night huge crowds filled Place Denefert-Rochereau, waiting the arrival of the body from Verdun. This body was chosen from among eight others last night by Private August Thin, a native of Caen, Brittany, who was a volunteer during the war. At the request of Andre Maginot, minister of pensions, the veteran placed his hand on one coffin lying in state in the Verdun citadel. The work of collecting the remains of more than 320,000 French soldiers who were killed at Verdun is now going on, the bodies being destined to be placed in the Ossuarie of Fort Douaumont, where a chapel is being erected.

At 9:30 o'clock the procession reached the Pantheon, where President Millerand made a short address. It then continued down Boulevard St. Michel and Boulevard St. Germain, crossing the Seine by the chamber of deputies bridge. It circled Place de la Concorde, passing the statues of Lille and Strausberg, and proceeded up the Champs Elysees. It reached the Arc de Triomphe at noon.

At 11 o'clock, the second anniversary of the armistice, silent homage to America's dead on European battlefields was presaged by a rumble of artillery from the lake front. The national colors and service flags were displayed all over the city.

Parades and Reunions.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Armistice day was observed today throughout Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware by parades of service men's organizations, informal reunions, dances and the presentation of Victory medals to members of American Legion posts. In many interior towns and cities, schools were closed and business suspended. Virtually all of the mines in the anthracite coal region were shut down at noon.

Parades were held in many sections of the city, and at 11 o'clock church bells were rung and factory and ship sirens were blown as a symbol of the ending of the World war two years ago.

30,000 Parade.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 11.—More than 30,000 Allegheny county men who served in the World war overseas paraded here today in celebration of Armistice day.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the column halted for two minutes in tribute for the 3,000 men which Allegheny county lost in the war.

Parade at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 11.—World war, Civil war and Spanish-American war veterans, Red Cross nurses and various women's auxiliaries marched here this afternoon in an Armistice day parade. Both Fargo and Moorhead, Minn., were represented.

A memorial meeting after the parade and a military ball this evening were also on the program. Lieut.-Col. MacNider, head of the American Legion in Iowa, will be the principal speaker at this afternoon's meeting. He is the guest here of the Gilbert C. Grafton legion post.

French General at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11.—Gen. Nivelle, official representative of the French government at the Pilgrim's tercentenary, and the Peruvian ambassador at Washington, Don Frederico Alphonso Pezet, were guests at today's observance of Armistice day in Baltimore.

The exercises began with the laying of the cornerstone at Synod hall of the Maryland Cathedral of the Protestant-Episcopal church. Ambassador Pezet was one of the speakers.

Later the site in city hall plaza for the war memorial to be built by the city and state was dedicated, and at 4 p. m., there was to be a minute's cessation of all activity as a tribute to the dead in the World war.

Gen. Nivelle also was expected to attend the celebration at Edgewood arsenal where an elaborate program has been prepared in his honor.

Refuse to March.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 11.—Protesting against the presence of Mayor E. V. Babcock in the reviewing stand because the city recently issued a permit for what they termed a "pro-German tag day," scores of overseas veterans who took part in the Armistice day parade here refused to march past the stand. After vainly trying to make a speech which was drowned by the cries of spectators and marchers, Mayor Babcock left the stand and the parade proceeded.

BRINGS RECORD COAL CARGO TO TORCH LAKE

Lake Linden, Mich., Nov. 11.—The steamer E. G. Morrell has cleared for the Head of the Lakes after delivering for the Calumet & Hecla the largest cargo of coal ever unloaded at its docks. The steamer had 12,500 tons aboard. This is not her capacity. The shipment was the supply in waiting when the Morrell reached Erie last week.

This is the first visit of the Morrell into Torch Lake. She is in command of Capt. Landfair, well-known lake master. Capt. Landfair was here on his last trip about five years ago. Curiously enough this is the third cargo of coal he has delivered at that time. He had been coming up light to load ore.

Held on Liquor Charges.

Conneaut, Ohio, Nov. 11.—Five members of the crew of the steamer Augustus, which arrived here last night from Two Harbors, Minn., were arrested today for violating the prohibition law following the finding by police of twenty-six quarts of liquor on board, in suitcases belonging to members of the crew. Pending orders from Cleveland, customs officials refused clearance papers to the steamer.

To Look Over Situation.

A dispatch from Buffalo, N. Y., announces that James Carey Evans, president of the Great Lakes Transit corporation, left there last night on his way to Duluth, Chicago, Houghton and Hancock, on an inspection trip. He wishes to look over the freight situation with a view to ascretaining what is in store for the rest of the season.

BURNS GETS SIX MONTHS; ELEVEN OTHERS ACQUITTED

peared. At 9:15 the jury reported its verdict of "not guilty."

The defendants received the news with jubilation. They shook the hands of the jurors with feeling as each of them filed out of the courtroom.

Ten Ballots Taken.

It was reported that ten ballots were necessary before an agreement was reached. The first ballot stood seven to five for acquittal.

It has been asserted on good authority that Murphy will not be reappointed chief of police by Safety Commissioner W. F. Murnian, although the latter would not state definitely what his intentions are. Bradley, another defendant, stated after the trial that he did not propose to enter the service of the government again as marshal.

When court convened here Oct. 20 for the continuation of the July term, it was the government's intention to complete the trial of all liquor cases outstanding. The time consumed by the two major trials, however, made this impossible. The trials of three defendants, involved in two other cases, will therefore have to be postponed until January.

A. R. Burns, who was sentenced today, was named in both cases. George Burns, E. P. Flatt and Leslie A. Barker were dismissed at the request of United States Attorney Jaques. Each was involved in one case only.

Still to be Tried.

Paul Gappa and John Geistman are still to be tried on the charge of smuggling 111 cases of whisky on the Island Creek, a launch owned by Burns, and hiding it in a garage of the Marine Iron & Shipbuilding company, of which Geistman is an officer. In the second case Gappa and Frank Schaeffer, who was acquitted on a similar charge two weeks ago, are charged with smuggling thirty-five cases of whisky by automobile from Port Arthur to Duluth and then transporting it to Superior for sale.

Burns is now in the St. Louis county jail, where he has served forty days of a 60-day sentence imposed in municipal court for transporting liquor to Duluth.

Judge Morris ordered the Federal sentence to begin as soon as the sixty days in the local jail are concluded. He directed the sentence to read six months for each of the two indictments, but permitted the defendant to serve both sentences concurrently.

Burns Heavy Loser.

Burns stated to the court today that the government had seized his launch and automobile and that he has lost almost everything he possessed. He stated that others, however, had made money on the liquor deals. His job, he said, was only to haul it to Duluth from Port Arthur. He was to receive only a small proportion of the receipts.

"I have no patience with this whisky business," Judge Morris said in sentencing the prisoner. "It is the most contemptible business I know of today. But I feel that you have not played a leading part in this conspiracy, and that while others have profited you have suffered. I shall therefore not make your sentence too severe."

DOCTORS DIDN'T HELP HER SICKLY CHILD

Strong and Healthy Now: Mother Says Milks Emulsion Saved Its Life.

"Last May my three-year-old baby was taken very ill, got so bad that we expected her to die at any time. Had four doctors but they did not know what ailed her and finally stopped coming. She had been sick about 5 months when I started giving her Milks Emulsion. I noticed results from the first and by the time she had taken 2 bottles she was absolutely strong and healthy. I am thankful to say Milks Emulsion saved her life."—Mrs. Willis S. Pitts, Nacogdoches, Texas.

For restoring appetite, health and strength in sickly children, mothers will find Milks Emulsion the thing they have always sought. Most children like to take it, because unlike many emulsions and tonics, it really tastes good.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whom sickness has weakened, and is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. MESSAGE FROM HEAD OF AMERICAN LEGION

New York, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Calling for acclamation of Armistice day in the "spirit that made it," F. W. Galbraith, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, last night issued an open message to the nation.

"The swift triumph of our arms and those of our gallant Allies, which two years ago gave us victory the anniversary of which we celebrate tomorrow, marks the high light of the present century in American affairs," he said.

"Victories such as Armistice day commemorates are not the issues solely of clashes of flesh and steel. They are of a finer quality than that. They are triumphs as well of an unconquerable spirit."

K. C. EXPLAINS MOTIVE OF MEMORIAL OFFER

New York, Nov. 11.—(By Associated Press.)—National headquarters of the Knights of Columbus issued a statement yesterday explaining the motives actuating the organization's offer of $5,000,000 to the American Legion for the erection of a permanent war monument in Washington.

The statement was in reply to the published declaration of Marvin G. Sperry, national president of the Private Soldiers' and Sailors' legion, that such use of funds collected by subscription for other purposes would constitute "a moral breach of trust and an act of injustice."

After completing its war work abroad and conducting educational and employment work for the benefit of ex-service men in this country, the statement declared, the organization "still has funds apart from those necessary to maintain its reconstruction work, to devote to the soldiers' welfare."

"In giving this building to the nation through the American Legion, the veterans' organization of broadest constituency and largest membership," the statement added, "the Knights are providing free to the nation a monument that would otherwise be erected through taxation or another of the much dreaded 'drives.'"

"TWO GUN" BILL TO SHOW HERE

Minneapolis Heavyweight Will Meet Bob Johnson in Local Ring.

Kid Alberts Confident He Will Win Over Neil Allison.

THE CLASSY LINEUP.

Kid Alberts vs. Neil Allison.
Kid Billings vs. Battling Hugo.
Harry Boyle vs. Ed Franti.
Bob Johnson vs. Bill Hart.
Dan Freske vs. Kid Proctor.
Time—Tomorrow evening, at 8:15. Place—New Armory arena. Referee—Jimmy Potts of Minneapolis.

"Two Gun" Bill Hart of Minneapolis, a 185-pound mitt wielder, who is said to be a comer, will meet Bob Johnson, our own youthful heavyweight tomorrow evening when the Duluth Athletic club stages its big boxing carnival at the New Armory, according to an announcement made this morning by Prexy Carnes. Kid Clancy of Butte, Mont., was originally carded to exchange cuffs with Johnson, got mixed up in an auto wreck which put him in bed. Just how seriously he is hurt could not be learned this morning but it is known that his nose is broken and his face badly lacerated.

Bill Hart is an aspirant for honors in the heavyweight division who is making his home in St. Paul. Dan Hanlon, proprietor of the Rose Room gym in the Saintly City, is piloting Hart and says the latter looks like a comer although he has not yet arrived. Johnson will have about fifteen pounds on the St. Paul man, is taller and has a longer reach.

Alberts Fit as Fiddle.

Kid Alberts, the pride of the uptown fans, who is carded to meet Neil Allison of Morgan Park in the main row of the Friday mitten festival, has come in from his country training quarters and is fit as fiddle for his quarrel. Alberts will taper off with light work until weighing in time tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. When apprised of the odds that are being given on Allison, the Jewish lightweight smiled.

"I don't know where they get the big idea that Allison is going to clock me inside of ten rounds but, of course, everyone is entitled to his own opinion and I can back it with money if he desires," said Alberts. "But let me tell you now that I will hear the final bell and I will surely deal out a lot of stinging rights and lefts before it is over.

"I am not underestimating Allison. I know he packs a wicked right paw. But if you think for one moment that he is going to get that right against my jaw you are badly mistaken. I do not intend to fight from a shell. I will go right out and wallop with him. I am in shape to fight twenty-five rounds. I never have been in such grand condition in my life. Allison is not going to whip me tomorrow evening. Just watch my smoke."

Record Crowd Assured.

It was estimated this morning that close to 4,000 fans will see Alberts and Allison in action. This mill has proven the biggest boxing attraction ever staged at the Head of the Lakes. Superior is coming over in a body to see their favorite son, Kid Billings, celebrate his return to the fight game. Billings will meet Battling Hugo of Minneapolis, a clever welterweight, who can both box and hit. This bout is scheduled to go ten rounds. It should be a grand battle.

Dan Freske and Kid Proctor, the middleweights who open the bill with a six-round contest, are ready to shoot, as are Harry Boyle, Philadelphia lightweight, and Ed Franti of Bovey, the Northland lad over whose prowess the Mesaba range fans have been shouting.

Prxey Carnes said this morning that twelve city firemen and twelve policemen have been engaged to patrol the New Armory and the outside grounds tomorrow evening and also stated that under no circumstances will smoking be allowed in the building, before, during or after the show. The Armory board will not stand for smoking in the building and this rule must be lived up to rigidly.

CATHEDRAL HIGH TO PLAY SPOONER

Game Will Be Feature of Armistice Day Celebration.

The Cathedral high eleven left this morning for Spooner, Wis., where they will play the Spooner high this afternoon as part of the American Legion Armistice day program. This will be the final game of the season for Cathedral.

Spooner is not sparing any expense on its effort to have a celebration befitting Armistice day. Besides the football game there is going to be a big parade, a program of sports and games, speeches, dance, bonfire and fireworks.

Cathedral will probably return on the night train.

RUBEN, GOPHER STAR, QUITS UNIVERSITY

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 11.—Eddie Ruben, crack fullback of the University of Minnesota football eleven, has left the university, it was stated yesterday. Injuries sustained early in the season have handicapped him and it was said that this discouragement caused him to leave school.

Clinches Second Place.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Arthur Woods of Minneapolis clinched second place and the right to contest for the national pocket billiard championship yesterday afternoon by defeating Walter Franklin of Kansas City, 125 to 67. Franklin's defeat relegates him to fourth place, James Maturo having clinched third place.

DOG DERBY WILL BE FREE-FOR-ALL

Hudson Bay Canine Classic Thrown Open to All Comers.

The Pas, Man., Nov. 11.—(By the Canadian Press.)—With the advent of cold weather the Hudson Bay Dog Derby is again a topic for discussion in the North country and many suggestions for the betterment of the 1921 derby are being brought forward. The race, which will likely be held in March, will be for a purse of $2,500, if a suggestion to increase it to this sum is approved at the annual meeting of the members of the derby to be held shortly. This purse is not considered too high in view of the heavy expense incurred in maintaining and preparing a dog team for racing. The dogs are very expensive, last spring pups selling at $200 for five, and full-grown and trained animals from $75 to $100 each.

It is proposed to throw the race open to the world, as has been done in all the derbys of the past. Some discussion has been held whether it was best to confine the racing to the usual five dogs and toboggan, or permit the use of the Alaska racing harness and sled as used by Goyne last March. Many of the local men are not averse to the use of the Alaska rigging, provided the distance is lengthened out to 200 miles and more. They maintain that at the longer course Northern Manitoba dogs can show their best form. To Flin-Flon and back is a course suggested, a distance of close to, if not over, the 200-mile mark. An Indian pageant will also, it is believed, be staged in connection with the race.

BASEBALL WAR LIKELY AVERTED

Rival Factions Probably Will Get Together on Friday.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 11.—Celebration of Armistice day today finds the rival major league club owners resting on their arms preparatory to the peace conference of the sixteen club owners in Chicago tomorrow. The major leaguers, who obtained the aid of the National Association of Minor Leagues in settling the threatened war, will move to Chicago tomorrow.

President Ban Johnson and his "loyal five" club owners left last night for a final conference on the battleground before the meeting. August Herrmann, owner of the Cincinnati Nationals, and several other National league officials also departed so as to be on the scene early and lay their plans. Charles Ebbets of the Brooklyn Nationals and several others remained over here today for important conferences.

The impression prevailed in baseball circles today that Federal Judge Landis of Chicago, who has been selected as chairman of the new board of control at a salary of $50,000 a year, will be unanimously agreed upon and his appointment ratified by the "loyal five" American league club owners after the peace meeting tomorrow.

The sixteen club owners of the two warring leagues agreed to meet in the same room in Chicago and attempt to adjust their differences without the aid of any outsiders. It was agreed that only the club owners shall attend this meeting, and that both President Johnson of the American league and President Heydler of the National league, as well as lawyers, stenographers and others who have participated in recent sessions, shall remain away. Major league leaders pointed out that if lawyers are excluded from the meeting so that no "technical questions" could be raised, the threatened war could be quickly settled.

Directors Call Meeting.

The agreement to make a desperate last-minute attempt to avert a baseball war was reached at a meeting of the directors of the American league at noon yesterday, and was one of the results of conferences between the owners of the rival major league factions.

President Johnson of the American league, in commenting on the joint meeting, issued the following statement:

"The American league has been standing for the principle that a reorganization of baseball should be worked out primarily by a committee composed of representatives from the National league, the American league and the National association. It seems now that such a committee is to be created to consider and work out a plan for reorganization."

May Insist on New Plan.

While the National league club owners issued no formal statement, most of them take the stand that what already has been done in the advancement of baseball reorganization cannot be changed at the conference on Friday.

The National leaguers frankly admit they do not want a 12-club league unless it is forced on them to organize it, and that it would be a "joke."

President Sexton of the National Association of Minor Leagues will appoint the minor league committee tomorrow.

Joining in the crusade against gambling in baseball, the minor leaguers unanimously adopted a resolution urging the passage in every legislature of a bill to stamp out the evil which in a large measure brought to a head the necessity of a reorganization of baseball.

BADGERS OBSERVE STATE GAME ACTS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—The need for game conservation has been recognized by Wisconsin people, who are observing game laws better than ever before, according to W. E. Barber, chairman of the conservation commission. Arrests this year, he said, would be little more than half of those of the last season, when $33,500 was collected from more than 600 convictions.

Education through a definite program of instruction is declared to be responsible for the favorable game situation in the state. Seventy game wardens, one publicity man, the commissioners themselves, have brought before the people the need for game animals and the necessity for protective laws to keep them, Mr. Barber said.

Game birds especially are plentiful now. Most trouble is encountered with hunters engaged in illegal partridge hunting, it was said. Deer are scarce in the state as a result of heavy shooting last year and encroachment on their preserves by farmers.

Mr. Barber expressed the opinion that within a few years the number of wardens may be cut in half and that the people themselves will take it as a duty to protect the state game. Wisconsin laws are more stringent than those of nearly any other state, he said. A minimum fine of $50 is imposed and a confiscation clause inserted which gives the commission power to take over the violator's gun or even his automobile if it figures in the violation of the law. Seven cars have been taken this year, Mr. Barber said.

St. Paul Boxer Beaten.

Youngstown, Ohio, Nov. 11.—Bobby Ward of St. Paul was outpointed here in a twelve-round bout by Jack Schleifer of Buffalo. The lightweights put up a slashing bout throughout and newspapers were divided as to the outcome, the majority giving the decision to the Eastern battler.

Herzog Suffers Operation.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11.—Charles L. (Buck) Herzog of the Chicago Cubs underwent an operation at a hospital, where he became a patient on Tuesday night. His illness is not serious, physicians said.

GRID GAME MAY BE POSTPONED

Early Invasion of Jack Frost and Snow Rough on Football.

Unless there is a decided change in weather conditions between now and Sunday it is probable that the managers of the Duluth and Superior professional football teams will postpone the second contest of the big annual inter-city series for the Head of the Lakes title which is scheduled to take place at Hislop park, across the bay, next Sunday.

If the mercury continues to hover around the freezing point there will be no demand for the contest as far as the fans are concerned and it is very doubtful if the players would care to take the hazard of injuries which they would certainly invite by playing on a frozen gridiron. If a heavy thaw should set in on Friday or Saturday it would convert the gridiron into a sea of mud which would be equally as forbidding to the spectators.

Under present conditions it certainly appears that the game will have to be put over a week. Football fans are faithful and enthusiastic both in Duluth and Superior, but their expectations of pleasure would certainly be cancelled with the prospect of having to witness their favorite pastime in heavy winter garb or in rubber boots and raincoats.

It costs a pretty penny to place the teams in the field and especially Superior which is featuring a number of out-of-town performers who are being paid fancy prices for their service. But even if all the players would be willing to go ahead with the contest, which is very doubtful, it is probable that the men who would have to foot the bills would balk, for unless the weather and the field are favorable the contest would be bound to be a financial failure.

Huhn will manage the Augusta club. He has been with Milwaukee three years and Borchert consented to the sale only because of the chance to manage. Huhn came to Milwaukee from the Cincinnati Nationals.

CENTRAL HIGH GRADS TO HELP IN ATHLETICS

Members of Central high school alumni have come to the front and will, from now on, take a prominent part in helping out the various athletic enterprises of the school. A committee made up of Paul Winship, Earl Shaw, George Boyer and John Bennett has issued a call for a meeting of all the members of the Central high alumni to be held next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the assembly hall at Central. At this meeting arrangements will be made to take an active part in the athletic affairs of the school.

MAROONS WILL PLAY MICHIGAN

Chicago and Wolverines Have Not Met Since 1904.

By Walter Eckersall.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—When football teams representing Michigan and Chicago clash on Ferry field next Saturday it will mark the Maroons' first appearance on the Wolverines' gridiron since 1904, when Billy Heston, the greatest halfback ever developed in the Middle West, led Michigan to a 22-to-12 victory over Chicago in a bitterly fought contest.

It was a struggle featured by the hardest kind of football. Although the Wolverines were a top heavy favorite, Chicago fought from whistle to whistle, and near the close most of the regulars had been sent to the side lines battered and bruised from the terrific pounding.

Michigan was represented that year by one of the best teams in its history. Besides Capt. Heston there were Germany Schulz at center; Schulte, present coach at Nebraska, at one guard; Curtis at tackle, Frank Longman at fullback, Tom Hammond at halfback, and Harry Hammond at end, while Norcross piloted the team from the quarterback position.

Eye Witness' Account.

The writer was a member of the Chicago eleven and never will forget the kickoff of that stubbornly fought battle. Chicago won the toss and elected to receive the kick. Coach Stagg had elected to use Ed Parry at left halfback, while the writer played in the fullback's position to receive the boot.

The ball was booted to Parry, and for some unknown reason he did not attempt to catch it, but permitted it to bound over the goal line. The Michigan players had been told too often they were onside at the kickoff and if they recovered the ball back of the line a touchdown would result. The writer realized the danger and recovered the ball just as the Michigan men were about to fall on it.

After this play there was nothing to do but punt. The ball was lifted high over the head of Norcross, who played defensive fullback, and Capt. Speik downed the Wolverine quarter far back in Michigan territory. Then Michigan started its machine to moving, with the result that Capt. Heston, Longman and Tom Hammond plowed through the line, off the tackles and around the ends for a touchdown.

Endure Tremendous Pounding.

Chicago, however, was not discouraged. The Maroons fought back with all the power in their makeup. Dan Boone, the Maroon halfback, was ruled out of the game for alleged slugging shortly after this score. Still Chicago fought on, but on nearly every play some Chicago player was compelled to call for time, so vicious was the Michigan attack.

As the game progressed, with Michigan in possession of the ball most of the time, Heston fumbled the oval on one of his offtackle drives. The writer scooped up the oval and ran for a touchdown, the first scored on the Wolverines in four years by a Chicago team.

After this unexpected score, Michigan came right back and advanced the oval with regularity for another touchdown. Finally the Maroons got the ball in Michigan territory and succeeded in sending Hugo Bezdek over the line for Chicago's second touchdown. The Maroon line at this stage aided considerably, as it was absolutely impossible to gain against Michigan except through the forward wall.

Backs Fill Gaps in Line.

The bruising battle soon reaped its toll. Catlin and Bezdek were forced to leave the struggle after sustaining serious injury. Ed Barry also was sent to the side lines because of an injured knee. It was then necessary to call upon backs to play in the line and ends to play in the half backs' position. There was nothing left for Chicago to do whenever it got the ball but to punt.

With this patched lineup, the Maroons made Michigan work for every yard. The men played like demons in the face of overwhelming odds and submitted to defeat at the hands of a better team, an eleven which had confidently expected to beat Chicago by a larger margin.

I shall never forget the great playing of Heston in this game. This demon half back would run from either half back position, depending upon the part of the field the ball was in. If the ball was on his left side of the field he played that half back in order to skirt the big side of the gridiron. If close to his right side line, he played that back position in order to get the big side of the field to run.

Heston Almost Unstoppable.

Time after time he broke loose and came down upon me with his knees nearly hitting his chin. On one occasion we came together with full force and both were knocked groggy. On another he caught the neck of my jersey and held me at arm's length as we both ran along for ten yards until I finally downed him.

It is my honest opinion the West will never see such a half back again. This player weighed around 190 pounds and had the speed of a sprinter. He gained so much speed at the start that he seldom failed to make ground when opposition was met. He was ably seconded in this game by Tom Hammond and Frank Longman, who gave almost perfect interference for their leader.

It would not be fitting to close this short narrative of the game without giving credit to Capt. Speik, Kennedy, Bezdek and Catlin, Chicago players, who fought until they were forced out of the game or the final whistle blew.

EUROPEANS LIKE AMERICAN SYSTEM

U. S. Athletes Are Looked Upon as Professional Amateurs.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—The American system of athletic training which culminated in many American victories at the Antwerp Olympic games is now being subjected throughout Europe to a great deal of criticism, favorable and unfavorable. While, as an example, there are some members of the Dutch Olympic committee who consider Holland should adopt American methods in its universities and athletic clubs, others charge that such long intensive training makes the athletes professional amateurs.

At a recent meeting of the committee one speaker went so far as to question the amateur standing of the American navy crew which won the Olympic eight regatta. He said that these future American navy officers had done nothing during their Annapolis four years but row. Europeans find it very difficult to understand that American university men can devote so much time to sports and still find time to study.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

N. D. FARM BUREAUS BEING FEDERATED

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 11.—Representatives of twenty-one North Dakota counties met at the agricultural college here yesterday to organize a North Dakota Federation of Farm bureaus.

Each of the sixteen county farm bureaus in the state sent a delegate, as did five counties where bureaus are planned.

Dr. E. F. Ladd, president of the college, senator-elect and member of the "committee of seventeen," appointed by the national president of the American Farm Bureau federation to work out a plan for co-operative marketing of farm products, said in welcoming the delegates:

"I do not believe it is the intention of the farmers to hold up the American people. They do have a right to say, however, 'My wheat cost me so much to produce. I consider so much a fair profit, and will sell it for that sum.'"

C. W. Gunnels of Chicago, assistant secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation, outlined the policies of the national organization.

KEWEENAW COUNTY IS INFESTED BY WOLVES

Calumet, Mich., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Driven out of the woods by hunger packs of wolves are reported getting unusually bold in Keweenaw county and reports are coming here daily of their depredations. Capt. Thomas Hoatson lost a heifer which was devoured by wolves.

The animals are said to be especially numerous in the vicinity of Bete de Gris and this territory will be visited by many hunters during the week-end.

It has been several years since they have appeared in such large number, heretofore only a stray one being reported at long intervals.

The hunting of wolves is remunerative and many of the hunters have been recruited because of the bounties paid. It is expected that a number of killings will result from the week-end invasion in Keweenaw. Fifteen dollars is paid for a wolf under six months old, and $35 for one over six months.

Appointed State Evangelist.

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 11.—Rev. I. D. Alvord, who for the past four years has been pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, has been appointed state evangelist for the Baptist church and will enter upon his new duties Dec. 1. Rev. and Mrs. Alvord will move to Minneapolis.

LARGER ACREAGE BUT LESS POTATO YIELD

Houghton, Mich., Nov. 11.—The potato crop this year in Houghton county will run about 450,000 bushels, according to an estimate made by Leo M. Geismar, county farm bureau agent.

This is a slight reduction from last year's report, Mr. Geismar says, and he accounts for this by the fact that the yield in most places this year was from 10 to 12 per cent below last year. The long drouth this summer is given as the reason for the falling off, Mr. Geismar says.

The acreage planted to spuds was about 5 per cent greater than a year ago and this would make up part of the deficit due to the lessened yield but not all of it.

The quality of the potatoes this summer was better than the average, however, and somewhat ahead of last year's showing.

TILL DENIED PARDON.

Badger Governor Awaiting Ruling Upon Alleged Doctor's Case.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—John Till, the plaster specialist of Barron county, must remain in jail until the attorney general's department has an opportunity to pass on the present method of operating Till's hospital. Since his conviction of operating without a physician's license, "Doctor" Till has had a regular physician in charge of his institution.

Governor Philipp ruled that if the Till institution would be operated with a regular physician in charge, he would grant a pardon. The attorney general's office must rule as to whether this is a legal operation of the institution.

Pleas for the release of "Doctor" Till were made by Spencer Hazen, former attorney general, and by State Senator George B. Skogomo. The application was opposed by District Attorney John Dahl of Barron.

SEEK REPRESENTATION ON BOARD OF REGENTS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—Farmer and labor representation on the board of university and normal regents is recommended by the state board of education in its program to be presented to the legislature when it convenes in January. At least two representatives of labor and two of farmers are asked.

One of the urgent demands on the legislature will be for a reorganization of the regents as suggested in the board of education program, according to friends of the plan. They expect support of the governor in their effort to bring about the proposed change.

Similar plans have been brought before the legislators in previous sessions. During the 1919 meeting a bill was introduced in the assembly by H. A. Marth of Wausau which proposed that the board of regents should have twelve members, three to represent labor, three business men, three farmers and three members of the faculty of the university.

This proposal, after discussion, was indefinitely postponed on April 9 by a vote of fifty to twenty-nine. This year friends of the proposed change say that it will receive favorable consideration because of the support it is likely to have from the new governor.

Alleged Moonshiner Bailed.

Ironwood, Mich., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nick Rodonovich, alleged moonshiner, who has been held at the county jail pending his trial, which will be on the calendar for the November term, has been released on $750 bail. Rodonovich was arrested at Jessieville about a month ago. At the time of his arrest he opened fire on the officers and gave them a chase before he could be taken.

Return from Ironwood.

Ironwood, Mich., Nov. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Koski left Tuesday evening for their home at Hibbing, Minn., after a visit of several days with friends in Ironwood and Hurley and will visit with relatives at Duluth before returning to Hibbing.

Taken to Ashland Hospital.

Wakefield, Mich., Nov. 11.—Alec Noall, one of the victims of an automobile accident which occurred on the Ironwood-Bessemer road a week ago, and who has since been confined to the Wakefield hospital because of injuries to his knee, has been taken to the Ashland hospital. It is said internal trouble has developed.

WOULD BRING BACK HIS RUNAWAY SPOUSE

Bessemer, Mich., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leo Criske has left for Freeport, Ill., hoping to bring back Mrs. Criske and their young son. The woman and child left home unexpectedly recently and Gogebic county officers finally succeeded in locating them in the Illinois city where she was arrested and detained in jail pending the arrival of her husband.

Badger School Dean Honored.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.—H. L. Russell, dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, was recently elected president of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and experiment stations. This recognition is said, by officials, to be an honor that reflects the position in which the Wisconsin school is held by other institutions.

Winona Estate Pays $12,000.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 11.—An inheritance tax of $12,000 was paid to the state yesterday by the estate of Addison B. Youman, a retired lumberman of Winona, who died on March 28, 1920. The total estate was valued at $360,000. The estate was left to a son.

Frazier 4,584 Ahead.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 11.—With three precincts of North Dakota's 2,091 missing, Governor Lynn J. Frazier, Republican candidate for re-election, backed by the Nonpartisan league, was leading J. F. T. O'Connor, Democrat, by 4,584 according to totals on the Nov. 2 election, available yesterday. The totals then were: Frazier, 116,831; O'Connor, 112,247.

It comes in a package, almost ready-made. The sugar is there, the egg yolk, powdered milk, corn starch and tapioca.

Why Andrae Selected The Thor

There are more than 75 different washing machines on the market. Almost all of these machines, we believe, have been offered to Julius Andrae & Sons Co. at one time or another. Because we are the oldest and largest wholesale distributors of electrical goods in the Middle West, manufacturers have sought to have us handle their goods. We selected the because we are convinced, after the most careful test and scrutiny, that the Thor combines more desirable features than any other washer.

The Thor is thoroughly good as a machine - that is to say, its technical design, materials and workmanship are the very best. Our engineers give it unqualified approval.

But the Thor is also a practical housewife's machine. It is among the oldest established. Over 500,000 have been made and sold. It is not only a simple machine and easy to operate, but it does the best work. Everything from greasy overalls to filmy lace is handled by the Thor thoroughly, safely, rapidly. Approximately have been sold in this locality through Andrae dealers and all of them is giving satisfaction and saving money for their owners.

5,000 THOR WASHERS

ON THE IRON RANGES

VIRGINIA IS BIG MAGNET

Visitors From All Parts of Range for Armistice Day Doings.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Incoming trains, trolley cars and many automobiles and other conveyances are bringing crowds here today for the leading Armistice day celebration of the Mesaba range. The street decorations were placed by last night and the profusion of national colors is marked. The football field has been cleared for the contest this afternoon between Hibbing and Virginia city teams, with throngs of rooters on hand. At least 2,000 visitors are expected here before the big celebration ends late tonight. Th Duluth naval militia men are on hand for the events. It is expected the program planned for the afternoon and evening, including the parade, will be carried out entirely despite the cold weather.

All of the nurses and Red Cross workers are asked to take part in the parade. This portion of the parade will be in charge of Miss Eva Sorenson, grade supervisor of the Virginia schools, who served as an army nurse in the A. E. F.

The evning meeting and the program at the school will be well attended.

Preparations are being made to feed 2,000 at the barbecue at the curling rink in the evening.

Mayors of nearly all of the surrounding towns have declared half holidays and there is a large attendance even from those planning their own celebrations.

Eveleth's Half Holiday.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Business houses and all public buildings were closed this afternoon in observance of Armistice day. Appropriate programs were given in the schools and proper observance of the occasion was given in all instances. The American Legion post is co-operating with the J. Burt Pratt post of Virginia in observing the occasion in a body and a dance is to be given at the city auditorium this evening.

Hibbing Parade and Dance.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Following a parade starting at 7:30 tonight from the village hall, there will be a dance for all service men, their friends and relatives in the Armory.

The Virginia-Hibbing city football game at Virginia this afternoon claims many Hibbing people.

Nashwauk Celebrates.

Nashwauk, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An official reception and dance will be held for service men here tonight. Mayor A. B. Dahl will present Nashwauk service men with medals at the reception tonight. The medals are the gift of the village of Nashwauk.

RECKLESS DRIVER'S CAR CARRIES BOOZE

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A serious accident was narrowly averted last evening at about 8 o'clock when an automobile driven by Val Lesnik, Chisholm storekeeper, was passing the Miners' National bank on Grant avenue at a good rate of speed and just missed running over a sled load of children sliding down hill on Jones street. Lesnik was arrested by the police for reckless driving.

An argument ensued between the police and Lesnik as to whether he had his lights on and during the time they were talking upon the subject, one of the policemen, suspecting that Lesnik might have had a reason for speeding, searched the automobile and it is alleged, found a galoin jug of moonshine which was taken to police headquarters and locked in the safe. While no charge has been preferred in this matter, it is probable that after he is released from the charge of reckless driving, another one will be brought against him for bootlegging.

EVELETH'S HOCKEY TEAM PRACTICING

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the first time this season, the Eveleth hockey team was able to get on ice for a work out at Fayal pond yesterday afternoon, ice having frozen sufficiently. The team has been undergoing a strenuous program of training for the last few weeks and will be in good condition by the time the hockey season opens. The first game to be played by the team will be on local ice and will be against Duluth Jan. 4.

Charities Want Underwear.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Virginia residents are sending various articles to the Associated Charities, but not winter apparel, especially children's underwear. The charities are much in need of underwear and would appreciate it if some one would donate them some.

HIBBING PROTESTS REALTY TAX BOOST

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council yesterday afternoon voiced the opinion of the majority of the citizens of Hibbing when it was decided to enter a strong protest against the increased real estate assessment of 30 per cent as announced by the state tax commission.

Council members personally condemned the action of the commission, contending that the increase will work a hardship on the smaller property and land owners while eventually it would lessen the tax burden of the larger corporations. The council members favored appointing delegates to a range protest meeting, to which representatives from the entire range would be present. A resolution will be drawn up and a protest entered with the governor and the state tax commission. The council also received several damage suit petitions including one from Mr. and Mrs. Abner Fersch, who ran into an open ditch, they allege, in South Hibbing while driving in an automobile. The machine was badly damaged.

HIBBING RECALLING FATEFUL NOV. 11, 1918

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Today's celebration of Armistice day recalls the tumultuous scenes here two years ago today, Nov. 11, 1918, when the welcome news was flashed over the wires that the great war had come to an end.

"The World war will end this morning at 6 o'clock Washington time, 11 o'clock Paris time. The armistice was signed by the German representatives at midnight. This message was given out by the state department at 2:50 this morning."

This "flash" from the Associated Prass brought joyous news of the signing of the armistice to Hibbing people just two years ago today.

For fully one-half hour after the word was received the whistle in the old power plant on North street blew out continuously. Early in the morning people flocked the streets to present a veritable scene of carnival gaiety. At 11 o'clock a. m. a parade headed by the Hibbing Concert band marched down the street. The parade was arranged under the auspices of the Hibbing Commercial club.

At 7:30 in the evening another parade was held to the Buffalo-Susquehanna pit, where they saw the kaiser burned in effigy.

PARTRIDGE HUNTERS SCARED AWAY DEER

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy County Auditor Helena Duncan is getting ready for the rush for big hunting licenses for the season opening next Monday. A record number of permits is expected to be issued. Reports from the woods are that the gun banging by partridge hunters drove many deer from their usual haunts farther back into the woods and first hunting reports are not expected to be as successful as usual.

Establishment of a game refuge in this vicinity next winter, a project proposed by Harry J. Le Duc, assistant state game and fish commissioner, who was here this week, will restrict the extent of the hunting bounds in this vicinity. This season will be the last in which the hunters will be allowed unlimited areas in which to seek big game.

HOPING CAPT. HEALY WILL BECOME MAJOR

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reorganization of the army and proposed strengthening of state militias with many changes in officers, will it is hoped by local friends of Capt. George M. Healy of Company M, the only militia company on the range, bring him promotion to major.

Capt. Healy is not seeking the honor but his friends are determined that it be given him. There has been a vacancy for the district which includes Hibbing since Maj. Barrett of Virginia resigned. When headquarters company in Virginia was mustered out the range was left without a headquarters company and a major as well. If Capt. Healy be made major it is natural that headquarters would also be located here.

Company M plans a membership drive shortly and every civic organization in the village will be asked to assist in order that younger men be induced to enlist in the local organization.

TWO HARBORS COAL PROTEST EFFECTIVE

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 11.—The city council's protest of alleged discrimination against its municipal coal in the way of inability to get coal is bearing fruit and a message was received from Judge McGee of Minneapolis, who has been looking after coal shipments to this section, urging the city to get into communication with the Lehigh Coal company of Minneapolis, which he says is advised, has 175,000 tons more on hand than last year. The officials have communicated with that company:

W. S. Groverman, Minneapolis, also sent the following message:

"Understand you have appealed to Washington for anthracite coal and your request has been referred to me. Please advise what dock companies Duluth-Superior you purchased from last year, giving tonnage received from each company and I will use every effort possible to assist you."

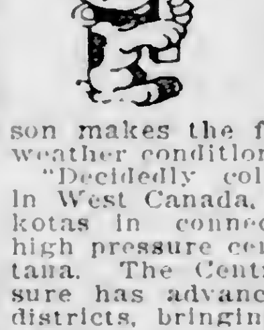
FAIR: NEAR ZERO



Clear skies help the situation considerably today, but they did not prevent the shivers. Maybe this cold snap will let up, but it smacks of the real thing. The sun rose this morning at 7:06 and will set this evening at 4:38, giving nine hours and thirty-two minutes of sunlight. Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Decidedly colder weather prevails in West Canada, Montana and the Dakotas in connection with a strong high pressure centered over East Montana. The Central valley high pressure has advanced to North Atlantic districts, bringing a turn to colder in Middle and North Atlantic states. A low barometer area which advanced rapidly from Northwest North Dakota to South-Central Michigan during the last twenty-four hours resulted in strong northwest winds last night on western Lake Superior, further rains from Maryland and Virginia southwestward to New Mexico, and light snow over the upper lake region, Colorado, Wyoming, West South Dakota, West and Northern North Dakota, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and North Alberta. The highest wind at Duluth last night was at the rate of forty miles per hour from the northwest."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Friday:

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Friday; colder tonight in south and west portions.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Friday, except snow near Lake Superior; colder tonight with cold wave in southeast portion; colder in southeast portion Friday; strong northwest winds diminishing.

VIRGINIA SUSPECT IS NOT MAN WANTED

C. Mauer, who gave his address as the Saratoga hotel of this city, when taken into custody by the authorities at Virginia last night on suspicion of being Mike Inkinen, third man wanted for the murder of Johnny Jones, was released this morning after Deputy Sheriff G. A. Hoel, who is working on the Jones case, saw the prisoner and informed the police that he was the wrong man.

Mauer was arrested by a conductor on the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific train last night. Mauer has some resemblance to Inkinen and when protesting his arrest to the Virginia police last night declared that he had been taken for Inkinen once before when the Grand Forks, N. D., picked him up as a murder suspect. He is said to answer the description of Inkinen in some respects, except that he is heavier and is not a Finlander. He claims to be of German descent and says that he is a blacksmith. Inkinen's principal occupation is said to be that of a gambler.

Denies Connection With Case.

John Kujala, alias John Koski, arrested Monday and identified by Swan Luikkonen as one of the trio which killed Jones and took his car, maintains his innocence and claims that he has had no connection with the Jones' affair. He admits having known Swan Lukkonen since he was a small child, but swears positively that he was not with Inkinen and Luikkonen in the Jones' car or afterwards.

Further attempts will be made to identify Kujala as the third man in the Jones' murder party. It is probable that Mrs. Axel Nygaard and Miss Marie Aho, both of Aitkin county, may be brought to Duluth for the purpose of establishing his identity. Both saw the third man with Inkinen and Luikkonen and a more positive identification will probably be sought in view of Kujala's staunch denial of any connection with the affair.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two men employed by the Great Northern railroad are reported to have been killed close to Nashwauk today when an ore train left the track but particulars are not available here. One of the men is said to have been named Hurley.

VIRGINIA NOTES.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the Virginia Rifle club which was to have been held at the public library club rooms Friday has been postponed because of the absence of several of the members from the city.

Her appearance here will be the first visit in years to the range.

The sophomore class elected the following officers: President, Thomas Riddell; vice president, Chester Riddell; secretary, Vernon Rogness, and treasurer, Catherine Soin.

W. J. West reported yesterday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary club that sufficient funds have been secured for the purchase of the land for Camp Sigel, local solicitors having done excellent work and local citizens responding liberally.

The third period, B English class, under the instruction of Miss Alice Feldt, has organized a literary society Literary Bankers, having as their slogan, "Bring your sense here, for you'll receive the highest rate of interest."

Eveleth Gambling Fine.

Eveleth, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Morgan, local pool hall proprietor, was found guilty of a charge of keeping gambling devices in his place yesterday before Judge W. E. Moylan in municipal court, and paid a fine of $50 and $2.50 costs, amounting to $52.50. He was arrested by officers of the local police department on this charge late Tuesday evening.

Hibbing Post Headquarters.

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The American Legion post announces that the new headquarters will be ready as soon as the furniture is installed. All service men are invited. The local post has just finished a most successful membership drive and announces that over 100 new service men have joined. To raise funds for the post the boys have accepted the offer of M. D. Holcombe who has given the boys without any string attached to it, a $200 diamond ring to dispose of.

INTERESTING ADDRESSES AT LUTHERAN CONFERENCE

Miss Martha Kulberg, who recently returned from several years' missionary work in China, addressed the conference of delegates from the Norwegian Lutheran churches of the Duluth district again yesterday afternoon at Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. She spoke interestingly of the missionary work in China and pleaded that the church put forth a greater effort to bring Christianity to "these children of the land of the rising sun." Rev. I. P. Aastad of Detroit, Minn., president of the Duluth district, spoke at the evening meeting on "Luther and the Reformation." His address was an interesting review of the life of Martin Luther. Communion service was conducted by Rev. G. Kluxdal, pastor of Zion church at the close of the meeting last night.

WAS RUN DOWN AND DISCOURAGED

Many Debilitated Women Will Find New Hope in Mrs. Crocker's Words.

"I was miserable for over a year as a result of a general breakdown in my health," says Mrs. Jennie Crocker of No. 4408 South 38th street, Omaha, Neb., "and although I tried several remedies nothing seemed to be of much benefit.

"My strength seemed to give right out and a little bit of housework would leave me exhausted. I lost color and had no ambition. My stomach troubled me and I suffered after eating. I was discouraged about my condition until one day I read in the paper about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and bought a box.

"I soon noticed that I was gaining strength and when I had taken two boxes of the pills my color began to come back. Soon my appetite picked up and I could eat what I wanted to without distress.

"I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to a number of people. Whenever I feel the need of a tonic I take the pills for a short time and they help me at once. I can truthfully say that they are a splendid medicine for a run-down condition."

There are many people who are sick and discouraged but still have no disease that justifies the attendance of the family physician. These people need a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves and tone up the entire system. In most cases of general debility they are all the medicine that is needed to restore health.

WOMEN SHOULD TAKE WARNING

If the statement made at a New York assembly of women, that healthy American women are so rare that they are almost extinct, is true, it is time for the women of America to take warning and look to their health. It may be headaches, backaches, dragging down pains, nervousness, mental depression that are telltale symptoms of some organic derangement for which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—a simple remedy made from roots and herbs—is a specific and may be relied upon to restore women to a healthy normal condition.—Advertisement.

WHEAT PRICE DOWN AGAIN

Market Breaks in Absence of Eastern Buying; Flax Price Braces Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, Nov. 11.—The wheat market braced up around the close on fair trading. December spring closed 5¼c off at $1.72¼ asked; March, 5½c off at $1.73¾; December winter, 5¼c off at $1.71¼ nominally; December durum, 4½c off at $1.80 asked, and March 3½c off at $1.78½ asked.

Spot rye closed 2½c off at $1.55½; December, 2½c off at $1.48½, and May 5¼c off at $1.42¾ asked.

Oats closed 2⅛c off at 45⅝c for spot and barley 3c off and unchanged at 72@92c for spot.

Weakness again developed in the wheat market today as a result of renewed selling and the lack of any reported export trade at the seaboard that was a factor in bringing about recoveries yesterday. With sterling exchange low, British buyers are said to be completely out of the markets in this country. Some Canadian grain is, however, being taken, and the placing of further trade in that quarter was noted today. December spring wheat sold 4¾c off at the noon-hour at $1.73, and March, 4¼c off at $1.75 asked. December durum broke 4¼c at $1.80¼, and March, 3c at $1.79 Business in the cash market was quiet on about the same basis as yesterday.

Rye market was inactive. December rye broke 3c to $1.48, and May, 1½ at $1.43½.

Barley sold unchanged within a range of 75@82c for spot.

There was on track here for the day, 204 cars of all grains, including: Spring wheat, 10; durum, 86; oats, 2; rye, 60; barley, 19, flax, 12, and bonded spring, 15. Traders asserted that they cannot see anything to stir up any bullish enthusiasm in the market in spite of the heavy recessions in prices that have come about during the last ten days. Crop news from Argentina and Australia and offerings of grain on their markets at under the American basis is considered a bearish factor.

Flaxseed Strong.

After breaking a maximum of 7c at one stage recoveries were made in the flaxseed market. That was attributed to moderate short covering with a falling off in offerings and the announcement that a load of 315,000 bu of flax is being loaded out of the elevators today for Buffalo delivery. This is the second shipment of flax to be made to the East from here this season.

November flax closed 7c up at $2.23 bid, December 3c up at $2.33 and May 1½c up at $2.46½.

At Winnipeg November flax closed 3c off at $2.32 and December 3½c off at $2.31½ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

A Winnipeg wire said: "The most ominous feature in the financial news from Europe is the fact that outside of Great Britain inflation continues in the issuing of paper money and new loans. Until the peak has passed and the various governments cease this, and begin to redeem the obligations they created, further weakness in exchange is inevitable."

The Kansas farmers' wheat strike faces a climax with members of the state banking association considering the advisability of curtailing credits as desired by the banking commissioner. That official faces ouster proceedings for permitting state banks to make loans in excess of the law. It is pointed out that if loans should be called in the wheat strike would automatically collapse.

Horace Jackson of Jackson Bros., Chicago, was a visitor on the board of trade here today. It is just four years ago that the veteran Chicago grain operator was lost and nearly met his end in the wilds north of Ely, Minn. He is about to start out again on the hunt for big game, this time in the Cramer, Minn., district. Mr. Jackson was noncommital regarding the present market in grains beyond expressing the view that exceptional opportunities are being offered experts in spreading operations between the markets in wheat and other grains.

Winnipeg wired Logan & Bryan: "Cash broker tells us Winnipeg cash wheat at around these prices is almost on a parity with Australian wheat. This is turning the attention of the British Royal commission to this market."

Two minutes silence was observed on the board of trade at 11 o'clock today to mark the memory of the soldiers who gave up their lives in the war.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Wheat underwent a sharp setback in price today owing chiefly to the fact that no fresh export demand was in evidence. It was said the British royal commission had failed to accept overnight offers. Sentiment became generally bearish, and speculators sold freely. Opening prices, which varied from 1½c lower to ¼c advance, with December $1.85½ to $1.87 and March $1.80 to $1.81, were followed by decided breaks all around, and then something of a rally.

Subsequently, liquidation on the part of discouraged holders brought about new declines, with attention focussed a good deal on bearish views of general business conditions. The close was nervous, 5½c to 7½c net lower, with December $1.80¼ to $1.80¾ and March $1.74 to $1.74¼.

Corn received inadequate support. After opening unchanged to ⅜c decline, December 79⅝c to 79⅞c, the market suffered a substantial decline.

Perfect weather for husking counted later as a bearish factor and the market dropped to the lowest level yet this season. Closing quotations were weak, 2½c to 3⅝c net lower, with December 76⅛@76⅜c.

Oats sagged with other cereals, starting ⅜c off to ¼c higher, May 56¼c to 56⅜c, and then showing a general sag.

Weakness of grain and hogs had a depressing effect on provisions.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 11.—Delayed credit covering started wheat futures higher, buyers were influenced by yesterday's sharp rebound but a sharp break resulted. Buying power was poor, yesterday's rally having largely eliminated the shorts, while general buying of various kinds was light. Considerable hedging and some liquidation by yesterday's buyers came in on the decline, with December down to $1.69¾ shortly before 12:30 with 1c rally shortly after. March broke $1.73¼. Cash wheat here was in better demand from mills, with elevator buying materially lighter. Premiums for top spring wheat remained unchanged with 1c more paid for occasional fancy cars. Winter wheat was firm, demand good. Durum was quiet and unchanged.

The market in raw sugar has dropped to 6¼c a pound, a new low for the season in the regular market. The price represents slackness in demand and reflects a loss of 17c a pound from the high point of the year reached last May.

* * *

The spread between the United States Steel corporation's and the Inland Steel company's prices has been almost wiped out through recent reductions by the latter concern. The general feeling in the trade is said to be better since the election and there are more steel orders in hand, but the individual amounts are small.

The Midwest Refining company is preparing to enter into other fields than Wyoming. Through its subsidiaries, the Mid-Northern Oil company and the Midwest company, it is operating in Montana. It proposes now to enter other promising fields.

Sinclair Oil declared the regular quarterly $2 preferred dividend payable Dec. 1.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, said in the course of a recent interview that he is not a pessimist regarding the outlook. He finds that a good latent demand for steel products exists and he is of the opinion that it will make itself felt to a greater extent shortly. He claimed that the plants of his corporation are operating at 80 per cent of capacity. Its shipyards are filled up with orders for 1921 and its steel mills are in a fairly satisfactory position in that respect.

Gibbons vs. Walker.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 11.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul and Hugh Walker of Kansas City, light heavyweights, will meet here tonight in a scheduled ten-round bout.

SAYS IT HAS SOLVED WALL STREET EXPLOSION

New York, Nov. 11.—The New York Evening World today publishes a three-page article under the heading "Wall Street Explosion Solved," in which it gives the result of its independent investigation of the disaster which took nearly two score lives last September and seeks to link the outrage with "building trust graft" now under investigation by a joint legislative committee.

The Evening World maintains that the explosion, instead of being the work of "anarchists" as charged by Chief Flynn of the department of justice, was really a plot of labor men or labor sympathizers, directed in revenge against Robert P. Brindell, president of the Building Trades council. Brindell workers demolishing the Stock Exchange building annex at Broad and Wall street, and contractors hiring Brindell men.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Entire List Gives Way Before Noon and Closing Heavy.

New York, Nov. 11.—Oils furnished the motive power at the opening of today's stock market. The Mexican and Dutch groups averaged gains of a point each, Houston Oil rose 2¾ and Standard Oil of New Jersey jumped 8 points. Shippings also were strong and further improvement was shown by a majority of the rails, especially coalers and grangers. Steels, equipments and motors were backward, Bethlehem and Crucible losing 1 point each and United States Steel a fraction. Preliminary quotations for foreign exchange indicated a renewal of recent pressure, the London rate falling back 2 cents to the pound sterling.

Leaders of the oils, shipping and equipments divisions increased their early gains in the first hour's trading, but the entire list gave way before noon when Atlantic Gulf and Southern Pacific broke sharply. The decline in Atlantic Gulf extended to almost 5 points and Southern Pacific's reaction of 2½ points was accompanied by rumors of a hitch in the proposed segregation plans. Motor shares also weakened on heavy selling of Willys Overland common and preferred. The latter lost 4 points. Bull pools were active in tobaccos and textiles. But food shares reflected yesterday's cut in the American Sugar dividend. British and French exchanges were lower and call money opened at 9 per cent.

Shorts directed their attention to high grade specialties at midday. Extreme losses of five to nearly ten points resulted from pressure against Sears-Roebuck, General Electric, American Express, Pierce Arrow preferred and Willys Overland preferred. Oils, rails and steels also became heavy.

Rails featured an irregular rally later, short covering following the decline of call money to 8 per cent, but many gains were canceled at the end. The closing was heavy.

TWO WOULD CHANGE.

Duluthians Ask Court to Alter Their Names; One Is Slight.

Two men applied to the district court yesterday for changes of names.

Victor Emanuel Sundquist wants his name changed to Victor Emmett Pearson. Pearson, he represents, is his old family name, but for some reason his father changed it when he came to America from the old country. Sundquist resides at 430 Twenty-first avenue west and is 29 years old.

Henry L. Laliberte wants a slight change in his name. In the future he desires to be known as Henry La Liberte. In his petition he states that he owns real estate in Crow Wing county, Minn., and in Douglas county, Wis.

COUNTY BOARD MAKES LEVY

District Road Fund About Same; Special Funds Increase.

Duluth's rate on which taxes for next year will be figured will be approximately 58.4 mills, or 5.4 mills higher than this year's tax rate, if St. Louis county's assessed valuation is raised to $361,000,000 as anticipated by County Auditor Walter H. Borgen.

If the county valuation falls short of this figure, the rate will be higher. If the assessed valuation is finally determined by the tax commission to be greater that $361,000,000 the rate will drop.

The factors which make up the composite city rate are as follows:

	Mills
State purposes	5.37
County purposes	10.316
City purposes	20.831
School purposes	21.882
Total city rate	58.399

County Board's Levy.

The county board made its official levy yesterday afternoon, and if the valuation approximates $361,000,000 as estimated by the county auditor, the county rate will be fixed about as follows:

Fund.	Rate in Mills.	Levy.
County revenue	1.832	$ 661,500
Building new jail	.166	60,000
Building courthouse, Virginia	.416	150,000
Road and bridge fund	6.000	2,166,000
Poor commission	.374	135,000
Bond sinking	.438	158,000
Bond interest	.263	95,000
Care and control of courthouse	.327	118,000
Sanatoria	.5	180,000
	10.316	$3,723,500

The road and bridge fund levy is the largest. Of the $2,166,000 levied, approximately $1,207,990 will go to the various commissioner district funds in about the same proportion as it was distributed this year. The balance of $958,010 will be apportioned to work which is calculated to benefit the entire county as a whole. This apportionment follows:

Special Road Funds.

County job 1, 1901, pavement construction	$ 32,000.00
Judicial road, Carlton-St. Louis county	6,000.00
Judicial road, St. Louis-Koochiching county	10,000.00
Mesaba Trunk	150,000.00
Fond du Lace and Wrenshall road	75,000.00
Meadowlands Trunk, with detours in Fifth commissioner district	157,000.00

COOPER BOND CASE.

Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, will leave for St. Paul tonight to appear before the supreme court tomorrow in arguments to be presented in the case of the state against E. R. Cooper and his bondsmen, the New Amsterdam Casualty company.

Cooper, indicted for the embezzlement of $20,000, furnished a $5,000 bond from the casualty company when arraigned in June 1918. He was in the army and the case was continued from term to term for trial. When the state called upon his bondsmen to produce him, they failed and suit was brought to recover $5,000, the amount of the bond. Judge Dancer decided in favor of the state and declared the bond forfeited. A. C. Finney of Minneapolis, attorney for the company, appealed to the supreme court from Judge Dancer's order denying a new trial.

BOY'S SKULL CRUSHED BY KICK OF A HORSE

Rhinelander, Wis., Nov. 11.—His skull crushed and face disfigured by the kick of a horse, the 14-year-old son of C. D. Winchester, a farmer of Tomahawk, was found in a field where he had been at work with a team of horses. He is not expected to live.

Several years ago the lad lost an eye when a dynamite cap he was playing with exploded.

DAY QUIETLY CELEBRATED

Armistice Anniversary Observed With Solemn Reverence for Dead.

With silent reverence a nation's memory wanders back only occasionally today in the recollection that it is the second anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

In Duluth a few civic organizations alone have observed the day. A crowd that gathered at the Y. M. C. A. at 11 o'clock this morning recalled the war with song and prayer. City hall employes gathered this noon to pay silent tribute to those who died in the war. Tonight the American Legion will give a dance at the Armory.

Throughout the city, poppies, the representative flower of the legion, is being worn. Many of the downtown stores and office buildings were decorated today with American flags. Speakers from the American Legion visited most of the city schools.

St. Louis county has 232 men on its Gold Star list. It is to these that tribute is being paid, particularly. Through thousands of homes, however, Armistice day is also being recalled with thankfulness because thousands who have joined the armed forces of the country have returned.

In Charge at "Y."

John R. Batchelor, recreational director of the city, was in charge of the program at the Y. M. C. A. He led the audience in singing songs made famous during the war. David Barnes was the accompanist. A prayer was led by Rev. J. L. Parish.

At the Rotary club meeting at the Spalding hotel this noon Dr. R. A. Kent had charge of the Armistice program. Soldier members were presented with flowers, and the club stood for a moment in silent tribute to the dead. The Kiwanis club observed the day with a similar program yesterday.

Heads of departments and employes of the city hall gathered in the council chambers at 11:50 this morning and offered a silent tribute to the soldiers who "stayed over there." Mayor T. W. Hugo presided and with a few remarks called attention to what the day means to America.

Recreational Director J. R. Batchelor lead in singing one verse of "The Star Spangled Banner" after which they all stood for one minute facing the East with heads bowed. At the expiration of the silent service, one verse of "America" was sung and the crowd dismissed.

The city hall was closed this afternoon.

COUNTY WILL PLAN SALE OF BIG ROAD BOND ISSUE

County commissioners will hold a special session Nov. 26 at 1:30 p. m. to discuss the matter of selling a portion of the $7,500,000 authorized bond issue voted at a special county election. It is probable that a large block of the bonds will be sold this winter.

The board yesterday levied $60,000 to the new jail fund, which makes a total of $165,000 in the fund available for the construction of a new jail. The matter of building the new jail will be taken up at the January meeting.

Crookston Merchants Debate.

Crookston, Minn., Nov. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An interesting debate between four Crookston merchants was the feature of the regular Wednesday luncheon at the Crookston Association of Public Affairs. The subject debated was the advisability of holding regular bargin days in Crookston. Those who favored bargin days were P. A. Egeland and H. W. Hitchcock while those who were opposed to it were C. C. Booth and Robert Hugenin. It is planned to continue the discussion at another meeting in the near future.
